Plenty of men feel that they were born with long odds against them. Millions figure that their likelihood of laying the cornerstone of success is about as good a chance as a bulldog with tallow legs has chasing a cat through the streets of the hot spot. So many men feel that chance has cheated them, then they throw up the sponge.

Chance does enter in. Capable men, good men, hard-working men struggle along for years right in the same town with other men who make big money or build some big business, and by comparison these struggling men feel that chance has stood in their way.

You know of men who have made much money and who are operating large plants or conducting a big business, and still you can see nothing so remarkable about these men.

You compare your own small situation with that of their big success, and then you decide that your chance of ever making a conspicuous winning is about as good as that of a man learning to play poker on an ocean liner.

Now, my friend, there are two thing that enter into this subject of chance and they are well worth considering.

Second, the less successful man has, from the very start believed too much in "breaks" and naturally has balked many times at taking the right chance at the right time. His belief in a poor chance has chloroformed his courage.

Chance does not build a big business nor does it write books of science. Chance is not effect—it is cause.

The big man meets the many vicissitudes of life, the accidents, the trifling troubles—meets them with a stout club. He knows that there is such a thing as chance, but by his perseverance and courage, he wins two or three chances while losing one chance. The law of average saves him.

Real achievement is the result of conquering more chances that you lose.

The man who feels that he has a small chance is as spineless as a soil worm in the pathway of a steam roller.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 3.—Today's first receipts were an average run of 40 cars, 736 cattle, 154 calves, 935 hogs and 99 sheep and lambs. The exporters were buying again today but this is in accumulation for next week when two boats are expected to be available. A load of medium weight steers was bought this morning at $8 a cwt., some cows up to $6 and bulls up to $5.65 a cwt. Today's prices are quite firm with those of Monday. Orders for feeders for local demand are in the hands of specialists, but these have to be collected in small lots.

Prices asked for butchers cattle today were higher by 25 cents a cwt. and bids were advanced partly to meet this. Good ordinary handy weight were $7 a cwt., and good mediums were $6.50 to $6.75 a cwt. It was impossible to get the commonest butchers below $5.50 a cwt. A few choice butchers in the handyweight class sold at $7.75 and those up to 1,100 lbs. each were $8 to $8.25 a cwt. The market was generally active and only the late stuff will be held over. Good baby beeves were $9 to $9.50 a cwt.

Calves maintain a firm market with the bulk of offerings bringing 10 to 12 cents a pound. Tops were 13½ cents again today and heavy calves brought 7 cents.

Lambs remain firm and good prices would be realized for the right sort. Harold Waugh bought 8 lambs, 108 lbs. each, at 17 cents a pound and a bunch of 16 at 16¼ cents. This was another half dollar a cwt. higher than Monday, but a few light run and the necessity for a few lambs compelled these purchases.

There is no settled price for hogs. Some small outside packers paid as high as $11.75 a cwt. on Monday and sellers are expecting this to be more general today, although packers' buyers will not concede any better than $11.50 a cwt. f.o.b.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 3. —Increasing crop damage complaints from the West and South-West together with enlarged estimates of foreign import requirements led to a lively advance today in the wheat market here. Wheat closed firm, 2 1-4 to 2 3-4 cents net higher, May 1.99 1-4 to 1.99 3-8 and July 1.73 5-3 to 1.74, with corn half to 1c up, oats showing 5-8 to 7-8c gain, and Provisions at a rise varying from two to thirty cents.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, March 3. — On the basis of to-day's spot delivery price at Chicago fresh eggs can be laid down Montreal or Toronto at 31 1-2 cents. Four ars of United States eggs were on track at Toronto yesterday. Receipts are still insufficient on Alberta and Saskatchewan markets to meet demands. The continued cold weather is materially affecting production in nthose Provinces In all other Provinces production is on the increase. Chief interest in the trade is now centred on the storage price basis which is at the present time more or less indefinite.

Toronto and Montreal unchanged. Winnipeg jobbing extras 43, firsts 40.

STERLING RATES.

Sterling demand $4.76 5-8.

Sterling cables $4.77.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 3. — There was a good enquiry from foreign buyers for Manitoba Spring Wheat here to-day for March-April shipment with firm bids from Liverpool of 7-6s 6d to 7-6s 9d per quarter which exporters stated here below working basis and no new business was tansacted while the demand for oats and barley was reported slow. The domestic market for coarse grains was firm and a little more business reported in oats for country account Ontario No 3 white oats were quoted at 65 cents and No 4 grade at 63 cents per bushel ex-store.

The feature of the local flour trade was the stronger feeling on the market for Spring wheat grades and prices were generally marked up another thirty cents per bushel. This was attributed to the renewed strength in the wheat market at Winnipeg. Winter wheat flour was also higher and prices were moved up 10 cents per bushel. Owing to the strength that has prevailed in the United States markets for millfeed of late and the fact that prices in Boston have advanced $2.50 per ton from the low level there has been a good demand from that source for Canadian bran and quite an active business resulted the past two days at $32.00 and $32.50 per ton delivered. The local situation was firm as a result of this as it will relieve the market of a large per centage of the surplus stock. The tone of the market for standard grades of rolled oats was steady.

While the undertone to the egg market was easier, no reductions were made but this is expected in the near future. Further strength developed in the butter situation and prices were marked up another half cent per pound on all grades. The cheese market was steady and unactive.

Beans were unchanged at $2.70 per bushel.

WEIGHT OF MILK.

A pint's more than a pound, contrary to the old rule of farmers. A pint of milk weighs a little more than a pound and a standard can of 40 quarts weighs 86.12 pounds. Paid at the rate of a pound for a pint, the farmer would lose the cost of three quarts for every can sold.

CLYDE STALLIONS CROSS THE OCEAN

ST. JOHN, N. B., March 4. —(Canadian Press).—On the Canadian Pacific steamship Marloch, which arrived here Tuesday from Glasgow, Scotland, was a valuable shipment of Clydesdale stallions brought to Canada by W. J. McCallum, of Brampton, Ontario. Included is one stallion valued at $5,000 and a filly that cost $1,500.

Mr. McCallum said that in 1923 there were 277,834 fewer foals in Canada than in 1919, and 9,928 fewer stallions. On the Marloch, Mr. McCallum has 10 Percherons. Other horses are to follow.

The Marloch encountered heavy weather during the early part of the voyage, and was delayed nearly two days. She had 217 passengers, approximately 1,000 tons of general cargo and a small consignment of mail.

There was only one special party on board, made up of six Cossa boys, en route from England to the Boys' Government Hostel in Montreal.

U. S. CATTLE EXPORTS CUT.

MONTREAL, March 4.—Exports of cattle from Canada in 1924 totalled 183,242 head, valued at $12,622,863, of which 79,435 head, valued at $8,402,377 went to the United Kingdom and 97,847 head, valued at $3,854,730, to the United States. This compares with total shipments of 226,977 in 1923, when 25,758 head went to the British Isles and 228,695 to the United States.

YOUTHS BIRTHDAY

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4—If today is your birthday, you will abhor politics. Science and literature will interest you so much that you will devote little time to things political and business. You will vote rarely and, although you will have considerable executive ability, you always will refuse to be a candidate for any office. If you are women, the entrance of women into politics will be disgusting to you.

YOUTH FOUND DEAD.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

The solution will appear in to-morrow's paper.

BIRTHDAY GUEST GIVEN SURPRISE

MILLBROOK NEWS

MILLBROOK, March 4.—The Women's Missionary Auxiliary of St. Thomas' Church held its February meeting at the home of Mrs. C. McNeil, Mrs. (Rev.) M. B. Williams taking the chair in the absence of the President, Mrs. (Canon) Allen, who is ill with the prevailing cold.

The unfavorable weather, together with the considerable amount of illness among the members, lessened the attendance, but routine business received necessary attention and interest in the work was sustained as plans were completed for future undertakings.

Miss Rose Macnamara took the place of the Secretary, Mrs. E. Whyte, who is visiting her sister in Toronto, and also read the chapter from the Study Book. The regular weekly meeting of the Missionary Reading Circle makes a more complete study of the book chosen for this year, and much valuable information on the work of "The Church and Missions" is gained by those interested enough to attend

The usual social hour was enjoyed at the close, Mrs. McNeil serving refreshments. The trite saying that "the ice of formality melts, and religion joins hands with general good feeling when the coffee pot hums its little song," seems exemplified in the experience of practically all church organizations, many opportunities of renewing acquaintances being furnished by such occasions which would be almost entirely lacking were the social part of the regular meetings withdrawn.

Birthday Felicitations.

Congratulations were warmly extended to Mrs. Hurd, aunt of Mr. Wilbert Walsh, Fallis line, on the occasion of her birthday, Saturday, February 28th. A few intimate friends, including Mrs. W. Fred. Fallis, Mrs. Harry Ball, Mrs. J. H. George and Mrs. Herb. Ball, gathered at Mr. Walsh's home, providing a pleasant surprise for the "birthday guest," whose health this winter, to her own delight and that of her relatives and neighbors, has occasioned no particular anxiety.

The "invading party" had not forgotten supplies of good things for the birthday tea, and were assisted by Miss Lulu Hurd, who was equally pleased with her mother at the kindly remembrance of the occasion.

The gathering about the tea table and in the hours which followed was a very happy one, the bright spirits of the "gues tof honor" and her reminiscences of former events and similar reunions, as well as her keen interest in the happenings of the day ,adding much to the enjoyment of the entire party.

Evening Service Withdrawn.

Rev. Joseph Wilks preached in Grace Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning, the evening service being withdrawn. Owing to the anxiety felt by the pastor, Rev. G. S. Gervan, and his family because of the serious illness of his ten-year-old son, Russell, it was thought best to postpone the visit of Rev. R. W. Pearce, returned missionary from Armenia, who was to have preached morning and evening, and who may come for a later occasion.

Attack of Influe"za.

Miss Dixon of Toronto, who is spending the winter with Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, has been confined to bed for the past week with an attack of "flu," her many friends will regret to learn.

Musicale Postponed.

The "musicale," which was to have been held at Mrs. Westmacott's on Monday evening, and which was postponed from the previous Monday, again has been indefinitely put off, owing to illness and other causes. It will not likely be arranged for now until after Easter. The event is under the auspices of the Anglican Church.

Generous Local Response.

Captain J. M. MacDonald, Field Representative of the Navy League of Canada, was in town last week soliciting subscriptions for this cause. Rev. C. Adams, who was here on this errand last year, is now in serious ill-health, and will not again be able to resume the duties of the position.

The local response to the appeal is a fairly generous one, inland towns, as a rule, being found hard to interest in sea-going propositions. Captain MacDonald is a veteran of the Great War, enlisting at its outbreak in the Canadian army and resigning from a lucrative position to serve overseas. Twenty-eight weeks were spent in hospital as a result of shrapnel wounds in the left side and head and from being gassed.

The widows and orphans of the men of the Mercantile Marine who lost their lives in the war benefit from the funds collected by the Navy League

Cheered by Good News.

The entire community has been cheered by the news that there is now hope that little Russell Gervan will recover. He was operated on at Dr. H. A. Turner's Private Hospital last Monday for an acute attack of appendicitis, and for about a week there was little expectation that he would live, an unusual misplacement of the appendix, with perforation before the operation could be performed, and a week's illness with intestinal "flu," causing serious complications. Improvement has continued since Saturday.

MARRIAGE MADE IN HEAVEN? "NOT ALWAYS," SAYS DIVINE

DR. JOHN THOMPSON AND HIS 'SKYSCRAPER' CHURCH IN CHICAGO'S BUSINESS DISTRICT.

By Roy J. Gibbons.

CHICAGO, Mar. 4— Not all marriages are made in heaven.

The church has failed to do its part in preparing young persons for matrimony.

Dr. John Thompson, pastor of Chicago's 'skyscraper" church in the heart of the 'loop," startled his congregation by making the above statements.

But he left some of the members of the First Methodist Episcopal church aghast when he added that divorce is justifiable in some cases, "where couples are not joined by God."

Bible students have placed incorrect interpretations on Jesus' idea of marriage and divorce, Dr. Thompson believes.

Why Not?

'The fact that two people are joined in marriage by a minister, priest, rabbi or judge is not proof that the marriage has the sanction of God.

"In the mind of Jesus, when there is true marriage there is no divorce. If it is found the marriage is not a true one, that the couple was not joined by God, why should not the tie be broken by lawful divorce?" he asks.

'The church has not correctly interpreted the words "What God has joined together, let no man put asunder."

"If the marriage is a Godless one, though performed in the name of the church, why not divorce?"

Society has made great strides in its efforts to correct the divorce evil Dr. Thompson says.

'In Jesus' day, a Roman could send his wife away in the same way that he would dismiss a servant.

Need Help.

'To-day a divorce is effected only after the case is tried, evidence given and judgment rendered by a court

There is an entire moral continent ent of difference between the two methods.

'Jesus was progressive; always upsetting traditions. Human welfare and not preservation of institutions, was the keynote of His teaching.

'The legislation of the church is defective at this poiut. The church legislates against remarriage. She has put her angel with the flaming sword at the exit of marriage.

"But the church has no angel of instruction or guidance for young people to the marriage Eden, I do not know of any church in the land that gives organized instruction to young persons concerning the most vital step in human life.

Uniform Laws.

'We legislate against the possibility of young correcting a mistake and readadjusting their lives. But we take no steps to protect them from that mistake."

The only remedy for the so-called divorce evil, he believes, is a uniform divorce law for every state.

Such a law would abolish free and easy methods of obtaining divorces in some states.

"Something must be done or our home life will break down. If the home breaks down, the nation breaks down, also, for all the blood in the nation comes from the home,' he adds.'

SAILORS SHARE PROFIT

Norse Shipowners Will Give Seamen 10 Per Cent. of Net Profits.

OSLO, formery Christiana, Norway, March 4.—(By United Press).—In an endeavor to stop the wholesale desertion of Norwegian sailors to American ships, a firm of shipowners has established what is believed to be the first profit-sharing scheme for "Jack afloat." On every voyage between American ports, members of the fo'castle will get 10 per cent of the net profits; on voyages between American and European ports, 7 1-2 per cent; on voyages in European water, 5 per cent. All this is in addition to wages.

CARRIER PIGEONS DANGEROUS BIRDS

For Security of France They Are Barred to Foreigners.

PARIS, March 4.—(Associated Press).—The homing pigeon is a dangerous bird for the security of France when owned by foreigners, is the reason given in the preamble of a bill introduced by the Government under the signatures of President Doumergue, Premier Herriot, Minister of War General Nollet and Minister of the Interior Chautemps, to the effect that henceforth none but Frenchmen born may own dovecotes.

"Reasons of national defence," the bill begins, "has forced the Government to pass the measure."

"The war of 1914-18 has proved the very great services which homing pigeons can render as liaison agents between units of the French army, but it has also demonstrated the terrible ravages they can cause by giving information to the enemy, especially when they have been born on our soil or have been in France for some time," the bill says.

"Foreigners of any nationality are forbidden to have in France dovecotes and homing pigeons and any person of French nationality desirous of being proprietor of such birds must first obtain the authorization of the prefect of his department."

WATCHMAN FREED OF MURDER CHARGE

Had Been Sentenced to Death in First Trial.

MONTREAL, March 4.—Christopher White was acquitted of a charge of having murdered William Clarke, 62 year old night watchman for Jenkins Bros., Ltd., on the night of August 8th last, in the firms plant, in the Court of King's bench Tuesday. The jury deliberated for thirty five minutes. This was White's second trial, he having already been convicted and sentened to hang Later he was granted a new trial the court of appeals.

William Clarke was found shot dead in the plant of Jenkins Bros., on August 9th by operatives of a local signal service when Clarke failed to register his signals. Detectives investigated and quesioned White, who had been discharged from the company's employ as a night watchman only the day previous to the murder. He had quarrelled with Clarke on several occasions and it was through Clarke he lost his position. The arrest of White followed and a corner's jury held him responsible. His trial and conviction followed and was later quashed by the appeal court.

Competition Indicates Rate War On Atlantic

DUBLIN, March 4 —(Associated Press).—The Irish Times points out that 30 years ago 3,000 emigrants sailed each week from Queenstown to America. Two shipping lines were then able to handle the traffic. Now less than a fourth of that emigrant traffic survives, yet five lines are in competition for it.

The latest competitor is the United American Line, which has established an office in Queenstown. Directors of the North German Lloyd Company recently visited Queenstown and interviewed the port authorities as to the provision for facilities in the event of the company deciding to include Queenstown in its trans-Atlantic service.

It costs $1,000 for a ship to call at Queenstown, and it is stated that sometimes the companies have found it cheaper to carry passengers on to Liverpool and pay their expenses back to Ireland.

A Queenstown resident is quoted in the Irish Times as saying that "the present evidence of competition for what is a mere shadow of the former traffic points to the probability of another rate war."

LABORER'S SUICIDE.

Domestic Unhappiness Ascribed as Motive of Hanging.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., March 4.—A. Stefanuik, a laborer, committed suicide yesterday morning by hanging himself. Going out to a two-storey barn, he tied a rope to an upper beam, fastened a slip-knot round his neck, and jumped from the upper floor, a drop of eight feet, breaking his neck, and dying instantaneously. Domestic unhappiness is said to have preyed on Stefanuik's mind.

AMENDMENT FOR NEW ELECTIONS IN NOVA SCOTIA

Opposition In Legislative Assembly Alleges Government Hasn't Confidence of People.

AUDIT DEMANDED.

Investigation of Coal Mines Also Proposed in Challenge By Opposition.

HALIFAX, N.S., March 4.—The sensation of Tuesday afternoon's session of the Nova Scotia Legislative Assembly came just before adjournment, when D. G. MacKenzie, leader of the Opposition, gave notice of an amendment to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, calling for immediate passing of a supply bill and dissolution of parliament, to be followed at once by a writ for a general election.

The resolution cites, for its basis, doubts as to the state of finances heightened by the recent cabinet shuffle, the industrial situation, and the belief that the present government has not the confidence of the people. It came just as Hon. J. A. MacDonald (King's) moved an adjournment of the debate on the address, following two long speeches, those of Hon. William Chisholm, Minister of Public Works and Mines, and R. H. Smith (Farmer, Colchester).

Mr. MacKenzie's resolution was as follows.

Resolved that the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne be amended, by adding thereto the following:

"Whereas, grave doubts hitherto existed as to the condition of our provincial finances, and the reasons given for recent ministerial changes have cast further suspicions upon the probability of our financial statements, and,

"Whereas, it is totally essential that a public independent audit of all departments and branches of this government should be conducted by a government having the fullest confidence of the people, and,

"Whereas, the serious industrial difficulties now existing in relation to our coal mines threaten the welfare and prosperity of the people of Nova Scotia, it is necessary that there be the broadest investigation of all matters relating to our coal mines, and,

"Whereas, such an investigation should be conducted bp a government possessing the fullest confidence of the people of Nova Scotia, and,

"Whereas, this government has not the confidence of the people,

"Therefore, resolved that a supply bill be introduced at once and that immediately upon passing of supply, this parliament be dissolved, and a awrit issued for general election."

NEWS FROM ORLAND

Mill Dam Broke Away From Effects of Recent Heavy Rains.

ORLAND, March 4.—The Cramahe Municipal Telephone System has made application to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board for authority to make a charge of 5c a conversation between that system and the Brighton and Haldimand systems.

The Ontario Railway and Municipal Board has granted a hearing of all parties concerned in the Town Hall in the village of Brighton on Thursday, March 5th.

Both Brighton and Haldimand are much opposed to the charge, taking the view that such charge will barely cover clerical cost entailed by its levy.

Mill Dam Broke.

Mr Mutton's mill dam broke away on Sunday from the effects of the recent heavy rain. This will inconvenience many as Mr. Mutton does a large business in custom sawing of lumber and shingles.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 4.—(Associated Press).—Outwitting an armed guard of more than 200 men, five masked robbers the other evening walked into the Custom House adjoining the main railroad station and made off with the entire day's receipts, estimated at 2,000,000 leva.

The ease with which the robbery was accomplished has caused newspaper comment concerning the facility with which the Government could be overturned by bold adventurers.

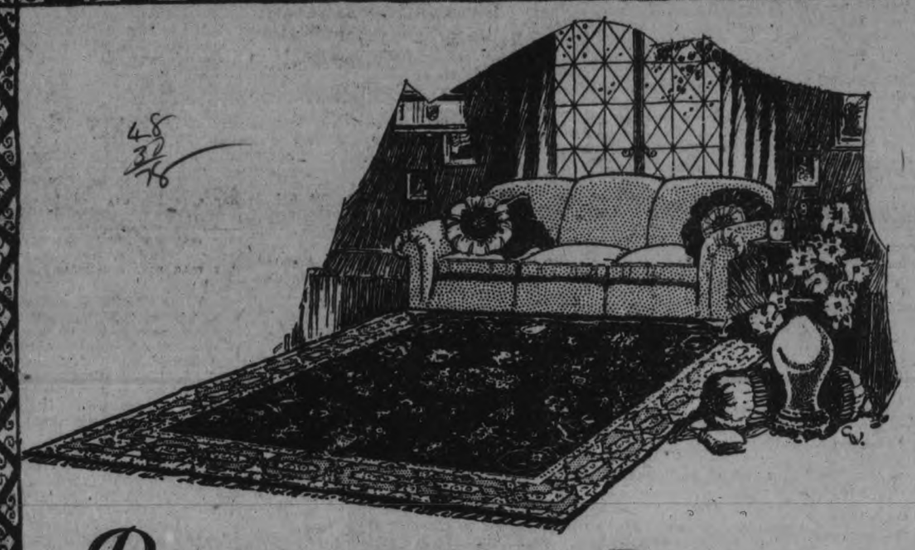
RUM BOAT ABANDONED.

Crew Fled to Forest—Had 67 Cases.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 4. — Abandonment of the Canadian speed boat Moonhead, on a beach at Point William, near Anacortes, with sixty-seven cases of whiskey, was reported here Tuesday by the United States coastguard. The crew fled into the forest. The boat has a bad hole in her side. The desertion followed a pursuit Monday night by a coast guard rum chaser.



Rugs of National Reputation Take a New Name

"BARRYMORE" is the name we have chosen to distinguish the most beautiful and luxurious made-in-Canada rugs you have ever seen. You have not known them by name, because they were never advertised by name before. Their quality and beauty were recognized at sight by the house furnishing trade from coast to coast as the product of The Toronto Carpet Manufacturing Company, Limited, which has been manufacturing Wilton and Axminster rugs of high quality for 33 years.

In the past the public has not been able to identify these wonderful creations amid all the other rugs, domestic and imported, which have been shown in the stores. Now with this new name, Barrymore, you can select freely, knowing that the rugs are of finest value and quality. To protect this name, we affix to the back of each rug a distinctive label bearing our guarantee.

Rugs of Lasting Beauty

We want the public to know that we are proud of our Barrymore Rugs and stand behind them. You will admire the delicate nuances of color and tone in Barrymore Rugs when you see them. They are solid, heavy, tightly-woven rugs with a deep, thick pile, luxurious to the tread, both in Wilton and Axminster qualities. They are dyed with the finest of fast colors.

The pure, upstanding worsted and wool yarns used in the weaving of Barrymores are spun from a thorough blending of fleeces from the hills of India, Northern China, the Persian Gulf and Scotland. For certain types of rug we add the finer wools of Italy and South America to give extra lustre and softness.

An Inspiration When Decorating a Room

The designs of Barrymore Rugs are a positive inspiration to anyone who is furnishing or re-decorating a room. They present a chord of harmonious colors from which the curtains and hangings, the wall paper, cushions and all the details of the room can take their key. They are beautiful because our own artists have studied the best examples of carpet designs of all ages in their search for ideas and ideals.

Barrymores are made in all standard rug sizes; also carpets, stair carpets and runners. They sell at prices within the means of every Canadian householder. See Barrymore Wiltons and Axminsters in the leading house furnishing stores at your first opportunity.

The TORONTO CARPET MFG. CO. Ltd.
TORONTO - CANADA
Established 1891

The above label is attached to the back of every Barrymore Guaranteed Rug. Barrymores are made in both the finest Wilton and Axminster fabrics, and are known under the following quality names: "Ardebil" Seamless Wilton, "Westmount" Wilton, "French" Wilton and "Sydney" Wilton.

There is only one grade of Barrymore Axminster, universally known as the "Woodstock" Axminster. There is no better.

for a common debt." He was lukewarm towards the proposed tax on gasoline, feeling that exemptions from it would be abused. He also felt that it might make a little too heavy impost on the motor industry.

Wants Government Control.

Mr. Wilson said he could not call the O.T.A. Prohibition. He spoke of the difficulty of enforcement when public sentiment was so evenly divided. "However, this 4.4 per cent. beer does not settle the matter," he said. "I hope the day will come when we shall get back to local option only under a system of Government control instead of the old bar.

"If my resolution on local option under Government control is defeated this year, I will bring it in again next year." He contended that the principle of Prohibition was wrong, and even a temporary majority in its favour could not make it right. He said that Mr. Raney had a better chance of enforcing the O.T.A. than had Mr. Nickle, because more sentiment was in favour of the Act in the time of Mr. Raney.

"The Government is to be congratulated upon trying to salvage something from the backwash of the reaction against Prohibition," said Mr. Wilson, who contended that 99 people should not be asked to forego the use of liquor to save one who did not know how to handle it.

He thought that even 4.4 per cent. beer would bring many young people from bootlegging dives and worse into a more decent life. He admitted that his enthusiasm was greater for 4.4 per cent. beer before Mr. Nickle made his speech than it was after. "If this 4.4 per cent. beer is a compromise, it is a compromise betwen the Moderationists and the Prohibitionists and not the wets," he declared. "If the Government erred it erred by not putting enough alcohol in the beer. It doesn not go as far as I would, and we might as well know now that the question will not be settled by the introduction of 4.4 per cent. beer."

THE combination of about 1,000 miles of river and less than 2,000 miles of ocean make a voyage to Europe by the Cunard-Anchor-Donaldson route a perfect pleasure cruise.

The grandeur of the magnificent river, flowing through a fairyland of delightful scenery—majestic cliffs, green sunlit meadows, historic towns, cities and villages, will never be forgotten.

Nine magnificent vessels are at your service—the Anchor-Donaldson steamers Letitia, Athenia, Saturnia and Cassandra, and the Cunarders Aurania, Ascania, Alaunia, Ausonia and Antonia.

European ports directly. On more than one occasion, he had defeated the North Atlantic Conference. In 1897, a contract with the Laurier Government was abandoned because of the outbreak of the Spanish-American War.

The fleet of ten ships had been referred to as "a mere flea-bite,' Mr. Low drew the attention of the House to the comparative strength of other great shipping companies, Most of the White Star freighters were 30 to 35 years old; the Anchor Donaldson had four passenger and freight vessels and six exclusively freight vessels; the Cunard had five of the former, and five of the latter class, while the Canadian Pacific had 16 of the former class and 10 of the latter.

Favorable Comparison.

"The Petersen fleet will compare very faborably with any working out of Atlantic ports except the Canadian Pacific," said Mr. Low. Why had not the Government Merchant Marine paid? In answer, Mr. Low quoted from a speech by the general manager of the International Merchant Marine, in which he said the war-built standardized cargo ships were at best a compromise, and could not bring the best results to any trade. The passenger-freight vessels of the 10,000 ton class were best for the shipping trade. "It is that class of ship which Sir William Petersen proposes to construct for the Canadian trade."

Mr. Low considered that it was apparent to all that it was time for some government in this dominion to take action.

BANDITS GET $33,000.

Cowed More Than Score in Financial House.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 4.—(Canadian Press).—Five armed men yesterday entered the Mound City Trust Company, in a residential section here, herded more than a score of employees and patrons into a rear room, and escaped with approximately $33,000 in cash. Three shots were fired, but no one was wounded.

BIZERTA, Tunis, March 4.—(Associated Press).—The warships of the Wrangel movement, interned here since the collapse of the operations of this Russian leader against the Bolsheviks, are in a bad way.

Russian refugees have been living on board the ships for three years, and their sides are covered with clustering bunches of mussels. Neglect has wrought havoc with the engines, and competent experts doubt if the vessels ever will put to sea again.

Baby By Lottery In Italian Town

PAALOZALA, Italy, March 4.—(Associated Press). — A baby boy was recently the capital prize in a lottery arranged by the Mayor of this city. The child was found abandoned in the market place and turned over to the Mayor. Within an hour eight childless couples had sought to adopt the little foundling.

The Mayor had difficulty in choosing among the would-be parents. So he arranged to raffle the baby off and allowed tickets to be sold only to persons who would make desirable parents. The tickets brought a good price and all the proceeds of the lottery were turned over to the winners of the child to purchase a layette.

SAYS GONTHIER GUESSED VALUE

Deputy-Minister of Canals Also Takes Exception to Auditor's Report.

NO SLACKNESS.

OTTAWA, March 4 (Canadian Press). — The Minister of Finance is not alone in taking exception to the strictures contained in the Auditor-General's report with respect to the audit and control of Government stores.

"The fact that Mr. Gonthier does us the honour of naming canal stores first on his list of alleged delinquent departments makes it impossible to permit the matter to pass without comment,' said Major Graham Bell, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, on his return from Montreal yesterday.

"It is unfortunate that Mr. Gonthier should have expressed such serious criticism in the face of lack of exact information, which he freely admitted. If he was not in a position to say whether the public stores of Canada were valued at twenty-five or at fifty million dollars, surely it would have been better to have refrained from guessing at the amount and basing thereon charges of lack of proper methods of stock-keeping and control, inviting slackness of administration and resultant waste.

Excessive Figures.

Personally, I am inclined to think that even the minimum amount named is very excessive in view of the fact that the value of the stores of the Canadian National Railways, the largest railway system in the world, is only twenty-nine million dollars. More especially do the Auditor-General's figures seem excessive when we know now for a fact that the value of the stocks on hand at 1st January last at our various canal store depots was only $447,725.80.

"As a measure of economy our stores are held at the lowest point consistent with the efficient operation of our canals, and of the above stated amount, 75 per cent. or more represents heavy timbers and lumber, special lock-gate parts, castings, and the patterns for the same, spare valves, and miscellaneous operating equipment of value only for the purpose for which it was designed.

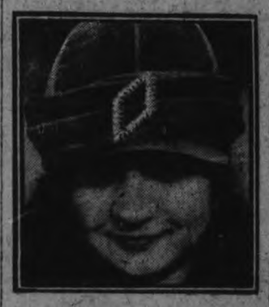
"Deducting this heavy stuff, some of which ,such as lock-gates, are kept under water to prevent deterioration, the total value of ordinary merchantable stores, practically all of which is adequately housed and stored ,and all of which is under absolute control and supervision of our canal staffs, is less than $125,000.

Strick Supervision.

"All the various features of requisitioning, purchasing, receiving, storing, issuing ,delivering and accounting are subject to strict departmental supervision, and I feel satisfied — as do other responsible officials of hte department—that the system of stores-audit and control will bear examination by any experienced and competent authority, and that it will be found that our supervision is both practical and adequate.

"In only one respect could the Auditor-General's charges apply, and that is as to housing conditions. We admit that in one or two instances we have delayed bettering these conditions, not for reasons of slackness, but for the simple fact that, in obedience to the desire of the Minister and of the Government, we have endeavoured to keep our capital requirements to the minimum in view of the necessity for national economy."

What Pretty Girl Did for Sick Stomach



Miss E. Rich of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I don't know what the cause was, but every few days my stomach would feel all bloated up with gas, my appetite was poor and I felt sick to my stomach—to say nothing of headaches.

"I never thought of using Carter's Little Liver Pills until nothing seemed to help. After using Carter's I felt relieved at once—and now as soon as my stomach 'talks' back I answer with Carter's and have the last word."

my right hon. friend (Mr. Meighen) on the necessity of fighting it in the most effective way; and the Government has decided to deal with this matter by special legislation this session."

Hon. H. S. Beland, Minister of Health and Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, declared that those in favor of the repression of the narcotic trade would hail with delight the new agreement arrived at between United States and Canada. It was easy at present for suspects to cross over the border and begin anew their activities. The treaty should assist towards putting an end to the work of such men.

The new treaty provided for extradition on both sides of the line. There had been lately, Dr. Beland explained, "the closest co-operation between the Inland Revenue Department of the United States and the Department of Health of Canada." The laws would be made more effective by the treaty, and both parties would be "in a position to deal with those powerful traffickers who have been mocking the Governments of United States and Canada."

Hon. George P. Graham said the suppression of smuggling was like the suppression of sin—it could not be altogether eliminated from this world. In recent years smuggling had got to be a science, the whisky trade from Canada would have to be suppressed.

Asks For Special Squad.

In the absence of Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs, Mr. Graham said he was going to ask the House to provide for a special squad of men, not subject to the Civil Service Commission, who would be specially qualified to work in the suppression of smuggling under the Department of Customs and Excise.

A. J. Lewis (Progressive, Swift Current) asked why the Government should not go to the Civil Service Commission for such men.

"You might as well go to the Civil Service Commission for a clergyman," replied Mr. Graham.

S. W. Jacobs (Liberal, George Etienne Cartier) asked, "Why not have free trade altogether?"

Mr. Graham — "If we could get free trade altogether, it would do, but that is impossible in this world."

J. Morrison (Progressive, Weyburn) thought that the appointment of such a special squad, was "not much of a compliment to the Civil Service of Canada." Mr. Graham explained that the suggestion came mostly from the Manufacturers' Association.

The Prime Minister questioned the difficulty of selecting men for such work through the Commission. "How could the hon. member examine a man for his integrity?" he asked.

"Ask him if he is a Presbyterian," suggested A. R. McMaster (Liberal, Brome).

"Door" Open at Night.

W. G. McQuarrie (Conservative, New Westminster) said that he didn't see how Canada was going to stop smuggling "if we leave the door open at night." On the Pacific highway and other roads crossing the international boundary line in British Columbia, Customs offices closed at one o'clock in the morning, he said. The favorite time for smuggling was at night, and the Government should see that sufficient officials were kept on duty all night to prevent smuggling along the principal roads.

The resolution carried.

Another Treaty.

A further resolution calling upon Parliament to approve the treaty between Canada and the United States for the purpose of enlarging the list of crimes on account of which extradition may be granted, was moved by Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister. The treaty was signed on the 8th of last January. Mr. King explained that the purpose of the treaty was to add to the list of extraditable offences, crimes against the law for suppression of traffic in narcotics.

Mr. Meighen objected to the complicated manner in which these treaties were presented to Parliament. He regarded them as needlessly numerous. "It is a bad month now, when we don't have a new convention with the United States," he said.

The resolution carried.

75% of disease avoided through internal cleanliness

WHEN you are constipated, poisons are formed in the accumulated food waste, and reach all parts of the body. The first results, headaches, biliousness, a feeling of "heaviness", etc., serve as warnings of graver diseases to follow if this intestinal poisoning continues unchecked.

This is why intestinal specialists state that constipation is the primary cause of three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Physicians Advise Lubrication for Internal Cleanliness

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste, and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless. Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

BIRTHDAY MEETING A PLEASING EVENT

Interest Growing In Queen Alexandra Home and School Association.

Monday evening, March 2, marked the annual meeting and close of the fifth year of Queen Alexandra Home and School Association. A most enjoyable evening was spent. The President, Mrs. H. G. Walker, presided.

At the nomination meeting, February 2, the officers were unanimously elected for another year and are:

Hon. President—Mrs. A. Mowat.
Hon. Vice-President—Mrs. S. F. M. Touchburn.
President—Mrs. H. G. Walker.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. Richard Parnall.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. J. S. Armstrong.
Secretary—Mrs. Karl Simpson.
Treasurer—Mrs. H. Tremain.

The election of convenors was held over for the April meeting.

Mrs. K. Simpson, Secretary, presented the report for the year just finished.

Interest Increasing.

Interest in the association is increasing, many new members being added to the roll. The association was instrumental in having "Drive Slowly" signs placed near the schools and the rink in Inverlea Park.

Mrs. Peters, President of Prince of Wales Home and School Association, read the report of the Easter convention of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations.

Most interesting talks have been given by Mrs. M. A. Morrison, Mr A. Mowat, Mr. J. Cuthbertson and Miss Williams.

The school picnic was again a wonderful success. Relief work has been quietly carried on by Mrs. G. S. Kingdon, aided by friends and members of the association. Several splendid entertainments have brought the parents and association together and been much enjoyed by all.

Generous donations have been given. All ten meetings were well attended. The banner was won five times by junior fourth, Mr. F. H. Dearborn's room.

The Treasurer, Mrs. H. Tremain, presented the report, showing a balance on hand of $56.22.

Mrs. G. S. Kingdon's report of relief work told of help given in clothing and food and many calls on sick and well.

Mrs. Geo. Lee, convenor of refreshments, reported of the activities at the many entertainments and the school picnic.

Mrs. C. H. Cheverill, the efficient convenor of entertainment, gave no report, but has always provided varied and extremely enjoyable numbers at all monthly meetings, besides special occasions.

Plans to Raise Money.

Plans were discussed to raise money.

The teachers' concert will be on Monday, March 9.

A donation of $10.00 was voted to the Well Babies' Clinic. The banner was won by junior fourth, Mr. Dearborn's room.

Mrs. A. Stevenson gave an interesting talk on the work and aims of the Local Council.

Vocal solos by Miss Edgar and Miss G. Cuff were very much enjoyed.

Mr. James Dutton's talk on "Bread" was both interesting and instructive. Going back to the early ages, even then it was the custom of the baker to stamp his name on his product. At a test in the bakery here two thousand loaves were put through, from the start till in the wagons, in two hours. Scientific experiments prove that—conditions being perfect—the best bread is made quickly.

After the National Anthem dainty refreshments were served by the Executive. The table was most effectively decorated in the school colors, black and gold. The birthday cake, with its five candles, was given the place of honor. All enjoyed the sociability which featured the occasion, and voted it a splendid birthday party.

DETECTIVE FREED.

No Evidence to Substantiate Charge of Murder.

VANCOUVER, B. C., March , — After being adjourned repeatedl during the last four months. The charge of murder laid against John O'Grady, private detective, arising out of the death of Mrs. Violet Carr was dismised in police court yesterday throcugh lack of sufficient evidence to committ the accused for trial.

Mrs. Carr died of bicoloride of mercuy poisoning and the arrest of O'Grady followed a death bed declaration of the woman.

TO POPULARIZE FLYING.

LONDON, March 4.—(Associated Press).—Another terror will shortly be added to the quiet-loving old ladies in the distant suburbs and rural England. This is a baby airplane fitted with a 60 horse-power engine which the makers claim can be stored in a garage at the bottom of a garden, has folding wings, contains a self-starter and can take off from a comparatively confined space.

The object of the makers is to bring flying within the reach of a larger number of the public and eventually make the airplane as popular as the motor car.

RED BLOOD MAKES ALL OUR STRENGTH

Red blood is the driving force of life. If we lack strength we should think first of our blood. We should create more red blood. Then, through the new vitality that comes with rich, red blood, we quickly regain lost strength and vital nerve power.

Weak men and women can find an easy, safe way to create red blood. Then, as the blood is nourished, they will find strength quickly returning.

Wincarnis gives to the blood the very elements from which red blood is created. For fifty years this blood builder has restored exhausted, nervous, pale, thin sufferers.

If your body vitality is at a low ebb go to your druggist today and begin the safe Wincarnis treatment. A sixteen ounce bottle, which is a fourteen day Wincarnis treatment, is sold by all leading druggists for $1.50.

Wincarnis is so effective that only three tablespoonsful a day need be taken. Try Wincarnis at once and realise the new strength just a few days will bring.

IS IT A SAVAGE INDIAN INSTINCT?

Do Women Use War Paint and Finery to Terrify "Catty" Friends.

(By Cynthia Grey.)

Why do women wear fine clothes?

Is it to attract men?

Or to make other women admire and envy them?

The question has never been answered. It is still one of the dark mysteries of this world of ours.

The South Sea Islander, no doubt, puzzles his woolly head over it when the village women dance forth from their huts with red hibiscus flowers behind their ears, and new shredded-wheat skirts around their slim waists.

And the North American, of course, is just as baffled when his wife sends three hats home on approval, and tries them on for hours at a time!

For everywhere women spend half their time and most of their pin money on the "ladies' game" of dressing.

For "dressing means clothes that not only cover the body but express the soul and empty the pocketbook. Mens drab clothes—never do that.

Men can never understand the sheer spiritual uplift that comes to a woman when she knows that she is looking her best. . . when she knows that the facing of her hat and the color of her scarf bring out the fairness of her skin.

Nor can they appreciate her savage triumph when she sees other women prying her clothes . . . envying her!

And I wonder if they ever realize how big a part clothes play in the romance of life. For a woman who is a little brown wren in a serge suit can become a modern goddess in a dress that becomes her . . . particularly if she knows its becoming. For then she "feels pretty" in it. And the woman who feels that way usually is!

In Joseph Hergesheimer's "Cytheria," the hero meets the heroine for the first time without noticing her hardly.

"She was dressed for the street in a light brown suit, rigidly simple," the writer explains this phenomenon.

But the next time he sees the lady he falls madly in love with her! He really looks at her for the first time . . . and sees that she is beautiful.

"She was dressed in gray, a gown cut away from sheer points on her shoulders, with a girdle of small gilt roses, her hair in a binding of grey brocade and amber ornaments. And above her elbows were bands of dull, intricately pierced gold." Hergesheimer describes her with enthusiasm.

Naturally one wonders if the hero would ever have "fallen for" the lady if he hadn't seen her in that lovely dress. Probably not!

That, however, does not mean that the only beautiful and alluring clothes are the expensive ones . . . not at all.

A house dress of 29-cent cotton crepe can be just as becoming as a $100 model . . . if it fits as it should and is the right color for the wearer.

There are women who are prettier in their working clothes or their hiking knickers than in any other costume they can wear. The great thing is to know your own kind of clothes and stick to them, as much as possible.

Most women are aware of this, too. And at the same time they want to wear clothes that will impress their friends with their husbands success in making money.

For there are two distinct and separate schools of dress.

One teaches a girl that a rose in the hair or white muslin ruffles have an irresistible appeal to the eye of the beauty-loving male who knows nothing of styles.

The other is the Red Indian school that sends a woman out among her catty friends, decked out in war-paint, beads and feathers . . . for the same reason that the Indian wore them into battle. To strike terror to the souls of his enemies!

TOLD HIS WIFE HOW TO RETAIN GENERAL'S LOVE

Mrs. Dennistoun Says Her Husband Approved Her Living With Cowans.

ASKS FOR $6,000.

As Result of Her Relations, It Is Said, Dennistoun Got Easy Posts.

LONDON, March 4 (United Press). — The late Sir John Cowans was the "General" whose intimate relations with Mrs. Dorothy Muriel Dennistoun resulted in the latter's husband, Lieutenant-Colonel Ian Onslow Dennistoun, receiving staff appointments in France and other favours, she testified in Court to-day.

Mrs. Dennistoun is suing her former husband, whom she divorced in 1921, for $6,000, which she claims he owes her.

After the divorce Dennistoun married the widow of the late Earl of Carnarvon, discoverer of the tomb of King Tut-ank-amen.

According to Mrs. Dennistoun's attorney, her husband approved her relations with the "General," as he was termed at a previous session, because through his influence Dennistoun was able to get various "easy" posts, including one as secretary to the Governor of Jamaica.

Attorneys for Mrs. Dennistoun claimed that with Dennistoun's approval his wife lived with the "General" for a time in Paris,

She not only had his consent, it was brought out, but Dennistoun would send her letters telling her how best to retain the "General's affections."

The British Labor Party Goes In For Dramatics

LONDON, March 4.—(Associated Press).—The Labor party has gone in for dramatics. The Strand Theatre has been taken over for use on Sunday nights for purposes of recreation and propaganda by the Independent Labor party and plays written by the party members are being presented from time to time.

The first to be given is a one-act play, "The Tomb," with a Tutankhamen setting, written by J. H. Clynes, son of J. R. Clynes, Labor's floor leader in the House of Commons. The Parliamentary Labor Club Dramatic Group has been formed, of which the young Mr. Clynes and his wife are members, and the first performance of "The Tomb" will be on March 15.

Parts of "The Tomb," and also an opera upon which Mr. Clynes is working, were done at No. 11 Downing Street during the regime of the Ramsay MacDonald government when Mr. Clynes, Senior, as Lord Privy Seal, and family were living there.

UNITED STATES HAS PEACEFUL INTENTIONS TOWARD ALL THE EARTH, BUT MUST MAINTAIN A MILITARY FORCE TO COMPORT WITH DIGNITY, DECLARES COOLIDGE IN ADDRESS THAT FOLLOWS HIS INAUGURATION

Reiterates Advocacy of American Adherence to Permanent World Court.

STOP SUFFERING

Having Taken Lead in Disarmament, U. S. Must Continue in Forefront.

NO ENTANGLEMENT

"We Can Only Help Those Who Help Themselves," Says Re-elected President.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(Associated Press).— Clothed with a direct mandate from the people, Calvin Coolidge today dedicated himself and his administration to the lightening of the tax burden at home and to the promotion of peace through mutual understandings with the nations of the world.

These two purposes were outlined in high relief by Mr. Coolidge in his inaugural address, delivered from a simply-decorated stand at the east entrance of the Capitol just after he had taken his second oath of office as President of the United States.

Dividing his attention almost equally between affairs at home and problems abroad ,and between things accomplished and achievements hoped for, Mr. Coolidge spoke with assurance as to the future, declaring that because of action already taken, an era of prosperity lay ahead and a firmer courage and a higher hope inspired the heart of all humanity.

"We have been ,and propose to be, more and more American," he declared. "If we have any heritage it has been that. If we have any destiny, we have found it in that direction."

Accord with this purpose, he asserted, demands the conduct of government along certain definite lines.

These lines in the field of domestic affairs point, first, to the exercise of greater economy in government, and second, to reduction of taxation, he continued. The recent election, he said, has demonstrated that "the policy that stands out with the greatest clearness is that of economy in public expenditure with reduction and reform of taxation."

"I favor the policy of economy, not because I wish to save money, but because I wish to save people," he continued. "The men and women of this country who toil are the ones who bear the cost of government. Every dollar that we carelessly waste means that their life will be so much the more meager. Every dollar that we prudently save means that their life will be so much more abundant."

The practice of such economy, he declared, has brought the time when there can be further tax reduction and "when, unless we wish to hamper the people in their right to earn a living, we must have tax reform." He declared his opposition to extremely high tax rates because "they produce little or no revenue, because they are bad for the country, and, finally, because they are wrong."

"The verdict of the country has been given on this question," he added, "that verdict stands. We shall do well to heed it."

Prefacing his discussion of America's relation to the world with the declaration that "our country represents nothing but peaceful intentions toward all the earth," Mr. Coolidge set forth ways and means of manifesting that spirit while at the same time maintaining "such a military force as comports with the dignity and security of a great people."

He reiterated his advocacy of American adherence to the Permanent Court of International Justice; declared that America having taken the lead in the movement for limitation of armaments, "that lead America must continue to hold"; favored continuation of the policy of participation in world conferences "whenever conditions are such that there is even a promise that practical and favorable resuts might be secured", bespoke continuation of aid to mitigate human suffering and assist in the rehabilitation of distressed nations, and expressed sympathy with the movement to clarify international law and to bring about the outlawing of aggressive war.

"We have made a great contribution to the settlement of contentions differences in both Europe and Asia," he said in concluding his discussion of foreign affairs. "But there is a very definite point beyond which we can not go. We can only help those who help themselves. Mindful of these limitations, the one great duty that stands out requires us to use our enormous powers to trim the balance of the world."

Only once in his address did Mr. Coolidge refer to the election which today brought him to the Presidency for a term in his own right, and that was after he had declared strongly in favor of strict party responsibility, adding that "common honesty and good faith with the people who support a party at the polls require that party, when it enters office, to assume the control of that portion of the government to which it has been elected."

"This administration has come into power with a very clear and definite mandate from the people," he said. "The people declared that they wanted their rights to have not a political but a judicial determination ,and their independence and freedom continued and supported by having the ownership and control of their property, not in the government, but in their hands."

Pursuing further his discussion of odmestic affairs, he declared that "those who want their rights respected under the Constitution and the law ought to set the example themselves of observing the Constitution and the law" and that "we cannot permit any inquisition either within or without the law or apply any religious test to the holding of office."

"Especially are we determined not to become implicated in the political controversies of the Old World.

"America," he concluded, "seeks no earthly empire built on blood and force. No ambition, no temptation, lures her to thought of foreign dominions. The legions which she sends forth are armed, not with the sword, but with the cross. The higher state to which she seeks the allegiance of all mankind is not of human but of divine origin. She cherishes no purpose save to merit the favor of Almighty God."

Japs To Build Ancient Gate Of Thunder God

TOKIO, March 3. — (Associated Press).—Kaminarimon, or Gate of the Thunder God, one of the sights of ancient Yedo, destroyed by fire some 70 years ago, is to be rebuilt. It will be on its old site at the entrance of what is now Asakusa Park and the funds are to be raised by popular subscription through the efforts of the priests of the numerous temples in that neighborhood.

It is planned to spend about $350,000 on the edifice, the design of which has been entrusted to a noted Jauanese architect who is an authority on the ancient architecture of the country. It will be of solid vermillion lacquer below the roof. The plan for the reconstruction of Tokio makes the project feasible after years of agitation.

WIDE BROADCAST

PARADE WAS SHORT

Chief Justice Taft Administered Traditional Ceremony Before Thousands.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(Associated Press).—President Coolidge was inaugurated today with one of the simplest ceremonies of a hundred years. Almost at the same time Vice-President Dawes also took the oath of office.

For the first time not only the thousands who gathered in Washington heard a president deliver his inaugural address, but millions throughout the United States and Canada and probably many elsewhere, heard the address by radio. President Coolidge spoke to probably the greatest audience, seen and unseen, that ever has been addressed by any man in the history of the world.

With all its studied simplicity and lack of display, which was at the express direction of the President, the ceremony was in marked contrast with the event of 19 months ago, when, roused from sleep by news of the sudden death of President Harding, Mr. Coolidge took the oath of office administered by his father in the glow of an oil lamp in a Vermont farm house.

The only vice-president since Roosevelt to succeed to the office by popular election, President Coolidge renewed his oath before Chief Justice Taft, the only president to take it before a former president. The ceremony was the traditional one, and was carried out on a platform built at the east front of the Capitol, before the great steps leading to the entrance at the middle of the building ,a spot selected in the historic compromise of generations ago when the House and Senate each contended that the inauguration should take place within its own precincts.

While Congress was winding up its eleventh hour business, the official congressional committee called at the White House to escort the President to the Capitol. This was soon after eleven o'clock. Pennsylvania avenue, despite the restricted program which cut down the show, was packed as the President, escorted by a troop of cavalry and guarded by secret service men, passed along. At the Capitol he went at once to the President's room adjoining the senate chamber and busied himself disposing of acts of Congress which either became laws by his signature, or which under the constitution got "pocket vetoes" if he choose not to sign them.

The prelude to the inaugural procession, for the president's journey to the Capitol is always the first part of the actual ceremony, was quite different from that of four years ago, for President Coolidge had no outgoing president to accompany him.

WARREN G. HARDING

Four years ago, Warren Gamaliel Harding, a picture of robust health so soon to pass away, rode with the pathetic figure of Woodrow Wilson and with deprecatory gestures to the crowd, stilled cheers intended for him ,out of consideration for the already dying man who rode in the carriage beside him. Little did anyone dream that before another inauguration had rolled around, Harding would have preceded Wilson to the great beyond.

While President Coolidge was at work in the President's room at the Capitol Vice-President elect Dawes and his party arrived and took their places in the Vice-President's room where they were greeted by Senator Cummins of Iowa, who since Mr. Coolidge has became President has presided over the Senate. There Mr. Dawes and his party awaited the beginning of the Vice-Presidential inaugural ceremonies in the senate chamber, which preceded by a few minutes the inauguration of President Coolidge in the open air outside.

The senate galleries early had been filled by those fortunate enough to get cards of admission. Many women scarcely less well known than their husbands in national affairs shared places with members and families of the diplomatic corps and the official set.

Just as the Sixty-eighth Congress died by constitutional limitation at noon, the Senate of the sixty-ninth Congress came into being, called in special session to consider executive appointments ,and incidentally, to inaugurate the Vice-President. A special session of the Senate is really not necessady to inaugurate the Vice-Preident; he could take the oath of office before a justice of the peace if he chose, and then met with the Senate when it assembles in regular session next winter, but it is the custom.

The diplomatic corps, all invited to the ceremonies, assembled in the marble room which adjoins the chamber, resplendent in their gorgeous full dress court uniforms. A new doyen headed them this time, Senor Riano ,the Spanish ambassador. He took his place as dean with the departure of the former French Ambassador Jules J. Jusserand, who had occupied the place of honor at five previous inaugural ceremonies. The diplomatic corps entered the chamber according to rank and precedence, fixed in order of the time they have been accredited to the United States, the ambassadors leading the line and the ministers coming after them.

Then came the justices of the Supreme Court, headed by Chief Justice Taft and after them members of the House of Representatives, distinguished officers of the army and navy, a few former members of Congress and last, persons who have publicly received the thanks of Congress and therefore are entitled to places on such occasions.

When all the party was assembled the senate chamber, a comparatively small room which ordinarily seats 96 senators and attachees, contained more than 700 persons on the floor, with many of them necessarily standing.

When all was ready in the Chamber, President Coolidge, escorted by the Committee on Arrangements, was shown into the Chamber through the main door ,and to a seat on the floor at the right hand side of the centre aisle, and facing the rostrum, on which Vice-President-Elect Dawes was immediately escorted to a seat.

The Senate chaplain offered an appropriate prayer, and Senator Cummins, as President of the Senate, called the assemblage to order.

A silence settled over the company as Senator Cummins and the Vice-President-Elect faced each other; both raised their right hands, Senator Cummins read the Vice-President's oath, Mr. Dawes repeated the words as they were spoken, and as the result of this brief ceremony the country had a Vice-President for the first time in nineteen months.

The assemblage within the Senate Chamber thereupon began moving in order of precedence to the inaugural stand outside. A commodious steel canopy had been erected so that President Coolidge could take the oath of office in full view of the waiting thousands, and not be compelled to go through the exercises inside the Capitol building, unless the weather was unusually severe.

Stretching to the right and left of the President as he faced the crowd, and at the lower level running from north to south, were long rows of temporary benches for the seating of the several thousand persons invited to places at the ceremony. Each Senator and Representative had some seats at his disposal, but none had enough for all the demands made upon him.

Immediately in front of the President's stand was the full Marine Band, resplendent in scarlet coats and gold braided caps. The band occupied a place formed as a small hollow square, and on the three sides as far back as the Congressional Library to the east; the House Office building to the north, thousands stood on the pavement of the spacious Plaza, or found places of vantage on the fountains, monuments, or in trees.

The inaugural party passed through a lane of Marines as it came from the Capitol and entered the President's stand, President Coolidge walking with Chief Justice Taft, the members of the Congressional Committee, Vice-President Dawes and his party and a small party of high officials following. There was room for 30 or 40 persons on the President's stand.

The ceremony here, too ,was simple and brief. President Coolidge, standing bare-headed with his right hand upraised, faced the Chief Justice, who read the oath of office prescribed by the Constitution; President Coolidge repeated the words slowly as the Chief Justice pronounced them ,and then stooped and kissed the Bible in the hand of Mr. Taft.

Then he turned to the crowd, and as the roar of applause and cheering died away, began the delivery of his inaugural address.

Amplifying devices at the top of the President's stand made his words clearly and distinctly audible to the edge of the crowd, and microphones placed before him carried his voice throughout the country to some distant parts of the world by radio.

At the conclusion of the President's address, the Marine Band struck up a lively air; the President took his place at the head of the inaugural procession which was waiting in formation in the streets and avenues converging at the Capitol, and led the way back to the White House by way of Pennsylvania Avenue. Senators filed back to the Chamber to consider executive business in extra session, and the remainder of the party disbanded.

When the head of the inaugural procession reached the White House it halted for a moment while President Coolidge, Mrs. Coolidge, Vice-President Dawes and Mrs. Dawes, members of their immediate families and a few guests, including members of the Cabinet and ranking officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and the Congressional Committee conducting the arrangements, took places in a small stand built over the sidewalk from which they reviewed the procession as it passed by.

The parade was less than an hour in passing the stand, and at the conclusion of the review, President Coolidge returned to his office and went to work. Vice-President Dawes drove to his hotel apartments, planning to go to his office in the Senate to-morrow.

The inauguration, ranking with any of its predecessors for economy, for instead of $100,000 which the local committee planned to spend on decorations and display, less than $500 actually had been disbursed.

Coolidge Oath On Bible From Grandmother As Boy

WASHINGTON, March 4 (Canadian Press). — When President Coolidge takes the oath of office to-day, a small Bible which his grandmother gave him when he was five years old, will be used, and it will be opened at the first chapter of St. John, which at that time made the greatest impression upon his mind.

Some of the President's early educational opportunities were furnished by the Bible, and it is said to have many attachments for him. He remembers reading from it to his grandfather when he was six years old.

LOOK, LISTEN, LEARN—ADIVSES VAN DYKE

Learn and Be Happy, Says Celebrated Clergyman and Writer — "The City Has All But Forgotten Nature."

By GENE COHN.

PRINCETON, N.J., Mar. 4.—"The world isn't going to the dogs. The dogs are after the world but they won't get it."

Thus epigrammatizes the Rev. Henry Van Dyke, smiling sympathetically upon this hectic generation out of his 73 years of philosophical adventurings.

Clergymen, professor, writer, philosopher, woodsman, statesman and probably one of the four leading trout fishermen of the nation—Dr. Henry Van Dyke ranks among the most interesting personalities in the country.

When interviewed he was preparing for a hurried departure to Australia, there to seek fabled trout streams of New Zealand and, by way of sounder mission, to look into the workings of the very liberal government-controlled institutions of that country.

"What do people most need to bring greater contentment to this workaday world?" he was asked. A large question, but he smiled a ready answer:

"We must learn the three L's for life as we learned the three R's for school. Now mark you, the three L's are: Looking, Listening and Learning. If we look and listen we will learn and we will be happy. The trouble is that most people neither look nor listen. They think they look, but they do not see. They see only that which is to their selfish purpose. They do not see the buttercup by the road. And when they listen it is—sad to say—to their own voices. They do not hear the purling of the brook, nor the voice of wisdom. And so, they do not seem to learn.

"The city has all but forgotten nature."

"But this rushing, mad scramble cannot keep up in our cities?" interjected the interviewer.

"We cannot lecture nor censure. We can but pity. Already scientists are seeking to figure when, how and where the nerve tension will snap; how long it can last—all those problems. I am not predicting that all city nerves shall snap—but, if it does come to a question of survival we shall not need to worry. Out in the western country in the great outdoors are thousands of men living according to nature's simple laws. They will not crack under any strain."

Dr. Van Dyke has kept himself close to the outdoors and its people and thus finds himself hale, hearty and ready for knockabout life in the outdoors, despite his age.

His adventures in fishing would fill many volumes; his adventures in life have filled many volumes of philosophic writing, in addition to which he has been American minister to the Netherlands, held a lecturer's chair at Princeton and become a fellow of the Royal Society of Literature, Letters and Arts.

Drawing from his vast experiences he declares that the modern definition of pleasure must be changed.

"We have made pleasure mean satisfaction of physical senses and appetites," he points out.

Also he believes in the efficacy of prayer, declaring that "religion cannot possibly survive without it."

ACQUIRE HABIT OF HELPING COLLEGES

Send British Nabolis to the United States to This End.

LONDON, Mar. 4.—A splendid way to bring about a better understanding between the United States and England would be to send all the wealthy men of the British Isles to America for the purpose of acquiring the knack of making frequent and liberal donations to educational institutions, H. A. L. Fisher, member of Parliament, told members of the English Speaking Union at a luncheon recently at which he was the guest of honor.

Mr. Fisher, former president of the board of education, returned recently from a tour of the United States and Canada, during which he visited many of the principal colleges and universities. He spoke in particular of the "superb academic" buildings for the undergraduates at Yale, built by part of the Harkness endowment of $40,000,000, and said he wished these quarters could be seen by all persons here interested in education.

"I think it would be a capital idea if we could send all England's wealthy men to America to inspect the wonderful universities and to see what had been done with endowments from some of the American millionaires. If this were done, perhaps some of our rich men would acquire the habit of giving away vast sums to institutes of learning.

"There is not a college in the United States, or in Canada, which does not appear to have a well-trained retinue of millionaires on its staff. We, here, in England, have much to learn from American educationalists."

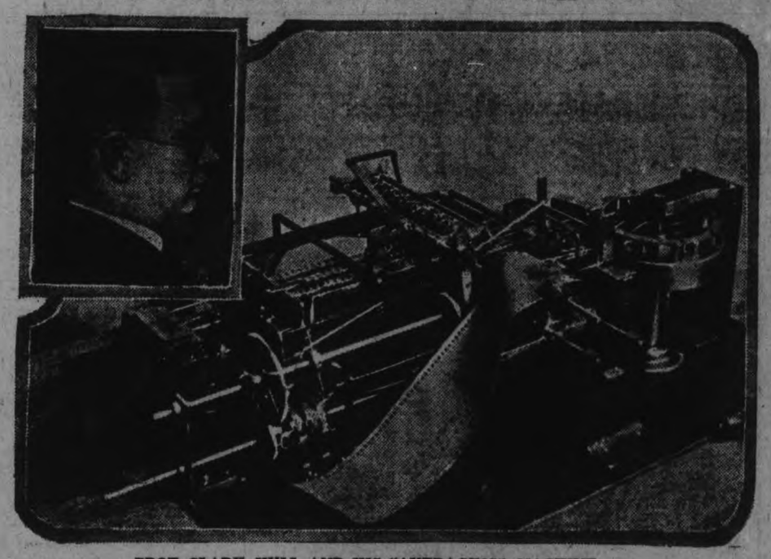
THIS MACHINE DOES YEAR'S WORK IN DAY



PROF. CLARK HULL AND HIS "AVERAGING" MACHINE.

MADISON, Wis., March 4.—Prof. Clark L. Hull of the University of Wisconsin has perfected a machine which in one day can do the work an expert mathematician might require a year to complete.

Prof. Hull is using it to determine vocations for students, by computing their efficiency through a series of intelligence tests, sometimes as high as forty.

Each test is given a certain rating as perfect. The size of the rating depends on the importance of the test.

These "perfect ratings" are perforated onto a strip of paper, which then is fed into the machine.

The grade of the student in each test is perforated in the same order on another slip, which is fed into the machine at the same time as the first.

Tiny metal "fingers" drop through the "perfect rating" on one slip, and the grade on the other slip, at the same time.

It is a matter of only a few minutes to take this figure and from it determine the student's exact rating.

For hundreds of tests, the machine works as quickly as it does for one.

The machine, which easily could be placed in an average sized cracker box, cost $2,500 to perfect. Prof. Hull has patented it.

Misery
Stopped Instantly
The Head is cleared

When the nose is clogged with cold or catarrh it means a local germ attack. The treatment should be local. Combat those germs, clear the nostrils, stop the cold.

The way is Ely's Cream Balm. Put a little in the nostrils and breathe it. Note how quickly fumes clear the head.

Then remember that. Next time use the Balm at the first sign of a cold. Don't let it get a start.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Quell the cold at once, end misery. Then keep it on hand to stop future colds at the start.

FOUND 10,000 BOMBS.

Vienna Paper Scares Its Readers With a Wild-Cat Story.

VIENNA, March 4 (Canadian Press).—A local paper learns that the inter-Allied Military Commission has discovered ten thousand bombs filled with asphyxiating gases in the Bluman powder works. Investigation, however, revealed that the bombs were the property of a private firm, and not of the Austrian Government.

Suffering From Rickets Living On Human Milk

REGINA, Sask., March 4 (Canadian Press.—Suffering from rickets and malnutrition, Olive, the 3-year-old daughter of a returned soldier of the Loverna district, is being kept alive by human milk. Her treatment and diet are costing $150 a month.

England Lost Cricket In Australia By 307 Runs

SYDNEY, N.S.W., March 4 (Canadian Press).—Once more an English criecket eleven has toured Autralia and met defeat. By 307 run England today lot the fifth and laht of the present test series of cricket matches to Australia, an inglorious finish compared with previous titanic struggles.

The first three matches were taken by Australia and the fourth by a big margin went to the touring M.C.C.

George H. Barr Appointed Dairy Commissioner for Ontario Province.

TORONTO, March 4.—(Canadian Press).—Formal announcement of the appointment of George H. Barr, as Dairy Commissioner for the Province of Ontario, will be made in a few days, W. B. Roadhouse, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, stated this morning.

The duties of the new commissioner will be the supervision of the dairy industry in the Province. This work was formerly part of that of the agricultural institute branch. Mr. Barr will have supervision of butter and cheese grading and will make suggestions as he sees fit for improvements in legislation and regulations for the betterment of the industry.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

OBJECTIONABLES AT DANCE.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Will you kindly find space to print the following account of what took place in Peterborough last Friday evening, and which should receive the publicity such a thing deserves, as it might prevent a repetition in the future.

A public dance was being held at a certain hall on the above-mentioned evening, and during that time a door leading to another part of the building, and which was locked, was burst open. Entrance having been obtained by such forcible means, corners of the building were made a convenience of, as well as a pail which the intruders found, and before leaving someone found personal relief by vomiting over the floor.

The next morning a disgusting sight met the gaze of several, who think the perpetrators should receive just punishment. The matter will not be allowed to drop.

COD LIVER OIL IN SUGAR COATED TABLETS FOR PUNY KIDS

Forget the nasty tasting, stomach upsetting cod liver oil and give the thin, puny, undeveloped children McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets if you want to give them a good appetite and put pounds of good, healthy flesh on their bones.

Doctors know all about them and so does Warne Drug Co., McDermid & Jury, James Lynch and all good pharmacists all over America, for they are in great demand, because they are not laggards but show results in a few days.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in seven months and is strong and healthy.

MORE BUILDING BEING PLANNED FOR YEAR 1925

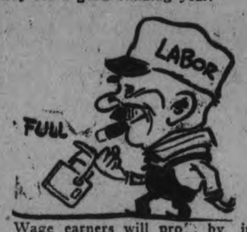
Optimism Is Based on Belief of Gradual Improvement.

NO BOOM.

Construction Work Started and Out For Tender Shows Trend.

The conservative optimism now apparent in most parts of the Dominion is not built on expectations of doom times in 1925. It is rather the belief than orderly and gradual improvement will be witnessed. New construction is likely to be undertaken in greater volume during the coming Spring than during the somewhat backward early month of 1924. In fact, an indication of this is given by the construction work already started and now out for tender. Dominion totals compared with last year show a decrease, but each Province an increase except Ontario and Alberta. The awarding of a $10,000,000 contract on the Welland Canal in February, 1924, accounts largely for the comparatively smaller total Ontario for the first two months of this year.

The fact that average material prices are lower at the present time than since 1915; that labor is increasingly efficient; that enormous sums of money have accumulated and are ready to go to work on legitimate undertakings makes a combination of conditions that pave the way for a good building year.



Wage earners will profit by increased building activity.

Construction in the power development field, pulp and paper industry, mining, highway building ant railway improvements will probably increase. Residential building should hold up fairly well. The demand for construction of commercial premises will continue in volume corresponding to the tendency of general business.

Total awards for Canadian construction for the month of February as compiled by MacLean Building Reports, Ltd., were $11,047,600 compared with $8,934,700 in January. Residental building accounted for 22.1 per cent of the February total amounting to $2,442,200. Business, building amounted to $3,771,200 or 34.1 per cent; Industrial building $3,608,600 or 32.7 per cent; and Public Works and Utilities $1,225,600 or 11.1 per cent. The activity was distributed among the Provinces as follows: Ontario 31 per cent; Quebec 43.4 per cent; British Columbia, 12.9 per cent Prairie Provinces, 5.9 per cent; and the February aggregated $33,771,800.

REBEKAH LODGE MET.

Big Musical Programme Delighted Hundred and Fifty in Audience.

The regular meeting of Golden Link Rebekah Lodge was held last night, followed by a social evening attended by nearly one hundred and fifty people, at which a very pleasant musical programme was given, and dancing and light refreshments enjoyed later.

The musical programme included a pianoforte duet by the Misses Amy Fairbrother and Greta Welbourn, violin numbers by Miss Winnie Evans and Mr. Albert Wright, vocal solos by Mrs. Ross Williamson, the Misses Florence Saunders and Ethel Kennedy, and a piano selection by Miss Mary Wood.

Prize for cards were won by Mrs. H. Wilson and Mr. Earl Francis. Music for dancing was supplied by a five-piece orchestra, consisting of a piano, played by Miss Nellie Black; traps, played by Wilson Dunlop; saxaphones, played by D. Carter and B. Bugg, and a violin, played by Albert Wright.

Mrs. H. Turner was convenor of the refreshment committee, and the programme was in charge of Mrs. Hotson, Miss Rita Head and Miss L. Fisher.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered all those taking part in the evening's entertainment.

ART STUDY CLUB HELD A MEETING

A meeting of the Art Study Club was held last evening at the home of Mrs. R. Gliddon, when interesting papers were given by Mrs. H. E. Connolly and Miss E. Anderson Anderson, the former speaking of Tapestries and the latter of The Framing and Hanging of Pictures. Both papers were comprehensive and instructive, and were listened to with keen attention by the ladies present.

Mrs. Connolly referred to the art of tapestry weaving as being one of the oldest known forms of decorative painting, which was in existence during the third and fourth centuries before Christ. The same methods as were used then, in the high and low warp looms, are in use today. Raphael, who in his day painted many of the cartoons from which the tapestry weavers drew their inspirations, preferred the high warp loom. For this, the design was traced on paper with India ink, and the pattern was used in a vertical position, with the weaver looking at it from the side. With the low warp loom, the design was placed underneath, the weavers watching it constantly as he wove with his bobbins.

The Greeks of the third and fourth centuries wove tapestries in the same fashion as those of to-day, and ancient pieces of such work have been found in Borneo, Central Asia Persia, Thibet and by the Red Indians of the North American continent.

Tapestry weavers of all times have copied Raphael's series of the Acts of the Apostles, painted by him for the reigning Pope of his time. In France, LeBrun and Boucher and Botticelli painted for the tapestry weavers of their land. Notable centers of the art in England were Windsor and Merton. Arras in the fourteenth century was celebrated for its tapestries, and Middleburg and Delft in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries and Paris in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries In the seventeenth century, the English factory at Mortlak was founded, and has continued in existence. There is also one tapestry manufactory in the United States.

Mrs. Connolly alluded to the beautiful collection of tapestries purchased by Mr. Pierpont Morgan and bestowed on the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

The paper by Miss E. Anderson, on the Framing and Hanging of pictures, dealt in entertaining fashion with a subject of interest to every homemaker. Miss Anderson spoke of the wide choice of pictures which is afforded the average purchaser, of the copies of old masters and steel engravings which may be obtained and of the careful selection which should be made of pictures for the home, that they may be appropriate to the room and surroundings in which they appear.

Framing of pictures is an important item. Careful attention should be paid the frame, that it may be suitable to the picture. Much less gold in frames is used than was formerly the case, the duller type of frame being more appropriate for any picture, as it fills to better advantage the role of a frame, that of being a necessary portion of any picture, being appropriate and yet inconspicuous enough to attract the main attention to the picture itself, instead of to its frame.

The next meeting of the Art Study club will be held on March 31st at the home of Mrs. E. W. Borbridge, when Mrs. L. J. Pettit will give a paper on Watts..

PEASANTS' PLIGHT ON ACHILL ISLAND

Dry Bread and Tea the Daily Diet of Scores of Families

'FLU RAVAGES

Nine-tenths of People Get No Milk—Black Hovels

Achill Island, lying off this coast and linked to it by a railway bridge, is one of the show places of Western Ireland.

Tourists come to it. It has a scenic panorama of mountain and cliff. It is warmed by the Gulf Stream and the tonic, yet soft, sweet western winds are borne to it over the Atlantic.

Achill Island, in these winter days, is not a show place for tourists, but a microcosm of Western Ireland's poverty and want. True, I have not seen here such black hovels as those of Connemara.

But on Achill Island I have found all the other elements of a miserable situation. Here, too, there is not famine, if by famine is meant people dying from hunger. But there, too, there is semi-starvation, writes an Irish correspondent to the Daily Chronicle.

Dry bread and tea is the daily dietary of scores of families—families of six, ten, and sometimes even twelve or thirteen children. The majority of these families own a cow, but even the cows of Western Ireland live, so to speak, below the poverty line.

"One goat anywhere else is worth five cows on Achill Island," said one of my informants, and not many of the miserable beasts I saw prompted me to think he was exaggerating.

However, that may be, here is a fact for which I have the authority of the parish priest—not more than one-tenth of these islanders, including, of course, the children, are getting a drop of milk.

There is much sickness in the island—a sort of mild, wasting fever. This sickness is called influenza, but the father I have quoted told me, and I believe he is right, that it is really the result of the symptoms at the same time of this unvaried dietary of dry bread and potatoes that were ruined by the rain before their nutritious qualities had developed, washed down with black tea.

I have said that the cabins of Achill are not so bad as the black hovels of Connemara. But many of them are far below any European standard. Many of the peasants of Western Ireland live under the same roof with the livestock — in the same earth-floored stonewalled enclosure.

"To them this is a matter of course, but my first impression when I entered one was that I had come not into a dwelling-place of human beings, but into a combined stable and cow-shed.

"I found a widow, six children, a calf, cats and fowls herded together in a cabin about 12 ft. long and 6 ft. wide."

Keel, an island township, has been rebuilt, and now consists of excellent modern cottages. Here was something I had not seen in Connemara or Donegal, and my heart rejoiced.

But I stopped and asked myself whether, after all, it was worth while. I put the question to my guide, a man whose life is devoted to the islanders.

He admitted at once that it was not. Rehousing the peasants of Achill is only perpetuating a chronic problem of poverty. Here is the economic situation:—

There are between 7,000 and 8,000 men, women and children on this barren island. The total produce of their land and their live stock will not provide food enough for two months in the year. There are practically no means of employment on the island, and its population survives because all of them who can do so go to Scotland and England at certain times of the year in search of work.

The women go to Scotland at the potato-digging season, as also the children. Boys and girls of from 12 to 14 years of age are among these periodical migrants, and some of these children return and die prematurely from the exposure and the work in conditions and circumstances whose horrors and degradation are so poignantly described by Patrick McGill in "The Ratpit."

The problem of Achill Island is the problem, roughly speaking, of all the congested districts of the Irish West-ern seaboard. It is the unsolvable problem of a peasantry settled on land of such an unsuitable character for agriculture that the task of cultivating it is like trying to make bricks without straw.

DICKENS MUSEUM FOR LONDON, IS PLAN

Fellowship Will Turn Old Home Into Library for Admirers

Within a stone's throw of the Foundling Hospital, at 48 Doughty street, is a house which will always be memorable to lovers of Dickens.

There he wrote "Pickwick," "Nicholas Nickleby," and "Oliver Twist," and it was associated with his early married life.

His daughter Mamie and his surviving daughter, Mrs. Perugini, were born here, and Mrs. Hogarth, Mrs. Dicken's young sister, died in the house in 1837—a blow which held up the writing of "Pickwick" for two months.

It is proposed by the Dickens Fellowship, of 14 Clifford's Inn, E. C., to turn the building into a library, picture gallery, a museum, and a meeting place for lovers of Dickens.

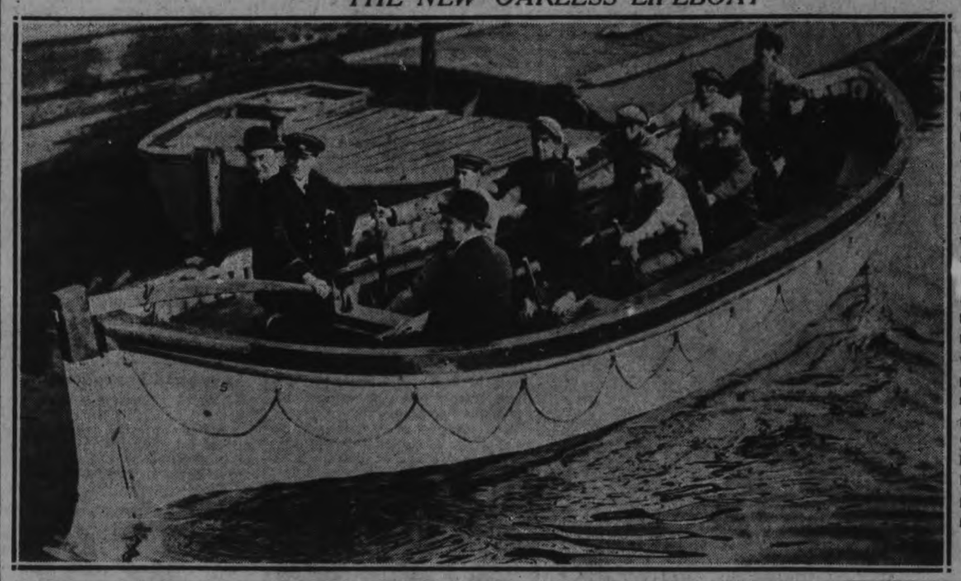
70 different editions of Dickens, 113 different editions of Christmas books, 50 books devoted to the study of Pickwick, 30 books discussing Edwin Drood, 40 different biographies, 387 portraits of Dickens, 1,320 pictorial postcards, china figures of characters from Dickens, cups, saucers, tea and biscuit canisters, mugs, souvenirs, cigar boxes, tobacco tins, match boxes and a sardine tin, bearing either scenes or characters from Dickens.

The Dickens Fellowship is appealing for £10,000.

THE NEW OARLESS LIFEBOAT



Instead of oars, this life-boat is propelled by a screw, worked by hand-levers fitted at the thwarts. The advantages are that the boat can be got away from the ship's side immediately, and also that only one trained seaman need be in charge of the boat, no experience being necessary to work the levers. The picture shows a demonstration being given in the King George V. dock in London. The British Board of Trade approved of the new patent.

Leap Castle Owner Gets £12,000 Award For Burning in 1922

Compensation amounting to £12,000 has been awarded to Mr. Jonathan Darby for the burning by Irish rebels in July 1922 of Leap Castle, Roscrea, Tipperary.

The history of the fortress dates back over 900 years. It originally belonged to the Irish chieftain Ely O'Carroll, and passed by marriage to the Darby family, during whose time it was besieged by Cromwell.

Mr. Darby told the judge yesterday that in 1890 he refused an American offer of £20,000 for the castle.

He did not now propose to rebuild it, and would spend part of the compensation in erecting farmhouses.

He had intended to end his days at Leap Castle, he said, but he was now "a pauper, driven out of house and home and sent on the roadside."

"BIG BEN" AGAIN RUNNING SLOW

Famous National Timepiece, Affected by Dirt Deposits, Out of Sorts

CAUSES STIR

Efforts of West Clockmakers in London of No Avail

"Big Ben," the great timepiece over the British Houses of Parliament, and one of the world's most famous striking clocks, is apparently getting thoroughly "fed up" with the British climate, or the radio broadcasting system, according to some apologists.

At any rate he has marred an honorable record covering many years, by extraordinary vagaries—and vagaries from "Big Ben" are something approaching a national calamity from the viewpoint of all good Britishers.

Millions of Britishers, and foreign visitors, daily adjust their watches by "Big Ben" when in the neighborhood of Westminster, under the fond delusion that this clock alone in London registers correct Greenwich time, and when the broadcasting habit became general it was natural that "Greenwich time" as supplied at intervals by the radio corporations, should be given by the chimes of "Big Ben."

"GOING SLOW" CAUSES STIR.

Last June, while the steeplejacks were washing "Big Ben's" face, the great clock went on strike and stopped twice within a week, but his recent vagaries during the succession of extra super-London fogs have caused near consternation. The other day he started a "go-slow" strike on the "ca' canny" principle advocated by Scotch labor extremists.

When he was detected as being fifteen minutes slow in one day serious measures had to be adopted. The efforts of the best clockmakers in London, however, only persuaded Ben to try for speed records—so much so that the great minute hand swung around the clock face at the rate of one hour every three minutes. Vast crowds gathered in Westminster to watch the phenomenon, and a Bolshevist rising in Pall Mall with an advance on Buckingham Palace would not have caused so much concern.

"There is really nothing wrong with him," is the verdict of the clockmakers, "but the recent fogs have deposited so much dirt on the outer clock works that he could not keep going. We are going to give him some more protection against the elements."

NAMED FOR IT'S BELL.

"Big Ben," who really takes his name from the great bell which chimes the hours, is so much of an historical landmark, that any funny tricks by the timepiece are a topic for discussion the British Empire over.

The Londoner automatically sets his watch by "Big Ben" and unhesitatingly accepts the clock's statements regarding the hour of day or night as Gospel. It is even recorded that once, long ago, when "Big Ben" chimed thirteen instead of 1 a.m., a sentry on duty at Buckingham Palace, who was charged with deserting his post, was unhesitatingly acquitted by a court martial, on quoting positively this fact, which was easily corroborated by hundreds of thousands or record keeps, official and unofficial. The "missing" sentry had distinctly heard "Big Ben" strike thirteen, so, according to the judges, he could not have been far away.

HUGE PROFITS IN TOBACCO INDUSTRY

Over £6,000,000 Paid in Dividends to Lucky Shareholders

The immense profit of £8,365,168 was earned by the Imperial Tobacco Co. (of Great Britain and Ireland) during the past year.

This is disclosed in the annual accounts just issued. It is nearly £1,000,000 in excess of the net income for the previous 12 months.

Each year for a long period the profits of the combine have grown at a rapid rate, and high dividends and valuable share bonuses have been received by the fortunate shareholders. This is the record of net trading profit for the last four years:—

1922	£7,194,557
1924	£8,365,168

The dividend on the ordinary shares for 1924 amounts to 22½ per cent., which contrasts with 20 per cent. for 1923; but the actual payment is larger, because the capital was increased in the latter year by a free share bonus equal to 33 1-3 per cent.

The actual sum distributed among the ordinary shareholders is increased by £748,791, to £6,739,131. Previous capital bonuses have consisted of payments of 100 per cent. and 50 per cent., and the issued ordinary capital on which the present rate of dividend is provided is approximately £30,000,000.

In addition to the dividend payments very large sums have been placed to reserves, which now total £5,500,000 after providing for the special distributions.

NORFOLK RECTOR IN RATE DISPUTE

Expected Arrest at Funeral Service Did Not Take Place

Rev. Harold F. Davidson, rector of Stiffkey, Norfolk, who appealed in vain to a London magistrate to accept sureties that would save him from arrest for non-payment of rates, conducted a funeral service at Stiffkey the same day.

It was expected that Mr. Davidson would be arrested at the church door, and a large number of people assembled in the churchyard, but no police appeared. Arrangements had been made for another clergyman to conduct the service in case Mr. Davidson failed to appear.

"I was advised not to come today," said Mr. Davidson after the ceremony, "and even to go abroad until my appeal to the High Court comes on; but I refused, deciding to face whatever might happen. I do not believe, however, that the authorities have any power to arrest me."

Mr. Davidson kept his robes on during the interview, being of opinion that he would not be arrested while he wore them.

Up to the present no attempt has been made to arrest the rector.

Mr. Davidson's solicitor stated at Bow Street on Tuesday that the Wells, Norfolk, justices had fixed the auretics at two in £100 each, but that owing to certain prejudices Mr. Davidson was unable to obtain sureties locally. He was, however, prepared to offer two sureties in London. The amount of rates claimed is £39 11s.

ENGINE IN LONDON 120 YEARS IN USE

Believed to be the oldest piece of machinery in London still regularly working, a beam engine at King's Cross L. and N. E. Railway Station is on the verge of, or has just attained, its 120th birthday.

"Her action has been much admired by modern engineers," an official told a reporter. "The company bought her second-hand from a wood sawyer in 1850 for £500, and since then she has always kept up at least a 48-hours week. She is a perfect marvel."

COLLECTION FOR ST. PAUL'S IN 1634

Old account books of Great Bookham, Surrey, Parish Church reveal that a collection made in 1634 for the restoration of Old St. Paul's Cathedral amounted to 7s 8d.

Last Sunday the collections in the same church were for the present St. Paul's fund, and a total of £12 4s. 10d. was obtained.

"Old St. Paul's" was destroyed in 1666.

Richard White, organist of Penzance Wesleyan Church for 57 years, has retired.

Workman's 990 Gold Coins Accumulated By Three Generations

A laborer walking into a Blackburn band deposited on the counter nine hundred and ninety sovereigns of pre-Victorian gold.

This hoard, accumulated by the man's family for three generations, was terribly dirty, and the coins, which dated back to the early Georges, had to be forced asunder with knives.

"It cost the man over £4 for light weight, not to mention enormous loss of interest," said a local banker, who related the story in a speech at Blackburn.

SCANDAL PEN IS STILL AT WORK

Miss Thurburn Driven from England by Anonymous Letters

UNSAFE IN LONDON

Pestered by Fiends, Mother and Daughter Flee Country

Life in England has been made impossible for Miss Dorothy Myrtle Thurburn, the young woman who was tried three times at the Norfolk Assizes on a charge of circulating anonymous libel letters and postcards in Sheringham.

She and her mother have decided to leave the country. Anonymous letters have followed them since the third trial in October, when Miss Thurburn was found not guilty and acquitted. The juries disagreed at the two previous trials.

The letters, grotesque, obscene, and often meaningless, pestered Miss Thurburn at Eastbourne, where she went after the trial, and more recently they have been received at an address in London where she and her mother were staying with friends.

"We cannot stand it any longer," said Mrs. Thurburn to a press representative. "We must hide ourselves somewhere where there is no possibility of the anonymous letter-writer finding us. We mean to go out of England, but we have not yet decided where. No one will know where we shall be. We have written to our friends telling them there is nothing left for us but to cut ourselves off from everyone.

"What I do feel is that the police should have made some real effort to find the culprit. Our home was broken up at Sheringham by the letters and the prosecution. We were driven out of Eastbourne, and now we cannot stay in London, for the anonymous writer has discovered our address in some way.

"We mean to go where there can be no such discovery. Perhaps in years to come we may return, trusting to be left in peace."

BOBBING HER HAIR LED TO SUICIDE

"After having her hair bobbed she complained continually that she did not like it," said Robert Parkinson at the inquest on his sweetheart, Isobel Marginson, aged twenty-two years, of Preston, whose body was found in the Preston Kendal Canal.

Mr. Parkinson added that the loss of her hair when she was bobbed three weeks ago "seemed to have preyed on her mind."

Other witnesses said that Miss Marginson thought people were laughing at her bobbed hair.

A verdict of "Suicide while of unsound mind" was returned.

BATHING TO MUSIC ON MARGATE SANDS

One of the chief attractions of Margate during the coming season will be the new bathing establishment being built by the corporation at a cost of nearly £30,000, which it is expected will be opened in July, on the sands in front of the promenade.

At each of the Margate bathing stations municipal orchestras will play for the benefit of those on the beach during the morning hours.

SOME MEN WORK FOR NOVELTY'S SAKE

"Workmen get tired. They know they have the dole as a reserve. They just come to work for a day or two as a novelty."

A foreman made this statement to Judge Scully during the hearing of a workmen's compensation case at Marylebone County Court.

He said he could take about half-a-dozen workmen for clay-digging and concrete work.

In moving that stonemasons' names should not be permitted on memorials in the cemetery, Councillor Beard, Ashford, Middlesex, said it turned the cemetery into an advertising agency.

MAKES THE MOVIES MUCH MORE REAL

Young Leicester Chemist Has Stereoscopic Device to Give Effect

A young Leicester chemist, who refuses to allow his name to be published, has invented, after three years of experiment, a stereoscopic film device which may turn out to be the process for which the whole cinema world is waiting, says a report in the London Daily Express.

His resources are modest, and the first fifty feet of film, taken with home-made apparatus, is photographically crude, but it clearly demonstrates an advance on all previous efforts in direct stereoscopy.

The scene is an ordinary back garden, and the two women who stroll down the path have a distinct appearance of solidity and roundness, technical terms that contain no unflattering allusions!

All the objects stand clear away from their surroundings, especially a large vase on a table, and the whole scene has depth. Those who attended a private demonstration of the film in London this week were impressed by the possibilities of the invention, the secret of which is rigidly guarded, though it is understood that a process of double exposure, calling for considerable technical skill, is involved.

The device does not call for any alteration in existing film stock and projectors, only for a mechanical alteration in the photographic camera. A full test of the invention is to be made, with a better camera, under proper conditions.

The stereoscopic film will revolutionize cinematography, because it will create the absolute illusion of actual life. Mr. G. K. Spoor, the cinema pioneer, also has a practical stereoscopic invention which is about to be demonstrated in America.

Mr. Spoor's process calls for a complete revision of cinematography, as the film that he uses is twice the size of ordinary film, being intended, when projected, to fill the entire proscenium opening, which averages forty feet in width.

Meanwhile, credit for being first in the field must be given to the young Leicester chemist.

MORE MONEY FOR WEMBLEY PAGEANT

Additional Demands on British Taxpayers—Appropriations Exceeded

Wembley makes an additional demand of £158,0000 on the taxpayer, according to the supplementary estimates issued.

The original estimate of £59,500 for the British Government exhibit has been revised to £133,000, while the special displays at last year's Exhibition, set down at £85,310, are now placed at £168,810.

For the coming Exhibition £15,000 has been estimated for the Government exhibit, and £3,000 for displays. A total increase of £173,000 is reduced to £158,000 by appropriations in aid.

Of the additional payments last year, £26,000 spent on the pavilion was partly absorbed by provision for the Royal apartments, and £4,000 was spent owing to the postponement of the closing date.

Massed band concerts cost an additional £7,900, and £63,000 is required to meet the cost of the Pageant of Empire, in spite of £30,000 contributed from private sources towards the loss. This is explained by higher costs of costumes and properties and the inclement weather.

A third week's display of the torchlight tattoo involved an additional cost of £10,000.

The receipts were:—

Government exhibit	£17,600
Massed band concerts	£9,400
Pageant of Empire	£15,510
Torchlight tattoo	£29,600

Total estimated expenditure on the Government exhibit during the coming Exhibition is £65,000, while £100,000 is provisionally estimated for displays.

ANTHRAX CASE IN ENGLISH HOSPITAL

A Birmingham girl brush worker, Maud May Griffiths, who died in hospital after an operation to remove a chest ulcer, was discovered to have contracted anthrax septicaixia. Dr. Adams thought it possible for an anthrax spore to infect the system without the skin being broken. It was the first case in 20 years experienced by the girl's employers.

CARLISLE WOMAN CLAIMS FORTUNE

Millions of Pounds are Involved in Jermy Estate

WIFE OF FITTER

Traced Old Bible With Records as Result of Dream

A claim to a huge fortune, amounting to between £7,000,000 and £10,000,000, is being made by a Cumberland woman, Mrs. Lilian Kirtlan, wife of Arthur Kirtlan, a railway fitter, living at Wetheral, near Carlisle.

Mrs. Kirtlan claims to be a descendant of Sir John Jermy, who was Governor of Sierra Leone in 1840 and 1841. Prior to that he held the office of Public Prosecutor at Mauritius, and was also a judge at Ceylon. He had an eventful career, and amassed great wealth, dying at Sierra Leone in April, 1841. The Jermy's are of Huguenot descent, and are stated to have settled in Carmarthenshire, where they carried on business as millers at Laugharne.

Mrs. Kirtlan was reticent about the matter, but she stated that the Jermy family, several of whom amassed great wealth, were representatives of an old Huguenot stock who came to this country during the French wars. They were apparently people of some substance, and Sir John Jermy, a former Governor of Sierra Leone, from whom Mrs. Kirtlan claims to be descended by his first marriage, inherited considerable wealth from earlier members of the family.

A dream, Mrs. Kirtlan asserts, has been of material interest to her in tracing an old Bible which contains an important record of births and deaths and helps to complete the story of the family history, a difficult task in view of the numerous intermarriages that have taken place. This dream enabled her to get into touch with a descendant of Sir John Jermy's second marriage, who lived in Carmarthenshire, where the family first settled, and in whose possession the Bible was found.

Mrs. Kirtlan herself has been at the offices of the Treasury Solicitor, and has also interviewed Chancery officials on the matter. She told me that at the offices of the Treasury Solicitor she was asked why she had been such a long time in taking the matter up. It was from the Chancery officials, Mrs. Kirtlan adds, that she ascertained the value of the money and estates.

VICAR HAULS FLOCK TO SUNDAY SERVICE

British Pastor's Hired Motor Car Causes Church to Fill

If you live in the parish of Besthorpe, Norfolk, bad weather is no excuse for missing church Sundays. The vicar, the Rev. F. W. Emms, is nothing if not up-to-date, and if his congregation does not come to him he goes and fetches them — in a large motor touring-party car (called a "charaban" here).

The little 13th Century church of Besthorpe stands on ableak hilltop, and the lanes leading to it, in winter time, are generally ankle-deep in mud, proving a severe test of faith and enthusiasm for attending church. Also th parish is scattered over several miles of country and many of the parishioners have to make quite a journey to reach the church.

Finding the congregation falling-off, the Rev. Mr. Emms adopted heroic measures. He hired the big motor-car and proceeded to call on his parishioners an hour before service. At first he took anybody, but later, seeing their vicar meant having them, the healthy members of the congregation came on their own, and the motor-car is now used for fetching the aged and infirm. As many as two dozen male worshippers, with womenfolk, are brought up every Sunday, in unfavorable weather, and duly returned home at the close of the service.

The energetic vicar proposes continuing the motor service for the infirm during the summer, saying, "It is only fair to give them a chance of coming in comfort. They lead hard lives in the fields, and in their cottages, and we cannot expect them to walk long distances to church on Sunday."

Doctor Cut Finger Giving Anaesthetic; Died from Poisoning

While giving an anaesthetic to a woman who was undergoing an operation in St. Stephen's Hospital, Fulham Road, Dr. Llewellyn cut his finger on her tooth. He afterwards died from the effect of the wound.

Dr. Sandilands stated at the inquest that the patient's mouth was septic, but Dr. Llewellyn continued to administer the anaesthetic until the operation was finished two hours later. Afterwards blood-poisoning spread, and blood transfusion was tried, a member of the medical staff volunteering, but death supervened. Dr. Llewellyn was a martyr to his duty.

A verdict of accidental death was returned.

MERCHANT BANKERS' $10,000,000 SMASH

The public examination of Messrs. R. G. H. Boulton, G. A. Moncrieff, W. W. Boulton, A. J. C. Browne and Lieutenant-Colonel the Hon. F. H. Cripps, who traded as merchant bankers at Old Broad street as Boulton Brothers and Company was adjourned at the London Bankruptcy Court until May 21.

The Official Receiver stated that the case was heavy and involved.

"The joint statement of affairs shows unsecured liabilities of $10,000,000. Considerable investigation will be necessary before the examination can proceed."

Lady Agnes Peel has been appointed County Commissioner for Essex Girl Guides, in place of Miss Baden-Powell, resigned.

Free State Debt to Be Cut to £13,000,000 During Present Year

President Cosgrave, at a meeting in Cavan, said that during the last few months a new order of people had arisen on the political horizon, comprising certain English newspapers, the leader of a late political party in Ireland, and the leader of a still later party.

"They are full of pessimism," he stated, "and believe that Ireland is approaching bankruptcy. None of them see any hope for the future.

"One need only take stock of the country to see that there is no foundation for that pessimism.

"The wish is sometimes father to the thought, and probably the pessimists would like to see the country bankrupt. I can tell you that by the end of 1925 the country's indebtedness will not be more than £13,000,000."

WORKMAN'S ART GIFT TO NATION

Picture Taken from Rubbish Heap Finds Way to British Museum

LIFE'S HOBBY

Mender of Perambulators in London Has Profitable Side-line

W. Rodgie, a perambulator mender, who lives at Kentish Town, N., was rummaging among odds and ends on a hawker's barrow at Chalk Farm, N., some time ago, when he came on a bundle of pictures, which he bought for about two shillings.

This cheap and not very promising bundle contained two pictures which are now in the British Museum. One was a red and white chalk drawing of a fiddler, by Antoine Watteau; and has since been valued at £100; the other is a boy's head by Boucher.

Mr. Rodgie presented the first to the British Museum as a gift, and the second was bought from him by the Museum authorities at a much greater price than he gave for it.

Mr. Rodgie related the story of his find to a reporter. "I have worked at my trade ever since I was a boy," he said, "and have not had many shillings to spare.

"On more than one occasion I have sent prints and pictures to the British Museum. Some of them have been worthless, and the keeper of the print department has told me so.

"After my first success, however, I was inspired to continue my collecting in a small way. I have come upon other things of interest, which I have sent to other art galleries and museums." He displayed a letter from the Bodleian Library accepting an engraved print of Descartes, and letters from other important art institutions.

"I am making a specialty of collecting Baxter color prints at present, and have a good assortment. Some I have sold at a slight profit; others I am keeping.

"Half an hour in the evenings and Saturday afternoons are all the time that I can give to my collecting. It is my ambition, however, when I can no longer work at my trade, to have a little shop and make my hobby support me."

ECCENTRIC MAN READS IN STREET

An order to enter the house in Hove of a man of 74, whose hobbies include the study, in the street, Greek Mythology and Roman Law, was made by the bench on the application of the Town Clerk under the Public Health Act.

A witness said that the house, the owner of which is Mr. Nugent Tyrrell Maxwell, was dilapidated. Mr. Maxwell did not oppose the application, saying he would be pleased to admit the medical officer.

Mr. Maxwell, who has lived in Hove since 1859, generally carries two or three books wherever he goes, and often stands reading at street corners. He says that he does this because he does not care to read by artificial light.

MOTORIST TO PAY STIFF DAMAGES

As a sequel to a collision in a snowstorm, Mark Moses Otto Hall, a farmer and horse slaughterer's agent, of Stoke Ferry, was awarded £2,700 damages at Norfolk Assizes against Charles Hewitt Tuck, a corn merchant of Gooderstone.

Mr. Hall, who had been carried into court, was driving a pony and cart during snow in November, 1923, when Mr. Tuck's motor car ran into him. The cart was overturned, and Mr. Hall suffered injuries to his back which will permanently prevent him from walking.

ORDER GIVEN FOR HUSBAND'S EXILE

On the ground of cruelty Mrs. Longthorp, of the Devon Arms Hotel, was at Teignmouth (Devon) granted a separation order against her husband.

She stated that she was the tenant of the hotel and her husband the licensee.

It was agreed that Longthorp should leave the Devon Arms in two days, and clear out of Teignmouth as soon as possible.

A licensing protection order was granted to the wife to carry on the hotel.

VIOLENCE AT FIVE ALLEGED IN COURT

A woman complained at Willesden Police Court that her daughter, a domestic servant, had been injured by the five-year-old son of her employer. The boy was unwilling to go to school, and when her daughter was instructed to take him by force the boy attacked her and dislocated her thumb.

The magistrate referred the woman to the county court for possible damages.

"MAGIC BOX" USED IN CASES OF "T.B."

CURATIVE EFFECT

Says Abrams by Luck Stumbled on An Important Principle

Interesting information as to the process and results of the Abrams treatment of disease by so-called electronic re-action are contained in a book recently published by Dr. G. Laughton Scott, a Harley street physician and surgeon.

Although Dr. Scott confined himself to an examination of the curative effects of the oscilloclast, or so-called "magic box" of Abrams, the conclusions which he reaches are that, while the mechanism and mystery of the "magic box" are intended to deceive, Abrams did in fact by luck stumble on a principle which is of remarkable potency in the restoration of health.

Indeed, the author says:

After a year's work the writer is unable to avoid the conclusion that the instrument exercises in favorable cases an exceedingly powerful influence on general health, which in the treatment of particular diseases may be, and frequently has been, very useful.

Particulars are given of cases in which the treatment was applied with distinctly curative results, which on the whole have been maintained up to the time of publication. They include cases of tuberculosis, arthritis and chronic local infections.

The author concludes that while the "magic box" does not contain, as its exponents claim, any special rays which search out and destroy particular diseases, the effect of the treatment is to promote a condition of improved bodily health which enables the body itself to combat the effect of the disease or of the poison disseminated through the system by the disease.

In the author's opinion the Abrams treatment will not destroy malignant bowy growths such as cancer, though it enables the patient to offer a better resistance to their effects.

The most important fact in the book is an announcement, made on the authority of Messrs. A. S. E. Ackermann and W. Clark, two scientists, after an exhaustive series of tests, that the "magic box" does in fact produce demonstrable and measurable electrical effects. A patient under treatment receives from it an alternating electric current, interrupted about 200 times a minute.

Dr. Scott concludes that it is this current that produces the results which he describes. An instrument designed to produce such an alternating current has been made. Its effects are to be tested to see whether they are similar to those observed by Dr. Scott in cases under the Abrams treatment.

HERMIT SCIENTIST DEAD IN TORQUAY

Pioneer of Wireless, Dr. Heaviside, Was Extremely Reticent Man

Dr. Oliver Heaviside, the eminent scientist, and one of the pioneers of wireless telegraphy, who died recently, lived for many years at Torquay as a recluse.

He occupied a large house in the fashionable Warberry district, but so intent was he upon his studies in electricity that his grounds became a wilderness, and the outside of his residence had a neglected appearance.

Except for his actual relatives, his greatest friend was a local policeman, who used to do his errands for him, and to whom he frequently wrote long letters referring to his discoveries.

It was on very rare occasions that anyone entered the house, and most of the scientist's household necessities were passed through a large letter box in the main entrance.

So bound up was he with his work that the tax and rate collectors found him a rather difficult case. In fact, it was necessary on one occasion for the overseers to take legal proceedings. Not that Dr. Heaviside was in real need of money, but rather that he could not be worried with such matters.

Dr. Heaviside was offered a knighthood by Queen Victoria for his discoveries, but the honor was declined.

HOME OF CHARLES LAMB FOR SALE

Charles Lamb's cottage at Edmonton, where he spent his last days, is being offered for sale.

Lamb was born a century and a half ago, on February 10, at Crown Office Court, Inner Temple; and from an office near by a wreath is being sent, by loyal Lambites, to the grave, at Edmonton, which Lamb himself chose two weeks before the end.

TOWN INOCULATED AGAINST PLAGUE

Owing to an outbreak of bubonic plague at St. Malo, the steamer Saint-Brieuc, which plies regularly between Jersey and the French port, was not allowed to berth at St. Helier. All ports except St. Helier are closed to vessels from France.

The plague is supposed to have been brought to St. Malo by a steamer from Algiers. It is reported that up to Friday twelve deaths had been recorded and that the inoculation of all residents of St. Malo has been ordered.

WILL OF GEORGE ELIOT'S HUSBAND

John Walter Cross, of Chester Square, S.W., and Tunbridge Wells, the husband of George Eliot, who died in November last, aged 84, left £56,956. Bequests include:—

PETERBORO - AURA LEE TEAM LOST EXHIBITION GAME TO LONDON 5-0

London Grabbed Three Goals in First Period, But Were Held to One in Each of the Other Sessions—Visitors Didn't Make Strong Impression.

NOTHING AT STAKE IN ENCOUNTER.

(Special to The Examiner)

LONDON, March 4.—London "75's" defeated a mixture of the Peterboro and Aura Lee teams here last night, 5 to 0. The Londoners were all switched around as well; Lederman, of the New Hamburg Intermediates defence, nabbing one goal, and Follis, Welland centre man, beating Dwyer for another. Fillmere, a junior, was used.

London fans after last night's game dubbed the "75'" the "before and afters," as they returned to the form they displayed before the O.H.. season opened, when they looked like Allan Cup defenders in a string of exhibition games.

The blended team for the East did not get going good until the second and third periods, where they held all the cobinations London could throw over the boards, to a counter in each canto, but at their best and taking all the circumstances into consideration, local fans could not see the visitors within two goals of at least three teams in the Big Six over a route of any number of games.

Dwyer Provided Thrills.

Dwyer, the chatty goal guardian's cool net nursing, gave the fans all the thrills they got. The Easterners checked back fairly well, but time after time, Bellefeuille, playing one of his fairy good games, Starkings and Leamy broke through a lone and in combinations right in past the defence, only to have Dwyer talk them out of it or out-guess them. Cain, the Aura Lee defence man, was good defensively and a constant threat, but otherwise Smith, substitute goalie of the London team, handled few shots that jolted. The Pete forward line showed flashes of good attacking knowledge, but their shooting was weak and inaccurate as compared to the terrific drives that whipped across Dwyer's bows and nearly jolted the words back down his throat.

Dwyer was all of it for the first 12 minutes. Bellefeuille ripped some smoking drives at him, one of which almost tore the goal posts from its foot of ice socket, and he outguessed Starkings twice, as the London defence man ghosted his way right in on top of the red head's toes. Follis broke the Dwyer charm when he went down with Leamy and Bellefeuille and with a faked pass, sifted through the defence to beat the goalie with a round-arm shot. Lederman grabbed the puck almost from the face-off and repeated, going through the gates ajar defence to lift the puck past Dwyer. At 18 minute, Bellefeuille took a two-foot pass from Lowrey inside the defence, feinted two shots and finally beat Dwyer to it.

Finish Was Close.

The Petes gave more trouble in the second. The front line worked better and got through several times. J. Bond was effective and led several dangerous sorties, but Smith, London's sub goalie, was hung with icicles. It was fairly even until 14 minutes, when Lowrey circled behind the nets. As Dwyer went to pick his drifting shot out of the air, he missed it cleanly though he had plucked much harder ones off.

Both goalies were working well in the third, and clearing double-ply rebounds. Both teams had good scoring chances that were missed by inches. The checking was much closer and Petes' form much more evident. With two minutes to go Bellefeuille, who had been off most of the period from a butt end, slipped down the rail and into the defence and just as he lost the puck, Fournier hurdled through the jam and drove it past Dwyer.

Ken Mallen handled the game.

The Line Ups.

Peterboro.—Goal, Dwyer; defence, Cain, Walkem; centre, Collins; wings, Bailey, Ranger. Subs., Rose, Burgess, Bond.

Goal Summary.

First Period.—London; Follis, 12; London, Lederman, 12.30; London, Bellefeuille, 18.

Second Period.—London, Lowrey, 14.

Third Period.—London, Fournier, 18.

ZION DEFEATED SMITH 5 GOALS TO 1

Fast Game of Hockey That Was Keenly Contested And Rough.

In a fast game of hockey at the Brock Street Arena last night, Zion walked away from Smith, beating them 5 goals to 1. The game was marked by some rough works by both teams. The Zion outfit had it all over the Smith aggregation, showing better hockey and smoother combination.

Smith, in an attempt to hand the Zion boys a trimming, brought on three ringers, all Peterboro hockeyists, but they failed to make an impression. Alf Johnston, Clarence Baker and Yelland were the outsiders. Although Baker and Yelland turned in a good game, Johnston failed to make a showing. He was about as much use to the Smith team as a peg leg would be to a man in a forest fire. He failed to get anywhere. He seemed to be satisfied in playing with the puck behind his own net, failing to go down mid-ice once.

The Zion boys all played great hockey but the credit for the game goes to their great net guardian, Curtin. He was invincible at all times and stopped a flock of shots from all angles. The only one that beat him was a low, fast shot that gave him no chance to save. The Zion defence played a great game and very few of the Smith forwards got past them, most of them shooting on Curtin from outside. The forward line were fast and tricky, showing smooth combination and great backchecking.

The boys from Smith turned in a fairly good game, but individual work and no combination spoiled their chances of scoring. Had they showed a little more combination they might have added a couple of more goals to their total. Simpson in goal for the losers turned in a good game. He stopped a flock of shots, but could not compete against the close-in shots of the Zion aggregation. Had his defense and forwards helped him a little he would have stopped more. They failed to backcheck the Zion boys, with the result that they were beating the defence and shooting at him from close-in. The two Milburn boys and Webber turned in good games, and Baker and Yelland were a big help.

Referee—Gordon Webb.

P.C.I. VS. S.P.S.

Local School Teams In Exhibition Game Thursday Afternoon.

Tomorrow afternoon at Brock Street Arena from the hours 5 to 6, an outfit representing the P.C.I. will play the St. Patrick's team.

P.C.I. defeated S.P.S. by a close score in a game early in the season. The boys desire to get in one more game before the season closes and show that the old rivalry still exists between these two schools.

S.P.S. have not taken the ice as a team since the memorable battle with Cobourg Collegiate in Port Hope, which went two extra periods. The P.C.I. have not had a team this year, but one can easily be mustered around Central Park and the lads will crowd out for this game.

PRAISE FROM LINDSAY

Good-bye, Peterboro! You did your best, which was considerable.

The Petes may now regret that they ever stepped into senior company. It was a championship they wanted, and this they might have had had they remained in intermediate ranks, as they first intended.

However, the Petes, did well. They were the sensation of the Senior series this season. In fact the sensation of the hockey season. Niagara Falls must have a mighty fast, well-balanced team to oust the Petes.

CHURCH LEAGUES CLOSE TO FINALS

St. Andrew's Conceded Senior Title—Juniors Tied Up.

Both the Juveile and Junior schedules of the Church Hockey League are drawing to a finish and a review of the games would show that all have been fast with the teams all about evenlp matched as to speed and size.

St. Andrew's sextette is headed straight for the championship and after they put George Street away by a 1 to 0 score on watery ice they have now no team left to play which promises to dispute very strenuously their superiority. St. Andrew's have been crowding in plenty of practices and have a fast team, but they outlucked rather than out-played George Street and their is still much argument about which is the better team. It is likely these two teams will meet in an exhibition fixture to decide the supremacy once and for all.

St. Paul's and All Saints gave both teams plenty of opposition.

In the Junior series, honors lie between George Street and Knox, with each tied for first with no losses. These two teams play at Brock Street Rink this evening, from 6 to 7, and the game promises to show up some smart hockey.

MILLBROOK CLUB DRAW FOR BONSPIEL

Eight Rinks Play This Week in Local Curling Event.

MILLBROOK, March 4.—The local bonspiel, under the auspices of the Millbrook Curling Club, is taking place this week, the rinks participating being as follows:

Rink No. 1—G. Raper, R. Hutchison, Jas. Lancashier, R. H. Edmunds, skip.

Rink No. 2—Gordon Reynolds, C. C. Garside, W. E. Ball, J. Steele, skip.

Rink No. 4—Foster Russell, G. E. Burnham, E. C. Richards, H. B. Allen, skip.

Rink No. 5—V. C. Lambert, T. H. Bradley, W. C. Hetherington, J. N. McGill, skip.

Rink No .7—J. R. Eakins, Russell Smith, L. C. Russell, G. W. Sayles, skip.

In the local competition for the Allen cup, the rink skipped by G. W. Sayles, has won the trophy for 1925. W. T. Wood's rink has held the cup for two consecutive years.

Last season a special gathering of the club was arranged for when formal presentation of the cup was made, the president, W. E. Ball, offering congratulations as he handed the trophy to the keeping of the winning rink for the ensuing year.

Doubtless some similar arrangement will be made this year when suitable time and place are decided upon L. C. Russell and J. A. Vance are President, and Vice-President respectively for the season just drawing to a close.

The winning rink for 1925 is: D. Robinson, E. C. Richards, A. McCorry, G. W. Sayles, skip.

TWO ARE SUSPENDED IN ENGLISH FOOTBALL

LONDON, March 4.—The English Football Association yesterday suspended McNabb and Wadsworth of Liverpool and Urwin of Newcastle United for six months and a month respectively as a result of incidents in the match between their two teams on February 14, when all three players were ordered off the field. McNabb was alleged to have kicked the Newcastle full back and Wadsworth to have later attacked Urwin. The last named threw a cloud of earth at Wadsworth. The suspensions come at an unfortunate time for Liverpool and may make a considerable difference to this teams chances in the English Cup competitions as it deprives them of two of their regular halves. The fact that Bromilow, Liverpool's international half back, is again in training after being injured may lessen the resultant weakening of the half back line.

PARIS, March 4.— A generator capable of producing a continuous current of 500,000 volts was demonstrated Monday at the Academy of Science by Professor d'Arsonval.

While a much higher voltage cable has been secured by an alternating current, this invention is the first to have exceeded 300,000 volts by a continuous current

The apparatus is being given to Professor Jean Perrin for the continuance of his researches on the constitution of matter.

In accepting the gift, Professor Perrin expressed regret that a scarcity of funds prevented the construction of other instruments of the same kind of even higher voltage. M. d'Arsonval expressed the opinion that a generator of the same pattern could be constructed which would give even much higher voltage. His invention will be used in research work on cancer cure.

AGE NO BARRIER TO HARRY HOOPER

Veteran Had Best Year in 1924, His Sixteenth Season.

Hooper came into the majors back in 1909. For several seasons he was a member of the famous Boston Red Sox outfield, composed of Hooper, Speaker, and Lewis, which has often been called one of the game's greatest. In 1921 he was traded to Chicago, where he has since remained.

Despite his 16 seasons of active service, Hooper appears to be improving instead of going back. A glance at his batting record for the past ten years will vouchsafe that remark.

In 1914 Hooper hit .258, a remarkably low figure for a regular outfielder. Five years later, or in 1919, he clouted .267, a jump of 9 points. And, another five years—1924—found him hitting .328, a leap of 61 points.

Thus over a stretch of ten years Hooper succeeded in elevating his average a total of 70 points. In other words, he reached a higher figure in the batting columns last season than he has ever done during his major league career.

CAREW CUP WON BY STOUFFVILLE

Millbrook Rink Off Form and Challengers Won Without Difficulty.

SCORE WAS 19-7.

MILLBROOK, March 4. — The local rink, which has made such a good showing at outside points this winter, was evidently "off form" on Tuesday, when the game with Stouffville was played for the Carew Challenge Cup, won by Millbrook from the "Granites" of Toronto, by a score of 20-9, about two weeks ago.

Fifteen ends were played, the score by ends being:

Millbrook . .. ..020000200110001— 7

Play by the local men was far from being in their usual fine style, while the visitors apparently got the "run" of the ice from the start.

Unfortunately the haste to catch the five o'clock train, by which the visitors were obliged to return home made a formal presentation of the trophy impossible, but three hearty cheers, and a "tiger," were given for the Stouffville four, while warm handshakes and words of congratulation showed that curling is well named a "gentlemen's game," developing a spirit of true sportsmanship among its devotees.

Stouffville—G. Dougherty, W. Armstrong, S. Armstrong, W. Saunders, skip.

Millbrook—H. J. Grassett, W. E. Ball, G. W. Sayles, R. H. Edmunds, skip.

MARMORA DOG FANCIER SOLD THREE TERRIERS

Boston Terriers Bought By Toronto Breeder.

MARMORA, March 3.— Mr. W. D. Donnelly, the leading dog fancier of this town, who kennels quite a number of Boston terriers, sold three this past week to Mr. Brown of the Highball Kennels, Toronto. These puppies were by Champion Highball Let's Go, a terrier sold not long since by Mr. Brown to Mr. W. M. McCoy of Middleton, Ohio, for a price of a little over $2,000.

On Friday evening, the girls belonging to the Busy Bee Class of the Methodist Church held a delightful party at the home of their teacher, Miss Loreen Connor. Stunts, games, contests and hat making feats were the principal forms of amusement. The lunch was most enjoyable. The same evening the scholars of Senior Third Class were entertained at the residence of the Public School Principal, Mr. E. E. Prentice.

Mr. W. L. Rigg has been spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. James Quinn is visiting at his home in Kingston.

Mr. S. W. Hann concluded his temporary duties as Principal of the Continuation School on Friday, returning to Toronto that same day.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Nickle returned on Monday after a month's absence.

During Lent, there will be no meetings of the A.Y.P.A. Members are being urged to attend the meetings for Prayer Book study at St. Paul's every Friday evening.

GRIMSBY BEAT CANADIAN CHAMPS

Soo Eliminated From Allan Cup Play-offs By Intermediates.

PEACH KINGS GOOD.

TORONTO, March 4.—(Canadian Press).—There have been surprises in hockey, plenty of them, but it was left for the Grimsby Peach Kings, Intermediate O.H.A. champions, to pull the greatest of them all. Conceded no chance to defeat the Soo Greyhounds in the Allan Cup elimination game at the Arena last night, the Peach Kings crossed everybody by giving the Canadian amateur champions a 3 to 2 lacing, and the fans who fooled themselves by staying away from the game need not try to convince themselves it was a fluke victory. It wasn't. Grimsby outplayed the men from the north by a greater margin than the score shows, and they have a mighty good chance to hand the same thing to Niagara Falls, Senior champions, when the two teams meet to-morrow and Saturday nights.

The Peach Kings had the score 3 to 0 at the end of the second period, neither team scoring during the first twenty minutes, but the breaks all went the Greyhounds' way.

It was only in the final period, when the Soo, facing certain defeat, threw everything they had into the fray, and managed to beat Fisher twice. They scored one goal 55 seconds after play started, when Lessard shot the puck through the defence, and there were just four minutes left to play when Johnny Woodruff took Stan. Brown's pass out from the behind the net and slapped the puck by Fisher. The Hounds, with the exception of Walsh, were all up on the attack when the last goal was scored, and they continued to force the play, but the Peach Kings played steady hockey and used their brains and were successful in holding their opponents at a safe distance during the last few minutes.

BEDRIDDEN FOUR YEARS WITH HIS BACK BROKEN

Returned Soldier Dies of Peace Time Injury.

REGINA, Sask., March 4.—(Canadian Press).—C. J. Cass, former employee of the civic electric light department, and returned soldier, who has been living in the General Hospital here for four years and a half with a broken back, died yesterday. Cass was injured in the course of his duties in October, 1920, by the fall of a heavy chain. His spinal column was severed and paralysis affected the lower members. He lived on bedridden from that time until Tuesday, having only once in those years seen the outside of the hospital walls, when, last Christmas, he was carried to the home of a friend for a few hours.

BEAR CATS TIE WITH BEAVERS

Campbellford Teams Will Have Second Game to Decide the Issue.

SCORE 5 TO 5.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 4. — The Bear Cats and Beavers met at Covert's Arena last night, and according to the referee's final decision the game ended in a 5-all tie.

Although the Bear Cats claim a 5 to 4 victory, they were leading by that margin when MrArthur shot from the side, the goal umpire raising his hand. And when the eBar Cats got through telling him where the puck went, he changed his mind.

However, a tie score would be fair to both teams, as Wood of the Beavers batted the puck into his own cage when trying to clear a rebound.

Both sextettes put up a flashy brand of hockey on good ice, and there wasn't much to choose between the two teams.

Both teams seem to agree on one point at least, and that is the only way to settle the argument, is to play another game.

The Bear Cats won the first game and the Beavers emerged on top in the second meeting.

The line-ups were as follows:

Beavers.		Bear Cats.
	Goal
Bush		Saunders
	Left Defence
Lemyre		Hankinson
	Right Defence
Ingram		Flint
	Centre
Parsons		Sarginson
	Left Wing
Wood		Cowell
	Right Wing
McArthur		Blue
	Subs.
Atkinson		Haig
Beattie		F. Reynolds

Referee—B. Reynolds.

High School Lost.

The High School team were defeated 2 to 0 in the first of home-and-home games in the Interscholastic Hockey League at Cobourg on Monday night.

The return game will be staged at Covert's Arena to-night, and Coach Stephens' boys have hopes of overcoming the Cobourg lead, and enter the final round.

GENERAL PERSHING ILL.

HAVANA, March 4. — (Canadian Press)—The United States Embassy in a statement issued last night, announced that General John J. Pershing is ill in his hotel here. All his engagements for two days have been cancelled.

OMEMEE FIREMEN SAVED DWELLING

Stable With Two Cars Destroyed—Team Rescued.

OMEMEE, Feb 4. —At about 6.3 o'clock last evening fire broke out in the stable belonging to Mr. Herb Parker in the western section of Omemee. A string of buildings led from the stable to the dwelling also of frame, and it was only through the quick response of fire fighters who rushed in from all directions, that the house was saved by tearing away some of the frame work. The contents of the house were carried out to safe quarters. Luckily the high wind was blowing in the right direction to save all other houses.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hart and baby resided in the house, were eating their supper when they noticed a fire in the hay loft. The stable was rented to Mr. Thomas Rowan, jr., who had a team of horses in it. They were rescued also the harness. he cause of fire in unknown. The owner of horses had not fed them for the night so that no blame can be attached to lantern.

Two cars were completely destroyed belonging to Mrs. George Hart and Albert Sloan also a small quantity of hay and no insurance was on contents.

EXAMINER WON FROM THE C.P.C.

The Examiner finally broke the tie with the C.P.C., by defeating them in a fast, clean game of hockey at Brock Street Arena, by 3 goals to 2. It was a great game to watch and their was a fair sized crowd on hand, each team having its share of the rooting.

The ice was in good condition and the teams went at top speed during the entire sixty minutes, each team using only one sub. The C.P.C. scored both their goals in the first five minutes, but from then on were blanked. The Examiner scored two in the first period and one in the last, breaking the tie with about six minutes to go. Collins, Franks and Marchen registered for the Examiner, while Halliday and Holland scored for the C.P.C.

The newspapermen turned in a good game all around, the forwards showing great speed and stickhandling, while the defence let very few get by. Seates, in goal, had a soft time, only a few drives being shot at him. This was due to the fact that the Examiner defence pair, Dugan and Swanston played a superb game and let only a couple of the C.P.C. men get by them to take a close-in shot. The forwards, Collins, Franks and Baker, and the sub, Marchen, all turned in a good game.

On the C.P.C. end, Weir in goal was the oustanding player. He stopped shot after shot, and the three that beat him were shot from well in. His goal tending was A-1 and he deserves a bunch of credit for his wonderful saves. Graham turned in a nice game on the defence, and the forward line, Halliday, Holland and Oxley played well. The first two mentioned turned in an exceptionally good game.

Referee—G. Webb.

CANADIENS LOST.

Tail End Bostonians Won 3 to 2—Blow to Hope of Play-off.

BOSTON, March 4. — (Canadian Press).—The demoralized Canadiens dropped a vital game to the tail-end Boston Bruins here last night and sustained a bad blow to their hopes of the National Hockey League play-off. The exhibition given by the champions was mediocre, while the home team staged one of their best blocking and driving efforts. The score was 3 to 2.

The Canadiens never had a real chance to get started, and their best attempts were blocked by the rough Boston defensive wall. For the visitors, Morenz was the only player who seemed to have form.

YALE PLAYERS GET LETTERS

Members of Hockey Team Receive Awards From Athletic Board.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 4.—Yale's hockey team members received major "Y's," which were awarded by the Yale Athletic Board of Control. This action was taken because the team which was left without a home ring for either practice or schedule games, defeated Princeton in straight games and won the series from Harvard. No former Yale hockey sextette had made such a brilliant showing.

The hockey dinner, at which a captain will be elected for 1926, will be held tonight.

NEW TURKISH CABINET.

Makes Friends of Stomach Enemies

How Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Restore Your Old Time Friendship with Mince Pie and Sausage.

Nothing more contributes to make a speedy cure of indigestion than to get back into his old time stride of feasting and eating. He takes one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. No gastric, nor sour risings, no indigestion whatever. He eats his genial with relish. A wedge of mince pie hits the right spots of satisfaction. He enjoys pork and beans and maple syrup and comes back.

The reason for all this is the alkaline effect which these tablets give the stomach. Digestion is aided and thus instead of a searing mixture so often the effect after eating, the stomach is sweet, active and comfortable. Get a 50 cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store and then invite the old timers back to the table.

It was Hoppe's second defeat by Schaefer in 17 years.

Death Duties May Wipe Out Ancestral Estates

GLASGOW, March 4.—(Associated Press).—The great estates of England, Scotland and Ireland are doomed to be done away with eventually owing to the death duties of landowners collected by the state and which sometimes total as high as 60 per cent. The landlords protested vigorously at first, but in vain and in most cases have resigned themselves to their fate.

Speaking before the Glasgow Conservative Club, where he was entertained on the attainment of his ducal jubilee, the Duke of Montrose said he doubted that the rising generation realized the transition which is taking place in regard to their future.

"We are running very fast in these democratic times," he said, "and the big estates and ancestral castles which were a feature of my younger days must gradually disappear in virtue of the death duties as they are now assessed. The landlords' rights are being curtailed every day, but nevertheless I cannot help but think that I have lived during the most prosperous time of this old country of ours. Possibly we won't miss the old castles, after all."

ONLY THE MOTHER KNOWS ABOUT THE COUGHS AND COLDS OF THE CHILDREN

It is hard to keep them from taking cold; they will run out of doors not properly clad, or have on too much clothing; play too hard and get overheated and cool off too suddenly; get their feet wet; kick off the bed clothes at night, and do a dozen things the mother can't prevent.

The prompt use of

will check the cough or cold before any serious lung trouble can possibly develop.

Mrs. Everett E. Keetch, R.R. No. 2, Fredericton, NB, writes:—"My little boy, age nine years, had a dreadful cold which left him with a bad cough. I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after using three bottles he was completely relieved. I would advise all mothers to use this remedy for their children as it is an excellent medicine."

EMBASSY IN TURKEY

LONDON, March 4 (Canadian Press).—The British Government has decided to raise its present mission to Turkey to the status of an Embassy.

JOIN IN HAL COCHRAN'S DAILY POEM

Travel along on the lilt of a song and you'll find you let cheerfulness in. Constantly singing is constantly bringing the spirit that's achin' to win.

Life, when you cheer it with singsongy spirit, has solemness beat by a mile. Strumming and humming just mean that you're coming to know the full value of smile.

I've got a notion that melody motion of lips puts a stop to the smirk.

Whistle a tune and you'll find, very soon, that it helps you to plug through your work.

Music is magic, like grumbling is tragic, and music was meant for us all. Life bids you treat her to harmony sweeter. Say, why don't you answer the call?

What does it matter which tune or which patter you choose, if you'll just harmonize? Sing forth, dogone it Come on now, step on it. 'Twill send spirit up to the skies.

There are countless pains which one can stop—stop them in a moment. The pains allied to rheumatism, to soreness, lameness and chest colds.

Millions of people have done this, and for 65 years, by rubbing with St. Jacobs Oil. They have saved eons of suffering. It is folly not to do this the moment a pain appears.

St. Jacobs Oil acts in two ways. First, it causes counter irritation which relieves countless pains. Then it brings the blood to the surface to relieve the congestion which causes other pains and dangers.

Rub it on the sore spot whenever a pain appears. Rub it on the chest as soon as a chest cold starts. Don't suffer, don't take risks. And don't be forced to wait for relief. Keep St. Jacobs Oil on hand.

Nature will deal with the cause of the trouble. Or perhaps other helps may be necessary. But the first thing is to get relief. Stop the pain.

Some may suggest other ways to do this. But St. Jacobs Oil has done it for millions—done it for 65 years. You can rely on it—your druggist guarantees it. Let this time-tested way draw out the pain at once. Get it before the pain begins. Have it ready. You may irr that way save many unhappy hours.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

THE LAST WORD IN SCREEN GORGEOUSNESS AT CAPITOL.

Adolphe Menjou, Ricardo Cortez and Frances Howard are featured in the new Paramount picture, "The Swan," a Dimitri Buchowetzki production now at the Capitol.

The picture is an adaptation of Ferenc Molnar's stage play of the same name which ran for nearly a year on Broadway. It is a delightful satire on royalty. The action is scintillating and lively. It centres around Miss Howard as the princess, Menjou as the prince and Cortez as the court tutor who loves the princess but realises the gulf that separates them and contents himself with worshipping from afar.

The prince is a gay, thoughtless fellow whose mother's one wish is to marry him to Princess Alexandra and so unite two of the strongest kingdoms in central Europe. At a magnificent court reception he is presented to the princess but attracted to a flirtatious lady-in-waiting, and so the well-laid plans of the two mothers go up in smoke.

As a last resort, a formal dinner is given to the prince on the eve of his departure. The princess is forced to flirt with the tutor to make the prince jealous—and this proves the worst move the mothers could have made, for the attention goes to the head of the young tutor and sets on fire a real love in the hearts of both that is filled with exciting consequences for all concerned.

"The Swan" is the last word in screen gorgeousness.

AT THE ROYAL

"TROUPING WITH ELLEN" CLOSES TO-NIGHT.

The last opportunity for local movie fans to see Earl Bigger's Saturday Evening Post story of stage life, "Trouping With Ellen," is to-night. This interesting story of the life of a chorus girl is different. The back stage stuff is accurately executed. Helene Chadwick is easy to look at, the titles are clever—it's good entertainment.

"Pampered Youth," which comes to the Royal Theatre on Thursday, is a clean picture depicting the life of a youth who has been catered to and spoiled. He goes on uncurbed until he brings his family to poverty. The action includes a spectacular fire sequence, a thrilling horse race and a sensational runaway. The cast includes Alice Calhoun, Cullen Landis, Allan Forrest, Wallace MacDonald, Ben Alexander, Charlotte Merriam. The story is an adaptation of Booth Tarkington's Pulitzer prize novel, "The Magnificent Ambersons."

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Error is the root cause of strife. The one who is ignorantly or willfully on the side of error, as a rule, endeavors to strengthen his side of the story by throwing at his opponent invective personalities. Some say, "What was good enough for our father is good enough for us." This is an unwise position to hold, as it hinders any progress in the right direction. Agitation of any kind is better than utter indifference. Any tactics used to hinder the investigation of any subject is unwise. Endeavors to cover up truth is unavailing, for truth shall triumph and error have its doom.—M. T. Butcher. 1d-54-9241

BEER BILL NEXT WEEK IN HOUSE

Defeats Are Forecasted For Both Liberal and Progressive Amendments.

BUDGET TO-MORROW.

TORONTO, March 4 (Canadian Press).—It is expected that practically every member of the Legislature will be in the House this afternoon to hear the Premier wind up the debate on the reply to the Speech fom the Throne, and vote on the two amendments, which have been proposed.

The Progressive amendment, which comes first, states that 4.4 beer is intoxicating and would pledge the House to retain the Ontario Temepeance Act.

From present indications, these amendments will probably be defeated by about 50 majority. It is also expected that five or six Liberals will vote against the amendments. With the disposal of the reply to the Speech from the Thone, Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Teasurer, will deliver his budget tomorrow, and the Legislature will start on its second big debate. The beer bill will probably be introduced next week.

CHURCH UNION BILL.

Members of Legislature Are Not Discussing This Question Yet.

TORONTO, March 4.— (Canadian Press.)—Members of the Legislature are not discussing the church union question, preferring to wait until the legislation concerned is before the Private Bills committee. All of them, however, are under pressure from their ridings and are receiving numerous letters.

The Unionist bill has been moved in the House. Non-concurring forces have their bill ready, but it is not yet before the House. If the rights of the non-concurring side can be safeguarded sufficiently in the Union bill their own bill may never be presented to the House. It seemed to be held for use in case they regarded it as necessary to protect their claims fully.

As yet there have been no signs of lobby work from either side, but that will without doubt be evident when the bill first comes to the Private Bills committee. The personnel of that committee is nearly the same as that of last year.

TABLE DECORATIONS.

A meeting of the Interior Decoration Club was held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. E. Porter, Gilmour Street, when a paper on Flowers as Interior Decoration was given by Mrs. B. L. Barns, and a talk on Clocks by Mrs. R. Gliddon.

Both papers were very interesting.

Mrs. Barns spoke of flowers as table decorations and the use of wild flowers ,and showed illustrations of decorative floral panels.

Mrs. Gliddon referred to old-fashioned clocks, going as far afield as Persia and Strasbourg for examples.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. R. M. Waddell on 16th March.

Closing Quotations on Principal Active Stocks.

CHICAGO

The wheat market appears to be in a position where principal longs are confident of their position and ready to lend support when weaker holders get timid. There is also some indication that local sentiment is gradually swerving to bull side. Foreign news was bullish. It was reported Broomhall had advanced his estimate of import requirements by 32 million from earlier estimate. He was credited with allowing Canada an exportable surplus of 84 million. Winnipeg authorities said this is almost impossible. Cash wheat was steady, relative to futures. Weather over the winter wheat belt was dry and warmer, while the forecast gave no promise of relief from droughty conditions that recently have caused so much apprehension as to the final outcome t the crop.

WHOLE TOWN KEEPS DIAMOND WEDDING

Wyckoff, N.J., Declares a Holiday in Honor of Couple 97 and 92 Years Old.

HACKENSACK, N.J., March 4.—It wasn't a legal holiday in Wyckoff, but the borough councilmen took it upon themselves to make half a holiday out of it ,and all business was spspended at noon so that the town could participate in the diamond wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Demarest.

During the past twenty-three years they have lived in Wyckoff. They were born in Franklin Township, of which Wyckoff is a part. Mr. Demarest is 97 and his wife 92.

Seventy-five years ago yesterday, John Demarest and Susan Winter rode horseback to Preakness, a distance of twelve miles, and were married. To-day their home was surrounded by a hundred or more automobiles, with not a horse or buggy in sight. Every section of Bergen County was represented.

The school was closed and at two o'clock 300 boys and girls marched through the streets to the Spring Lake Farm, owned by P. S. Pulis, son-in-law of the aged couple, where Mr. and Mrs. Demarest are making their home in their own cottage built in 1777.

A number of the school children were costumed to represent the bridal party of a former day. A bride and groom marched past the venerable couple, followed by the ring bearer and flower girls.

Mr. Demarest's eyesight is still good, and he smiled his approval of the procession. Mrs. Demarest's sight is not so good, but she, too, smiled when told of the pantomime.

Judge John B. Zabriskie was master of ceremonies. He resides in Wyckoff. He presented Mr. Demarest with a walking stick that had a gold band and two diamonds in it. Then he presented an arm chair to Mrs. Demarest. Both gifts were from the people of Wyckoff. "Your long and happy married life ought to be a lesson to our future generation, and to our present generation as well, and it is an example that might well be copied," he said.

"I want to thank you for this kindness to my partner and me," Mr. Demarest replied.

Then Henry C. Harnet, chairman of the Township Committee, and James E. Cook, president of the Board of Education, read congratulatory resolutions.

Every visitor had been promised a small box containing a bit of wedding cake as a souvenir, but the supply ran short. There were 500 boxes and at 4 o'clock there were none left.

The First National Bank of Wyckoff which closed for the half-holiday issued a circular containing the pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Demarest and stating that they were the bank's oldest depositors. More than a thousand of these circulars were distributed and still there were not enough.

Movie operators were present, but because of the cold Mr. Pulis refused to allow the aged couple to leave the house.

The public reception was from 10.30 a.m. to 9.30 p.m. and in that time nearly 2,000 people passed through the house.

Music had been promised for the evening, but the programme was cancelled because Mr .and Mrs. Demarest seemed to weaken under the excitement ,and Mr. Pulis did not want to take a chance.

During the afternoon school children sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold" near the room where Mr. and Mrs. Demarest were seated.

The only relative absent was Frederick Demarest, a brother of the groom, who is 76, and a resident of California. The couple have but one child living, Mrs. P. S. Pulis. Six grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren were present.

Among the gifts received was a radio set, which was set up in time yesterday afternoon, so that Mr. and Mrs. Demarest could hear the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of Brooklyn, congratulate them in the course of his Sunday afternoon sermon. Dr. Cadman has a summer home just north of Wyckoff ,and he has known the Demarests for many years.

Shortly after their marriage, in 1850, the Demarests moved to New York, where the bridegroom was engaged as a carpenter, but after three years they returned to their farm at Crystal Lake and remained there until they moved to the Pulis farm some twenty-three years ago.

BIRDS BECOME ENGAGED

Professor Huxley Says They Have Courtship Before Marriage.

LONDON, March 4. — (United Press.)—An astounding zoological revelation has been made by Prof. Julian S. Huxley, whose recent series of lectures before the Royal Society have attracted wide attention.

Prof. Huxley announced that birds become "engaged," often as not, before they "marry."

With a series of colored sildes he illustrated various phases of "bird courtship" — depicting handsome husbands and jealous wives, marriages in the next, female wooers, and the humor of mating.

"In some species," he said, "flirtation is not at all infrequent."

Prof Huxley said that the warbler is the most happily domestic of birds; the "black cap" the most polygamous, and the Louisiana heron the only one who takes a "real honeymoon."

He also mentioned a feminist bird known as the philarope:

"The female of this species," he said, "does most of the courtship. She condescends to lay the eggs, but the male sits on them. The female goes off and holds 'bachelor' parties with the other females."

QUAKE KILLED FISH.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, March 4.—(United Press.)— Two miles of dead fish form an odd ichthyological fringe to the coast line here. A volcanic eruption under the sea threw millions of fish on the beach near Waller's Bay. In one spot the fish are about two feet deep for two miles.

BAR X-WORD ADDRESSES.

LONDON, March 4. — (United Press) — Cross-word puzzle fans have made the British post office cross by attempting to address their letters by crossword puzzles, and the rule has been issued that all such tests of post office ingenuity are to be returned unhumorously to the sender marked firmly "No address."

GAME COCKS AND BEER THE BOOTY

Three Thousand Dollars Crowing Loudly at Provincial Headquarters.

WINDSOR, March 4. —(Canadian Press). —Three thousand dollars is crowing loudly in the basement of Provincial Police Head-quarters, district No. 1 to-day, as the result of raid on the Chappell House, Sandwich, last night when 45 game cocks were seized and preliminaries for an old fashioned cocking main were interrupted.

Forty bottles of beer, found in a cache under the kitchen sink are also stored in police head-quarters. Aylmer Orton, proprietor of the Chappell House, is charged with keeping liquor for sale and with conducting a cock pit. About 40 spectators who were found in the basement where the cock pit was erected, were released on bail of $10 each, and will be charged with frequenting the scene of the fight.

Swiss Writer Cautions Against German Aims

GENEVA, March 4.—(Associated Press).—All Switzerland is talking about letters written to Swiss newspapers concerning Germany's military position by Prof. Paul Seippel of the Federal Polytechnic College of Zurich. Prof. Seippel depicts a present-day Germany, imperialistic in nature, and insists that within a very brief period Germany will be able to place in the field a large and menacing army. His letters constitute a sequence to the recent report made by General Morgan of England concerning German military preparations.

The professor sets forth that the German universities, both professors and students, are seized with imperialism, and that among the German people this doctrine is rapidly making progress. "I do not believe in an immediate war," he continues, "but I am convinced that there is developing a situation which will permit the German imperialists to cast off their masks and show all their arrogance and all their ambitions. They have not changed an iota after a defeat which they have steadily refused to recognize."

Society

Mrs. F. H. Brown, of Port Hope, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Perry, Junior.

The many friends of Mrs. V. Eastwood, Senior, will regret to hear that she sustained a fracture to her arm in a fall this week.

Alderman and Mrs. Joseph Crowe were pleasantly surprised last evening by a party planned by their three daughters: Mrs. A. W. Clysdale, Mrs. A. Metheral and Miss Hazel Crowe, and attended by a number of their friends, to commemorate the occasion of the thirty-eighth anniversary of their wedding. A pleasant evening was spent and dainty refreshments served. Mrs. Crowe received a quantity of beautiful flowers to mark the occasion of the anniversary and also her birthday, to-day.

WEDDING BELLS.

BICKEL—RUTH.

The marriage took place at noon to-day, at Mark Street Church Methodist parsonage, of Mima, youngest daughter of Mrs. George Ruth and the late George Ruth, of Emily Township,and John Bickel, of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. Bamforth.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. T. H. Ruth, wore a stylish suit of navy poiret twill, black panne velvet, and carried roses The young people were unattended.

After the ceremony, dinner to the immediate relatives and friends was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. M. A. Barrie, George Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Bickel left on the afternoon train for a honeymoon in Toronto and points West. On their return they will reside in Peterborough.

OBITUARY

JOSEPH W. BROWN.

The funeral of the late Joseph W. Brown, of Hope Township, will take place at two o'clock on Thursday afternoon from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Cronin, 577 Walnut Street, to the Little Lake Cemetery, with services by Rev. R. Pogue.

His death occurred suddenly yesterday morning, at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Thos. Cronin, where he was making a call. Mr. Brown had been ill for some time, but his demise was unexpected.

The deceased is survived by his sorrowing wife, his father, John Brown of Peterboro, two brothers: John of Twining, Alberta, and Frederick, of Port Hope, and two sisters: Mrs. Wm. Martin, of Seattle, Washington, and Mrs. Thomas Cronin, of this city.

Recommend Setting Up of Standard Grades For Canadian Butter.

TORONTO, March 4 (Canadian Press). — Consideration of resolutions brough in by the women's section was the chief business of the Canadian Council of Agriculture at its annual meeting, continuing here this morning.

Among these resolutions were recommendations that the Dairy Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture take steps to set up standard grades for Canadian butter; that all immigrants should be examined by a psychiatrist at their port of disembarkation; and that this examination be final; that the Dominion Government be requested to bring in legislation allowing married women, who are British subjects, to retain their nationality when they marry an alien.

A resolution passed by the United Farmers of Manitoba last January brought in by the women's section, and re-affirmed by the Council as a whole this morning ,asks that the cadet training system be revised and turned into a system of physical education.

IN MEMORIAM.

MONTGOMERY—In ever loving memory of my dear little Sunday School scholar, Vera Montgomery, who went to heaven Sunday, March 4, 1923.

IN MEMORIAM.

BUGG.—In ever loving memory of our dear Edna, who passed away March 4th, 1922.

"There is someone who misses you sadly, dear,
And finds the time long since you went;
There is someone who thinks of you every day,
But tries to be brave and content.

We often sit and think of her
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.

She has gone, but not forgotten,
Never shall her memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
Around the spot where she is laid."

CONSERVATIVES LOYAL FRIENDS OF TEMPERANCE

Premier Ferguson Accuses Prohibition Union of Dishonesty and Intolerance.

KNIFED HEARST

TORONTO, March 5. — Speaking in defense of 4.4 per c beer in the legislature Premier Ferguson claimed that the Conservative party "is shown by history to have been the party that has developed temperence sentiment in this Province.

'The Liberal party has been a party of promises that have failed entirely of fulfilment,' he declared, going into the history of the temperance cause from the days of Sir Oliver Mowat onward.

Queen's park could not accommodate the throngs which beset it in the desire of hearing the Premier speak the last word of defense for Ferguson beer, before the house votes upon the speech from the throne, and upon the Progressive and Liberal amendments.

An hour before the time of opening every seat in the galleries overlooking the chamber was filled, and long lines of anxious applicants were being turned away. The crowd was practically equal, in numbers to that which heard W. E. Raney speak in the debate two weeks ago.

Hon. F. C. Biggs, former minister of public works and highways introduced a bill to compel all vehicles traveling on public highways to carry lights after dark. After second reading had been given to two private bills. Premier Ferguson rose amid applause, to give the debate on the speech from the throne its coup de grace.

In his opening remarks the Prime minister paid a tribute to the late F. G. Glackmeyer, for 17 years sergeant at- arms of the legislature.

To Return Visit.

The speech from the throne, Mr. Ferguson declared, was a substantial one. He touched on the Bonne Entente trip to Quebec, voicing the view that such events m. e for a better understanding between the Provinces and the races of Canada. He announced that a return visit was to be paid Toronto by Quebec delegates during the exhibition session this year.

Coming to the question of a gasoline tax, Mr. Ferguson promised that after the tax became effective the government would consider whether a reduction could be granted in motor license fees. Whether such a reduction could be granted would depend on the revenue derived from the 3-cent levy.

Canadian Coal.

He spoke of at some length on Ontario getting coals from other Canadian Provinces. Even if it meant a deficit for the National Railways there would be the satisfaction of knowing that the money was staying within Canada and that inter-provincial trade was being carried along ac Confederation intended that it should be. He declared that arrangements had been made to bring 100,000 tons of Alberta to Ontario on May 1 next and that in a short time it was hoped to get Ontario and Nova Scotia coal here as cheaply as United States coal was now brought in

The Premier announced that the reduction in interests on accounts in the Ontario Savings Banks was to provide a lower interest to farmers on their loans and also to provide a security fund against possible losses.

The Beer Topic.

The Premier then launched into a long discussion of tne temperance question. He declared that the Conservative party had always been ahead of the Liberals in providing temperance reform measures and that the Liberal party's record was one of promises never fulfilled. 'But they would stand up and take a definite position," said the Premier. "The Liberals who were the giants of those days may have laid the ma-

BECK IN HOSPITAL

Not Seriously Ill — Desired a Week's Rest.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 5 — Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, is convalescing at Johns-Hopkins hospital, where he retired a week ago chiefly for rest, after having been declared suffering from a run-down condition from overwork.

His condition is no cause for alarm, doctors at the hospital said to-day.

EARTH TREMORS CONTINUE DAILY IN THE REGION OF THE SAGUENAY RIVER

Six or Eight Shocks Every Day Since Saturday, Says Message From Tadousac—Court House at Charlevoix Vacated.

QUEBEC March 5 (Canadian Press). — Earth tremors in the region of Saguenay have not yet come to an end, according to a message from Tadousac yesterday afternoon.

"Since Saturday we have had six or eight shocks every day. On Wednesday morning, at one o'clock, we had a very bad one. Houses, chimneys, and crockery were damaged. We are very much afraid."

The churches of Pointe Au Pic and St. Pascal were damaged seriously by the earthquake disturbances, and the Palais de Justice at Charlevoix has had to be vacated and the offices have been transferred.

The last earthquake in the Charlevoix district was felt at 11.30 o'clock on Tuesday evening, at St. Paul, where the disturbance began gradually and ended with intensity.

Perfect Reproductions in Los Angeles' Afternoon Papers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., March 5.—(Canadian Press).—Photographs taken in Washington yesterday of the inaugural ceremony were transmitted to this city within a few minutes by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The newest electrical marvel produced printed negatives that were as clear and perfect as when they came from the camera, although transmitted over three thousand miles of wire. They appeared in early editions of the San Francisco afternoon newspapers. Fifty minutes was the average time elapsed between the snapping of each photo and its completion in San Francisco.

TWO WOMEN BEATEN AND HOUSE FIRED

Smoke From Windows Noticed By Passerby—Women Wounded.

MONTREAL, March 5.—(Canadian Press).—What may prove to be a case of an attempted double murder was discovered yesterday afternoon at 181 Mance Street, when a passerby named Nathan Frankel, noticing smoke issuing from a house, hurried around to the rear to try and make an entrance and discovered a woman, bound and gagged, writhing on the floor of a woodshed. Releasing her, he sounded an alarm, and with the arrival of the firemen, another woman was found in an upper bedroom, almost unconscious, with several wounds about the head.

An examination of the premises showed that the fire had been deliberately set, traces of coal oil being found in many places, in the kitchen, which was badly damaged by the flames, in the hallways and bedrooms.

The names of the victims are Alice Allard and Ruby Holloway.

SLAYED CHILD; KILLED HERSELF

Demented Mother Found Dead When Husband Entered Home.

AWFUL TRAGEDY.

MOOSE JAW, Sask., March 5.—(Canadian Press).—The bodies of a mother and her daughter lie side by side in the morgue, figures in one of the most shocking tragedies in the history of the city.

The remains are of Mrs. Herbert Chambers and of Joan Chambers, 14 years old. The child's head is slashed into an almost unrecognizable state, the result of blows from an axe which killed her. Around the throat of the dead woman is a great livid welt, caused by a small rope with which she later hanged herself. The police and the coroner believe that between two and four o'clock yesterday afternoon Mrs. Chambers, suffering from a fit of insanity, took her daughter to the cellar of her home and slew her with an axe, used to cut wood and break coal. Immediately afterwards the woman is believed to have attached the rope to an electric light cord in the kitchen, drawing the loop of the cord about her neck and deliberately submitted herself to slow strangulation.

The bodies were discovered when the husband and father, Herbert Chambers, returned home about five o'clock.

MONEY CONTROL BY PARLIAMENT, NOT BY BANKERS

A CHANGE NEEDED

Hon. J. A. Robb Decries the Effect of Creating Public Suspicion of Banks.

OTTAWA, March 5.—J. S. Woodsworth Labor, Centre Winnipeg) moved in the House of Commons Wednesday, that "It is not in the interests of the country at large that the privilege of issuing currency, and of controlling financial credit, should be granted to private corporations."

He stated that the matter with which his resolution dealt was of primary importance to the people of Canada. It might be in the interest of the banks or the Canadian Bankers' Association that the present system should remain in effect, but the interest of the public and of the banks was not always identical.

Mr. Woodsworth said that his resolution was purposely nagatve n form. He was not venturng to suggest any new scheme at present. He wished merely to show the injustice and inefficiency of the present system. "Every man handles more or less money—very often less," said Mr. Woodsworth. Money was a ticket system for the exchange of surplus commodities.

More Notes Than Gold.

Mr. Wordsworth pointed out that gold had been settled upon as the standard of value in most civilized countries, after certain primitive systems had been in vogue. Bank notes were afterwards ntroduced as a form of money, and bankers had issued more notes than there was gold to be supplied in demand.

Cheques had also become to be recognized as another form of money; and 96 per cent. of the business of Canada was done by the cheque system, according to evidence produced before the Banking and Commerce Committee of the House of Commons two years ago.

Who in Canada now regulates the quantity of money, asked Mr. Woodsworth. "I submit that the banks today largely control the quantity of money." They did so by the control of credit, and through influence upon governments.

Private Monopoly.

Mr. Woodsworth declared that many of the practices which so shocked the public in connection with the failure of the Home Bank, were in effect among other Canadian banks. All over the country, he said, there was a demand for the government to exercise more control over the issue of currency and the granting of credit. The members of Parliament could pass legislation, but as long as the economic control was held outside, the efforts of the legislators might be largely nullified. He pointed out that it was a crime for an individual to coin money, but the banks were to all intents and purposes permitted to coin money when they saw fit to do so. He advocated that the people of Canada should in some way, assume control of what had now become a monopoly by private individuals.

M. N. Campbell Progressive, MacKenzie) said it was just as absurd to put national defence in the hands of orivate individuals as it was to put the control of banking in the hands of a small group. National control of credits was coming "just as sure as sunset and sunrise," and not to deal with the problem now was to put it on to future generations and to admit a "bankruptcy of statesmanship."

Russian Method.

Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, said that after listening to Mr. Woodsworth, he could not find much in his speech which had to do with the resolution as it stood on the order papers. The only thing he could find was that Mr. Woodsworth wanted Canada to adopt methods tried out in Russia. Mr. Woodsworth rose to say that he had "nothing of that kind in view."

Mr. Robb said that Mr. Woodsworth had endeavored to establish the fact that Sir Frederick Williams-

SINGAPORE TO BE FORTIFIED

British Government Committed to Naval Project in the Pacific.

SCHEME ATTACKED.

LONDON, March 5.—The Singapore base scheme was attacked in the House of Lords last night by Lord Wimborne on the ground that it would offend Japan and stimulate the race in armaments. Replies of Lord Balfour and Lord Curzon indicated the government was fully committed to the project.

Lord Balfour declared that no other country, certainly not the United States, would have left Singapore unfortified so long as had Great Britain and that there was no foundation for the suggestion of jealousy or offence on the part of Japan. He added that the only way a fleet could be made effective, should the necessity arise in the vast areas of the Pacific and Indian Oceans, was by having a base at Singapore which would exist for defensive purposes only.

Conference at Singapore.

SINGAPORE, March 5. — The cost of the site of the proposed Singapore naval base was £1,250,000, it was officially stated yesterday at the Empire Naval Conference, in session here. It was added that the acquisition of the site had been completed and the land was being handed over as required Hong Kong will contribute £250,000 sterling toward the cost of the base.

Among those in attendance at the present conference are Vice-Admiral Sir Alen Everett, Commander-in-Chief of the China station, Rear-Admiral H. W. Richmond, Commander-in-Chief of the East Indies station, Rear-Admiral P. H. Thompson, of the Australian Naval Board, Commodore A. F. Beal, commanding the New Zealand station, and Major General Sir Theodore Fraser, the Commanding Officer here.

This is the first naval conference held in Far Eastern waters, since March, 1921. Much importance is attached to it in view of the defence problems to be discussed in regard to the Pacific. The proceedings are expected to last throughout the week. Interest is added to the proceedings by the presence in Dutch waters of the United States' Fleet which is now at Batavia.

CITY IS PERMITTED TO SELL ELECTRIC GOODS

St. John, N.B., Wins Suit With Power Company.

ST. JOHN, N.B., March 5.—The right of the City of St. John to engage in the sale of electrical appliances in competition with the New Brunswick Power Company, Limited, was upheld by Sir J. Douglas Hazen, Chief Justice of New Brunswick, in a judgment delivered yesterday on an injunction application made by the company several months ago. The city's right to sell and distribute electric light, heat and power in the parishes of Lancaster and Simonds, was denied until authority for such sale has been granted under the New Brunswick Electric Power Act, so Chief Justice Hazen ruled.

An interesting point was decidad in this judgment when Chief Justice Hazen ruled that the city did not come under the control of the Public Utilities Board in its Hydro business. This decision is regarded as of far-reaching importance in the province in those parts where municipal owned Hydro enterprises are being conducted.

DAY'S TOLL OF DEATH.

Five Killed By Explosion in Saxony—Two Men Drowned.

REINSDORF, Saxony, March 5. —(Canadian Press).—Five persons were killed and thirty-eight others injured in a dynamite explosion following a fire in the powder division of the Westphalian-Anhalt Exposives Factory here yesterday. The force of the blast was so strong that the roofs of surrounding buildings were torn off.

TWO MEN DROWNED.

PHILADELPHIA, March 5. — (Canadian Press).—Two men were drowned and six others thrown into the Delaware River yesterday when the tug Augusta, owned by the American Dredging Company, was sunk off Gloucester, N.J., by the wash from the outward bound British motorship Mississippi.

GIRL'S SUICIDE.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 5. — (Canadian Press).—Angelina Hermary, aged 16, of Woodrige, Man., killed herself with a shotgun Tuesday afternoon, according to word received here yesterday. She is believed to have been temporarily insane.

COLLIER KILLED.

GLACE BAY, N.S., March 5.— (Canadian Press).—Alex. W. Page, aged 66, a timberman, was instantly killed in No. 18 colliery yesterday forenoon by a fall of stone.

SKULL FRACTURED.

ST. JOHN N.B., March 5.—(Canadian Press).—Hurled headlong into the hold of the steamer Marloch, when one of the boards of a stage on which he was standing gave way, Robert J. Sutherland, a coal handler, is lying in the General Public Hospital with a fractured skull.

HANGED HIMSELF.

ST. JOHN, N. B., March 5. — (Canadian Press). — Frederick G. Blacklock, aged 67, ended his life during a fit of despondency, by hanging himself in his barn at Red Head, near here. He had evidently been dead three or four hours when his body was discovered by his son Fred.

He was formerly keeper of the Mispre Lighthouse.

BARNS AND STOCK A COMPLETE LOSS

Second Misfortune For Woman Near Prescott.

PRESCOTT, Ont., March 5. — (Canadian Press).—The barns and outbuildings on the farm of Mrs. James Kingston, of Charlieville, about seven miles from Prescott, were totally destroyed by fire of unknown origin yesterday, together with 28 head of cattle, five horses, a quantity of poultry, farm implements and crops.

Mrs. Kingston's husband was drowned about a year ago.

BUFFALO ELEVATOR FIRE LOSS $10,0000

Twenty Lines of Hose Had Little Effect on Blaze.

BUFLALO, N.Y., March 5.— Fire yesterday afternoon swept the General Milling Company's elevator, a five-storey structure in the Black Rock section. Estimates placed the loss at $100,000.

After twenty lines of hose had poured streams of water on the blaze with little apparent effect against its sheet-iron sheated sides of the structure, the roof and sides crubpled and huge streams of grain poured into adjoining streets and vacant land.

SEARS-ROEBUCK ENTERS CANADA

Big U. S. Mail Order House Said to Have Bought Simpson's.

REGINA REPORT

REGINA, Sask., March 5.—(Canadian Press).—A special despatch to the Leader here from Chicago says:

"Sears Roebuck and Company, the giant mail order concern which recently entered the retail field here with considerable success, plans to invade both fields in Canada in the near future, and already is said to have acquired control of the Robert Simpson Company, Limited, the Toronto concern which has a branch in Regina.

Officials of the company here refuse to comment on the proposed deal but authoritative sources in Toronto, New York and Chicago spread the report simultaneously, giving it a semi-official air, which is regarded seriously in financial circles here. The Canadian report said the Chicago concern had purchased controlling interest in the Simpson Company, formerly held by Sir Joseph Flavelle, head of the William Davies Packing Company. No mention was made of the purchase price, but the company is capitalized at $15,000,000.

"The New York report emanated from the annual meeting of the Sears Roebuck Company, which prompted the president to deny that his concern had purchased the Canadian company, but he refused to comment further."

INCREASE MEMBERS.

Newfoundland Legislature Considers Re-distribution.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., March 5.—In a redistribution bill introduced in the Legislature Tuesday, it was proposed to have each electional district represented by one member, excepting in three instances, St. John's East and West, and Harbor Main, where two will be returned. The Assembly will consist of 40 instead of 36 members. The districts have been divided so as to give about 6,500 of population to one representative. This is the first attempt to revise the system of representation since 1872.

SASKATOON, Sask., March 5.— After using a pocket knife to extract a cork from a strychnine bottle recently, C. Woulters, of Eban, Sask., used the same blade to pick his teeth. He was taken suddenly ill, but immediate attention from a doctor probably saved his life.

Coal Operators To End Agreement With Miners

CALGARY, Alta., March 5 (Canadian Press). — The Western Canada Coal Operators' Association ,at a meeting here yesterday decided to give notice to the United Mine Workers of America on 31st March, terminating their present agreement on 30th September.

Since the resumption of operations in October, after the strike, the coal mining industry of the Province has been badly hit, many of the mines only working one or two days.

The present cost of production in the Union mines, it is stated, has been largely responsible for the great falling off in business.

WITNESS AVERS CHUM ADMITTED VERDUN MURDER

Jack Currie in Montreal Court Relates Conversation After Slaying of Grocer.

TWO ACCUSED

W. G. Watkins Alleged to Have Related Incidents in Raid on Store.

MONTREAL, March 5.—(Canadian Press)—That 21-year-old William George Watkins had told Jack Currie a few days following the shooting of Francois Xavier Beauvais in his grocery store at Verdun that it was he (Watkins) who had committed the murder, was the sensational testimony of Currie Wednesday afternoon at the trial of Watkins and Alfred Deschambault, which began here before Mr. Justice Wilson. The murder occurred September 3 last.

The hearing yesterday was chiefly occupied with Currie's evidence. The witness told of being in company with Watkins and Harrison on the night of the crime and of meeting two others whom he named "Archambault" and Baker. He identified Deschambault in the dock as the former. He had been invited to go on an automobile ride in a car that had been stolen, and he himself had provided the money to buy gas, the others having none. Witness said that he declined to go and the others had gone off without him.

Hearing about the murder some time after the deed, he questioned Watkins, he said, and Watkins eventually declared, according to the witness, that it was he who "did the shooting."

Witness testified that Watkins detailed how, riding through Verdun, he had entered Beauvais' shop to "hold up the place." He had seen Beauvais stoop, but "was not sure whether it was for money or a revolver, so to save himself and his friends, he thought he had better shoot."

Currie was given protection of the court before giving evidence, and his testimony was at times difficult to follow. He was sternly enjoined by His Lordship to tell the truth, and much of his evidence was brought out by His Lordship, who declared himself on occasions to be dissatisfied with witness' answers. Mr. Justice Wilson ordered Currie, who was also in court, to be held "incommunicado" until such time as the evidence of both has been completed.

A confession by Watkins to Judge Amedee Monet was produced by Judge Monet in the witness box, but this was held pending the rendering of an official translation from English into French.

CHARGED WITH THEFT.

North Bay Men Accused of Stealing Freight.

NORTH BAY, March 5.—Charged with theft in connection with the disappearance of approximately $3,500 of merchandise from freight cars of the C.N.R. and C.P.R. in transit through the north, Thomas Luxton and David Prescott were yesterday committed for trial, while Peter Smith, arrested with them, will face trial on charges of receiving stolen goods.

LOYALTY TO CHURCH.

St. John, N.B., Presbytery Carries Resolution 26 to 7.

ST. JOHN, N.B., March 5.—Two important resolutions were adopted at the session of the Presbytery of St. John Tuesday. The first was that the St. John Presbytery remain loyal to the Presbyterian Church as it moves forward into Union, and the second that the New Brunswick Legislature be asked not to make any change in the present Union Bill.

The first was carried by a vote of 26 to 7, and the second by about the same vote.

TWO TRAINMEN HURT.

C.N.R. Engine Derailed Near Warwick, Que.

MONTREAL, March 5.—Canadian National Railway headquarters announced yesterday that Train 118, from Montreal to Quebec, was derailed near Warwick at 12.30 Wednesday, that the engine and some of the equipment left the track, and that the engineer and baggageman were injured. Arrangements were immediately made to transfer them to a hospital in Quebec. No passengers were injured.

EXPENSIVE SLEEP

English Hotel Owner Fined Because Guest Had to Wait Outside.

WINDERMERE, Eng., March 5. —(Associated Press).—The proprietor of a leading hotel in this district will sleep with one eye open for the future, since he was fined $250 and costs by the County Court Judge for failing to let a traveller in the hotel for several hours one morning.

The traveller told the court he was stranded through his baggage being lost and tried to obtain admission to the hotel at 5 o'clock in the morning. It was after 7 when he got in and during the wait was exposed to rain and cold. The traveller said that he did not bring the action in a vindictive spirit, but wished to register his protest against the proprietor's refusal to entertain travellers and to show him that innkeepers had a duty to the travelling public which they were bound to carry out.

Local Improvement Notice

TAKE NOTICE—

1—The Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough intends to construct as a local improvement, a sewer on Bethune Street, from Wolfe Street to a point 206 ft. north of Wolfe Street, and intends to specially assess part of the cost upon the land abutting directly on the said work.

2—The estimated cost of the said work is $925.25. The estimated portion of the cost to be paid by the Corporation is $305.90. The estimated special rate per foot frontage is $1.15. The special assessment is to be paid in thirty annual instalments.

3—A petition to the said Council will not avail to prevent its construction, but a petition against the work or the manner in which it has been undertaken may be made pursuant to Section 9 of The Local Improvement Act to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board by a majority of the owners representing at least one-half the value of the lots which are to be specially assessed therefor.

GOLD STANDARD DEPENDS ON U.S.A.

LONDON, March 5.—(Associated Press). — The establishment and maintenance of the gold standard in this country is largely dependent on the goodwill of opinion in the United States, said Walter Leaf, chairman of the Westminster Bank, at the annual meeting of that institution.

"It does not follow," he said, "that because we have arrived at parity we can at once remove the embargo on the export of gold. This is due to expire at the end of 1925 and one may at least confidently hope that it will not be renewed. Indeed, it is not at all improbable that before the end of the year we may see a flow of gold back to Europe, and that the question of export may for the time being be of purely academic interest.

"But it will be necessary to look forward and assure ourselves that we have the power to keep the gold when it comes to us. There is no doubt that we are at present somewhat dangerously dependent on the current of opinion in the United States, and it is necessary to be assured of their good will in maintaining as well as in establishing the gold standard on this side of the Atlantic.

"One begins to wonder whether the time may not have arrived for that conference of national banks of issue, for the formulation of a scheme of co-operation in regard to gold reserve, which was called for by the Genoa conference."

TO LIVE ON ISLAND

German Young Women to Live Rigorous Life as Experiment.

BERLIN, March 5.—(Associated Press).—An interesting study of the effects of physical training upon women is being conducted on the Island of Foehr, in the North Sea.

A group of young women will live on the island from now until May under the auspices of the German High School for Physical Training. They will have six hours of instruction daily in the open air, and regular exercise. Tests and measurements will be made to determine the growth of muscles and bones and the strengthening of the heart and brain by means of this rigorous course of training.

UMBRELLAS MATCH HATS

Fashionable London Ladies Want Rain-Protectors of Right Color.

YLONDON, March 5. —(AP). — One of the latest fads among fashionable young women is to choose an umbrella to match stockings and hat. In this connection it may be said that the umbrella departments of the ondon shops are among the most colorful branches of the business.

Scarlet and emerald have proved thus farto be the most popular colors of all, but these shades are often overlooked by buyers who insist upon matching their hosiery and millinery even if the protectors from the sun or rain have to be made to order.

As to colors generally, especially for women, modists say that London has never been as gay in this respect as it is to-day. Longer sticks are coming back into poplar usuage for umbrellas but on acount of its convenience dealers say the short umbrella has come to stay. Some of the handles of the longer sticks are encrusted with colorful china beads, and are considered very effective so far as the eye is oncerned, but from a practica l viewpoint the beaded handled umbrellas are considered merely one of the early spring fads, which will soon pass, because the beads themselves fairly "eat" away very quickly the palm of the wearers fine kid gloves.

Love Nuisance To Women, Says Expert

LONDON, March 5. (United Press)—"The thrills of "le grande passion" are no more. This is the opinion of M. Gaston Rageot, president of La Critique Francaise, who lectured on the French post-war drama at Bedford College.

He said that since the war, far from being temporarily thrilled by "a grand passiono," women are bored by it.

"Nowadays," said M. Rageot, "if a woman has two lovers, she prefers the one who loves her least. She finds the serious and compelling emotion cumbersome.

He added that love to most women was "a nuisance, anyway."

JAMES M. FLAGG A FATHER.

Artist Sends Novel Announcements of Daughter's Arrival.

NEW YORK, March 5.— James Montgomery Flagg, artist, is the father of a daughter, whose arrival he has announced in true fashion.

Mr. Flagg was official military artist of New York state during the war and he adopted the patriotic motif in the announcement cards. An eagle, instead of a stork, holds a baby bundle in blankets and on each side of the eagle stands a soldier giving a salute. The card reads:

"Mrs. James Montgomery Flagg announces the birth of an American citizen, Faith. Also James Montgomery Flagg is awarded honorable mention. Feb. 15, 1925. Also gold medal awarded Dr. Harry Britenstool."

Mr. Flagg married Miss Dorothy Virginia Wadman last May. She had been a model for many of his magazine covers.

SEYMOUR COUNCIL REGULAR MEETING

Grant of $150 to Agricultural Society—Tax Roll Returned.

Members present were: Reeve Grills, Deputy Reeve Peake, Councillors Allan, Innes and Linn, Reeve Grills was in the chair.

A communication was received from Captain Fisher regarding the Babcock property, S. Babcock having offered his rights in his property to the Salvation Army, provided they pay off the balance of indebtedness and give him and his wife a proper burial. This matter was left till next meeting that investigations be made.

Accounts were then read and considered.

Chas. Craighead explained to the Council that there was a mistake in his tax bill, he having been charged for a dog. This tax was abated.

Valentine Chaplin asked the Council to rent him a part of the roadway at Trent River. The matter was laid over for investigation.

George Anderson presented the school report for February.

A delegation of Messrs. Locke, Stone and Wynn waited on the Council and asked for an enlargement of grant to Seymour Agricultural Society. On motion, one hundred and fifty dollars was the amount granted.

Road Payment.

Moved and seconded by Councillors Innes and Linn, that the scale of wages be twenty-five cents per hour for man and fifty cents per hour for man and team. Carried.

The collector's roll for 1924 was returned, showing a balance of uncollected taxes to be two hundred and forty-two dollars and seventy-eight cents, and the amount to be returned against land to be one hundred and ninety-two dollars and ninety-two cents. On motion of Councilolrs Allan and Innes, the roll was accepted.

Moved and seconded by Councillors Allan and Innes, that the Reeve be instructed to sign orders on the treasury for the following accounts: Chas. Craighead, refund dog tax, $2.00; J. B. Ferris, rent for first quarter, $15.00; Harry Dunk, drawing hay to S. Babcock, $2.00; John Gay, re Babcock, $8.60; Joel McArthur, $1.83; G. A. Hay, tickets to Cobourg, $8 50; Mrs. B. STRONGER BEER CARRIES HOUSE

Vote of 79 to 26 Shows 4.4 Per Cent. Beer is Wanted.

AMENDMENT LOST.

TORONTO, March 5.—(Canadian Press).—By a vote of 79 to 26, the Ontario Legislature last evening adopted a motion for the reply to the Speech from the Throne—with which proposition was linked the initial success of the Government's 4.4 per cent. beer policy. Three votes were taken and five amendments proposed before the final issue was decided, and the unexampled spectacle was also witnessed of the debate being reopened and continued after the Prime Minister's address. The Raney amendment, deploring any change in the O.T.A., was lost on a vote of 81 to 24.

With the Raney amendment lost, Hon. George S. Henry introduced for the Government another sub-amendment negativing the remaining amendment of the Liberal leader, Sinclair, which charged the Prime Minister with violation of his pledge. The Henry amendment declared that "This House receives with satisfaction the announcement of the decision of His Honor's advisors to introduce legislation which will maintain the principle of the Ontario Temperance Act, while providing such amendments thereto as will destroy the illicit traffic in liquor and will create a greater respect for an observance of law and order." This motion immediately became one of prime importance to the House, and was endorsed by a vote of 79 to 26.

Other amendments from J. A. Pinard (Liberal, East Ottawa) for Government control and from Karl Homouth (Labor, South Waterloo) for the abolition of doctors' prescriptions were proposed and withdrawn, following which the formal motion for the reply to His Honor's address was then carried on the same division.

The House resounded with cheers, following the Premier's address of the afternoon, when it was believed that the debate was ended. Party whips summoned members, and considerable amusement was caused when Karl Homouth made his first appearance as whip of the new Labor group with its membership of three, including himself.

The Labor group lent its support to the Government, as did also the following Liberals: Z. Mageau (Sturgeon Falls), E. Proulx (Prescott), A. Bellanger (Russell), E. P. Tellier (East Essex), A. G. Wallis (Algoma) and J. A. Pinard (East Ottawa).

BAD WEATHER MARS OMEMEE MEETINGS

Energetic Mission Band Plans Entertainment Soon—Sad Death Reported.

OMEMEE, March 3.—The Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, held their annual day of prayer on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. G. Williamson. Owing to the disagreeable and stormy weather, there were only sixe ladies present. The first vice-president, Mrs. O. G. Williamson, presided, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Black, and the printed programme allotted for the special service was followed. Each lady present took a small part and a very profitable hour was spent.

Funeral This Week.

News of the sad death of Mrs. Meryle Wallace (nee Olla Earle), of Pittsburgh, Kansas, which reached Omemee on Monday, has cast a gloom over the entire village. Deceased was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Earle and sister of Dr. G. N. Earle and Melville of town. No news regarding the death are at hand, other than a healthy baby boy was left motherless a few hours after birth. The body is being brought to Omemee for burial, her mother who has been with her for the past three months, and husband will accompany the body, which is expected to arrive Thursday night or Friday.

Planning Entertainment.

The energetic Mission Band of the Methodist church is planning for an entertainment to be given during the month of April. The band has been enthusiastic over an autographed quilt which has just been completed. The quilt is made of white cotton and the members of the band have been successful in collecting 170 names, by each one paying the small sum of 10 cents, to have his or her name worked on the quilt in red, which was done through the kindness of Mrs. Robert Williamson. The quilt will be sold by auction on the night of the entertainment and the band are hoping that in this way a substantial sum will be added to the funds of the Society.

FIRE PROTECTION TALKED AT TWEED

Scarcity of Water at One Point Alarms Council—Police Cost 300.

TWEED, March 5.—On Monday night, March 2, Tweed Council met in the Municipal Hall, all the members being present.

When the question of the auditors' report came febore the council, Auditors Frost and Minorgan claimed it was impossible to give a proper audit owing to the tax lists and debentures beng disconnected. After necessary books are obtained as requested by the new treasurer, Garret Morton, the previous accounts will be classified and put in proper order.

A discussion arose over the fire dock on the lake shore at McCammon Hill. When a fire occurred at Mr. Bowers' residence a week ago it was found no water could be obtained at the dock owing to limited water supply more especially in winter. Had the fire been of a serious nature, the engine and equipment would have been to no purpose in extinguishing the fire.

Chief Huyck said he had recommended a tank to be built at Geo. Way's corner, a most convenient place for the engine to be placed. A tank at this point would be selffilling from the running stream.

Considerable discussion was brought about when A. Godfrey presented a bill for fees due on a case last fall, in which the fine had been paid, but a personal note had been given for the costs in the case. Mr. Godfrey thought he should not be asked to wait for his pay. He also presented a bill for services to the village which caused considerable comment and opened the channel of discussion re the services of village police service. The fact that $30t was expended in such services during the past year caused some of the members to look into the matter of regular services, and it was suggested that by combining the many duties as was done until a few years ago, sufficient money could be raised to pay a good man to look after the interests of the village in a becoming way. A motion was finally moved by S. B. Rollins, seconded by E. R. Huyck, that Messrs. McAvoy and Way be a committee to look into the whole matter and report.

URGE CHURCH UNION.

The Campbellford Methodist Church Asks Legislation to Approve Bill.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 5. — At a special meeting of the Official Board of the Methodist church on Sunday night the following resoluiton to the chairman, Private Bills committee, Legislative Assembly, Toronto, Ontario, was sent on motion of Messrs. G. A. Payne and J. A. Irwin:

Gentlemen,—At the special meeting of the Quarterly Board of the Campbellford Methodist church, it was unanimously resolved to memorialize the Private Bills committee of the Ontario Legislature to pass the Church Union Bill, soon to be considered.

We are unanimously of the opinion and would most strongly urge, that the bill receive the approval of the committee and of the Legislature, without amendment.

It is further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Private Bills committee of the Legislature, and also to our member, Major J. F. B. Belford.

Signed, Wesley Elliott, Pastor, S. A. Maguire, Recording Steward.

Personal.

Mrs. Alf. Hay, 2nd vice-president, presided at the Women's Missionary meeting on Tuesday in St. Andrew's church, instead of the president.

Miss Hazel Mason, Sebastopol street, left on Saturday morning for Apsley, where she has accepted a school in Chandos, about four miles from Apsley. Miss Mason will not only be missed at home, but in the choir and Sunday school of the Methodist church. She was also a Ranger.

Mr. D. A. Montgomery, of McIntosh Bros., Front street, was in Belleville on Tuesday on a business trip.

HEART WAS WEAK NERVES ALL GONE
Mrs. J. H. Hallenbeck, 117½ Welland Avenue, St. Catharines, Ont., writes:—"I was in a gas explosion; it left me with a weak heart, and my nerves were all gone. I suffered everything; couldn't sleep, or endure any excitement, and when left alone I felt as if I could scream. I took dizzy spells, often falling and bruising myself. My mother read about your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and bought me a box, but having taken so many different kinds of medicine it just seemed that I did not have any confidence in any of them. I took one box of H. & N. Pills, and felt so much better I continued with them until I had used five boxes, and after I had taken them I did not need any more. I cannot praise, or recommend, Milburns Heart and Nerve Pills too highly after all they have done for me."

STIRLING HAS ITS AMBITIONS

Waterworks, Community Hall and Covered Rink Discussed by Council.

SLEIGHS OUT AGAIN

STIRLING, March 5. — At the regular meeting of the Council on Monday night all the members were present. After the passing of a number of accounts and other routine business, a general discussion ensued, and if all the enterprises spoken of become real facts, Stirling will be a place of no mean importance.

With waterworks, new community hall and post office—not forgetting the new covered rink — the programme is a big one.

Union Prayer Meeting.

At the union prayer meeting held in the Methodist Church, there was an attendance of 27 ladies, which no doubt would have been greater if the weather had not been so inclement and the walking so slippery.

Mrs. Barrett ably presided; Mrs. Allan Donnell gave an interesting talk, subject, "Going the Second Mile"; Mrs. Roberts sang "Always a Blessing in Prayer."

Personals.

The Ladies' Union of the Methodist Church held a business meeting and a 10-cent tea at the home of Mrs. Earl Lowery on Tuesday afternoon, with a good attendance.

Miss Myrtle McMullen returned from Kingston General Hospital on Saturday night, having spent seven weeks there after an operation for appendicitis. She is recovering slowly, and hopes to be around again soon.

Miss Hume Injured.

Miss Alice Hume, who had been confined to her home for several weeks through illness, started for church on Sunday morning, was unfortunate in slipping on an icy spot, and falling, broke her left arm at the elbow.

Mrs. Richard Clements is seriously ill, with very little hope of her recovery.

Mrs. Harold Elliott left on Monday to visit her grandmother, Mrs. John Heath, 7th Concession of Rawdon ,who is seriously ill. As she as over 80 years of age, the result is not as sure as in one of younger age.

Mrs. R. W. Meiklejohn left on Monday afternoon to visit for a few days at Cooper, Madoc Township.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams, of Jackson ,Michigan, are visiting her sister, Mrs. Charlie Bailey.

Mr. Darius Green ,of Deloro, spent the week-end with his family here.

Mr. James Montgomery is able to attend to his duties as mail carrier again after a severe illness.

The earthquake last Saturday evening was felt in some parts of the village, while in other sections it wasn't noticed. It caused some alarm, but no damage was done.

Sleighing Restored.

It must have been the final roar of the March lion which introduced us to some real winter weather on Sunday, the snowfall being sufficient to make fairly good sleighing again, and those who had ice or logs to haul got busy with their sleighs again on Monday.

TWO ARRESTED.

TORONTO, March 5.—(Canadian Press).—Two young men, Thomas Notley, aged 21, and George Tutty, aged 19, were arrested last night on charges of attempted murder of Courtney Hackeday, 83-year-old caretaker of St. Barnardas Church. The accused are held also on two charges of shopbreaking. Hackeday was sleeping in a room off the church on Sunday night, when two men climbed through the window and beat him, causing severe head injuries and knocking out two teeth.

Dark Brown Taste Is Not Always Bootleg

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., March 5 (Canadian Press). — Long after the most of us had become accustomed to blaming it on Prohibition liquor, Dr. Roy Woolberg testified in Circuit Court yesterday that "Sunday morning headaches" are caused by improperly banked furnaces, and consequently the spreading of carbon monoxide gas.

"The reason is that we lie in bed longer on the Sabbath, and inhale more of the gas than on week days," said Dr. Woolberg, who was giving expert testimony in a damage suit resulting from the entry of monoxide gas into an apartment from a furnace.

COFFIN SHELLS HIDE BANDITS

TWO GUILTY.

HAMILTON, March 5. — (Canadian Press). — Clever work on the part of Detectives Duffy and Sharp resulted in the arrest of four men alleged to have twice broken into the premises of the Lyons Tailoring Company.

After being interrupted in their last alleged robbery, the men escaped to the rear of a nearby undertaker's establishment and concealed themselves for four hours in empty coffin "shells." They are Donald McWhirter and Gerald Flynn who pleaded guilty to-day and were remanded for sentence, and William Syer and Fred Strimble who will be tried next Tuesday.

CONSERVATIVES

terial prosperity of the time but I wouldn't say they laid any moral prosperity." The Premier read a promise of Sir Oliver Mowat to establish prohibition and of the promise in 1903 by Sir George Ross for temperane legislation but in neither case was the promise fulfilled. "Even in 1904 he did not give temperance legislation and in 1905 the Liberals went to their long rest from which they have not yet returned."

The Premier then challenged Mr Sinclair to state his position to which the Liberal leader replied that it would be shown when the vote was taken, Mr. Sinclair also gave a flat denial to the remark by the Premier that there was a rumor from Ottawa that Mr. Sinclair had been told not to meddle too much in the question.

"Drys Not Honest."

The Premier reviewed the history immediately at the time of the enactment of the O. T. A. and then went into an attack on the Prohibition Union of Ontario. He repeated that their support in the temperance question could not be depended upon. Such associations he declared should be honest with public men. The year 1919 when the Hearst government he declared was the worst political tragedy in the history of the Province. "If the prohibitionists had been honest in their protestations to Sir William Hearst and sincere in their promised support, then no agrarian movement or any other kind of a movement could have been lead astray. The four hundred thousand pledged to support prohibition instead of supporting Hearst the pioneer of prohibition in this country stood behind the hedge and drove the stilletto into him."

Mr. Raney: "You are prohibitionists to a man," to the Conservatives when they applauded the Premier.

"We are men who believe that there are other ways of enforcing the O. T. A. than by thumb screw and vice methods," retorted the Premier. "We are prepared to overtake five years that have been lost in the temperance movement. We will try to have temperance sentiment overtake what it has lost. That is the kind of men who sit behind me. But now let us say something about the men who run kind of a second legislature in this province— the Prohibition Union. I told them the other day that their attitude towards public men was all wrong. Their whole attitude is destructive.

"The prohibitionists have failed to do their duty and I undertook to tell them so the other day and let me tell you that the small deputation agreed with me and the Attorney General. But what happened when they went back to the convention? Mr. Austin told them that while he did not agree with the government he thought they were sincere. That was choked down his throat and the convention had not the tolerance to allow the man to express his view.

Liberal President.

"Then the president of that association is our old friend R. J. Fleming recognized as a staunch Liberal. It was he in 1919 who with the Cincinatus from Crown Hill lay for Sir William Hearst and hit him over the head with a black jack. Mr. Fleming is the man who is executor for the man who owned the Dominion Brewery."

Mr. Ferguson argued that a man who held such a position should not allow himself to be chosen head of the prohibition forces. He said that the prohibitionists should not make the outstanding feature of their organization intolerance. What the Premier told the deputation he said was in hopes of making them tolerant but the convention wound up with a resolution to coerce members to their views.

"Is coercion to prevail?" aseked the Premier who argued that moral suasion not coercion, education not autocractic action was the best means of convincing people. He declared that the government would take full responsibility for its action and would refused to be coerced.

Going into history again the Premier said that it was not the first time that a Conservative Premier had been accused of violating his word. He referred to attacks on Sir James Whitney and declared that he would follow the course of Sir James and that looking at the "bedraggled, tattered remnants in opposition he thought his career would long live."

He thought that within three years the temperance people would come to him and say that the present measure had done more for true temperance than anything preceding it since 1916. "We will try to convince the people of the honesty of purpose of the government," said the Premier. "I think we can show them that many of us are aiming at the same purpose but are taking different roads."

MONEY CONTROL

Taylor did not know much about banking. "If a man who grows wheat in the west wants ready money for it when he markets it, he had better take the advice of Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, rather than that of my Hon. Friend," said Mr. Robb.

If there was anything that would lead up to more bank mergers in Canada—which were thoroughly undesirable—it was the continual attacks on the banking system made in the House of Commons. There ws no such thing as the control of the banking system by seven men in Montreal. "The banking system is controlled by 235 men in this parliament," asserted Mr. Robb.

"Quite so, we are suggesting a changed system," said Mr. Woodsworth.

Robb Satisfied.

Mr. Robb presented the figures of the bank note circulation, and the Dominion note circulation, by way of establishing the stability of the present system. "I summit that the banking system is meeting pretty well the needs of this country," he said, and advocated that well enough might be left alone.

W. C. Good (Progressive, Brant) declared that the most "pitiable sight" since he came into the House was the empty government benches, while the debate was on. He had heard nothing since coming into the House indicating "an utter inability to understand a point of view." As Mr. Robb's speech, although, he said, he had a high personal regard for the minister. The supporters of the government knew nothing and cared less about the banking question, yet there was no question of greater public importance before the country today.

Mr. Robb interjected his agreement with him on that point.

W. F. MacLean (Conservative, South York), inquired if, had the federal reserve system been in effect in Canada, detection of the true conditions of the Home Bank would have been made earlier.

Mr. Good replied that such detection would not depend so much on the federal reserve system, but more on an adequate system of inspection.

"All we want is to assert and make more effective, the control of Parliament," said Mr. Good, adding that a more intelligent control was needed.

Sir Henry Drayton (Conservative, West York) had been unable, he said, to get any ray of light as to the future from Mr. Good's speech. He agreed with the Acting Minister of Finance, that the worst thing possible to do to the smaller banks was to create suspicion in the public mind.

Deflation After War.

Sir Henry Referred to conditions at the conclusion of the war, stating that after war, there was bound to be a condition of inflation. Inflation was bound to follow the artificial inflation.

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, asked why it was that wheat and other agricultural products deflated so much more quickly than other commodities.

To this, Sir Henry replied that wheat always felt an inflation more quickly than other commodities, and always deflated more quickly. It was more sensitive to conditions than other commodities. The price of wheat rested upon the buying power of the wheat purchasing countries, and the quantity of wheat for sale. No government could effect the price of wheat.

Sir Henry Drayton was still speaking at six o'clock, when the Speaker left the chair, and the House adjourned.

St. Charles is pure, country milk just as it comes from inspected cows in choice dairy districts. Nothing is added. Nothing is taken away except half of the natural water content which is "evaporated" that this pure milk may be put up in convenient form. If you desire a milk of creamy richness for your recipe use St. Charles just as it comes from the can—or, you can make it go twice as far by bringing it to the consistency of ordinary milk—on adding an equal quantity of water. LIQUOR SHIPMENTS.

The explanation from Premier King that the anti-smuggling treaty with the United States would make it possible to check liquor shipments to the United States will be received wih satisfaction.

The clearing from Canadian ports of small boats laden with liquor for "Cuba" or some other equally distant ports has long been a source of regret to those Canadians who saw in this traffic a menace to international good-will.

If the treaty succeeds in stopping a large amount of this business it will be an excellent thing for both countries.

And, incidentally, the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act will be greatly facilitated, for undoubtedly many of these shipments to "Cuba" eventually land back into Ontario and furnish the bootlegging trade with the supplies necessary for the carrying on of their business.

MAKING BETTER CITIZENS.

It is announced that the campaign put on by the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament to raise $8,500 to promote the Canadian standard efficiency training in the Province has been completely successful.

This will be gratifying, the Examiner feels sure, to those who have investigated the C. S. E. T. programme, and have realized the possibilities promised by a development of that programme among the 'teen age boys of Ontario.

A training that seeks to develop the youngsters mentally, physically and spiritually deserves general support, and there is no reason to doubt that Ontario will be the gainer as the result of the budget raised by the Boys' Parliament.

Those who have subscribed toward this splendid cause have the satisfaction of knowing that they have invested in something that promises to return rich dividends in the form of better citizenship.

Boys who come under the influence of the C. S. E. T. programme can hardly fail to show an all-round development as a result, and the scheme appears from every angle to be the most comprehensive and effective plan of training boys that has yet been devised.

The Older Boys' Parliament is to be congratulated both on the success of its campaign and upon the work it has undertaken.

A TIP FROM THE SOUTH.

Canada's tourist industry is bringing millions of new money into the country. We doubt, says the Financial Post, if any other business returns such a satisfactory margin of net profit in relation to the drain upon the country's resources. Tourists are usually satisfied to look at our natural attractions without depleting them—even the activities of the enthusiastic fishermen and hunters are not serious in relation to the total populations of our streams and forests—and they are more anxious to exchange their dollars for service and entertainment than for raw materials.

The tourist business is only in its beginning for Canada—if proper methods are employed to encourage it. Undoubtedly we can learn something from experiences of other countries; the following item is from a Florida newspaper:

> The tourist can be a profitable person indeed. The only thing that must be avoided is the overcharging of the willing spenders. This is indeed all too prevalent and will always react, sooner or later, to the detriment of the resort so overcharging. Auto tourists, especially, are a clannish bunch, and once a location gets the reputation for "milking" the passing public then the tourists avoid that locality as the plague.

This is a tip from Florida which should be taken seriously in Canada. Not only do we want our visitors to come back again, but the most effective advertising our resorts can have is the spoken good word of those who have been there. And, on the other hand, nothing will be more effective in killing off the tourist crop if our visitors go away disgruntled and spread the story that they have been overcharged for supplies or entertainment.

THOSE EXPANDING TAXES.

The proposal to levy a gasoline tax of $3,000,000 a year leads the Toronto Star to dwell upon the enormous amount of money which is already collected by Ontario in various forms of taxation. It gives the following list of taxes collected in 1924:

Amusement tax, licenses, etc	$1,922,570
Law stamps and land transfer taxes	810,000
Succession duties	4,175,197
Corporation taxes (including race tracks)	5,511,407
Motor vehicles	4,756,323

Ten or fifteen years ago most of these taxes were unknown, points out the Ottawa Journal. Today, a session of the Legislature without the addition of some new tax is an oddity. Half the time of our legislators appears to be spent in devising new ways of making the people pay.

A man is taxed from the cradle to the grave. The milk bottle which nurses him, the bonnet in which he goes to get christened, the diamond he gives his fiancee, the wedding ring he gives his wife, the drugs with which he tries to prolong his existence, the tombstone over his grave—all pay toll to the tax-gatherer. He is taxed if he pays his debts; he is taxed if he gets paid debts; he is taxed if he makes a sale; he is taxed if he gives his neighbor a sale; he is taxed when he buys a paper, or goes to the movies, or buys a box of cigarettes, or goes to a prize-fight, or breaks the O. T. A. The food that he eats, the clothes that he wears, the amusement that he takes, the things that he reads, he radio that he listens in on, the new model that he buys, the tobacco that he smokes, the stimulants he thinks he needs—everything, but his grouch and his grievances—renders to Caesar. And if he happens to survive it all, and saves a little money notwithstanding, the tax-gatherer takes most of it when he dies.

Life, in fact, is getting to be one blankety-blank tax after another. It is really grotesque. And there is only one remedy. It is that people, instead of listening to after-dinner orators talking buncombe about our wonderful future and resources should get down to realities and make Governments spend less than they earn.

PRACTICAL ASSISTANCE.

Practical assistance towards a real scheme of reforestation is being given by the Ontario Government in its offer to supply for free distribution a large number of small trees.

Several counties in the Province have taken advantage of this assistance to embark upon a reforestation policy, and others might well follow their example, while the opportunity should also appeal to farmers and land-owners who wish to improve their wood lots and reforest waste portions of their property.

On almost every farm there are a few acres not much used for anything else that could be devoted to tree planting.

The advice of the Forestry Branch is that those undertaking such planting should make a start with one acre the first year—in fact, two acres is the largest area for which the branch will undertake to supply free planting material in any one year.

Besides supplying the trees, the Forestry Branch will, in so far as the means at its disposal will permit, assist in the growing of wood lots by giving advice in regard to the choice of species and mixtures, the selection of suitable areas, their preparation, method of planting and care after planting.

This is service about which many farmers may be ignorant, and the Examiner suggests that any persons in this district interested in the matter should write to the Ontario Forestry Branch.

CROW'S NEST PASS CASE.

The judgment of the Supreme Court in the Crow's Nest Pass appeal decides but one point favorable to the western contention; but it happens to be a very important point. It declares the agreement of 1897 binding, and that the Railway Commission has no power to over-ride a special statute of that nature. It, however, upholds the argument of the railways that the maximum rates fixed by the agreement apply only to such shipping points as were served by the Canadian Pacific twenty-eight years ago. There is likely to be a reference to the whole matter to the Imperial Privy Council, and, pending a decision by that final court of resort, it may be assumed that no change will be made in the existing scale of rates—unless Parliament intervenes. That is a vital qualification.

The right of Parliament to intervene at any time, and by legislation to do whatever it may wish, is undoubted. In this instance, however, Parliament should intervene for one purpose, and one only, and that is to clearly and definitely assert the supremacy of the Railway Commission as the sole arbiter in this and all other matters affecting the rates structure. If the judgment of the Supreme Court should not be reversed by the Privy Council, and it should be given effect as it has been rendered, there would at once be a return to the exceedingly unsatisfactory situation which obtained between 7th July last and the finding of the Railway Commission several months later. The Dominion Government, it will be remembered, had ordered the restoration of the Crow's Nest Pass rates, and the railways interpreted that as applying only to points which were on the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1897. As against all other shipping points there was discrimination. The Supreme Court has decided that the position then taken by the railways was sound in law.

It matters not that the main contention of the Progressives has been sustained. There is a principle at stake which rises far above the legality of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement. When that agreement was executed twenty-eight years ago, the Railway Commission was not in existence. It was created by the Railway Act in 1903. That Act had one specific purpose as its very core, and that purpose was to place the regulation of rates in the hands of a tribunal which should have absolute power in the premises. To that Parliament gave its sanction without a dissenting voice, and back of that sanction was the unqualified judgment of the people at large.

What Parliament did in 1903 with public approval was right. It took the control of railway rates out of political hands and put it in judicial hands. To revert to the practice in vogue anterior to 1903 would be a most unsound and perilous thing to do, and it will not be done unless the Progressives in Parliament have the political strength to do it. The effect would be to destroy the Railway Commission, which was deliberately brought into existence to assert justice as between shipper and carrier, without reference to geographical or class considerations. In other words, that board was in the position of the Supreme Court of Canada, concerned only in doing what was just.

The interests at stake in the matter are unreckonable. As between the protection of public interests, on one hand, and the interests of the agencies of transportation on the other, it is necessary to have an independent and competent tribunal like the Railway Commission. Freight rates are based on economic considerations, and, if justice is to be done in the fixing of them, room cannot be left for the play of purely sectional or class influences. The moment such influences are permitted to operate as factors, the door is thrown wide open for all sorts of injustice. The whole matter must be treated from the national viewpoint, and in an impartial spirit. It is, in fact, conceivable that the regulation of rates by a political group, controlled by either a section or a class, might lead to the ruination of the railways. At all events, under such a system there would inevitably be constant clamor and dissatisfaction.

We have reached a juncture where our Canadianism will be submitted to a supreme test. Parliament may do one of two things: It may assert its power on the side of sectionalism, or it may rise superior to political interests and stand for a sane and vital principle. If it takes the latter course, all will be well. No matter what may be the immediate outcome, it will have taken high and safe ground. It could then look forward with the sustaining consciousness of having been governed wholly by national considerations. Any other course would beyond all doubt lead to incalculable trouble.—Kingston Whig.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A seismograph record of the shock felt in Sault Ste. Marie when the final score came in the other night would be of great interest.

In spite of the attacks upon the subsidy scheme, Mr Preston is doubtless still humming "Don't Let Them Scrap the Petersen Navy."

Oshawa has decided to spend $16,000 on a triple combination pumper for the Fire Department. This is the apparatus Fire Chief Gimblett believes necessary in Peterboro, but the City Council has not seen the matter in the same light.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

WINNIPEG, Man., March 4. — Cattle and calves, 980; demand for killing steers lighter, butcher females and stockers and feeders generally in good request, trade active and prices firm on latter.

Sheep and lambs, 35; prices steady; good killing lambs $13.00; decent sheep $7.00 to $8.00.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 4. — In a sudden whirl of selling the wheat market to-day suffered an exterme fall of $7 7-8 a bushel. In unlooked for set-back in quotations at Liverpool together with a British trade estimate that consumers' requirements in the United States would show enormous falling off during the next months had much to do with the breakdown of values here. Wheat prices closed heavy at 2 1-2 cents to 7 3-8c decline, May 192 to 192 1-4 and July 168 1-2 to 168 3-4, wtih corn 3 7-8 to 4 1-2 cents off, Oats showing 5-8 to 1-4c down provisions from 7 cents drop to a gain of 2c.

STERLING RATES.

Sterling demand $4.77.
Sterling cables $4.77 3-8.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Ont., March 4. — Reports point to increasing receipts and at the larger receiving centres quality of local eggs is reported good. The consumptive demand is also good. United States fresh continue to arrive. The market has a slightly easier tendency although official prices remain unchanged, there is in some instances some shading of prices.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan markets unchanged.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 4.—About 500 cattle were held over from Tuesday's market, making altogether 1,700 head in the yards when trading opened at the Union Stock Yards today. Cattle were a little slow in moving, but early sales indicated that prices were fully steady with the week's slight advance.

Exporters picked up an odd load of heavy steers at $7.50 to $8.00 a hundred. A couple of choice steers just under the 1,200 pound mark brought $8.50 from a packer with several sales of handyweights at $7.25 to $7.75 a hundred. Medium to good steers and heifers sold from $6 to $7 with a few butcher cattle too poor to command $6. Cows held steady at $5.50 for tops with the bulk of butchers at $4.25 to $5.25 a hundred. Bulls continued to sell well at $4.50 to $5.50 for good heavies with some going to exporters.

The only weak spot on the market was in the milker and springer division. The activity generated by Quebec orders a couple of weeks ago is now lacking and prices on the best cows and springers have slumped down to $70 to $90 each. Outside of the milch cow offering, salesmen expect to make an early clean-up.

Hogs Hold Advance.

There was nothing unusual in the calf market. Supplies were clearing out briskly at $13.50 for tops with the bulk of the good to choice vealers selling from $11 to $13 a hundred.

Hogs held yesterday's advance of a quarter a hundred, salesmen having no trouble in moving today's run of 2,560 head at $12.75 off car for thick smooths. Outsiders were picking up a few loads and helped to liven up trade.

A small lamb supply of 93 head offered nothing to create interest. There was nothing really choice noticeable, and the majority of the fair to good lambs brought $13 to $16 a hundred with odd sales up to $16.50. Sheep were very scarce.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, March 5.—(Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain her yesterday was again inactive with practically no firm bids being received. In sympathy with the weakness in oats at Winnipeg, local dealers reduced prices one cent per bushel. Ontario No. 3 white goods being quoted at 64 cents and a No. 4 grade at 62 cents per bushel export.

An Easter feeling prevailed in the spring wheat flour market and prices were reduced thirty cents per barrel. The market for winter wheat flour was also weaker and prices dropped 10 cents per barrel. The demand in both cases was very limited.

A good demand was made for eggs yesterday and an active trade was done with prices being firm. The tone of the butter market was firm at the recent advances noted. The chees market was inactive, but prices were unchanged with fodder made No. 1 white and colored goods quoted at 20¼ to 20½ cents per pound, and No. 2 grade at 19¼ to 19½ cents per pound.

Beans were steady at $2.70 per bushel.

HASTINGS HUSTLERS ELECTED OFFICERS

Receipts From Winter Fair Satisfactory—Slipped on Ice, Broke Ankle.

HASTINGS, March 5.—The Hustlers' Men's Bible Class of the Methodist church Sunday school was entertained at the parsonage on Friday evening. Although the weather was severe and stormy, seventeen members were present.

The following officers were elected:

President—Mr. Walter Dodd.
Vice-President—Mr. Cecil Waye.
Secretary—Mr. Clifford Baker.
Treasurer—Mr. Ormond Cruickshank.
Teacher—Rev. M. L. Hinton.

An enjoyable time was spent, concluding with lunch, served by the Misses May, Bessie and Lillian Hinton, and a hearty vote of thanks tendered the host and hostess.

Receipts From Fair.

The president of the Mission Circle of the Hastings Methodist church, Miss May Hinton, reports the receipts of the Winter Fair for both evenings as $108.00. The weather was not favourable for the fat man to appear as advertised for the first evening of the event, but on Tuesday night he was presented to the audience. A guessing contest as to who was the fat man was won by Miss Jean Macdonald. This character was taken by Mr. Ormond Cruikshank.

Much credit is due Mrs. B. F. Doxsee and Mrs. R. W. Johnson for the delightful hot lunches they supervised. The girls desire to thank all those who helped, with donations and in other ways and the Mission Circle and Mission Band.

Urban Responsibilities.

Ex-warden W. M. Foulds of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham attended the 23rd annual meeting of the Ontario Good Roads Association, held in Toronto February 25, 26 and 27. On Thursday afternoon Mr. Fowlds addressed those present on "Urban Responsibilities Towards Rural Roads."

Broke Her Ankle.

While crossing from her home to that of a neighbor on Friday, Miss Margaret Bailey was unfortunate enough to sustain a broken bone near her ankle when she slipped on a piece of ice.

News in Brief.

The regular monthly meeting of the Hastings Chapter I.O.D.E. was held on Monday afternoon.

Miss Irene Legeyt of Peterboro has been visiting her friend, Miss Lillian Montgomery, in Hastings.

Detective Max Richardson of Toronto visited his mother, Mrs. L. Richardson, recently.

Mr. T. A. Coughlan has returned after spending a short time in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Iden Bonds spent a few days last week in Peterboro and Norwood.

Miss Pansy Runnels spent Monday in Campbellford.

Mr. T. Hill of Chicago was a week-end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hill.

Mr. Ernest Fairman spent the week-end at his home in Campbellford.

Miss Helen Wood and Miss Jean Baker spent the week-end with friends in Campbellford.

IS THIS YOUR BIRTHDAY

THURSDAY, MARCH 5— You will have a good business head if today is your birthday. Your success, however, will come through hard work and not through "get-rich-quick methods. You will take a great interest in all kinds of sports and will keep in good health as the result of constant exercise. If a woman, you will not be "crazy" about clothes, and yet you always will appear well dressed. You will make a good housewife and probably will marry young.

A THOUGHT.

WHENCE COMETH ALL HAPPINESS

Happiness cannot come from without—it must come from within. It is not that which we see, or touch, or feel, or that which others do for us which makes us happy; it is that which we think and feel and do first "for the other fellow" and then for ourselves. I know that inability to see, inability to hear, inability of normal speech cannot shut happiness away from one who loves and is loved, from one who works, and, like all workers, inevitably gains the pay for labor; from one who wishes all men well and tries, however humbly, to be helpful, believing that fundamentally all men are good."—From Helen Keller, whose real courage is the marvel and challenge of the world."

NEW PRESIDENT BEGINS REGIME URGING THRIFT

Economy, Not to Save Money, Declared Coolidge, But to Save People.

TO LESSEN TAXES

Toilers of the Country Bear Cost of Government—No Inaugural Ball.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—(Canadian Press).—Calvin Coolidge yesterday calmly and quietly assumed the duties if President of the United States for four more years.

In a brief inaugural ceremony, which never deviated from the simple and decorous programme laid down by himself, Mr. Coolidge renewed his oath of office on his grandmother's Bible, and in a short address re-stated his governmental policy of frugality.

Thousands of people witnessed the induction of Mr. Coolidge and millions more listened to what he said at their radio sets. His address was to "My Countrymen." In an unhurried, even tone the President read from his manuscript steadily until he reached his final declaration that the United States cherishes no purpose "save to merit the favor of Almighty God."

Only twice was the cadence of the Presidential voice disturbed by emotion—once when he reached his conclusion and once when he expounded his doctrine of governmental economy.

Purpose of Economy.

"In favor the policy of economy, not because I wish to save money; but because I wish to save people," he said, leaning forward and with voice growing husky just a little in the intensity he put into the words. "The men and women of this country who toil are the ones who bear the cost of the government. Every dollar that we carelessly waste means that their life will be so much the more meagre. Every dollar that we prudently save means that their life will be so much more abundant."

The President pledged himself to further tax reduction and promotion of peace, declared for responsible party government with the party label meaning "more than a mere means for seeking office" and for international co-operation, including adherence by the United States to the World Court.

The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Taft, himself a former President. Mr. Coolidge responded with a firm yet almost inaudible "I do."

Inaugural Parade.

The gala celebrations and expensive trappings of former inaugurations were almost entirely lacking at yesterday's ceremony. After the Presidential address had been concluded, Mr. Coolidge was escorted by trotting cavalry from the Capitol to the White House, where he took his place with his guests in a glass-enclosed reviewing stand to witness the passing of the inaugural parade.

A score of Governors of States, marching soldiers, sailors and marines, columns of artillery and a battalion of squat tanks filed up Pennsylvania Avenue past the view of the newly-installed Executive, and the formalities in which the President took a leading part were over.

The usual inaugural ball did not take place last night, President and Mrs. Coolidge signifying their intention of spending the evening quietly.

THE FRENCH PRESS

MR. BOURASSA ON CHURCH UNION.

Henri Bourassa writes in Le Devoir: "If the intervention of the Legislature is necessary, it ought to be limited to a recognition of the civil existence of the United Church and to conferring on it the powers attributed to all other sects of religious corporations, including the right to regulation according to its will—and without any meddling by the State—of everything that concerns its faith and teachings and its internal management. This has been granted to all confessions since the establishment of our first Legislature in 1791. Why make an innovation? Why enter upon the tortuous road into which the Federal Parliament allowed itself to be conducted last year? The initial error of the church unionists was in going to Ottawa in the first instance. According to the spirit of the Federal pact and the constitution, everything affecting religious and civil life and education comes within the jurisdiction of the Provinces. The founders of the United Church ought to have commenced where they see themselves obliged to go in the end—namely, to seek legal recognition in each of the Provinces where they intend to exercise their ecclesiastical and civil activities, their property rights, etc. They realize today that these matters belong exclusively to the Provincial Legislatures. Why did they first address themselves to Ottawa? For what motive did they induce the Federal Parliament to come out of its normal and constitutional sphere and transform itself into an ecclesiastical synod? The pretext invoked then, and repeated today at Quebec, is that the new church counts adherents in every Province. How does that situation differ from that of all other churches and sects recognized in Canada? Why should the United Church be sheltered from the inconveniences imposed upon all others? Is not the real reason that the promoters thought they were more certain of obtaining legal recognition at Ottawa than at Toronto—or, to be more exact, that once having obtained the adhesion of the Federal Parliament they thought themselves certain of forcing from the Ontario Legislature a consent already refused—refused, at least, under conditions submitted by the promoters of union? Whether such calculations were made or not, whether the promoters of union (or their advocates) are responsible or not responsible for the inextricable state of embarrassment which they complain of today, why should our Legislature engage to dissipate this doubtful situation by creating a very dangerous precedent in every respect? Of two things, one; either the Federal charter of the United Church is constitutional or it is not If it is constitutional, why should the Provincial Legislature adopt the charter in duplication? If the Federal charter is ultra vires, why should the Legislature give it life by a juggling procedure? Would it not be better to wait until the courts have pronounced upon the validity—partial or total—of the law voted at Ottawa? Once the question has been judicially elucidated, would not the Legislature be in a better position to govern its action and render full justice to all parties interested? For, do not let it be forgotten that, beyond the religious aspect and the legal aspect, there is a great question of equity to be considered?"

SHORTHORNS IN DURHAM COUNTY

They Predominate and Good Milking Strains Are Found Among Them.

CORN FOR EXPORT.

COBOURG, March —Scotch-bred Shorthorn cattle predominate in Durham County ,and among them are some real good milking strains. Among prominent breeders of Shorthorns in Durham are J. F. Osborne & Sons, who recently paid $510 for a bull; the Solina Syndicate, D. S. Bragg; S. E. Werry, Solina; John Baker, Hampton and others. It is stated that more enquiries than usual have been received for Shorthorns this year. The following breeders have entered the Government Accredited Herd System: John Baker, Hampton; Cecil Philp, Nestleton; T. W. McCamus, Millbrook and others.

Respberry Culture

An interesting event took place on Tuesday at Bowmanville, when a number of citizens who are interested in raspberry culture assembled in the council room. Mr. G. H. Berkly of the Dominion Department of Agriculture gave an address on Raspberry Disease. This is a subject that is of vital interest to all raspberry growers, as diseases of this bush have become very prevalent during the last few years and it is felt that something must be done to stamp them out.

A cow giving 600 pounds of butterfat returns $158 annually, above her feed cost, while the cow producing 100 pounds makes a return of only $8. Witih six times the production the return is nearly twenty times as great, which shows the absolute necessity of weeding out the low producers and replacing them with more profitable individuals.

MINISTERIAL BODY MET AT MILLBROOK

Rev. Andrew McLaughlin of Keene Delivered an Interesting Address.

MILLBROOK, March 5.— The March meeting of the ministerial association was held on Monday at 9.30 a.m., the president, Rev. M. G. B. Williams, in the chair.

Rev. Andrew McLaughlin, B.A., B.D., of Keene, was the speaker, "What shall be our attitude toward the Moslem World " with the underlying text, "Launch out into the deep", being the theme chosen.

Three possible attitudes toward Mohammedhism were dealt with in detail: (a) Antagonism—Islam or Christ? (b) Fusion — Islam and Christ (c) utterly to ignore any claim upon the Christian church from followers of this faith.

"We are serving the Far East with missionary endeavor, but are not acquainted with the Near East and its needs. Yet there are 220,000,000 Mohammedhams in the latter territory ,and of these 193,000,000 are in kingdoms over which Christian rulers are set."

The speaker indicated that the attitude of the Far Eastern nations is one of appreciation of Christ, but also of determination to form their own ideas of Him. "Why force on us the things that result from your own natural development? Our own racial characteristics must be taken into account."

"Civilization cannot be saved if we consider capitalism and industrialism, above Christian experience."

Various ways were indicated in which Mohammedhism is gradually coming toward the Christian ideal, since its attitude is slowly, but perceptibly changing in treatment of womanhood, in its intolerance toward other faiths, its unwillingness to alter civil laws, its belief in slavery, and in plurality of wives.

There are but 606 Christian missionaries at work in the Near East among followers of Mohammed, and only six of these are Canadians.

The attendance at Monday's meeting was smaller than usual owing no doubt to illness in the homes, and the unfavorable weather. Those present included: Rev. R. T. Richards, of Cavan; Rev. I. G. Craw, of Springville; Rev. R. M. Paterson, of Frazerville; Rev. F. H. Howard, Rev. Mr. Williams and Rev. Mr. McLaughlin.

ROSENEATH COUNCIL PASSED ITS ACCOUNTS

Half Grant to Women's Institute Held Up for Month.

ROSENEATH, March 4. — The Alnwick township council held their regular meeting on Saturday with the Reeve and all the councillors present.

The following communications were received and fyled: From the Salvation Army, asking for a grant.

Mr. J. T. Drope was given permission to cut two trees on the road bordering his farm and that of Wilmot Mattress proviging Mr. Mattress would be willing for which he was to pay the sum of $2.

Mr Jos. Webb interviewed the Council in regard to cutting brush and repairing culverts into one of his farms known as the Kempt place. He was authorized to go ahead and do this work providing it did not take over two days.

At the June meeting of the year 1924 the council granted $50.00 as half of the caretaker's salary of $100 to the Women's Institute for the keeping up of the street and shed lights. Up to the present nothing has been paid on the grant. During the past month the Institute were unable to procure a caretaker and the work is now being done individually. Reeve Mouncey brought this matter before the council as he did not think they had any right to pay for the balance of the year.

After considerable discussion and when no satisfactory conclusion could be arrived at it was decided to lay the matter over till next month and await further developments.

On motion of Councillors Timlin and Brown the following accounts were ordered to be paid:

Frank Brown, shovelling snow, $4.70; John O'Brien, shovelling snow, $7.40; James Down, shovelling snow, $6.00; Percy Parker, breaking roads, $2.25; Warkworth Journal, printing, $17.00; Municipal World, dog tags and supplies, $9.49; Harry Coyle, 1 cord of wood, $10; C. ENGRAVING MACHINE

Unique Demonstration at Local Drug Store—Many Interested.

A machine of unique performance, with which demonstrations are now being conducted at the Harris Drug Store, formerly Warne Drug Co., is proving very interesting to large crowds. A machine for the specific purpose of engraving practically everything, it is the first practical automatic engraving machine operated entirely by unskilled help. Perhaps its attractiveness lies to a great extent in this, but its work is very well done and on a par with that done by other machines which require experienced operators. The machine is worked automatically, and but three minutes are required to engrave any small article. Customers at this store are accepting the acquisition to the store's detail in an appreciative manner.—(Advt).

"I saw an Ad — in the street car"

"Not long ago I saw an ad in the street car, 'Soaking takes the place of rubbing'. The next day I sent for a package of Rinso and tried it. I was delighted with the result and now wash my children's clothes without any effort whatsoever — they soak themselves clean in the Rinso suds. I just had to write and tell you how 'wonderful' I think Rinso is and have told several of my friends to try it.

"It is wonderful for scrubbing floors. Without a doubt the best thing I have ever used. I also cleaned my enamel sink with it and it is splendid."

The foregoing letter is but one of the many received by the makers of Rinso from women who are enthusiastic about this newer, easier, better way to wash and clean—the Rinso way.

FLASK WAS MUCH IN EVIDENCE ON RAILWAY TRAIN

Instance Where Prohibition Fails to Prohibit En Route to New York.

HALF IN, HALF OUT

Protecting Mantle Descends on Exposed Refreshment, Obscuring Vision.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Railroads maintaining service between New York City and Canadian points do not advertise free entertainment for their passengers as one of the interesting and attractive features of the ride, but a traveler who made a day trip on a recent Sunday from Montreal to this city had a highly diverting experience. The chief performer was a short, stout man, who, with the kindly aid of his wife and two porters, swung on to the last car of the train as the wheels began to move.

Day trains from Montreal on Sunday usually carry crowded Pullmans, and this was no exception. The one chair car was in charge of a porter recently transferred from a St. Louis run, who, was making his first southward trip from "wet" to "dry" territory. Upon the urgent plea of the stout passenger, the porter found a chair for his wife, but could offer him nothing better than a corner in the smoking compartment.

The man won instant attention from all his fellow-passengers because of the general belief that the customs inspectors on the American side of the border would find much to give them pause when they got around to him. The majority of the travelers had inquired in Montreal concerning the latest styles and extent of customs inspection at the border and had been assured that unless the condition of the inspected one was such as to warrant it no personal examination of the passenger would be made. Here was ample reason for a prohibition raid on the person if ever there was one, and the sympathies of his fellow-travelers went out to him. Later developments showed these kindly thoughts entirely superfluous.

He Produced a Bottle.

The hilarious passenger's first act on gaining his corner was to open his bag and take out an unopened bottle of one of the Quebec Liquor Commission's best brands. Then he rang for the porter, and while awaiting the arrival of the dusky custodian of the car he sang "There Shall Be Showers of Blessing." His vocal efforts were not restrained, and being audible the entire length of the car they drew to the smoking compartment the remaining male passengers who had not yet learned of the doings there.

"George, snap into it and yank this cork," said the singer. "I've got to drink this whole quart before we get to Rouse's Point, because if I don't they'll take it away from me and probably fine me $5 besides. I'm in pretty bad shape, because I've been up all night with some of this bottle's brothers, but I think if I could get a little help I could make it—easy."

As soon as the bottle had been opened its owner, after singing another verse of his favorite hymn, started in on the quart. He then offered it freely to the other occupants of the compartment, as well as to those in the adjoining aisle standing outside, looking in; but a strange reluctance to accept was noticeable. Each man was thinking of the coming inspection, and, whether he had anything to conceal or not, he had no desire to direct suspicion to himself.

By this time half the distance to Rouse's Point had been covered, and the customs men were due in half an hour. Scarcely more than a quarter of a bottle had gone where no law could touch it, and it seemed improbable that the serious drinker would attain his object. As the train whistled for the American border and a brakeman passed through the car instructing the occupants to open their luggage for the inspectors the stout man, who now had the smoking room almost to himself, had just reached the half-way point.

Appearing to realize suddenly that half a bottle of liquor was scarcely a safe thing to be found in one's hand at the American border on a Sunday morning, the occupant of the corner seat in the smoking compartment lurched to his feet and dropped the bottle into the only place available, the receptacle for towels underneath the washstands. His careless manner of dropping it indicated a definite intention of parting with the bottle permanently and denying ownership if the necessity arose. The fact that the bottle dropped right side up surprised the onlookers, but the owner retired to his corner and dropped asleep, with his opened traveling bag on his knees.

Just before the customs inspector entered the compartment a traveler who had paid no attention to the events there and knew nothing about the bottle dropped a towel into the receptacle. It settled protectingly over the violation of the Volstead Act. One look at the sleeping passenger and one whiff of the room convinced the inspector that a close search of the man was necessary. The conductor held the train several minutes beyond the leaving time to enable the officer to do a thorough job. The inspector left the car satisfied that the passenger's liquor was all interned and beyond confiscation.

An hour later the sleeper was aroused by the porter, who, having removed the contents of the towel receptacle, found a foreign substance therein and recognized the label "Here's your bottle, boss," said the porter. The man blinked in astonishment, rose unsteadily to his feet and seemed about to embrace the porter. Then he changed his mind, grasped the bottle in his arms and, as he sank heavily into his seat, sang with unusual feeling, "There Shall Be Showers of Blessing."

TARIFF HURTING SMALLER MINES

Charges on Certain Mining Machinery Should Be Removed Engineer Says.

MINING STOCKS.

OTTAWA, March 5. — "Baby mines are being destroyed. I call it the slaughter of the innocents," declared Louis Simpson of Ottawa, in an address on the operation of the tariff on machinery used in prospecting, developing and operating mines, delivered at yesterday's session of the 27th annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

Mr. Simpson maintained that the tariff only applied to certain machinery used in mining developments if it was to be used in connection with coal and iron mines. The same machinery, he said, if it was to be used for any other forms of mining was duty free.

He wanted to know why big corporations should be able to get all they wanted. Baby mines are being destroyed, he said.

Mr. Simpson maintained that a lot of industries get their machinery into Canada duty free and so should those interested in mining. He moved a resolution that the Institute should go on record that it is expedient that all machinery and appliances used in the several sections of the mining industry including that required for the prospecting, improving, developing and operating of mines, quarries and deposits should be permitted to be imported without duty or sales tax, and that such a resolution should be sent to the Minister of the Interior and the Minister of Finance. The suggested resolution was passed to the committee of resolutions for consideration.

Warns Investors.

One of the leading papers presented at the meeting yesterday stressed a point that is sometimes overlooked by the investing public, namely, that the mere offering of a stock issue supported by a publicity programme is no guarantee that proposition possesses real merit. Recently the Ontario Government has passed the Sale of Securities Act to protect the Canadian investor from the unscrupulous promoter operating in Ontario. This is considered very timely legislation, but it does not cover a sufficiently broad field, G C. Bateman, secretary of the Ontario Mining Association, told the meeting that:

"We have recently had more than one instance of the failure of Canadian mining companies in which English capital is largely involved. This had a very disturbing effect upon the English investor and has undoubtedly cut off sources of capital for new enterprises. It has also resulted in a great deal of undesirable publicity and much criticism of Canadian mining. If, however, we analyse those cases in the cold light of shown fact, it will be seen that Canadian mining is being asked to shoulder the blame for unbusiness-like methods of promotion."

Scouts in Field.

"Ontario offers excellent opportunities for sound organization, but investors must understand conditions as they are in this country and study these conditions intensively. There are plenty of Canadian and American companies looking for mines, as well as English companies, but the Canadians and Americans keep their scouts and engineers constantly in the field. It is not to be expected that there will be many desirable properties overlooked by the people in this country and left to English investors. The competition for properties is too keen for that."

FACE AFFECTED WITH ECZEMA

Also Behind Ears and On Limbs. Cuticura Heals.

"I was affected with eczema which broke out in a rash. I had it on my face, behind my ears and on my limbs. My skin was sore and red and my clothing aggravated it. It itched and burned causing me to scratch, and sometimes I could not sleep at night. My face was disfigured.

"I first read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I got relief so purchased more, and after using one box of Cuticura Ointment, with the Cuticura Soap, I was healed." (Signed) Miss Arvilla C. Crysler, 2639 Taylor St. N. E., Minneapolis, Minn.

$5.00 FOR EVERY FALL FROM HORSE

Interesting Story of Just How Hoot Gibson Started His Career.

"We'll pay you five a day, and five dollars for every fall you take," said the studio casting director to Hoot Gibson some years ago, when that young man first applied for a job at the Universal Studio.

"But I don't know how to fall off a horse—I've never been bucked off a bronc' in my life," replied the puzzled Hoot. "How come you pay a good rider less than a poor one?"

The director explained that there was no premium on poor riding, but the company paid extra for thrilling falls taken before the camera. Hoot took the job and joined Harry Carey's band of hard-riding cowboys Still in his 'teens, Hoot was as daring an hombre as ever threw leg over leather, and when the director asked him if he wanted to make an extra five-spot, Hoot, more broke than when he had left that dear old Nebraska, said: "Make it ten, and I'll let him kick me to death!"

Hoot's first fall established a record that is still regarded with awe on the Universal "lot." Causing his horse to gallop to the top of a high cliff, Gibson "pulled leather" until the bronc' reared up, lost its balance and, with its rider, fell backwards and toppled over the edge of the steep ravine, to a sandbank sixty feet below.

The youth's daring and utter disregard for life and limb immediately won him prominence. His daredevil riding, coupled with a likeable personality and good looks, rendered him suitable for supporting roles, Universal decided, and it was not long before he was playing leading parts. Promotion to stardom in western two-reelers followed, and later he was starred in five-reel festures.

The enthusiasm with which Hoot was received by the public astonished even the Universal. That company, seeking to add to Gibson's prestige, attempted to cast him in roles other than those of a cowpuncher. They dress him up in evening clothes. They had him put Stacomb on His hair. They even made him take dancing lessons. A howl arose that could be heard from coast to coast (and vice versa). The fans couldn't see Hoot as a city slicker for sour apples. They wanted Hoot in hair pants, or not at all.

The protest had its effect. Universal told Hoot he could park his silk hat and open-face clothes in his favorite storage warehouse, and break out the old six-shooter, sombrero and chaps. That was duck soup for Hoot, 'cause if there's one thing an honest-to-gosh cowpuncher detests, it's wearing trick clothes that split when you try to jump in the saddle to a flying start.

After resuming his full-length western features, Hoot made an experiment Reasoning that the fans would grow tired of seeing him in nothing but riding roles, Hoot decided to give 'em a little variety, and appeared in several pictures depicting life in the different services, such as the army and navy. These took hold like wild fire, so he decided to increase his repertoire and enact the role of a fireman. That went over so well he thought he'd appear as a taxi-driver—and did.

Everything Hoot attempted seemed to meet with instantaneous success. "Blinky," "Out o' Luck," "The Gentleman from America," "Forty Horse Hawkins" and "The Sawdust Trail" all were hits. Hoot seemed to have the happy faculty of guessing in advance what the public wanted.

"Which same," as Hoot modestly puts it, "is a pretty sure way to success in any line of work."

REGULAR SESSION MILLBROOK COUNCIL

Will Investigate Repairs Needed to Town Hall—Pay Accounts.

MILLBROOK, Mar. 5.—Council held its regular meeting on Monday evening, Reeve W. T. Wood in the chair. Present: Councillors J. R. Eakins, P. Stinson, T. J. Lang, G. W. Sayles.

On motion by Stinson and Lang, the annual grant of $20 was made to the Agricultural Society in support of the Winter Horse Show.

Collector C. Richards reported the amount of taxes outstanding, and on motion of Stinson and Lang the time for collecting same was extended to April 1st, 1925.

A communication was read from the Registrar-General, Toronto, re births, marriages and deaths for the current year. On motion it was received and filed.

A communication from Frank King, Lindsay, re price of oil for streets was received and filed.

Coun. Sayles and Eakins moved that Reeve Wood and Councillor Stinson be a committee to arrange for the printing contract for 1925. Carried.

Coun. Stinson and Sayles moved that the auditor's report be received as correct, and one hundred copies ordered printed in the immediate future. Carried.

The entire Council, by arrangement, will meet on Friday afternon at the Town Hall and consider necessary repairs to the part damaged by fire in the basement.

Coun. Eakins reported that it will be impossible for the Women's Institute to use the apartments in the Town Hall, as requested, owing to the difficulty of installing proper sanitary equipment.

The floor is at least two feet lower than the creek bed. Could this disadvantage be overcome, the Council would be glad to allow the Institute the rooms for public restroom and lavatory, as frost is causing damage since no fires have been kept burning while the basement has been unoccupied.

To Pay Accounts.

On motion by Coun. Sayles and Lang, the following accounts were passed:

L. C. Russell, registering births, marriages and deaths for 1924, $13.50; express of fire extinguishers, 65 cts.; W. H. Coombe, 90 cts.; W. A. Pitt, labor on Allen's Hill 75 cts.; Thos. Ridgeway Man Struck Hole While on Fishing Trip.

RIDGEWAY, Ont., March 5. — (Canadian Press).—The body of Herbert Green, aged 28, a resident of Ridgeway, was located under 35 feet of water, a mile out from Crystal Beach, in Lake Erie, last evening.

Mr. Green had struck out yesterday morning, alone, with his dog team and sleigh for a day's fishing through the ice. Following the soft spell of two weeks ago, high winds had shoved the ice in places, creating several open spaces on the lake which had become covered with a thin coating of ice, and in one of these treacherous places Green went down with the dogs and sleigh. He is survived by hiso wife and two young children.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally By Drinking Quarts of Good Water.

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney compilcations. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

ENGLAND IS AFTER HIGH MEAT COSTS

Meat Kings Deny Their Activities Have Been in Nature of Trust.

(By John Gunther, United Press Staff Corespondent).

The Royal Commission investigating food prices—at present Britain's most important domestic problem—is tackling what the papers in scare heads term "the meat trust."

For wheat is not the only serious matter before the British consumer. Grain so expensive that bread at a shilling a loaf is in sight—that is quite true—but just as important is the prospect for meat—meat at possibly a dollar a pound.

The history of what is known as "the meat trust' is illuminating.

Some of that history has come out, carefully veiled in the proceedings of the commission. The meat kings themselves deny flatly that their activities have been of the nature of a trust. American competitors on the other hand have condemned them as the leaders of one of the most unprecedented big business combines in history.

The facts of the case appear to be these:

About thirty years ago two brothers in Liverpool, Vestey by name, opened a cold storage business. It was efficiently run and intelligently managed, and it grew. The business was called the Union Cold Storage Company.

Even before the war it became powerful, expanding to the Argentine, the United States, and most of the British Dominions. The war came as a veritable bonanza. The meat business was affected much as the steel business was affected. Meat went up—and so did the Vestey stock.

The expansion which took place in the Vestey business may be a purely legitimate award for shrewd commercial talent and aggressive hard-business sense. Or—it may be a trust. That is what the commission headed by Sir Auckland Geddes must try to decide.

In any case, the Vestey interests looked about. They purchased, established, and otherwise began to control packing houses in Brazil, the Argentine, New Zealand, Australia, and Canada.

Most important of all, they slowly began to take over a multitude of English retail shops—so that now they control between 2,500 and 3,000 of them in Britain—enough to give them pretty complete control of the retail as well as the wholesale trade.

In other words, just like any great business trying to realise all its possibilities, it expanded to include buying meat at the source of supply, shipping meat, packing meat, distributing meat through wholesalers, and finally selling meat through retailers.

No matter what the point of view, it makes a pretty complete circle. The Vestey antagonists call it a vicious circle.

According to the commission, it has been establishe dthat the Vesteys have achieved a virtual monopoly.

Now, in England as in America, monopolies have a habit of producing a corollary phenomenon—high prices.

Whether or not it was a coincidence, immediately after the war, when the Vestey influence reached its height—meat soared to incredible prices.

Now it is soaring again. Hence the investigation.

DRUNKS SOBERED BY USE OF GAS

NEW YORK, Mar. 5.—Speedy resuscitation of patients unconscious from alcohol and prompt relief of milder sumptoms of intoxication are reported by Drs. T. F. Hunter and S. G. Mudd of Boston, who have been experimenting with an apparatus now in use by the New York Edison Company in this city for administering oxygen and carbon dioxide.

This combination has been highly effective, according to Dr. Charles Norris Chief Medical Examiner, in saving the lives of asphyxiated persons, but has not yet been introduced here as a treatment for alcoholism.

"Carbon dioxide has been found to be a respiratory stimulant and causes the sufferer from gas to ventilate the gas from his system mbre rapidly," said Dr. Norris. "There is no doubt whatever of its value for this use, and it should be introduced everywhere for that purpose. I haven't heard about its value in treating alcoholics."

The use of a small quantity of carbon dioxide to stimulate the breathing of persons suffering from carbon monoxide poisoning was worked out by Drs. Yandell Henderson and Howard W. Haggard at Yale. It was found valuable also in increasing respiration in operation patients and enabling them to get rid of the ether in their lungs and blood. The latter use suggested to Dr. Haggard the probable therapeutic value of carbon dioxide and oxygen in acute alcoholic cases, and the two Boston physicians tried it experimentally. The acceleration of the sobering-up process was described by them in several cases reported in the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

It took three policemen to bring in "Case 11" reported by the two physicians. After giving a terrific battle, the patient suddenly passed into deep coma. The report on the treatment in this case is:

"At 3.14 a.m. there was no response to shaking or supra-orbital pressure. Carbon dioxide administration was then begun and continued for thirty minutes. During the middle of the administration the patient began swearing and struggling and had to be held down. When the mask was removed at 3.46 he gave his name, address and occupation.

"Twelve minutes later (3:58), administration was started again and was continued for fifteen minutes with the patient quite co-operative. Ten minutes after the removal of the mask he was quite sober, remorseful and swore off liquor; he asked where he was and how he had gotten there. To all appearances he could have been discharged.

"On the following day he remembered trying to shake off the mask during the first period of carbon dioxide administration and all subsequent events. He stated that he felt better than usual. There had been no hang-over or nausea which, judging from past experiences, he should have had."

Similar results were reported in other cases, and then a controlled laboratory experiment was carried out. A volunteer drank good whisky for the experimenters and the amount of alcohol in his blood was tested from time to time. On a later date this experiment was done over again, the carbon dioxide treatment being used on the second occasion. When the carbon dioxide was used, the amount of alcohol in the blood was cut 50 per cent. in one hour. When the carbon dioxide was not used, the amount of alcohol in the blood dropped only 2 or 3 per cent. in an hour.

NEW YORK, Mar. 5—The commonest sign in New York is "Watch Your Hat," yet restaurant people say that hundreds of hats are spirited away from their owners, nefariously or otherwise, every day.

One luncheon man has a large collection of derbies, fedoras and straws that he doesn't want. "Those lids," he says, "were presented to me by very sore customers. They are the lids the other fellows left for them. But this is only a hundredth part of the hats that have been switched in my lunchrooms. Most customers who fall victims of hat trading wear the other fellow's hat away and say nothing about it to me. Hat trading has become so common that we have decided it isn't entirely accidental, and we hire spotters. Still we have complaints."

Hotel men and tearoom women agree that an astonishing number of hats disappear mysteriously in the course of a busy day. The "trading" extends to overcoats, umbrellas, parcels and even rubbers. A cafeteria proprietor is sure that many shabby thieves make a business of preying on the headgear of the dining public.

Professional Hat Thieves.

Not long ago a hat thief was caught red-handed in a Broadway lunchroom. Arrested, he confessed that hat trading was his means of livelihood. He would enter a lunchroom, buy a cup of coffee and walk out with the best hat in sight, leaving an old one in its place. He sold the good hats to second-hand men.

So common has hat stealing become in eating places that the trader who trades through mere absentmindedness is subject to cold suspicion and often is ejected roughly by the victims as well as by the lunchroom people. In these days, when men's hats look much alike, it is a simple thing to make an error. Tragic scenes result when perfectly respectable business men inadvertently lift the wrong hat off the rack.

Recently the police had to quell what threatened to be a riot in a Sixth Avenue restaurant as the result of the handiwork of one trader. The victim in the case took the hat of a third man. Claims and counter claims followed, and more and more patrons entered into the argument. China was broken and glassware smashed. Three customers went off hatless and two others with what they said were hats they never had worn before.

Some lunchroom owners have taken to providing free hat-check service in order to reduce these unpleasant trades to a minimum.

"It is almost impossible," said one, "to tell who is the thief and who the victim. A well-dressed business man, advanced in years, came into our place for lunch. He hung a fine derby hat on the rack and paid no attention to it while he ate. When he arose, he missed his hat and recognized it on the head of a man going out the door. He dashed after the departing thief and brought him back. The two disputed as to who really owned the hat. The crook convinced seven or eight of us that the business man was in error. The business man proved to us the next day that he had been victimized."

Other Forms of "Trading."

The fountain-pen trader is becoming a well known figure in the world of thievery. He is nervier than the hat sneak. He will enter a bank or a post office and prepare to write out a check at the desk. Throwing down the desk pen in disgust, he will turn to the man beside him, ask to borrow his fountain pen, use it and then hand back one of the twenty-five cent variety. As a rule, the owner of the good pen, engrossed in other matters, pockets the cheap pen as an excuse for having borrowed. A watchman in a Fifth avenue bank says this form of trading goes on constantly.

In the railway terminals, luggage traders are frequently caught. A crook with a cheap suitcase filled with trash awaits his chance on the platform of the subway adjoining the terminal, or on the station platform itself, and at an opportune moment trades his own bag for that of a prosperous-looking stranger newly arrived in the city.

WARKWORTH PERSONALS

WARKWORTH, March 5. — Mrs. James Armstrong spent the week-end with relatives in Toronto.

"Worth $100 to Me Relieved Eczema and Piles"

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Saltburn, Sask., writes:

"Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema.. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me,—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food having restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

EXPERT TELLS HOW TO CARE FOR LAWNS

Re-seeding Should Be Done Early to Give Plants a Good Start.

From present indications it would seem that this spring is likely to be favorable for lawn making. Last fall was notably grass-growing weather, cool and moist, and lawns were generally in such good condition that relatively little seed was sown.

Reseeding Should Be Early.

It is usually necessary to repair winter damage to established lawns by reseeding and this repair work should be done early, so that the seedling grass plants may enjoy as much as possible of cool and moist weather before our hot, dry spell comes on. The deep frost is fairly well out of the ground already this spring and while there is no telling what March may bring, there is at least a chance that it will stay out.

In addition to sowing seed early to give it a cool, moist start, the chief point to watch in repairing of lawns is to cover the seed. An enormous waste of lawnseed is caused by throwing it on the ground without cover so that it cannot germinate, but merely washes off. If the seed is sown at this season, when frosts still occur and the ground is soft and wet, it will sink in or "mud" in as farmers say and the danger of washing is minimized. If one delays until the ground begins to dry out then a top dressing is just as necessary as the seed itself.

Makeup of Top Dressing.

This top dressing should be put on after the seed is sown, it should be composed of a fine loam, or sand plus sheep manure. It should be spread over the lawn not more than a quarter of an inch deep and brushed down between the leaves of grass, so that the leaves over the dawn back of a rake, or a broom will do the work.

Every lawn should be fertilized in the Spring. It has been proved by experiments that lack of plant food is the chief cause of lawn failure. Grass will grow luxuriantly if well fed.

GOES BACK TO SEA

BERLIN, March 5.—(Associated Press).—Count Luckner, commander of the See Adler, the disguised German cruiser which had such a sensational career as a privateer in the Atlantic and Pacific during the World War, has returned from a lecture tour in Switzerland and is now planning to make a voyage around the world in a sailing ship.

The See Adler left Germany in December of 1916 and seized 14 ships before it finally stranded near Mopeha Island, in the South Seas, in August, 1917. Count Luckner and five members of his crew travelled 2,300 miles in an open boat and were finally arrested by the Australian authorities.

BULGARIA RECOVERS

Resumption of Entertainments by Boris Taken As a Sign.

SOFIA, March 5 — (Associated Press.)—One of the indications of returning normality in Bulgarian affairs is the resumption of the entertaining of cabinet ministers and foreign diplomats by King Boris.

Last winter the king resumed diplomatic dinners on a modest scale for the first time since the World War, and the return to this practice on a larger scale than last year is regarded here as a step in the right direction.

ROYAL SONS' FAILURE TO WED FRETS ENGLAND

By MILTON BRONNER.

LONDON, March 4.—It has taken half a dozen of Pfeiffer's bacillus, otherwise known as influenza germs, again to awaken England to the continued bachelorhood of the potential ascendants to the throne.

While no alarm is felt over the condition of King George, yet considerable anxiety is expressed over the condition of his offspring. With the single exception of York, not one is married.

Rounding the situation up, the love line-up is something like this; the Prince of Wales shows no disposition to marry; George has been willing to wed, but there has been a disposition to keep as far away from the altar as His Majesty's fleet will carry him, while Prince Henry—well, there's the real puzzle

Here's a problem to stump the dopesters.

Prince Henry wants to be a duke. It was predicted that this would come about on Jan. 1, 1925, but that date came and went and no dukedom from the royal papa.

"Ah," and here the gossips winked one at another, "He will marry so-and-so."

Now this 'so-and-so" referred to is taken to be none other than Lady Mary Scott, youngest daughter of the Duke of Buccleuch, and here's the way they figure it out:

His regimental pal, in the army, is Lord William Scott, the duke's second son, who is also Prince Henry's equerry.

And he has been the duke's guest at his Scotch shooting lodge, four times within the last few months.

Prince Henry, third son of the King of England, and Lady Mary Scott, youngest daughter of the Duke of Buccleuch, whose names have been coupled in English society for the next marriage in the royal family. These intimate photos were made on the prince's recent visit to the estate of the Duke of Buccleuch in Scotland.

If Prince Henry has really fallen in love and been accepted this time his marriage would unite to the royal house one of the oldest, proudest and richest houses in Scotland. The Buccleuchs were ennobled over 300 years ago. Besides being a duke, the holder of the title is several times an earl, a viscount, and a baron, and owns big estates all over Scotland.

Lady Mary is only 20. As the Buccleuchs are passionately devoted to outdoor sports, it is not surprising that she is a good horsewoman and also a good shot in the hunting field. It was there and in the ballroom that her close friendship with Prince Henry began.

The prince will be 25 years old on March 31 next and is especially the army man of the family just as the youngest boy, Prince George, is the navy man. Two years ago he expressed the wish that he might be the Duke of Connaught of his generation. Connaught is his great uncle. Brother of the late King Edward, Connaught spent the better part of his life in real service in the army.

Prince Henry is a keen horseman owing to his cavalry training and not long ago won the cup in the Cavalry Brigade race, on his gelding Ocean III.

Besides being an officer in the 10th Hussars, he was last October made Lord High Steward of King's Lynn, an ancient Norfolk town near Sandringham Palace, the favorite residence of the late King Edward. As part of the induction ceremony he drank out of the famous King John Cup which belongs to the municipality and for which over $100,000 has been offered. A pretty girl handed it to him and he repeated after her the old formula:

"To my love,
From my love,
And to my love again."

ITALIANS CLASH WITH BEDOUINS

Dispute Regarding Boundary Leads to Warfare in Desert.

FIFTEEN KILLED.

LONDON, March 5 (Canadian Press).—Special dispatches from Cairo say reports are current there of fighting in the neighborhood of Jarabub, between Italian troops and Bedouins within Egyptian territory. Fifteen Bedouins were killed and many others captured, it is stated. Italians are also declared to have been sharply engaged with natives near Bengzi, and to have suffered considerable losses.

Italy and Egypt are in dispute regarding the latter's western frontier, Italy claiming that the Jarabub oasis belongs to Tdipoli.

REV. W. E. FULLER IN FREDERICTON

Peterborough Boy Ordained in Cathedral There—Parents Reside Here.

An event of much interest to many local people took place recently when William Eastland Fuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fuller, 331 Simcoe Street, was ordained a deacon of the Church of England in the Cathedral at Fredericton, N.B.

Mr. Fuller was a member of All Saints, Peterboro, in which church he was baptized, confirmed, a chorister, and a Sunday school scholar. A service was held in All Saints' at the same hour as the ordination, conducted by the Rev. J. D. Paterson. The "Times-Star," St. John, N.B., gives the following report:

Rev. William Eastland Fuller, curate of St. Luke's Church, and who was ordained a deacon of the Church of England yesterday at Christchurch Cathedral, Fredericton, by His Lordship Bishop Richardson, has been assisting Rev. Canon McKim, rector of St. Luke's, since early in January. He returned last evening after his ordination in Fredericton. Rev. Canon McKim attended the ceremony.

Was Through War.

Rev. Mr. Fuller was formerly a member of All Saints' Church, Peterboro, Ont. He served overseas during the war with the 38th Field Battery and later with the Canadian Intelligence Corps. He was in France for three years. On his return he entered Wycliffe College, University of Toronto, where he studied for the ministry. In 1921 he discontinued his studies for two years to take charge of a mission in Moosonee District in Northern Ontario. This section comprised chiefly Indians.

Returning again to his studies, Rev. Mr. Fuller, who will graduate this April from the university, received special dispensation in January which enabled him to carry on his studies here while helping Rev. Mr. McKim in his work.

Rev. Mr. Fuller held missions in New Brunswick during the summer on three previous occasions. Twice he worked in Eldon Parish, Restigouche County, and on the other occasion he aided Rev. R. T. McKim in St. Mary's Church in this city.

SCHOOL OF SAFETY

Mountain Climbing School Opened for Young People of Austria.

VIENNA, March 5 (Associated Press).— Reared in a country whose mountain ranges rival and even surpass the peaks of Switzerland, the youth of Austria, both boys and girls, are enthusiastic mountain climbers. But this is often a dangerous pastime, and each year the Alps take heavy toll of young and valuable lives.

To protect these venturesome youngsters there has been organised a mountain-climbing school, with facilities for 400 students.

The instruction is to embrace theoretical lectures and practical training. The lectures will treat of meteorology and weather prediction, and will further deal with the comparative value of various textures for articles of wear and equipment for mountaineering.

Then first-aid and transportation up and down gradients in case of accident, methods of sheltering from wind ,avalanches, rain and snow, and lastly nutrition and physical endurance, will likewise receive attention.

The practical training will be equally diversified. It will demonstrate the best ways of conquering the many hindrances which place themselves in the climbers' path, methods and utility of roping and the harnessing of rocks in rescue work and ascending and descending the sheer face of precipices.

Lastly comes the correct handling of picks, axes, and alpenstocks. A second course will deal with the uses of skis and snowshoes in Alpine tours.

HOLLAND ENLARGED

AMSTERDAM, March 5.—(AP).—Queen Wilhelmina will presently find her domain enlarged by 150 acres. The new territory has been ennexed from the sea, being the first actual gain of ground as a result of the Zuyderzee drainage operations, according to a report recently issued here.

This gigantic undertaking, which deals with an area of 1,400 square miles and an estimated expenditure of $100,000,000, was interrupted by the war, but has since been proceeding slowly at different points.

The difficulties encountered were great, but none of them was unforeseen by the hydraulic experts in charge. Time after time, the report says, dykes or embankments erected in the section of the island of Wieringen, slipped away into the sea owing to the shifting nature of the subsoil. With the quiet tenacity peculiar to the Dutch in their everlasting fight against sea encroachment, the dykes were rebuilt again and again until they now stand six feet above high tide, and so firmly knit together with clay, sand, willow twigs basalt and cement that the fiercest gales have done them not the slightest harm, the report says.

The tests have been very severe this winter. Recently during a fierce storm the quaint island of Marken escaped complete submergence by ony a couple of inches, while the town of Monnickendam on the mainland was flooded.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Dear Sir.—The burden of taxation is becoming so heavy, and its effect upon industrial enterprise of all kinds so stifling and cramping that unless some means are devised to obtain a cessation of the orgy of spending that has been going on for the pat few years, the results will be serious. All our governing bodies: municipal, provincial and federal, have vied with one another in the way they have spent the money and increased taxes, and the trouble is that the more we pay in each department, the further we are in debt.

Our high taxes are a serious menace to progress, when a farmer desires to retire from the farm and find a home in a town or city, our tax rate forces him into some of the neighboring small towns. Let anyone take a look when passing through these places, and they will see what I say is correct. In fact, I have been told myself when I have asked them why they did not come to Peterboro, that the taxes were too high and it would cost too much to live here.

It is also a discouragement to thrift. What encouragement is there for a man to save and skimp to build or buy a home for himself, and then pay a big rent in the shape of taxes to the city to live in it, besides having the responsibility of repairs, insurance, etc.

Capitalists themselves will not build, as it is scarcely possible to build a place that will rent at a price that will pay a fair return on investment after paying taxes.

Then, again, the merchants suffer in their business as the high rents and taxes prevent the average family having any money to spend on anythig that is not absolutely necessary.

What is the remedy?

Like the private citizen, our governing bodies must cut out spending money that is not absolutely necessary. Take our recently purchased dustless sweeper for instance. There was no need to spend $15,000 on that, and if it had been brought before the city in the shape of a by-law, it would never have passed. We needed a dustless sweeper no more than a dog needs two tails, and its purchase was, to my mind, an extravagance. It is no use to let the cash out in this way during the year, and then make a fuss at budget time over paring down the estimates. What must be done, is to do without things we can't afford, even though they may be nice to have. Also watch with a keen eye every item of expenditure and see that the city gets one hundred cents value for every dollar expended. Then again, there are grants. I say nothing about grants for orphans, old people's homes, etc., but I certainly think it is out of the way to give grants to every little sect or section of the people who get together on one pretext or another to do certain things which they are interested in and then come to the council for a grant.

Then, is it fair for the higher paid civic officials to still retain the very substantial raises given them during the war and consequent high prices, and everybody else struggling to make ends meet on 25 to 33 1-3 per cent. less?

Our education requisitions have also gone beyond the limit. I believe in education, but believe that in some respects we have gone too far and are keeping young men and women at school who would be far better at work. It is time to call a halt, in my opinion, as we are certainly heading for disaster.

Apologizing for the length of my letter, and thanking you.

Yours faithfully,
GEO. LEADER.

DEATHS FROM ALCOHOL.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The returns made by the officials of the U. S. Government appointed to report are now published. They show a gruesome state of affairs. Deaths from alcoholism (not due to poisoned alcohol) far exceed recent records, show an alarming and continuous increase and have passed all records both before and since Prohibition. The organization of the illicit trade is so complete and general that it is now conceded in view of these disastrous returns, that the trade must be legalized once more and regulated as never before or the U. S. is doomed.

GOD DOES NOT DAM ANY SOUL

It is the Deliberate Choice of the Individual, Says Divine.

AT MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK, March 5.—"It is difficult to reconcile the idea that God is love, and yet that He damns poor sinners." This was the opening remark in the sermon on "Can the saved be lost?" preached by Rev. F. H. Howard at the evening service in the Methodist church on Sunday. Considerable interest was aroused in the topic as announced beforehand, and the congregation followed the speaker intently throughout.

The text was taken from Ezekiel 18:20, "The soul that sinneth it shall die," and verse 24: "But when the righteous turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity....in his trespass that he hath trespased, and in his sin that he hath sinned ,in them shall he die."

"Sometimes we are better within than our outward showing would indicate, and God takes us for what we are in our hearts. He understands our ideals and conceptions, and that we are growing toward them. Yet a man follows his thinking in his character as truly as he follows his nose."

Sometimes the home influences lay restrictions upon people that keep them from following out their hearts' evil inclinations. Children drift away from the vows taken for the min baptism because their parents fail to bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. "Our children need models more than they need criticism."

"Once in grace, always in grace"—is that statement true? The theory is advanced but it does not always harmonize with the facts of the situation. "When a righteous man turneth away from his righteousness .....for his iniquity that he hath done he shall die." The eternal fact of the sacrifice of Jesus avails for us only so long as we trust Him. It is possible that time is incidental only to this life, for there is one eternal "Now," with God.

"No bridge supports a man unless he is on it," and if a Christian departs from the prayer life, and his habits become wordly, will he be saved? To claim freedom of will for the sinner, and refuse it to the saint, would be a strange contradiction.

Even Paul says, "lest having preached to others, I myself become a castaway." Was Judas always a traitor? Many a man goes down under the temptations of middle life for there is a crucial period in the forties during which some have lost their grip on Christ. It is possible to be settled in good habits, but to let slip one's trust in God, and the Kingdom is hampered, and the world disappointed, when this tragedy of the soul is an accomplished fact.

The Christian needs constantly to "renew his grip," by engaging in such exercises that he has a definite, immediate realization of vital, and constant union with Christ. To bring about a connection between the lost, and the One who saves, is a direct responsibility, and the means used include prayer, and such other activities as the Holy Spirit shall suggest. And for those who have once known salvation through Christ and "Turned away from righteousness", there is only one hope—"repent and turn yourselves from all your trangressions; so shall iniquity not be your ruin."

God does not damn any soul. It is the deliberate choice of the one who will not "return from his ways and live", refusing to yield to the leadership of the One who "restoreth his soul, and leadeth him in the paths of righteousness for His Name's sake."

"For I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord: wherefore turn yourselves, and live ye."

A solo, "Because He loved me so," by Mr. V. C. Lambert, and a duet, "Ashamed of Jesus", by Mrs. P. Stinson and Mrs. G. W. Sayles, were the special musical number on Sunday.

Skirts Above Knees; Red Ears and Curly Eye Lashes Contribute To "Beauty" In Latest Paris Fashions

NEW YORK, March 5.—(Canadian Press).—Skirts above the knees and even more facial make up than hertofore, with eyelashes curled and ears painted red, are the latest fashions decreed for women by Paris fashion leaders, according to reports from the style salons. Word that Parisian women are wearing their skirts above their knees was brought back by women returning yesterday on the steamship Olmypic. Some of the line of women passengers on the steamer wore their skirts reaching only to their knees, but this, even, was a modification of the Paris style, passengers reported.

The increase in facial make-up was described by Miss Nina Boldbin, beauty operator, speaking before the Master Hairdressers' Association convention.

New Paris make-ups, she said includes, in addition to bright red lips, reddened ears and nostrils, and blue or brown lidded eyes. Paris beauty experts also are giving special attention to eyelashes, which are now made to curl decidedly, she said.

GUILTY OF NON-SUPPORT.

William Murphy Refused to Contribute Without Custody of Child.

This morning in Police Court, William Murphy was found guilty of a charge under the Criminal Code, for non-support of his daughter, Johannah Murphy.

Murphy was charged some time ago, and the matter was adjourned from time to time, to allow a settlement to be made. The evidence was finally heard, and Murphy, in the course of his evidence, refused absolutely to contribute towards the support of the child, unless he were given the custody of the child, who is now resident with her mother. The parents of the child are living separate, an arrangement of separation having been arrived at some time previous.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

GIVE THOUGHT TO VARETY OF CORN

That Reaching Glazed Stage Likely to Be Safest to Grow.

By G. P. McROSTIE

In a normal season in our seed-corn-growing areas, the corn plants mature their seed sufficiently early for it to become well hardened while still on the stalk. This hardening process consists largely in loss of moisture and is necessary in order that corn may go into storage dry enough to prevent moulding of the corn or frost injury to the germ.

Unfavourable weather conditions during the latter part of the past growing season resulted in large quantities of corn failing to dry out or mature sufficiently to produce first-class seed. Unless such corn was artificially dried before heavy frosts set in, its vitality is sure to be impaired to a large extent. Such a condition calls for foresight and good judgment on the part of the prospective buyer, foresight in the matter or early purchasing, as seed corn is likely to be scarce, and good judgment in testing the germination of all seed corn bought in order that sufficient may be planted to ensure a full stand.

The present seed corn situation should also cause us to give thoughtful consideration to the question of the variety of corn we intend to plant. On the whole, seed of the earlier-maturing varieties is likely to be in better condition than the later-maturing sorts. A variety of corn which reaches at least the glazed stage in any district during an average year is therefore likely to be the safest to grow this coming season from the standpoint of the quality of seed that it will be possible to buy. Not only will the chances be better for securing satisfactory seed of such a variety, but the odds are equally good that more actual feeding value per acre will be secured than would be the case with most later sorts.

It would seem to be the policy of wisdom, therefore, for all prospective purchasers of seed corn to (1) buy early; (2) buy a variety that will almost reach maturity in the district concerned; (3) test thoroughly the germination of all seed before planting.

AWAITING CROP OF MAPLE SUGAR

Put It Up in Attractive Condition to Foster the Demand.

The warm, sunny days and the cool nights provide ideal conditions for making maple sugar and syrup. This is one natural resource that is typically Canadian and largely local to the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Te sugar bush has long been a feature of the rural districts, says the Natural Resources Intelligance Service of the Department of the Interior. Apart from its revenue-producing value, it is usually the rendezvous of the surrounding country at sugaring-off time. Here the young people were wont to gather, just, it was said, to see the sugar being made, but the farmer always had his suspicions that this did not constitute the sole attraction. The number of samples taken, to be cooled in the snow ,and eaten, evidenced that the visitors were more concerned with the amount of sugar made available for tasting than with the work attached to gathering the sap and the boiling.

On many farms, however, the sugar bush is a thing of the past. The many substitutes for maple syrup and its higher production cost have materially reduced the revenue derived from this source, while the prices prevailing for hard maple for firewood have been a temptation too strong to resist, and many of the sugar bushes have been cut down.

In some of the larger areas of Eastern Ontario and the Eastern Townships of Quebec, however, quite elaborate plants are installed for sugar making. The sap is brought to the boiling house in pipelines, thus eliminating much of the labor of gathering. In the boiling houses improvements have been made in the equipment, resulting in a higher grade of sugar and syrup being produced. In the marketing, however, little improvement has taken place.

Maple sugar is a luxury, and as such it should be marketed. Like many another Canadian product, it is suffering from the condition in which it is exposed for sale. The manufacturer of the chocolate bar puts his product up in attractive wrappers, which largely influences its sale. Maple sugar, however, is usually exposed for sale without even a wrapper and without the slightest attempt being made to give it an attractive appearance, or even to assure the consumer that it is reaching him in the best condition. A market undoubtedly awaits Canadian maple sugar and at good prices when it is well made, and put up and marketed in an inviting and attractive manner.

FOR MIXING SALADS

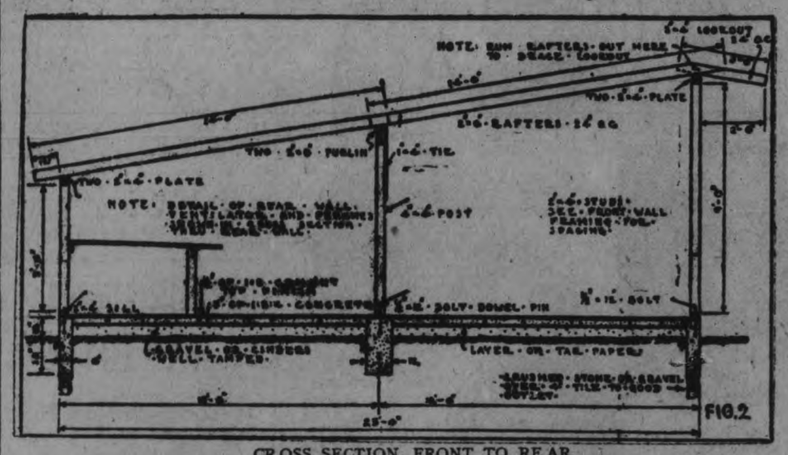
How to Build a Poultry House



CROSS SECTION, FRONT TO REAR.

The plans are for a shed roof laying house, 25 by 30 feet, designed to accommodate 250 Leghorns, or 200 birds of the heavy breeds.

The foundation of the laying house runs around the entire house. 18 inches into the ground and reaches a foot above ground. While the concrete is soft, place 1-2in. by 12in. bolts, head down, into the concrete so that the end of the bolt is 3 inches above the foundation.

The bolts are set as follows:

Right side wall, 2 feet from front, then 7 feet, then 7 feet, then 8 feet.

Face House South.

These are set two inches in from the outside edge of the foundation so as to be in the centre of the 2in. by 4in. sill.

The poultry house should be placed facing south or south-east.

The concrete footing for two posts in the centre of the house measure 12in. by 12in. across, and is set in as deeply as the foundation. A bolt is also set in the centre of each footing. Each footing is 10 feet from either side wall and 12ft. 6in. from front and rear. These support the 4in. by 4in. posts.

Watch Drainage.

Give the floor a hard, smooth wearing coat of 1:2 cement. This finishing coat makes cleaning easier and prevents the hens wearing away their toenails.

Place a stud on the centre line, and work both ways from this. The ends carry two 2in. by 4in. studs placed together, and two 2in. by 4in. plates run along the top.

The top row of lath baffles, shown in Figure 3, is not removable. The four lower lath baffle windows are removable and are the same size as the glass window sash. Run the siding 3-4in. past the studs to act as a casing for the windows.

Baffle Windows.

The baffle windows are constructed of common plastering lath placed 1-2in. apart and nailed to both sides of a 1in. by 2in. frame. The lath on one side are nailed on the frame to break the openings between the lath on the other side. This provides excellent ventilation without drafts.

Run siding 3-4in. past studs to form casing for the windows. Outside ventilator door is made of two drop siding boards. The doors are in 6-foot lengths and extend across the rear.

The five windows come underneath the dropping boards. The hen always faces in the direction of the light when she scratches. Therefore, if there is no window in back, there is a gradual movement of the litter to the back of the house.

Windows are made to slide up by means of a cord fastened to the top of the sash and run up between the studs and rafters. Thus the windows may be lifted from in front of the dropping boards, and they may serve as fowl exits.

The Roosts.

The perches are in 6-foot sections, resting on two 1in. by 4in. legs in front and hang on two No. 9 wire stirrups in the rear. View of the stirrup is shown in detail above.

Nail 1½" mesh poultry netting to the underside of the perches. This will keep the birds off the dropping boards and aid in the prevention of disease and intestinal worms.

The inside sheathing and dropping boards should be shiplap, or tongue-and-groove boards, so that no cracks will allow drafts to blow on the roosting birds.

MILLBROOK NOW ADVANCING AS A POULTRY CENTRE

Also Recognizes Time for Change in Methods of Marketing Eggs.

NEW SUGGESTION

For Establishing an Exclusive Egg Business Outside of All Other Stores.

A very interesting meeting was held in the Council Chamber, Millbrook recently, for the purpose of considering the organization of some system for handling the egg and poultry business of the district. In view of the Egg Regulations which make it necessary that all eggs must be graded and paid for according to quality, it was felt that the time had arrived for a complete change from the old time methods. The merchants of the town met with the producers and the whole matter was thoroughly discussed. F. C. Paterson, B.S.A., Agricultural Representative for the County and F. H. Baker, District Poultry Promotor, of the Live Stock Branch, Ottawa, were present and explained the regulations and offered suggestions along the lines of organization. The merchants recommended establishing an egg business outside of the stores and pledged their hearty support to such an undertaking.

Produce Association Organized.

At this meeting it was decided to organize. A constitution, by-laws and marketing agreement were adopted. The new association is to be known as the Millbrook Produce Associatoin. Owing to the importance of the work, it was considered advisable to elect a Board of Provisional Directors and hold a further meeting on Wednesday, evening, February 25th. Those present including both producers and merchants signed the contract and became members before this meeting adjourned.

The second meeting was held on Wednesday evening, February 25th, as arranged but owing to the condition of the roads and weather, the attendance was not as large as had been hoped for. A report of the former meeting was read and discussed, those present confirming the action taken and elected the following members as Board of Directors for the present year: W. L. Elson, Wesley Wood, Lewis Hutchison, R. J. McKnight, Ernie Armstrong, Leonard McNeil, W. H. Coombe, Leonard Smith, Geo. E. Burnham.

It is understood that M. McDowell is the prospective manager and that arrangements will be completed when the Directors meet next Tuesday. Mr. McDowell has had considerable experience in handling eggs and poultry and the association is fortunate that such a man is available.

The association will begin operation as soon as possible. The intention is to open a candling and grading station where all eggs will be delivered. A cash advance will be paid when delivery is made. The following week the producers will be given the grading on the eggs delivered previously together with any balance that may be due. The merchants will not accept eggs, but will secure their supply for consumers from the candling station where they can obtain the graded product.

Millbrook has set a fine example of true community spirit; all sentiment and sympathy is laid aside and producers and merchants are working hand in hand in the interest of the community in general and the poulty industry in particular.

Monaghan Farmer Wins Credit In Cattle Test

Mr. Jas. B. Fowler, of North Monaghan, had his first test under the Government accredited herd system last week, Dr. Reid , of Belleville, doing the work.

He already has twelve pure-bred Holsteins, the balance of his herd are high-class grades.

The whole herd passed the test clean.

Mr. Fowler is one of the few that has a clean herd.

To the Editor of the Farm Page:

Dear Sir,—Exceeding the most sanguine anticipations, the Dominion Harness Horse Association has entered on its first year of official activity with the combined support and approval of racing associations, horsemen, and the followers of the ever popular light harness horse.

All concerned are deeply indebted to the men, who on March 10th of last year, assembled at the Iroquois Hotel, Toronto, and through the courage of their convictions, organized the association that stands for the highest ideals in harness horse speed trials.

Though the untiring energy of those who accepted responsibility at the inaugural meeting, the Dominion Harness Horse Association is now mailing copies of its rules and by-laws to all the Secretaries of the fairs and racing Associations of Canada, and urging them to at once send in their membership.

The Fair and Racing Associations of Canada will not be slow in giving both their financial and moral support to the Dominion Harness Horse Association. There is much to do and this Association has put itself on record as being ready to tackle a big job. The men who are behind the new turf organization need no introduction to the horsemen of Canada, as they have always been identified with the elevation of the game.

In testimony of the confidence in the executive of the Dominion Harness Horse Association, hundreds of horsemen have already taken out membership, and will undoubtedly race under its jurisdiction whenever it is possible. These are the horsemen who are tired of racing their horses all day and all night too ,and who are game enough to take a record as fast as they have gone. The horsemen who are willing to play the game on its merits, must be protected, and those who insist on deteriorating the sport must be eliminated.

While these are but a few of the principles of the Dominion Harness Horse Association will advocate, the horsemen of Canada will appreciate many other features the Association will both inaugurate and enforce in their best interests.

For the Secretaries of Fair and Racing Asociations, the Dominion Horse Association will facilitate matters in a manner heretofore unknown in the history of the sport in Canada. Their policy of co-operating with racing associations to fill their classes and give them racing that will prove a banner attraction, in an innovation under the plan which Dominion Harness Horse Association will operate.

The Secretaries of racing Associations will be well advised to communicate without delay with the Secretary, Mr. A. R. Ecclestone. Once you are enrolled as a member you are entitled to the co-operation and assistance of this Association and both will be cheerfully forthcoming once you submit your problems.

A racing association has at last been organized for the protection and best interest of light harness racing and that organization is

"THE DOMINON HARNESS HORSE ASSOCIATION."

MOTHER NATURE KIND TO FARMERS

JANETVILLE, March 2.—Everywhere one turns the farmers are all agog with excitement over their unusual luck. Well, it is this way, the snow fell early, covered up the fall wheat ,clover, and all the other delicate stuff, leaving the tender plants smuggled away under the soft, warm, white, porous blanket of natural protection.

But the farmer's worries come from more directions than one, and at this point the water supply, or rather the lack of it began to cause him trouble. The question or problem was this: if the rain comes and takes the snow away it will leave the fall grain and clover exposed to the frosts which are almost sure to follow winter rains. So what could he do? Simply leave it to the power that swings the world.

And what now Down came the rain a week ago All the swamps and lowlands are flooded, the water is over the road in some place and up to the edge of the cutter box, the wells are full. Yes, we have had nearly a week's rain, and the problem, as far as water is concerned, is solved.

But what of the frost that came recently, following the week's rain? Yes, it did turn bitterly cold, but not until about three inches of snow had fallen and put another white blanket over the tender plants so much exposed. All the hills and valleys in sight are blanketed, and the various forms of plant life are snoozing safely beneath nature's soft, white covering.

Now, my farmer friend, last year was the best you have known since the war. Your barns were full, prices are good, and now you have a full purse. The writer is glad and congratulates you. It is no wonder you are whistling around the barn before daylight. But don't forget to be thankful for what you have, and rejoice and cheer the other fellow on a bit.

SURVEY FARMING CONDITIONS IN ALL OF ONTARIO

Report in House Reviews All Branches of Agricultural Production.

MARKETING PLAN

For Exportable Surplus Production is Outlined—Some Grievances Removed.

A proposal for creation of a national export marketing commission constitutes the main recommendation of a report tabled in the Legislature by Hon. Dr. Jamieson, Chairman of the Special Agricultural Enquiry Committee, which was appointed at last session of the House, and has been busy most of the time during the recess. The other members are Messrs. Thompson (Lanark), Trewartha (South Huron), Black (Addington), Keith (North York), MacBride (Brantford) and Lethbridge (W. Middlesex). The committee held 54 meetings throughout the Province, also conferences with representatives of the railways, manufacturers, wholesale, retail and labor organizations and authorities on economic and social conditions, and accomplished a survey of farming conditions in Ontario by questionnaires sent to Wardens, Township Clerks and agriculturalists.

Reviews All Branches.

The report tabled in the House reviews all branches of Ontario agricultural production and outlines a national marketing scheme for the exportable surplus of this production. Some of the complaints received at the sessions held have already resulted in removal of grievances. The committee was able to obtain substantial reduction of feed charges at the cattle markets, improvement in the handling of last season's fruit crop by the railways, improved accomodation for stock and express at different railway points, to bring about co-operation between the Federal departments and the railways for better shipping facilities in Northern Ontario. At the present time the committee is continuing efforts to obtain better rates on agricultural limestone, on feeder cattle from western points to Ontario, on seed potatoes from northwestern Ontario, restoration of settlers' rates to the districts of Kenora, Rainy River and Thunder Bay.

Noxious Weeds Act.

The committee recommends that the Noxious Weeds Act be revised and that new legislation on this subject include enforcement by the Department of Agriculture. The committee also suggests a strong Province-wide campaign to combat weeds with the co-operation of Councils, schools, agricultural representatives and organizations of various kinds

The committee recommends establishment of a station in the eastern district to test cultivation of profitable varieties of apples for that section of the Province, and also recommends that experts be appointed to assist agricultural representatives in large apple-growing counties.

In the interests of Canadian farmers and consumers, the committee recommends that bacon from U. S. hogs sold in Canada or abroad be plainly marked to indicate to the consumer that it is the "product of U. S. hogs."

The committee recommends that the Ontario Government strongly urge upon the Dominion Government full consideration of the interests and requirements of Ontario shippers in whatever Federal policy may be decided upon to obtain reduction of ocean rates.

Marketing Proposal.

In regard to the marketing proposal, the report explains that "to make a national export marketing commission representative of co-operative organizations, co-operation must become inter-Provincial in scope. A central co-operative council representing all the Provinces is not only a feasible plan, but is already an accomplished fact. The Canadian Council of Agriculture would be an effective agency in linking up the co-operative bodies of the different Provinces and in realizing Dominion-wide uniform standards. Its representation in a national export marketing commission would be a forward stride in co-operation, bringing Canadian agriculture to the threshold of a great future. The Federal Government should prepare to meet the Provinces co-operatively linked up to furnish volume of export trade. In cheese and bacon Ontario is the largest feeder of the Montreal agencies operating the present export system. Rates are imposed by New York upon Canadian Government ships which exert no beneficial influence upon Canadian trade or upon the problem of ocean transport.

"In the opinion of this committee the Government of Ontario should immediately endeavor to obtain co-operation of the Dominion and other Provincial Governments to meet any British plan of buying the export surpluses. Action in Canada should be entrusted to a national export marketing commission on which Federal and Provincial Governments, co-operative organizations and manufacturing interests would have representation."

Want Electric Service.

The committee found the rural sections of Old Ontario insistent in their demands for electric service. While appreciating the sympathetic attitude of the Government, and the measures of assistance already given towards rural distribution, the feeling is general that nothing would have a greater tendency to make rural life more attractive and profitable than more general distribution of electric light and power on the farm. The committee therefore recommends that the Government pursue as vigorous a policy as possible in seeking to effect a more general use of electric light and power on the rural districts of the Province.

MARITIMES ASK GRAIN MOVED BY CANADIAN PORTS

Argue This Was One of the Purposes in Building the Intercolonial.

NEW CHANNELS

Have Diverted Export Trade From Dominion Since the Great World War.

OTTAWA, March 4.—The Maritime Provinces are making a strong bid for the routing of Canadian grain for export over Canadian railways and the delivering of it to Canadian ports. They base their case chiefly on the argument that this was one of the purposes in the building of the Intercolonial, and more especially in the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the National Transcontinental and the converting of the Canadian Northern into a transcontinental. Nor is it any secret that several bills having to do with the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern contain reference to the fact that this traffic should follow all-Canadian channels.

What the Maritime Provinces are now up against apparently is that since the war the grain traffic has taken to new channels. In its report the Turgeon Grain Enquiry Commission in referring to the various routes that this traffic takes, says:

"We are now in a position to point to certain conditions which govern the flow of grain during the course of the year to these ports. The American harvest matures several weeks earlier than the Canadian. As a result the advantages of the St. Lawrence route attract heavy shipments from American lake terminals to Montreal. By the time the flow of Canadian grain begins to assume volume a large part of the American export of grain has been accomplished. On the other hand, on account of the lateness of the Canadian crop, the end of the grain shipping season is approaching on the St. Lawrence before it does at the head of the lakes. This fact is of great signifcance as explaining partly why so much Canadian grain goes via New York and the other American North Atlantic ports.

"When the flow of Canadian grain is still vigorous, navigation on the St Lawrence ceases. Commonly it closes about two weeks earlier than navigation on the Great Lakes. Hence the flow of grain for this latter period is deflected towards Buffalo or the Georgian Bay or lower lake ports from whence it will move to tide water by rail. The end of the season finds these Bay, lower lake and Buffalo elevators filled with grain which will move out gradually during the winter. The grain carrying fleet on the Great Lakes takes a final cargo for winter storage and a large part of this fleet ties up at Buffalo for the winter. When spring comes, their grain is discharged and moves out chiefly via New York.

"In the spring movement one additional factor is of importance. During the winter the Bay ports and Buffalo elevators have become emptied of their stock in store. The first movement of grain down the lakes in spring is to these ports as the most expenditious route to tide water. It will thus be seen that the explanation for a large movement of American grain through the port of Montreal and a large movement of Canadian grain through New York and other United States Atlantic ports rests chiefly on seasonal changes affecting the St. Lawrence route.

"It might reasonably be enquired why there is not a considerable movement of grain from the Bay ports to St. John and Halifax. At present there is some movement in that direction, and at St. John the movement appears to be growing. The obstacles to a larger movement appear to be high freight rates and partly the absence of available cargo space offering at low rates at these seaports. As we have pointed out above, grain is an excellent basic cargo. As traffic grows at Halifax and St. John, a large quantity of cargo space will offer regularly for the transport of grain When this occurs more grain should move during the winter months through these ports. Lately Halifax has been put on the same insurance basis as New York. This removes one factor that has militated against her in the past."

PETES WON 15 AND LOST 6 OF THE 22 GAMES IN SPLENDID RECORD

Two Victories in Three Encounters With Niagara Falls —Scored 69 Goals.

REVIEW OF SEASON

Bailey Leads Scorers With 15, But Parker's Assists Put Him First.

The Petes have played 22 games this season, no fewer than 16 away from home, and their record stands: won 15, lost 6, tied 1. They had a clean sweep with four straight wins in the S.P.A. series, won nine out of twelve O.H.A. fixtures, and in six exhibition games won two, tied one and lost three. It is notable that of the six defeats sustained during the season three were received at home, half of all the games played here, while on the road the Petes out of sixteen games won twelve,tied one and were beaten three times. Altogether they won three games at home, nine in Toronto, one in Hamilton, one in Niagara Falls and one in Belleville, while they lost three at home, one in Toronto, one in the Soo and one in London.

The Petes on the season won four out of five games from Parkdale, three straight from Aura Lee, two straight from Hamilton, two out of three from Niagara Falls, split even in a two game series with Varsity, won one, tied one and lost two to the Soo, beat Belleville and Preston once each and dropped one game to London.

Individual Rcords.

The records show that Irvin Bailey, the Petes' right wing, was the leading scorer for the season with fifteen markers to his credit, while Harold Parker was the second highest marksman with thirteen goals. Parker had six assists as compared with three by Bailey, and following the generally adopted system of giving the same credit for assists as for goals the season's record is:

OTTAWA CLOSER TO PLAY-OFFS

Improve Position by Defeating Montreal 5 to 1 Last Night.

MONTREAL, March 5 Canadian Press).—Ottawa Senators crept to within dangerous striking distance of the play-off berth in the National Hockey League when they defeated the Montreal team here last night by 5 to 1. Th victory places Ottawa close on the heels of the Canadiens and which of the two teams will make certain of entering the eliminations will only be decided when the report came before the council. Au- Saturday and Monday.

COBOURG LADIES LOST TO WARKWORTH CLUB

Score Was 3-1 — Return Game at Cobourg Next Wednesday.

COBOURG, March 5 (Special to The Examiner). — The Cobourg Ladies' Hockey Club, after waiting a week or two for ice have got in several games the last week.

On Monday night they motored to Warkworth, about 20 strong, including their supporters, but were defeated by the ladies' club there by a score of 3 to 1.

Mrs. Conningham scored Cobourg's only goal.

After the game the Cobourg people were most enjoyably entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dreury.

Next Wednesday night Warkworth is coming to Cobourg, and the game is called at the rink here at 8.15 o'clock.

In a previous game with Port Hope, the Cobourg girls were defeated 2 to 0, and Port Hope ladies are coming down to-morrow night for the return game.

COBALT PROTESTS.

NORTH BAY, Ont., March 5.—Cobalt Hockey Club yesterday entered protest of final play-off series for N.O.H.A. Junior title, won by Sudbury, on the following grounds:

1. That the Sudbury goal umpire had changed ends illegally and thus officiated two successive periods behind the Cobalt net.

2. That a goal was awarded Sudbury in the third period by the umpire when the goal did not go into the net.

3. That the first Sudbury goal was offside, and the puck was kicked by the man who set the play in motion.

4. That the referee disallowed two Cobalt goals for offsides, whereas the player scoring was behind the puck carrier when the latter shot.

5. That Cobalt scored in the second period, but that the umpire, after starting to signal a goal, failed to do so.

Cobalt is hoping for a sudden death replay. In the first game at Cobalt, the teams tied at three all, and Sunbury won at home by 2 to 1.

GAMES WITH U.S. TEAM BANNED BY OFFICIALS

Montreal A. A. A. Clubs Trip to Boston Off.

BOSTON, March 5. — Hockey games scheduled here between the Montreal A.A.A. team and the Boston Athletic Association and Maple A.A. teams, both members of the United States Amateur Hockey Association were cancelled yesterday when the manager of the Montreal club sent word that Canadian hockey officials would not permit amateur teams from the Dominion to compete with those affiliated with the U.S.A.H.A.

The games had been arranged for Friday and Saturday nights on the understanding that United States and Canadian hockey heads had reached an agreement on the one-year residence rule for Canadian players, signed with clubs in this country. Manager T. B. Miller, of the Montreal team intimated that the Canadian authorities would probably lift the ban soon. The team will meet the College or other amateur teams on its visit here.

"SUB" WINS GAME

Kicked Goal That Decided Soccer Game in Italy.

Before a crowd of 10,000 persons, one of the largest to see an international soccer game in Milan, Italy, in several seasons, the national team of Hungary defeated that of Italy by 2 goals to 1. The winning goal was kicked less than a minute before the end of the game by a substitute who took the place of the Hungarian captain, who was injured in a mix-up near the Italian goal. Cionti, star of the Italian team, made the first goal of the game in the first half. Hungary equalized shortly after when Spitz scored on a clever pass which drew the Italian goal tender away from the mouth of the goal. From then on the play was very fast with neither side holding the upper hand for any great length of time. The Hungarians perhaps, showed a more scientific attack, but the Italians, ever aggressive, were able to break up the passing of their rivals and the two teams left the field at half-time with the score tied.

All during the second half the Hungarians displayed a better brand of soccer than their rivals but the Italians put up a sturdy defence and by sensational stops kept their goal intact until near the close of the game. The victors, however, played with a cool determination and time after time threatened to score. The infrequent sallies down the field on the part of the Italians did not worry the victors in the least. They always recovered the ball before it got in a dangerous position and immediately carried it down the field.

Their strenuous efforts began to tell on the Italians and it was evident that Hungary was going to win the game by the margin of at least one goal. The injury to the Hungarian leader momentarily upset the confidence of his team but the winning goal was scored shortly after without a great deal of effort.

RINK FULL OF "ROCKS"

LINDSAY, March 5.—An unusual end was reported at the local curling rink, when Skips Williams and Sutcliffe were playing. Out of the 16 rocks, 15 decorated the circles and the other stone was only a foot in front of the rings.

NURMI CLIPS RECORD.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Paavo Nurmi ran to a world record of 1.1-8 miles in four minutes 55 4-5 seconds at the 165th Infantry games in Brooklyn last night.

The former record, 4 minute 58 seconds, was made by Nurmi at the Brooklyn Collegiate competition January 24. In his race last night he defeated Willie Goodwin, of the New York A. C. by a third of a lap. Andy Craw, of New York, was half a lap behind and Hutar Trim, of the Finnish-American A. C. was distanced. It was Nurmi's last appearance in the United States before participating in two Canadian track meets, at Hamilton and Toronto.

15 Pitchers, 4 Catchers, 10 Infielders and 7 Outfielders.

Thirty-six players are now members of the Chicago White Sox, according to the roster just announced by Harry M. Grabiner, secretary of the club. On the list are fifteen pitchers, four catchers, ten infielders, and seven outfielders. Twenty-eight of the thirty-seven players were with the team at least during a part of the 1924 pennant race.

Of the fifteen pitchers, eleven were with the team for some part of last season. Those who were with the club during the entire 1924 campaign are Faber, Blankenship, Robertson, Connally, Leverette, Cvengros, Thurston, Lyons and Foreman. The newcomers are Milton Steengrafe, who was obtained from the Beaumont club of the Texas League; Kenneth Ash, who was with the Rocky Mount (W. Va.) club last season; Henry Hamilton, who played independent baseball in California, and Ray Dearing, who played independent ball in Texas in 1924. The other pitchers are J. L. Davenport and Leo Mangum, both of whom were obtained from the Minneapolis club of the American Association.

Only one of the four catchers is a newcomer. He is George Bischoff, who was acquired from the Fort Worth club of the Texas League. The veteran backstops are Schalk, Crouse and Grabowski.

Eight of the ten outfielders were with the White Sox at least during a part of last season. They are Earl Sheely and John Clancy, first baseman; Eddie Collins, second baseman, who was recently appointed manager of the club; Willie Kamm, third baseman, and Jess Cortazzo, Frank Wojack, Harvey McClennan and Ike Davis, shortstops. The newnewcomers among the infielders are John S. Butler and Clyde Rentfrow, both of whom are shortstops. Butler was obtained from the Wichita Club of the Western League and Rentfrow played independent ball in Califonia last season. Davis was obtained from the Columbus cub of the American Association during the 1924 campaign. Cortazzo was with the Muskegon club last year.

All but one of the seven outfielders were with the club during all of last season. The veterans are Hooper, Falk, Mostil, Elsh, Barrett and Archdeacon. The newcomer is Spencer Harris, who was with the Bar City team last season.

The Spring training camp of the White Sox is at Shreveport, La., the town in which the Yankees trained four years ago. The team will play its first exhibition game on March 14, when it clashes with the Shreveport club of the Texas League at Shreveport. It also will play the Shreveport team in Shreveport on March 15 and 18.

On March 21 the Chicago players will meet the St. Joseph Club at Monroe, La. These two teams also will play each other on the following day. Another game with the Shreveport club at Shreveport will follow on March 25 and on the next day the White Sox will meet Louisiana Polytechnic Institute nine at Ruston, La. Two more games with the Shreveport club will follow on March 28 and 29. On March 31 and April 1 the White Sox will play the New Orleans club of the Southern Association at New Orleans. On April 2 the Chicago team will play the Louisiana State University nine. The last two games with the Shreveport club will be played in that team's home city on April 4 and 5.

The White Sox will leave Shreveport on the evening of April 5 and will arrive in Little Rock on the following morning for a game with the Little Rock club on that afternoon. On the following day they will play the Nashville club in Nashville, Tenn. On April 8 and 9 the White Sox will clash with the Evansville club at Evansville, Ind. On April 10 they will play the Terre Haute team at Terre Haute. They will wind up their Spring exhibition schedule withtwo games with the Indianapolist club of the American Association at Indianapolis on April 11 and 12.

The team's roster follows:

Pitchers.—Urban Faber, J. L. Davenport, Ten Blankenship, Chas. Robertson, George Connally, G. V. Leverette, Mike Svengros, Hollis Thurston, Ted Lyons, Leo Mangum, Linton Steengrafe, Gus Foremaf, Kenneth Ash, Henry Hamilton and Ray Dearing.

Catchers.— Ray Schalk, Clyde Crouse, John Grabowski and George Bischoff.

Infielders.—Earl Sheely, John Clancy, Eddie Collins, Jess Cortazzo, Frank Hojack, Harvey McClellan, William Kamm, Ike Davis, John S. Butler and Clyde Rentfrow.

FOUR EX-CLEVELAND HURLERS IN 1925 SPOTLIGHT

CLEVELAND, March 5.—Four former Cleveland pitchers will be more or less in the baseball spotlight when the 1925 curtain ascends.

They are Vean Gregg and Stanley Coveleskie of Washington and Walter Mails and Allan Sothoron, St. Louis Cardinals. Each, in a broad sense of the word, is out to stage a "comeback."

Gregg, somewhere around the 40-mark in years, will be back in big time after an absence of several seasons. He was a star hurler in the majors some 12 or 15 years ago. Fact it, he was considered one of the best southpaws in the business. Then he slipped and of recent years has been hurling out in the Pacific Coast League.

Coveleskie,while he isn't "up from the minors," is, nevertheless, out to regain his old-time form. Covey, for the past few seasons, has been going back. He figures, however, that with a change of scenery he will again pitch winning ball. It has worked out that way in other cases.

Mails, after three seasons on the coast, will attempt to show some of the stuff that made him famous as a member of the Cleveland club in 1920. That year, it will be recalled, Mails, after joining the Indians late in the race, copped seven straight games and virtually carried Cleveland to its first pennant. He also starred in the world series that fall.

Obviously, much was expected of Mails next season. But he failed to live up to expectations. And ere the 1921 chase was half over, he had been shunted back to the minors. Now he is to get another trial.

Sothoron has played with several clubs. He was with Cleveland a couple of seasons back. From there he drifted into lower classification. Last spring, however, he caught on with the Cards, and, though only enjoying a faig degree of success, will be taken south again, Rickey still having faith in him.

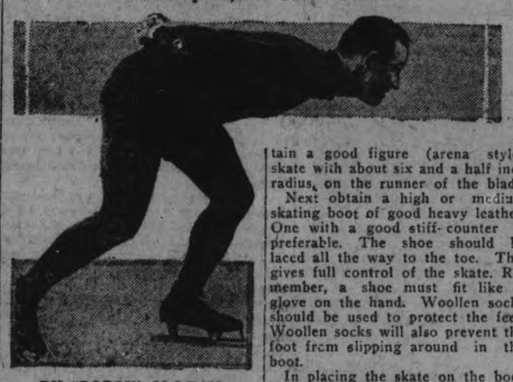
The work of this quartet is certain to be watched with more than usual interest this season. For efforts to come back in any branch of endeavor seem to appeal and attract much attention.

WHEN YOU GO SKATING

Consider the Advice Given by Bobby McLean, Former Champion, on Your Outfit.



BY "BOBBY" McLEAN
Former World's Champion Ice Skater

When Old Jack Frost creeps into your bones and the ponds, rivers and lakes freeze over you long to hear the tingle of the cold steel on the ice. When you commence to feel these creeps you begin an inspection of the house from the attic to the cellar for your old rusty steeds. After a search without avail you remember that you sold them to the junk man last year.

Then you figure out the cost of a new outfit. My advice to you on this is to obtain the best outfit. The pleasure derived is well worth the difference in price. If your aspirations lie towad figure skating obtain a good figure (arena style) skate with about six and a half inch radius, on the runner of the blade.

Next obtain a high or medium skating boot of good heavy leather. One with a good stiff counter is preferable. The shoe should be laced all the way to the toe. This gives full control of the skate. Remember, a shoe must fit like a glove on the hand. Woollen socks should be used to protect the feet. Woollen socks will also prevent the foot from slipping around in the boot.

In placing the skate on the boot be careful to get the skate straight with the center of the shoe and the counter, as the heel is not often centered correctly under the counter. Watch the heel of the boot to see that it is level with the sole for if it isn't it will twist the stanchions of the skate when screwed down and cause the blade of the skate to be thrown out of alignment, which often causes the blade to break.

Attention must be given to the lacing of the boot. The foot must be snugly laced from the toe to the ankle. Special attention should be given to lacing the boot from the ankle up. This should be done fairly loose, thus allowing free movement forward and backward and preventing the muscles of the limbs from becoming cramped.

THORPE ON FLOOR WITH GREAT NURMI

Peterboro Man May Run Against Flying Finn at Hamilton.

Charlie Thorpe, of Peterborough, is running in two races at the indoor athletic meet held in the Armouries at Hamilton to-night at which Nurmi is making an appearance.

Thorpe has been training during the winter at the "Y," and is entered in the 3-4-mile and 1 1-4-mile.

He may have the luck to run against the Flying Finn.

Charlie Thorpe won fame as a runner in France and England during the war. He won many trophies and had the reputation of being one of the greatest middle distance runners in the Canadian Army.

GEORGE STREET LEADS.

George Street took the lead in the Junior Church League last night, when they defeated Knox, 1 to 2, at Brock Street Arena. The game was as close as the score indicates. Both teams backchecked hard and thus the one-man rushes which mostly predominated did not go far. George Street got the one counter of the game in the second period.

Ab. Delahaye had plenty of work to do in the George Street nets in handling the long shots of Grey and Wood. These two had plenty of shots from outside defence, but most of them were away wide. When they did get them on the nets, Delahaye's stick was there.

Knox had seven penalties. George Street but one, and that when Delahaye was benched just when Knox were pressing hardest.

Line Ups.

Knox.—Goal, Chambers; defence, C. McLeish and Wood; centre, Archibald; wings, Mailen and Gray. Subs., Sproates and Golden.

George Street.—Goal, Delahaye, defence, Outram and Ash; centre, A. Baird ;forwards, Allen, Robertson.

GREYS LOST FIRST GAME THIS SEASON

Aura Lee Won Fast Game

OWNE7 SOUND, March 5. —(Canadian Press).— The Owen Sound Greys takt a two goal deficit to Toronto with them on Friday night for the final game for the Junior Ontario Hockey honours. The Greys suffered their first defeat of the O. H. A. season by 7 to 5 at the hands of Aura Lee Juniors, of Toronto, in sixty minutes of the most thrilling hockey that has been produced on the local arena this season. The Greys have no alibis to offer for the reverse on their ice and will make Aura Lee go the limit for evrythin they get on the big arena ice on Friday night.

HIGH SCHOOL BEAT GERALDI FAMILY

TWEED, March 5. — On Wednesday evening March 4, an exhibition game took place between two home aggregations, the Geraldi family and the Tweend High School. The night was ideal for a hocke game and the ice was good. There was a fair crowd but the game was only advertised for a short time ahead. In the first period the score was 1-0 in favor of the High School and one of the Geraldi players was severely hurt when the puck caught him in the stomach. At the end of the second period the score was the same. The game resulted in the score being 2-0, in favour of the High School.

HAMS SURE TO FINISH FIRST

Defeat St. Pats 3-2 in Close Game in Hamilton.

THREE POINTS UP.

HAMILTON, March 5 Canadian Press).—Hamilton defeated St. Patricks 3 to 2, and cinched first place in the N.H.L. here last night in a game replete with thrills and witnessed by a record crowd. For two periods the teams battled on even terms, first one team taking the lead and then the other. "Red" Green scored the winning tally for Hamilton shortly after the final period opened, and the Hams put up a great struggle defending it. For the Irish, Day Dye and Neville were prominent. The former, although well watched, gave Forbes many a hard shot to handle.

COBOURG WINS WAY TO FINAL

Defeat Campbellford High School by 6 to 3—Locals Outlucked.

GREAT GAME.

CAMPBELLFORD, March. 5. — Cobourg Collegiate earned the right to meet Port Perry in the finals of the Interscholastic Hockey League, when they defeated Campbellford High School's good little team at Covert's Arena last night.

The 6 to 3 score is hardly a fair indication of the play. The local students had more shots on goal than Cobourg but could not get the rubber past Andrews. The lanky Cobourg goalie stopped shots from all angles. He picked off the long shots with ease and smothered the close-in attempts with the coolness of a veteran. He was also helped by the wild shooting of the local marksmen. Coach Stephen's boys were over-anxious to score, and slammed the puck in the direction of the Cobourg net, at every opportunity, only to shoot wide, or have Andrews get in front of the elusive disc.

Cliff. Baker gave another grand display of speed and stick-handling. The little centre player nursed the rubber through the whole Cobourg team on three occasions, getting right in on top of Andrews; twice he missed the net, and once Andrews flopped to get the shot in the breast. He was up in every play, and also back-checked all the way.

Ibey wasn't far behind him in speed and effectiveness, the clever right wing showing his best game this year, but like the rest of his team-mates, he was off in shooting. He skated himself into a state of exhaustion, and at the finish was hardly able to stand up.

Blute was used quite frequently, and did not weaken the front line any when he was on.

Ward Baker again failed to show the hockey he is capable of. He was good defensively, but had trouble carrying the puck on rushes to enemy territory.

Thomas shows improvement in every start. He is good on the defensive, and is going better on the attack.

Fox in goal, while beaten six times, made some good saves. The only one he looked bad on was Butler's long shot in the second period. He was decidedly unlucky on one shot, and had no chance to save the others.

The largest crowd of the season jammed every available inch of the Arena, and while naturally disappointed in the result, were warm in their praises of the plucky game the local students put up against the conquerors of St. Peter's School of Peterboro.

First Period.

Butler secured at the face-off and went down the boards, but his shot was wide. The puck travelled from end to end in brilliant individual rushes and combination plays, but both goalers turned the shots aside till Butler shot from the blue line; Fox stopped the shot, but it dropped into the net for a lucky goal.

Near the end of the period, with Butler and Murray off, the local kids peppered shot after shot on Andrews, but he weathered the storm unscathed.

Second Period.

The home boys pressed the play during most of the period, and Cobourg hemmed in their own end of the rink; shot the puck down the ice to kill time, and protect their lead. Ibey forced through on top of Andrews to get the locals' first score. But Cobourg took the lead again when the speedy Murray sailed down the side and around behind the net to pass the rubber out to Butler in front.

Thomas and Ibey went down together, and Thomas scooped in the rebound of Ibey's shot. Butler put Cobourg ahead again when he drifted a high one in from 20 feet out.

Third Period.

Gibson, who played grand hockey for Cobourg, put his team further in the lead when he wiggled his way in alone.

Cliff Baker was through for what looked like a sure goal, but missed the net by inches; then Gibson tor a perfect pass from Waldron f Cobourg's fifth goal.

Baker went through again, but Andrews flopped in front of his shot. Baker carried it down again, but was chased into a corner. Reynolds got his pass out and slammed it home.

Cool added another to Cobourg's total, when he took Gibson's pass and beat Fox from close in and Campbellford's hopes of a championship faded for this year.

LADIES' MERCANTILE

Sensational rolling was shown by the Ladies at the Water Street Alleys last night when C.P.C. lost two out of three to the Quaker Oats. Miss Porter showed a return to form with 190, 267 and 172—a total of 629 for three games, which is a new league record. Other high singles included Miss Vincent 243, Miss Moffat 186, Miss Eagleson 180, Miss Warner 177. The Quaker Oats Ladies showed some of the good form with which they started the season, and if they keep it up will be hard to keep out of the finals.

RICKARD LEASES YANKEE STADIUM

Fistic Programme Includes Wills-Gibbons Bout.

NEW YORK, March 5. — Tex Rickard concluded negotiations yesterday for a one-year lease of the Yankee Stadium for boxing purposes, and disclosed details of a fistic programme for the 1925 outdoor season that promises to boom the sport to proportions it has not enjoyed since 1923.

The promoter who closed the deal for the Stadium with Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, has matched Jack Dempsey and Paul Berlenback, slugging light-heavyweight rivals for a return match as the star attraction of the opening card at the Stadium on May 22. Rickard has signed both men for this fight, which has been sought by promoters ever since Delaney's sensational knockout over Berlenback a year ago.

Harry Wills and Tom Gibbons, leading heavyweight challengers, probably will be the principals in the second show at the ball park, staged under Rickard's direction for the benefit of the Milk Fund on June 23 or 24. This bout has been in process of negotiation for some time, to establish an outstanding challenger for Jack Dempsey and its ultimate fate depends upon the action of the State Athletic Commission on title challenges which both Wills and Gibbons have filed.

Oshawa Says Eddie Dugan Is Asset to C.O.B.L. Team.

Oshawa baseball fans are glad to know that the former Peterboro first sacker, who came to Oshawa last year, and is employed with the Pedlar People, Ltd., is still a resident in this city, and can be counted on for the Central Ontario team this coming summer. He is well-known here, due to the fact that he played in Oshawa on several occasions with the Petes. That he intends to throw in his lot with the local club is shown by the fact that he has qualified under the residence, and therefore is not eligible to play in any other city. — Oshawa Reformer.

Teachers' Series Draws Good Attendance—Talk on Programme Planning.

The fourth monthly meeting in the course for teachers in the Canadian Girls in Training groups was held last evening at the Y.W.C.A., with a good attendance of leaders, about twenty-five being present. Miss Mary Allison, of Toronto, gave a talk on Programme Planning for leaders, which was followed by a discussion, and then continued the course in story-telling of different sorts, for different ages. The Bible Study period was taken by Rev. W. H. Young.

In the afternoon, about thirty girls, each couple representative of the different C.G.I.T. groups in the city, came down to the "Y" and met Miss Allison, for a discussion in connection with their work.

EBERT BURIED.

First President of German Republic Laid at Rest With Simple Service.

HEIDELBERG, Germany, March 5 (Canadian Press).—The body of Friedrich Ebert, first president of the German republic, was laid in its final resting place here today. The burial occurred at 12.30, after a sermon and prayer by Dr. Mass, Evangelical Lutheran, city chaplain of Heidelberg.

WHETS CURIOSITY.

Premier's Reply to Homuth on Beer Policy Stirs Questioning.

TORONTO, March 5.—(Canadian Press).—Some curiosity was aroused by Premier Ferguson's reply to Karl Homuth in the Legislature last night when he stated the Waterloo member was anticipating the Government policy when he wished to put in an amendment so that liquors might be procured, for medicinal purposes only,without the necessity of a doctor's prescription.

When questioned later whether the Government had any such thing in mind, the Premier stated it was a matter for consideration by the Government.

Bootlegging Profits Not Liable To Income Tax

OTTAWA, March 5 (Canadian Press).—The Supreme Court of Canada today reserved judgment on the appeal of Cecil R. Smith, Windsor garage proprietor, who claimed that profits he made from bootlegging are not liable to income tax.

He was assessed $28,000 and went to the exchequer court for relief. He took the ground that bootlegging profits were made illegally and, as such, were not taxable as business under the income tax act. He lost in the exchequer court and appealed to the supreme court.

ASKED TO RAISE PIGS

British Minister Says England Imports Too Much Bacon And Ham.

LONDON, March 5.—(Associated Press). — There is money in pig-breeding, and the Ministry of Agriculture wants more British people to go in for it. It is pointed out that $250,000,000 worth of bacon, ham and pork was imported into the country last year, and most everybody with a fair-sized garden could participate in the profitable industry of pig-raising.

PANIC WHEN FUSE IS BLOWN ON CAR

Eighty Passengers Crowd For Exits, Injuring Nine in the Crush.

TORONTO, March 5 (Canadian Press).—When a controller fuse on a street car blew out with a flash and a flame this morning, eighty passengers were thrown into a panic and in the struggle to make their exit nine were injured and removed to St. Michael's Hospital for attention. Williaim Murdock was the only one badly hurt, however, and he is being kept in the institution for a time with an abrasion to the skull. Others, including the motorman, H. Bowden, who was burned about the face, went home after medical treatment.

The fuse blew out with a loud report, and the car lights were immediately extinguished. In the darkness passengers became frightened and fought to get off the car. Two men smashed their way through the rear windows, while others, including women, got out by way of the side windows. The fire was extinguished.

QUAKE STILL FELT IN QUEBEC TOWNS

QUEBEC, March 5 (Canadian Press).—Reports reached here that earth shocks continue in the Saguenay district, although much lighter than those previously experienced. At Chicoutimi, three light shocks were felt yesterday, while at La Mal Baie and Les Eboulements a number of disturbances were registered.

At Les Eboulements Edmond Duchane, father of the Rev. Abbe Duchane, was forced to vacate his house. Two shocks were felt yesterday at Baie St. Catherine at the mouth of the Saguenay River. Tremors were also felt at Petit Saguenay, fifteen miles from L'Anse St. Jean.

INSURANCE GROWS.

Thirty-four Years Ago Canada Had $248,000,000 —Now $3,800,000,000.

As short a time ago as at the end of 1890 there was in force in Canada only $248,000,000 of life insurance. At the end of 1924 there was in force about $3,800,000,000—an increase of considerably over three and a half billions.

Life insurance is now on the threshold of its greatest development. It is only recently that a start has been made in giving it an established position in the budgets of the home and of business. On a reasonable computation, there are now less than one-tenth of the people of the Dominion of Canada with any insurance at all. The next decade will, undoubtedly, produce twice as much as has already been produced in the entire history of the country.

The biggest, shrewdest business men in the world to-day are the biggest buyers of life insurance. Such men do not welcome opportunities to "get in on the ground floor" of speculative enterprises that promise large returns—the kind of investments that take "sucker money" from the savings of the people They go on buying life insurance to build up their estates, while the small investors go on entrusting their savings to glib-tongued salesmen for schemes which, on the slightest investigation, would be proved highly speculative, if not purely bogus.

FOX-TROTTED ALL NIGHT.

Prince of Wales Training Strenuously For His Trip to Africa.

MELTON, Mowbray, Eng., March 5.—(Canadian Press)—The Prince of Wales is "training" quite strenuously for his prolonged trip to South Africa and South America during his stay at his country residence here.

When not hunting over Leicestershire country he puts in a good deal of time dancing.

At a recent dance he fox-trotted from 10 p.m. to 4 a.m with only an occasional break.

RURAL CREDIT NEED.

TORONTO, March 5 (Canadian Press).—Discussion of the rural credit question was the chief business of the Canadian Council of Agriculture at its annual meeting, continuing this morning.

It was resolved that the research department of the council continue its investigations into the two allied problems of mortgage and bank credits with a view to the possibility of solving by co-operative organzation among producers, supplemented by a measure of assistance from provincial and dominion governments, the urgent problem of farm indebtedness.

GOLDEN WEDDING MILLBROOK FOLK

Mr. and Mrs. T. Donaldson Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary—Many Friends Present.

An event of unusual interest took place on Tuesday at "The Locusts," Millbrook, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Donaldson, the occasion being the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.

Members of the family and relatives to the number of thirty gathered for dinner at one o'clock, at which Mr. Geo. Berry, an old chum of Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson, acted as chairman. Toasts were given by friends, who expressed their appreciation at being present on such a unique occasion, and extended congratulations to the bride and groom of fifty years ago. The following address was read by Stuart Donaldson, while Percy Donaldson presented their father and mother with a well-filled purse:

Dear Father and Mother,—We your children and grandchildren and relatives have gathered here to-day to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of your marriage.

We feel that you are to be congratulated on having reached this stage in your matrimonial career, as we and you all realize it is given to comparatively few to so successfully do so.

As we have grown up we can in some measure understand what it must have meant to you to take care of your family. We can never fully appreciate your loving devotion to us through our childhood years.

Now that we more fully understand, there comes to us a sense of our indebtedness and love to you for your untiring affection to us through these long years.

We desire you therefore to accept this purse to show in some small measure of our appreciation and love to you.

We trust that you may be spared to live many happy years together, and that you and we may meet again in an unbroken family in the life hereafter.

Signed by Family.

Mr. Donaldson replied in a suitable manner, and thanked those present for their gifts, also kind words and good wishes.

In the evening neighbors and friends to the number of about one hundred and twenty, gathered to join with family and relatives to do honor to the worthy couple. Mr. J. C. McRoberts acted as chairman, and after calling the gathering to order, asked Mr. James Campbell to read the following address, while Mr. Stewart Hall made the presentation to Mr. Donaldson of a gold-headed cane, and Mrs. J. Isbister presented a purse of gold to Mrs. Donaldson:

To Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson.

We, "believing that no man lives unto himself," and having learned of your family's intention of embracing this opportunity, have sought to share, with them, in your glorious golden jubilee, to tender the congratulations of the community.

Since your entire wedded life has been spent in this vicinity, and the occasion is so rare as to be worthy of special recognition, we are here to bring you the felicitations of a large enduring friendship won by good citizenship.

Your service to society, both public and private, seem to have been promoted by high ideals, and as a tangible evidence of our appreciation, we ask your acceptance of these small gifts, hoping that you both may be long spared to your family and to us all.

With best wishes for similar anniversaries.

(Signed)
Jas. McRoberts.
J. H. Isbister.
A. S. Hall.
J. A. Tate.

Mr. Donaldson replied in a suitable way, thanking his many friends for their gifts and good wishes.

Addresses were then given by Messrs. A. Fallis, M.P.P.; A. J. Henderson, ex-Warden; Jas. McCamus, Warden; Alex. Anderson, Reeve of South Monaghan, and several others, including some ladies; also several songs.

After a bountiful luncheon had been served, the balance of the evening was pleasantly spent in games, music and social time.

With many expressions of pleasure, in the re-union which this happy event made possible, and with every good wish for the years to come this delightful social gathering was brought to a close.

AUSTRIA IS SAVING.

WASHINGTON, March 15 — (United Press.)—Heavy increases in savings deposits was one of the notable developments in Austria during 1924, according to reports of Assistant Trade Commissioner Edward Baldwin to the Department of Commerce from Vienna. While the total deposits reported at the end of the year, $31,000,000, represented but 5 per cent. of the pre-war total, Baldwin reported that more than two-thirds of this amount, $23,000,000, equivalent to $3.50 per capita, was deposited within the year.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL

AT THE ROYAL TONIGHT

THE A B C's OF "PAMPERED YOUTH"

What is the Picture?

"Pampered Youth." It is an adaptation of "The Magnificent Amberson's," a novel that created a sensation, was a best-seller, and won for its author the Pulitzer Prize as the best American story for the year.

Who is the Author?

What is its Nature?

It treats of real, human "homey" folks in a representative small town. A story of the third generation—a drama of today.

Who's in the Cast?

Alice Calhoun, long a fan favorite; Cullen Landis, principal in many screen successes; Ben Alexander, whom Mr. Tarkington calls "a true American boy"; Allan Forrest, of "Captain Blood," and "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall"; Otis Harlan, who made a distinct hit in "The Clean Heart"——all well known and popular.

Who was the Director?

What are the High Lights?

The most realistic fire scene ever screened. An apartment building burns, with real firemen fighting the blaze and real people figuring in thrilling rescues. Chief Hendricks of the Los Angeles Fire Department said of it: "The greatest thing I have ever seen. I should not have believed it possible to make such a picture." . . . A runaway that makes spectators clutch their seats in terror, it's so real. . . . A horse race that puts to shame the old-time Roman chariot races you used to see re-enacted at the circuses.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE SWAN"

The interesting Adolphe Menjou is the hero of "The Swan," the feature picture now running at the Capitol Theatre. This gentleman always adds interest to any picture that he appears in, by reason of the fact that he seldom departs from the role in which he makes the best impression,—that of a somewhat frivolous trifler. As Prince Albert of Hohenberg, he has the part of a young gallant, tied to his mother's apron strings, willing to marry the girl she has picked out for him, but still having a real good time in odd moments.

The characterizations in this picture are extremely good, with the exception, perhaps, of the heroine, who is just about as wooden a dame as a lady could possibly be. Evidently Miss Frances Howard becamed overawed with the dignity of the role assigned to her, that of the Princess Alexandra, or else the director had certain ideas about the deportment of a princess. Any audience would wonder just why a vital young man like Dr. Walter, the tutor at the castle, would fall in love with such a frigid creature. Ricardo Cortez in the hero's role is as handsome as ever and a very interesting lady is the Prince's mother, Dominica, the same actress who took so splendidly the part of Queen Elizabeth in Mary Pickford's picture, "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall." Curiously enough, one of the main scenes in which this lady appeared in the big Pickford picture depicted her in an out of the ordinary night-cap, and "The Swan" also shows her all ready to retire when the big scene takes place, the spirited duel in which Dr. Walter engages in turn with the Prince and his aide.

"The Swan" of the title is the Princess Alexandra, condemned to a loveless marriage with a trifling prince, but the producer contrives a happy, if somewhat story-book ending for the story. The tutor captures his haughty princess and the prince departs, unmournful and cheerful, to flirt with more entertaining damsels. The whole story has a fairy-tale atmosphere, but is entertaining and gorgeous in spots, such as the scene which depicts the great ceremonial dinner after the betrothal of the prince and princess.

The production has a few intriguing minor points. It opens with the delineation of the two bare feet of the foppish prince, and his countenance, surrounded with a complexion mask, and closes with a bit of scenic beauty—the two lovers standing by the palace pool with its white swans. There is inset in the main production a little vignette of a romance told by the young tutor to his charges, and the sub-titles have a background throughout of watered silk, just a small item that adds to their attraction.

The usual short reels accompany the feature and there is a Mermaid comedy, with a ridiculous hero who essays to prove himself a real sport in the eyes of his best girl and gets tangled up with a porcupine and a spirited horse.—Jeanette.

STAR GETS GREATEST THRILL OF CAREER IN BUCK JONES WESTERN.

"I never was so scared in all my life," said Wanda Hawley leading lady in the newest picture starring Buck Jones, "The Man Who Played Square," directed by Al Stanell for William Fox, speaking of a scene in which she faints in a mine and Buck has to effect a rescue by hanging on to a basket with the cinematically unconsious Wanda prone over one arm while the basket is hoisted out of the mine. This picture is coming to the CAPITOL Theatre To-Morrow.

Mr. Jones was hanging on a ring at the bottom of the basket and when we got about a hundred feet in the air I felt as though his arm were slipping," she continued. "Luckily for me, by the time I was so scared I was beyond caring. The first time was the worst of all. When we had retaken the scene six times I really and truly was a bit afraid. The saying about the first fifty years being the hardest proved to be true in this case. All I can say on the subject of that scene is, if the fans get the thrill out of it that I did they will have the great moment of their lives.

AT THE REGENT

"THE PAINTED LADY."

Finds Pot of Luck at Rainbow's End in South Seas.

"The Painted Lady," the William Fox special production featuring George O'Brien and Dorothy Mackaill which is booked to open at the Regent Theatre to-day for a run of 3 days, is more than an adaptation from the daringly realistic Saturday Evening Post story of Larry Evans.

It's Life itself. It's South Sea love, fierce hate, romance, painted passion and vengeance, "shot" from the scenario by Thomas Dixon, Jr., under the brilliant direction of Chester Bennett.

Luther Smith, played by George O'Brien, he of the million dollar smile, loses the smile on returning from a voyage, finding his mother dying of grief, his little sister Alice dead after being ruined by a brutal captain, the Sea Wolf.

Vowing vengeance, Luther ships for the South Seas as first mate with "Captain Sutton" of the schooner "Vulture," not knowing he is the Sea Wolf. After a fight with the Captain about the very Bible given him by his poor little sister Alice, Luther quits the "Vulture" at the first South Sea island.

Here, in a languorous South Sea cabaret, he sees 'The Painted Lady' and she him. It's love at first sight, the girl of his dreams meets the man of hers.

Under the Southern Cross, embraced by amorous breezes, he declares his great love. "The Painted Lady" has not quite lost her soul. Honesty compels her to tell him her unvarnished painted past.

Innocently sentenced to jail, unable to keep honest employment as an ex-convict, hounded by hunger into paying the price of virtue for a meal, she was driven by the world to become "The Painted Lady." As such, she is cruising the South Seas with Roger Lewis, millionaire clubman, on his yacht Louise.

The finish, climax on climax, is terrific. Few plays have such a punch following punch, till the tense, heart-throbbing, nerve-tingling surprise scene.

Luther, entering an opium den of derelicts, spies his "painted lady" cowering on an auction block in the Sea Wolf's fangs! He sees red, with blood-shot eyes.

The big story necessitates an exceptionally big, strong supporting cast, including Harry T. Morey, Lucille Hutton, Lucille Ricksen, Margaret McWade, John Miljan, Frank Elliott and Lucien Littlefield.

AT THE GRAND

MAE EDWARDS 'PLAYERS.

The Mae Edwards Players at the Grand continue to gain in popular favour, and the organisation is recognised by theatre-goers as one of the best balanced and meritorious stock companies that has visited Peterborough. The company offers a splendid repertoire of splendid plays, capably acted by a cast that meets all demands upon it, and in addition a number of vaudeville items that are far above the average.

The Mae Edwards novelty orchestra scored a tremendous hit at last evening's performance ,and the audience would not be satisfied until the artistes had been recalled four times. Jack Farr, ventriloquist ,is in a class by himself, his clean-cut work winning generous applause, while the comedy efforts of Lawrence Hayes and Charlie Downs are sure fire in their effect upon the audience.

Last night's offering, "The Ballroom Girl," showed the Edwards Players at their best, and the staging of this fine play was most cleverly done, the performance throughout being decidedly effective.

With a continuation of splendid plays and vaudeville well above the usual standard ,all offered at popular prices, it is no wonder that the Grand bill for the week is proving a great drawing card.

Cross Wording — HAL COCHRNA'S DAILY POEM

My kingdom for a single word that has eight letters in it. For then the task I've started will be through. I have a hunch I'll get the word I'm seeking, any minute. Ah, yes, for crosswords I have fallen, too.

Each night I board my street car and I take my pencil out My thinking powers are quickly put to test. I never have discovered what the stunt is all about, but I've fallen for it, hard, just like the rest.

A man who's sitting next me starts suggesting this and that. I argue that a word he gives is wrong. We fill out many spaces—then we don't know where we're at. Why do they make the longer words so long?

At last the kind conductor hollers, "Carbarns," very loud. We finish in the twinkle of an eye. The "Conny" is the fellow who should really feel quite proud, for "carbarns" was the word that we were shy.

DISCUSS NEXT WEEK CHURCH UNION BILL

Non-Concurring Measure Has Not Yet Been Presented to Legislature.

TORONTO, March 5 (Canadian Press).—Hon. W. F. Nickle advised the Private Bills Committee at the legislature this morning that he understood there will be another Church Union Bill presented to the House, and that the committee should consider both bills at the same time.

He suggested next Tuesday or Wednesday suitable days to consider the bill. However, as the non-concurring bill has not yet been presented to the House, it may not be possible to have it before the Private Bills Committee next week. The discussion will probably be held over until the week after next.

NEED HEALTH WORK SAY UNDERWRITERS

Protest Launched Against Trimming of Dominion Appropriation.

In view of the fact that the Federal Government is proposing to reduce the appropriation for the carrying on of the Dominion Department of Public Health, the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada are registering a strong protest against such a move.

The work carried on by the Dominion Department of Public Health in conjunction with the Provincial Departments, has been of inestimable value to Canada. There is at present a nation-wide organization working on a campaign against preventable disesese, supported partly by Dominion and Provincial grants and partly by voluntary contributions.

The Province spend in the neighborhood of seven to eight millions yearly on this work, while the Domillion have been granting $200,000. The advantage of this grant by the Dominion is in the fact that through Dominion control the work has been co-ordinated.

The advantage to the insurance companies and to their representatives is very plain, and in fact the insurance companies aid greatly in this work by their system of medical examinations.

While everyone sympathizes with the Dominion Government in their effort to effect economis in these debt-burdened times, yet it seems to the Life Uuderwriters Assoriation that this is one department which should not be hampered in its work by lack of funds. Economy is also permissable where the result of economy will not be to destroy progress. A reduction in the Federal Grant, as proposed in the estimates recently brought down will, they think, tend to bring about a relaxation in this field of endeavor and cause a considerable loss of ground.

WHEN FOOD FAILS.

There are thousands of people who do not get the proper nourishment from the food they eat, because their digestion is defective. Food that lies undigested in the stomach is not merely wasted, it will ferment and poison your system. Flatulence and sour risings in the throat follow and unless you are careful you will become a chronic dyspeptic.

By toning up the stomach to do the work nature intended, you will remove the cause of the trouble. Nothing will more promptly restore the digestive organs than good new blood. Stomach, nerves and glands all depend on the blood, and when it gets thin and watery they are at once weakened. It is because of their action in building up and enriching the blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved so successful in so many cases of indigestion where ordinary medicines have failed. The new rich blood quickly tones up the digestive organs; the appetite improves and you are able to eat with comfort and get full nourishment from your food.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEGOTIATE WITH RUSSIAN SOVIETS ON EQUAL TERMS

But United States Insists That Soviets Leave Europe Severely Alone.

MEXICO'S ATTITUDE.

Toward Russia is Described as Favorable by Commissar Georges Tchitcherin.

TIFLIS, Russia, March 5 (United Press).—Georges Tchitcherin, Commissar of Foreign Affairs, speaking before the Central Executive of the Soviet Union, said the strong American movement for Soviet recognition was sponsored by advocates of general abstention from European affairs, while advocates of participation in European affairs were opposed to the movement.

New Commission.

Tchitcherin said the proposed American Commission to consider Russian recognition was unlike the commission proposed by the late President Harding in 1922. The new commission, he said, would not attempt to investigate Russia, but would negotiate with the Soviet commission of equal terms.

Mexico's attitude toward Russia was described as favorable by Tchitcherin, who suggested that Mexico become a base for further development of Russo-American relations. "We can't expect speedy recognition, however," Tchitcherin said.

MORE TELEPHONES-BIGGER BUILDING

Mayor Turner on Tour of City Plants Visits Local Exchange.

Mayor Turner yesterday visited the Bell Telephone Exchange on a tour of inspection. He was very much impressed with the complexity of the apparatus and the efficiency of the system. H. Cook, office manager of the local exchange, conducted the Mayor through the plant in the absence of Mr. McHardy. The company is finding the local building too small for their needs, Mr. Cook said. It was put up 19 years ago with an estimated life of twenty years, and has lived up to the estimates. Any further increase in the number of telephones will necessitate the construction of an addition to the building.

ELEPHANTS STOP TOURISTS' TRAIN

But Tourists Don't Mind the Added Thrill in Tour of the World.

COLOMBO, Ceylon, March 5.—(Special). — The Canadian Pacific S. S. 'Empress of France" on tour of the world with a large number of Canadian and American passengers aboard drew out of the harbor here this afternoon after a four day visit to Ceylon during which time the tourists followed a very comprehensive itinirary of sight-seeing and entertainment planned by the officials of the steamship company. in collaboration with Government officials here. The huge Canadian steam ship was delayed in departure somewhat by reason of the fact that a train bearing a number of the passengers who had made excursion to Kandy, the old Capital of the Cinglese Kings and Site of the Temple of the Tooth of Buddha, was held up by a herd of wild elephants which hemmed in on either side by the jungle, ambulated along the track ahead. This was a feature of the journey which delighted those of the tourists who were not anxious about missing connection with the steamship and will give added value to the elephant hoof solveniers which many of them have purchased.

CHICAGO.

Allen Logan and other reliable authorities sent in reports substantiating recent claims that wheat in western Kansas had suffered seriously from winter killing. Fort Worth Texas message stated conditions of wheat in north central Texas in the black belt not over 25 per cent.

The trading basis in corn at Chicago yesterday showed a further loss of one to three cents, making low grades of corn about ten cheaper relative to futures than they were at the close of last week. Leading industries were reported to be getting corn from outside markets at a cheaper basis than Chicago parity, while shippers complained of lack of demand. Receipts here and other terminals showed considerable increase compared with arrivals week ago.

STANDARD HOTELS TO SELL 4.4 BEER

Also Understood That Approved Restaurants Will Be Given Permits.

TORONTO, March 5 (Canadian Press).—No further details of restrictions to be placed on the sale of beer are available this morning, other than what the Premier said in his speech, that the sale would be by persons given permit at a nominal fee and that there would be no sale to boys under 18 years of age.

It is taken for granted that good standard hotels will be able to get permits for the sale of beer, and it is also stated that proprietors of restaurants which meet approval of those in charge will also be given permits.

Spooners At 70 Before The Judge

LEIPSIC, Germany, March 5. — (United Press.)—Gottlieb Schultze, 70, and his frau, Pauline, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary this spring.

Age hasn't cooled their romance, however. So it happened recently that a park policeman haled them into court for "making a public niusance" because they undertook a "petting party" in his domain

"What about this?" sternly queried the Leipsicer judge. "What do you mean by such conduct?"

"Well, your Honor" stammered Gottlieb, while his wife blushed, "you see, when one is 70, and the springtime comes—er ,er—."

"But you should do your love-making at home," thundered the judge, trying hard to keep back a smile.

Then turning to the policeman, he said:

"I suppose you were pretty sore about this spooning on your beat, Officer?"

"Oh, no, it just amused me—gave me a hearty laugh, in fact," answered the minion of the law.

"Discharged," reported the judge. "It's no public nuisance if it makes a copper laugh."

ONTARIO'S DEFICIT TO BE REDUCED BY $5,000,000 BY NEW TAXES ON GASOLINE AND BEER SHOWN IN BUDGET DETAILS PRESENTED BY HON. W. H. PRICE

Provincial Treasurer Estimates Deficit to be Reduced to $3,000,000.

MUNICIPALITIES TO GET POOL-ROOM TAX

Expects to Balance Ontario's Budget in Following Year.

EXPENDITURES CUT

Full Effect Will Be Felt in 1926, Says Provincial Treasurer.

TORONTO, March 6.—New beer and gasoline taxes are expected to yield a revenue of $5,000,000 in the next fiscal year, reducing Ontario's deficit to $3,000,000, and in the following year of 1926-27 restoring to the province a balance budget.

Such was the salient announcement in the budget speech, delivered yesterday afternoon, by the Hon. W. H. Price, provincial treasurer.

The revenue from the new four-point-four beer, which is to carry a tax, is estimated by Hon. Mr. Price at $2,300,000, approximately the same sum expected from the levy on gasoline. This amount has been placed at $2,200,000, these combined revenues accounting for nearly five million dollars to be applied to the provincial deficit of more than $8,500,000 during the fiscal year of 1925-26.

Abandon Some Tax.

The province is abandoning its tax on billiard and poolrooms, Col. Price announced, and will thereby forego an annual revenue of approximately $100,000. Next year he forecasted other levies now enforced might also be withdrawn.

The government is contemplating establishment of a sinking fund for the purpose of retiring the bonded indebtedness of the province. Such a plan would require about $3,000,000 annually. Some of this amount would be supplied from the Hydro and other revenue producing bodies. The balance would have to come out of ordinary expenditures. Mr. Price commented on the improvement which had been effected in the manner of preferring the public accounts and promised that the practice of issuing an advance financial statement at the end of the fiscal year, October 31, would be continued in future years.

Revenue Increases.

He announced the establishment of a statistical actuarial and exchange branch in the treasury, declaring that careful competent methods of collection had increased the revenue of the province by over $6,430,000 and that expenditures had been decreased in practically all departments. Capital revenue was increased by over $5,000,000 and capital expenditures decreased bp more than $7,600,000.

The attorney-general's department has shown an increase in revenue of $277,254.26. This has been induced by an increase of $100,000 from the dispensaries despite a reduction in the price of liquors.

An increase of $67,320 in fines is shown in the total of $426,665, received from this source last year.

A Long Speech.

Col. Price's Budget speech was one of the longest ever delivered in the Legislature, and, in spite of the pre-announcement of the main features of the Budget, contained a number of most important announcements, most of which may be summarized under the two headings: (1) the general policy of the Government has been to create a better financial statement by effecting economies in every department, and (2) the new anticipated revenues will eventually wipe out deficits.

The Treasurer explained that inasmuch as the interest bill for the year was in round figures $16,000,000, the expenditures, in spite of care and economy, went up a million and a half, and he therefore said:

New Taxation Essential.

"Members will see that with a declining revenue and an expenditure up something must be done if the present deficit of over $8,500,000 is to be further reduced. To cope with this factor the Government has announced its policy that all services must be self-sustaining. This is one of the chief reasons for the gasoline tax. It is not a question of choice but a case of necessity. I have estimated that it will yield in this fiscal year $2,300,000. In a whole year it would probably yield $3,000,000.

FEATURES OF THE 1924-25 BUDGET AS PRESENTED BY PROVINCIAL-TREASURER

1. $4,500,000 new revenue expected for curernt year in the gas tax $2,300,000, and beer tax, $2,3000,000.
2. Provincial tax on pool rooms amounting to $100,000, imposed by Drury, rebated to municipalities.
3. Revenue for current year, 46 millions; expenditures 49 millions, next deficit to be therefore only three millions. Deficit for budget year just closed is eight and a half million.
4. Sinking fund plan for care of provincial debt, to be effective at end of October this year, is being worked out now.
5. Cost of highway contruction per mile cut in two last year.
6. Province relieves muncipal taxation by spending $25,000,000 on municipalities.
7. Ontario's interest bill last year was $16,000,000.
8. Roads cost 94 millions in the last six years, and only 25 millions before that.
9. Gross funded debt is $285,339,948, net debt is $118,500,000, or $39.50 per capita.
10. Assets exceed liabilities by $41,000,000.
11. There were 50 new audits last year ,and the audit of all receipts has speeded up collections.
12. People of Ontario said to enjoy many taxation privileges other provinces have not.
13. Interest on farm loans reduced from six to five and a half per cent.
14. Only one-third of ordinary expenditure is controllable.
15. Success claimed in floating long and short term loans, one-year treasury bills sold to cost province 3.86 per cent. per annum.
16. Economies effected saving of $48,000 in advertising costs and printing and stationery $132,000. Careful collection increased revenues over $6,430,000 and all departments reduced expenditures.
17. Abnormal expenditures increase difficulty of deficit reduction.
18. Over 174 millions of provincial debt is invested in realizable and income-producing assets.
19. Capital expenditure decreased over $7,600,000; capital revenue increased over $5,000,000.
20. New statistical, actuarial and exchange branch being inaugurated in Treasury Department. Also new filing system.
21. Early financial statement to be continued next year.
22. New controller of great assistance and Public Accounts volume further improved, cut down to save $10,000 in printing, clearer and more condensed balance sheets and each newspaper in province provided with copy.

NO ANTHRACITE, BUT SUITABLE COAL FOR HOME USE IN DISPUTED ALBERTA AREAS

Definite Report By Engineer Engaged by Dominion Fuel Board to Investigate Western Fields—Steam Coal Abundant.

OTTAWA, March 6. — (Canadian Press).—"There is no anthracite in the Sheep River or Smoky River areas," is the definite report of James McEvoy, mining engineer and geologist of Toronto, who was engaged by the Dominion Fuel Board to investigate and report. The Sheep River and Smoky River were the coal areas affected by the Hoppe leases cancelled a couple of years ago after considerable controversy and, inquiries by special committees and Parliamentary debate. The Hoppe coal lands were said, at the time, to be worth $100,000,000.

While finding no anthracite in Sheep River or Smoky River areas, Mr. McEvoy finds "very good steam coal." In the Bow River and Kananaskis valleys, Mr. McEvoy reports a large tonnage of coal which should satisfy domestic users.

Mr. McEvoy was appointed by the Dominion Fuel Board in order to establish as a fact the quality of the coal resources of the area in question, and also the feasibility of marketing the product if it was found suitable and of greater value as a domestic fuel.

Some of Findings.

(1) There is no anthracite in the Sheep River or Smoky River areas.

(2) In one locality on Smoky River there is coal, the analysis of which shows a fuel ratio just within the semi-anthracite class, but physically it has no anthracite properties.

(3) A large area on Sheep River and Smoky River contains semi-bituminous coal, or, as it is usually known in the West, "high-grade" bituminous coal.

(4) All of the above coals are very good steam coals, and some seams are of excellent quality, but none of them will satisfy the domestic consumer who wants a fuel to take the place of anthracite, as they all have a ragged fracture which makes fine dust when handled, and they will cause a deposit of soot in the flues and chimneys.

Would Satisfy Consumers.

(5) Bow River Valley and Kahanaskis River Valley (within 15 or 20 miles of the railway) contain a large tonnage of coal, which should satisfy domestic users, even those who have been accustomed to using only Pennsylvania anthracite. It can be definitely stated that these coals will suit the domestic consumer better than any other known grades of high-grade coal in Alberta.

Transportation Question.

Dealing with the question of transportation, Mr. McEvoy reports that it is not feasible from a practical point of view to construct and operate a line of railway to Grande Prairie and Peace River Country, which would pass through the coal lands of the Smoky and Sheep River countries. The only practical route, he finds, would pass far to the north-east of these coal lands, and, to gain access to the coal, long branch lines would be necessary. The reason why a through railway could not traverse the coal lands is that it would have to cross at right angles all the deep drainage valleys of the intervening country.

Considered as a new source of coal supply, the principal fact about the Smoky-Sheep River area, according to the report, is that it contains a large tonnage of very high-grade bituminous coal, one notable 14-foot seam grading in places, by analysis, as semi-anthracite. This seam will give a superior steam coal but it is not notably better than the other high-grade bituminous coals already developed in Alberta in the qualities which domestic users require, namely, freedom from dirt, smoke and soot.

The other seams on the national coal reserve contain high-grade bituminous steam coals, probably equal to, if not a little better, than the best bituminous mined in Alberta.

WIND UP COMPANY

Decision of Directors of Farmers' Packing Company.

WINNIPEG, March 6.—Decision to wind up the Farmers' Packing Company was reached at a meeting of the directors here yesterday. This action follows the application made last Tuesday by five shareholders for an order to wind up the company's affairs. They claimed that the organization had suffered heavy deficits during the past two years and that the entire investment would be lost to the shareholders if the company were permitted to continue in operation.

ALBERTA AT WEMBLEY

Will Also Have Exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition.

EDMONTON, Alta., March 6. — Alberta will again be represented at Wembley this year, Premier Herbert Greenfield announced Thursday. The exhibit made by the province last year as part of the all-Canadian display will be repeated but will probably have some changes and additions made to it to bring it more fully up to date. It has not yet been decided, whether a Government representative will be sent with it, as was done last year.

In addition to the Wembley exhibit there will be a Provincial exhibit this year at the National Exposition in Toronto.

BILL IN PARLIAMENT TO PROHIBIT RAFFLES

Would Cancel Exemption of Churches From Present Code.

OTTAWA, March 6 (Canadian Press). — A Bill which would prohibit raffles of all kinds from being held was introduced in the House of Commons yesterday by L. W. Martell (Liberal, Hants) as an amendment to the Criminal Code.

The Bill was given third reading.

Mr. Martell explained that under the Criminal Code, as it existed, churches were permitted to hold raffles for prizes not in excess of $50.00, but there was a maxim which said that "the church is the teacher of laws, and the dictator of moral discipline." What applied to the individual should also apply to the church, said Mr. Martell in introducing the Bill.

PREMIER'S STATEMENT.

HALIFAX, March 6 (Canadian Press). — Premier E. H. Armstrong, in the House of Assembly on Thursday read telegrams which had passed on Wednesday between Roy M. Wolvin, president of the British Empire Steel Corporation and himself with reference to the Cape Breton labour situation, as follows:

"Halifax, N.S., March 4, 1925.

"The present situation coal mines, particularly Cape Breton, occasioning great personal and provincial concern and evidences of acute distress, are accumulating, intensified by the company's recent action stopping credit at stores at a time when further distress must follow, and your action cannot be explained or understood. Submit original purpose of company store was to meet an emergency of the character now existing, and if any expenditures necessary to maintain organisation or to prepare for summer shipments, those for keeping workmen alive are not only justifiable but compulsory. With this in view, seriously suggest that you arrange at once to bank out even a limited quantity of coal for shipment next summer, and thus assist in further employment, and continue a policy that has been followed in the past with satisfactory profitable results. Quite apart from the respective disputes re new wage scale, I submit, you should extend your credit at stores and not further pursue a course that is disturbing to the public and creating suffering which I am convinced now exists at your collieries.

"(Signed) E. H. Armstrong."

Cheaper Production.

"Montreal, March 4, 1925.

"Hon. E. H. Armstorng, Halifax, N.S.

"Telegram received. I very much regret any distress in our mining communities and also that we are unable to bank coal without assurance of being able to sell same without loss. To be frank, coal must be produced cheaper in Cape Breton, and the results of mining and selling coal at present wage scale are such that we are financially unable to assist our workmen as we would like. We fear that part of the trouble is the avowed purpose of some of the miners to wreck the industries, and regret that our request for a small reduction in wages has never been presented to the men themselves. I am assured that a reduction in daily wage rate would assure greater production of coal, larger outlets, increased employment, and larger annual income to the miners. Under present conditions and refusal of the men's leaders to accept small wage reduction, what can they expect other than distress conditions.

"(Signed) R. M. Wolvin."

BABY BRUTALLY BEATEN TO MAKE IT STOP CRYING

Step-Father and His Mother Took Turns With Belt And Gag.

NEFARIOUS NEST

Woman Married Second Time Tells Pitiful Tale in London (Ont.) Court.

LONDON, March 6 (Canadian Press). — For brutally battering a one-year-old baby, Mrs. Elva Mason and her son George Stover were remanded in jail for one week in Magistrate Graydon's Court yesterday to await sentence.

George Stover is her second husband, and she was married to him last month. Since that time, with her one-year-old baby boy, she has been living with her husband and mother-in-law at 232 Clarence Street.

After Mrs. Stover had told how they had whipped the baby with a long strap, choked it until it verged on suffocation, and threw it to the floor, Magistrate Graydon declared the house in which Mrs. Mason and her son lived as "the most nefarious, sordid, and abominable nest that has ever been brought to my attention."

Mrs. Agnes Reidy also gave evidence against Mrs. Mason and Stover. She told the Court the same story as that related by Mrs. Stover, that the baby had been horribly beaten.

On Monday night, according to the evidence, the baby was crying Mrs .Mason in an attempt to stop the child from "making too much noise," snatched it out of its cradle, threw it on the floor, and then took a strap and beat it.

The baby cried all the more. She then picked it up and threw it on a bed and thrust a rag in its mouth. She left it lying there in this condition until it almost went into convulsions.

Later she called her son to see if he "could stop the brat."

"He licked it cruelly," Mrs. Reidy declared. "He took a belt from his waist with a steel buckle on the end and commenced to thrash it. The baby cried and cried, and then he doubled the strap and beat it all the more."

MORE CARS IN ENGLAND

Total of 460,000 Automobiles, or 1 for Every 80 Persons.

LONDON, March 6.—(Associated Press).—England began the year 1925 with nearly 80,000 more private automobiles than were in use a year ago, according to recent announcement of the Ministry of Transport. This brings the total number of private motor-cars to more than 460,000, making one person out of every 80 the owner of an automobile.

At the beginning of 1924 there were 384,000 cars on the road in this country, the proportion being one owner out of every 100 of the population. The increase in the number of cars will, through increased taxes, add approximately $7,000,000 annually to the Government's revenues.

LESSONS IN FIRE PREVENTION

Sheer entertainment—not propaganada—is provided by Vitagraph's great picture, "Pampered Youth," adapted from Booth Tarkington's "The Magnificent Ambersons," yet the photoplay carries one lesson that should not be lost on the public There is the most realistically sensational fire scene ever screened, and the fire started from a housewife's utter carelessness. The picture should interest fire prevention and safety first organizations and be a warning to careless folk everywhere. It's at the ROYAL now. Adv.t

ALBERTA BACHELORS BEGINNING TO WEAKEN

Sending to England And Ireland for Partners.

EDMONTON, Alta., March 6. — Unmarried farmers of the Vilna district in Alberta are beginning to weaken under the monotony of "single blessedness."

At any rate a group of bachelor farmers, with the assistance of the Vilna Citizens' League have commissioned Thomas Jackson, of Pine Knoll, to visit England and Ireland this summer and bring back with him women of marrisgeable age that would make suitable life partners for the Vilna homesteaders.

The U.F.A. locals have endorsed the idea and prominent men and women of the district are supporting the idea both morally and financially.

MORE MEMBERS IN LEGISLATURE

Forecast of Re-adjustment Says County Boundaries Will Be Retained.

URBAN INCREASE.

TORONTO, March 6. —(Canadian Press).—In view of the statements made yesterday in the legislature that the Premier did not wish to decrease to any great extent the rural representation in the legislature it is now thought there will not be the cut down in members from some counties that was expected. At the some time, however, the Premier said he did not want to unduly increase the total membership of the house and that urban districts which have grown rapidly are entitled to more membership. However, the unit of population will not be the same for rural representation as for urban .It will not be surprising, members think if very few county representations are cut down. County boundaries, it is forecasted, will be retained as far as possible. In view of this the membership of the house will probably be increased from 111, the present number.

Northern Ontario will gain two or three more members and Toronto including York, Windsor, including Essex county. Hamilton and Ottawa will probably get more representation.

GRANT FROM DISABLEMENT FUND 'WAS BREACH OF TRUST'—MEIGHAN 'I WOULD DO IT AGAIN'—DR. BELAND

PRESIDENT OF FINNS

H. Lauri Relander has been elected as president of Finland by the Agrarian party. His term will run for six years.

$25,000 Advanced by Govt. for Adjustment Bureau for Returned Soldiers.

PAID TO SECRETARY OF GREAT WAR VETS

Hon. Arthur Meighen Says Money Was Taken From Disablement Fund.

WAS SUBSCRIBED

Fund Was Entrusted to the Government, Leader of Opposition Asserts.

OTTAWA, March 6 (Canadian Press)—Right Hon Arthur Meighen, Opposition leader, charged the Government in the House Thursday, with misappropriation of trust funds. "On the recommendation of the Minister, Hon. Dr. Beland," declared Mr. Meighen, "the Government effected a misappropriation of trust funds contributed by patriotic citibens for purposes specified in the trust."

The charge came during a lively afternoon's debate on the Government's measure to dispose of canteen funds. This measure is practically the same as one which passed the House last year, but failed to pass the Senate. Among other things it provides for the payment of $100,000 for maintenance of an adjustment bureau for the benefit of ex-service men. During the recess, since last session, it was shown in the course of yesterday's debate advances aggregating $25,000 had been made to the Dominion Veterans' Alliance out of the desablement fund, contributed by subscription in 1915 and 1916 and held in trust by E. F. Scammell, Assistant Deputy Minister of the Department of Soldier's Civil Re-establishment. The purpose of the advance was the maintenance of an adjustment bureau.

To Assist Veterans.

Hon. Dr. Beland, Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, said representations had been made to him that the maintenance of an adjustment service bureau would be impossible unless assistance were given. He had, therefore, asked Mr. Scammell to make the loan. "I did it," exclaimed Dr. Beland, and I am not sorry for it. I would do it again, because it was right." He added that the purpose of the adjustment bureau was to assist men in presenting their claims to the department and to the pension commissioners. "The spirit of the trust is preserved," he asserted.

"I say the spirit of the trust has been brazenly violated," Mr. Meighen shot back.

Mr. Meighen further claimed that the Government had no right to anticipate the will of Parliament. The Government had passed the money out of the treasury before Parliament had anything to say about it at all, and not only out of the treasury, but out of a specific trust fund.

To G.W.V.A. Secretary.

Hon. Dr. Manion said he had been informed by one officer of the Dominion Veterans' Alliance that not one cent of the money went to the Alliance, but that it was received by Mr. Grant McNeil. "I am not criticizing Mr. McNeil," declared Dr. Manion. "He was secretary of the G.W.V.A., but that association was only part of the Dominion Veterans Alliance,"

The money, replied Dr. Beland, had been paid to Mr. McNeil, who was secretary-treasurer.

The debate ended for the time being by the reporting of formal "progress." Hon. E. M. MacDonald, Minister of National Defence, said that Sir Arthur Currie, whose interests nobody could doubt, considered that he knew of no other purpose for which the fund could be better used. He further suggested that the terms of the disablement fund trust deed be omitted.

Board of Trustees.

Hon. Mr. Beland introduced his resolution for distribution of the canteen funds held by the Government, at the opening of the House yesterday. The resolution provides that $20,000 be held for payment of outstanding account, that $100,000 be paid to a central board of three trustees, "to be used in such amounts and such manner as it may deem best for the maintenance and assistance of an adjustment service and bureau for the benefit of ex-service

NEW EVIDENCE IN PIRIE CASE

HAVE 3,500 NAMES.

OTTAWA, March 6. — (Canadian Press.)—Certain evidence, which it was found impossible to produce at the trial of John Buchan Pirie, sentenced to hang for the murder of his wife and two children, has been submitted to the Minister of Justice. With the appeal for clemency, which has been forwarded to him on behalf of Pirie by the G.W.V.A., it is understood that at the trial the alienists of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment were unable, owing to a Department regulation, to give evidence which was not part of the official Departmental record.

This ruling, it is said, deprived the alienists who were called by the defence from giving their opinions or the result of their experience with other patients suffering from mental trouble due to war causes.

The war widows who are canvassing the city seeking signatures to a petition for executive clemency on behalf of Pirie, say that about 3,500 persons have so far signed.

CANADIAN APPLE RATION DECLINES

OTTAWA, March 6.—Instead of eating an average of an apple a day, Canadians have pared their ration down to four a week, figures cited at the annual convention of the Canadian Horticultural Council reveal. To boost the average up to the well-known slogan standard, an intnesive advertising campaign is to be conducted during the ensuing year.

Amendments to existing tariff regulations and to legislation affecting the basis of fruit and vegetable sales on public markets and by peddlers constituted a major portion of the morning's session.

Mrs. Carrie Peckham of 837 Var St., London, Ont., says: "I took Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription during my last expectancy to keep up my strength. I had no sick stomach, nor any other distressing ailment such as usually come to the prospective mother, and my baby has been just as fine and well as can be. He is now eight months old and has never known a sick day. I would never hesitate to recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a tonic and nervine in young motherhood, for I know that it helps in many ways, both the mother and the child."

Get this "Prescription" from your neighborhood druggist, in either liquid or tablet form, and write Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free, confidential medical advice. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory, Bridgeburg, Ont., if you wish a trial package of tablets.

LOYAL AIREDALE SCARED ROBBERS

HELD UP BY THUGS.

TORONTO, March 6.—(Canadian Press.)—The loyalty of "Bruce," an airedale dog, for his master, is given to-day by Fred Britton as the reason that he is not lying in the hospital as the result of an attack made on him last night by three thugs in a lonely spot in the east end of this city.

The men demanded his money and when they found only sixty cents in his possession they commenced to assault him. "Bruce" then came to the rescue. Snapping savagely, he tripped one of the men and bit him in the face, causing the robber to run for a motor car standing a short distance away. Frightened by the barking of the dog, the other two also turned and fled to the car and the three escaped.

Last Monday Alex. Thompson was held up in the same spot and robbed of $100.

PERMIT VEGETABLES SALE BY MEASURE

This is an Amendment Asked by Canadian Horticultural Council.

OTTAWA, March 6.—(Canadian Press.)—The Canadian Horticultural Council passed a resolution at its concluding session here, asking, among other things, for relief from customs and sales tax imposed on all fruit and vegetable grading machinery and other equipment necessary for the production and marketing of crops.

Further resolutions ask that the Root Vegetables Act be amended to allow farmers to use on open market all legal measures of a size to contain less than thirty pounds, instead of requiring sales of these products by weight, and that nitrate of sola when used as fertilizer, be given the same railway rate as other fertilizers.

RAILWAYMEN STRIKE.

Saxony Partly Tied Up By Sudden Dropping of Tools.

DRESDEN, Germany, March 6.—(Canadian Press).—Dissatisfied with their low wages and enraged because the railway administration recently voted huge increases for the highest officials, while ignoring the lower-paid workers, railway men in various parts of Saxony, especially Leipzig, Dresden and Chemnitz, yesterday laid down their tools without waiting the result of wage negotiations at Berlin which were interrupted by the Ebert obsequies.

Freight is badly congested and the passenger service has only been continued under great difficulty and numerous delays. The railway administration issued an order demanding the immediate return of the strikers on pain of permanent dismissal.

ONTARIO DEFICIT TO BE REDUCED BY 5.000.000

"I have estimated succession duties at $1,000,000 higher than last year, on account of there being a larger number of estates. I have estimated also a beverage tax, which would bring into the province probably $2,200,000 this fiscal year.

"Altogether with those new imposts one might account for $5,500,000 of the present deficit, if the revenues stand up as well as they did last year. This will leave about $3,000,000 of a deficit for 1925-26.

Pruning Knives Used.

"I have gone very carefully over the items in the various departments where expenditures were made. The Ministers in each department have had at work their pruning knife to cut expenditures to a minimum, without practising that false economy which only leaves for another day the payment of our present obligations, and strangles some of the most beneficial services.

Lower Taxation a Prospect.

"Last year we were not in a position to say what could be done. This year we can say that we have made a positive, aggressive attempt to cut down expenditures with considerable success. If there are any items that honorable gentlemen will find in the estimates that they think might well be abandoned or cut off, the Government will be very delighted to receive their suggestions.

Full Effect in 1926.

"Having, therefore, done all that can be done this year in the cutting down of expenditures, one must turn to revenues for the purpose of cutting down our deficit. The new revenues supplied will only be for a period of six or seven months this year, and will not come into full effect until 1926. It may be when these revenues are being collected in full there will be an opportunity for the province to lessen taxation here and there. As an instalment of that the province is abandoning the field of taxation on billiard and pool rooms to the municipalities. This will be a loss in Provincial taxation of about $100,000. Next year when these new imposts are in full sway the province may be able to abandon other fields, provided that we still keep in mind that we must provide somewhere for a sinking fund.

Sinking Fund Proposals.

"The Government have been giving very careful attention to the establishing of a sinking fund, either by the issuing of serial bonds or amortized bonds. The plan is being worked out now, which if brought into effect at the beginning of the next fiscal year, would require about $3,000,000 each year for the purpose of retiring our bonded indebtedness. Some of this amount would be supplied from the Hydro and other revenue producing bodies. The balance would have to come out of our ordinary expenditures.

"In making up a statement of what might be reasonably expected this year, I have had to take into consideration a number of factors.

Financial Outlook.

"First is revenue. Revenue is affected by the general business condition of the country. It affects the collection of taxes everywhere. In looking over the figures submitted by the various departments we have an estimated revenue for next year of around $46,500,000

Lands and Forests.

"The Department feels that we will probably collect $1,000,000 less in the Lands and Forests Department. We will collect somewhat more in the Motor Vehicles branch. We will probably collect less on the race courses and amusement tax. If we were left on the same basis as we were last year, it is quite likely that the revenue, which this year amounted to somewhat in excess of $40,000,000, would be decreased to about $39,000,000. The revenues for the part of this fiscal year now past show a general decline.

Expenditure Goes Up.

"When one turns to expenditure, we are faced right away with an increased interest bill for this fiscal year of about $1,500,000. In estimating, therefore, ordinary payments, if there is to be a general decrease, this must be made from the controllable expenditures which now total over $16,000,000. Each department is making an attempt to make a further cut this year in these expenditures. It is safe to say, however, that the province will be doing very well indeed if it can keep its total ordinary expenditure next year somewhere between $49,000,000 and $50,000,000. The amount I have estimated is $49,070,000.

How "Guesses" Worked Out.

'It has been the custom in bringing down the budget to set forth an estimate of the Revenue and expenditure for the present fiscal year. Last year the Government found such a condition as to make it impossible to make any more than a guess. After considerable pressure I stated that I did not believe we would be able to cut down over $5,000,000. The actual cutting down this year has been over $4,000,000, which has almost been eaten up by the uncontrollable expenditure. When it comes to revenue my estimate of increase was $4,000,000, and this has been exceeded $2,500,000.

Appeal for Economy.

'Last year, it will be remembered that in bringing down our first budget I made an appeal to the members to suport the Government in any economical advances that could be made. I desire now to thank the members, irrespective of party, for their very kind co-operation. They know that in many cases we have had to cut down expenditures that vitally affected their ridings and municipalities. I ask for their further help in reduction this year so that with the new revenues induced by new policies, we will be able to operate at least next year without a deficit.

Expenditure Decreases.

Improvement in ordinary expenditure shows:

Expenditure for 1923....	$49,305,439.15
Expenditure for 1924 .	49,009,688.16
Net decrease	295,750.99

This means a net decrease outside the public debt of $2,629,453.22.

If to this could be added the difference in discount on loans amounting to $329,181.94 the actual decrease would have amounted to $2,958,635.16. Here, however, the uncontrollable factor comes in because in 1923 the interest on the public debt amounted to $17,510,708.26 while in 1924 it stood at $16,173,592.43. We, therefore, paid in 1924 $2,662,884,17 more interest than in 1923. This item which had been caused by the interest on the money spent in 1923 and more particularly the $40,000,000 loan which had to be placed when this Government came into power almost wiped out all the improvement that the cutting down of expenditures in every department has shown. Instead, therefore of having to our credit a reduction of $2,629,453.22, and added to it the difference in discount on loans of $329,181.94, we have to take from it these heavy interest payments over which we had no control, leaving only to our credit a net reduction of $295,750.99.

Departmental Savings.

Dept.	Decrease
Prime Minister.....	$ 367,218.24
Legislation	142,663.96
Attorney-General:
Law Enforcement, etc	142,229.84
Insurance Department	4,796.82
Education	552,093.61
Land and Forests	267,572.42
Mines:
Mines	8,953.89
Games and Fisheries	32,686.75
Public Work and Highways:
Public Works	150,639.90
Public Highways	301,715.36
Labor and Health:
Health	40,784.80
Labor	20,416.93
Provincial Treasurer	131,656.89
Provincial Auditor	12,067.32
Provincial Secretary	646,339.66
Agriculture	x141,009.18
General Miscellaneous	72,238.03
Public Debt	2,662,884.17

Where there have not been decreases there is good reason for the increase. The increase in the Department of Mines of $8,953.89 is caused by its attempt to secure British capital in Ontario. The Department of Health—$40,784.80—caused by the providing of free Insulin and other serums. The Provincial Auditor's Department—$12,067.32, necessitated by the auditing of receipts in all the departments; and that of Agriculture—$141,009.18, owing to the fact that the Federal Government withdrew its grant of $300,000. If this grant had not been withdrawn a decrease in expenditure in this department of over $150,000 would have been shown.

Statements quoted show how much the province has progressed over the former year. Take first the receipts of the province. The total altogether of $40,540,923.65, as compared with $34,110,212.62, leaves a net increase for the fiscal year of $6,430,711.03.

Revenue Increases.

The increase in the revenue in the various departments are as follows:

Prime Minister	$1,036,057.45
Legislation.....	3,219.98
Attorney General:
Law enforcement, etc.	277,254.26
Insurance Dept. (dec.)	157.13
Education.....	88,170.90
Lands and Forests ..	1,341,757.63
Mines:
Mines	30,345.90
Games and Fisheries	46,085.38
Public Works and Highways:
Public Works	8,032.36
Public Highways ...	972,100.61
Health and Labor:
Health.....	83,305.49
Labor	148,053.45
Provincial Treasurer.	1,966,513.94
Provincial Secretary .	223,142.05
Agriculture..	137,048 53
Stationery Account ..	2,755.47

In most departments the collection of revenue is subservient to the service of education, law enforcement, encouragement of mining and fishing, health and labor, agriculture, and the operation of hospitals and public institutions, yet in all these latter departments there was an increase in revenue.

The Effect.

"The effect of this revenue collection is that without any new taxation, yet by competent and careful collection, the Government has been able to increase it over $6,430,000, thereby saving the province from having this amount added to the public debt and paying interest on it over a period of years," said Col. Price.

Liquor Revenues.

"In the Attorney-General's Department an increase in revenue of $277,254.26, has been induced by an increase of $100,000 from the Ontario Government dispensaries. This increase took place, notwithstanding the reduction in prices of liquors, announced by the Attorney-General last year.

"It will also be noted that in 1923 from fines we received $359,345.80; in 1924 from fines we received $426,665.80, an increase of $67,320.

"In confiscated liquor we received: In 1923, $71,649.58; in 1924, $106.596.53; an increase of $84,946.95.

"This increase in revenue from the Ontario Government dispensaries and law enforcement has been accomplished at a time when the expenditure of this department, which is mostly composed of salaries, decreased by $10,984.27 In other words the revenue increased 25.64 per cent., and the cost of operations decreased 1.70 per cent. This is a remarkable achievement in administration when one considers that it is the O.T.A. that is being enforced.

Do We Collect More?

"One may very well ask whether there are taxes collected in Ontario which are not levied in other provinces. We have a Land Transfer Tax, which gives a revenue of about $500,000. This corresponds to revenues in the west from fees under the Land Titles Act. The Betting Tax imposed on race track wagers is collected in all other provinces where racing is carried on. More Municipal Refunds.

"The moneys refunded in the province to municipalities are prodigious. Payments made for purely municipal purposes—the upkeeping of jails, asylums ,hospitals, public institutions, grants to schools, to roads, for the building of bridges, guarantee and advancing of moneys for Hydro-Electric Power and Light. No municipal expert in either an urban or rural municipality should be seen when he rises at any time to say that the Province of Ontario does not treat the municipalities fairly in the matter of taxation. One thinks sometimes when you hear some municipal representatives assailing the Provincial Government that they do not get a cent of return from the moneys collected. The Provincial Auditor estimates that last year there was returned to municipalities nearly $25,000,000.

Detail of Refunds.

"A small portion of this came out of capital, but a very large portion of it is paid out of current revenue for which the people are taxed.

"In education alone we paid out in grants to Public and Separate, High Schools, Normal and Model Schools, Technical education, University grants, schools for the deaf and dumb and the blind, over $8,000,000. For Ontario hospitals and for hospital refuges and orphanages we paid out considerably over $5,000,000. The municipalities would have had to pay these if the Government had had not. The Agriculture Department paid out over $1,250,000. In mothers' allowances we paid out $1,708,000. In the Health Department over $150,000 on public health laboratories ,and on preventable diseases ,etc. For employment Bureaus alone throughout the Province it cost $165,000. For bonuses to rural primary tranmission lines over $750,000. Fines are now remitted at the rate of $50,000 per year.

Amusement Tax Exemptions.

"At this point the question of the operation of the Amusement Tax Branch comes up. The director estimates that we could have collected $430,000 more if it had not been for the exemptions. These exemptions occur where entertainments are held for charitable, religious, or educational purposes. For instance, we deal leniently with church functions. We exempt agricultural fairs and societies. If our amusement tax were applied to the Canadian National Exhibition we would obtain revenue of $90,000. If we taxed skating rinks we could collect $40,000. We exempt Farmers' Institutes and Women's Institutes and Community Halls. There are a great many other places where amusement tax might be applied, and if we made these collections it would bring in a revenue of $180,000.

Provincial Bank.

"Altogether there have been 15 branches of the Savings Office established, and the deposits at the end of last fiscal year with accrued interest amounted to $22,000,000. The policy of the department has been to accept deposits at these various branches and have them transferred eventually to one of the chartered banks where Government deposits are kept, and credit given to the treasury. In accordance therewith the sum of approximately $21,300,000 has been deposited with the Provincial Treasurer.

"At the end of the fiscal year the Agricultural Development Board had loaned out on long date loans approximately $7,400,000, and on short date loans $213,000. It will be seen, therefore, that out of $21,300,000 deposited with the Treasury by the Savings Office, approximately $7,600,000 has been advanced for farm loans, leaving in the hands of the Treasurer the sum of $13,700,000.

"Under the Act, the Department has power to invest these monies in Provincial bonds, Dominion bonds or municipal securities. While the general rates of interest paid by the province were high, the savings offices were credited with 5½ per cent. When the rates of interest paid by the province decreased, the rate to the savings office was adjusted and for the last fiscal year they have been allowed at the rate of 5 per cent., not 5½ per cent.

Decline in Interest Rates.

Towards the end of last fiscal year the Government began to perceive that the rates of interest on short term money and long date money were on a steady decline, and it has been amply demonstrated that the province can obtain short date money on a yearly basis for less than 4 per cent. On long term securities the province will be able to get on its next loan anywhere from 4½ to 4¾ per cent. The Government were forced to the conclusion that it was desirable to lower the rates of interest in the savings offices so that eventually this lowering of interest rates could be passed on to the farmer, who was then paying 6 per cent., but hereafter 5½.

After a revaluation of many of these farm loans it appeared that where the loan had been made up to 65 per cent. and there had been a decrease in the value of the farm there was not any too much of a margin for Government security, where the farmer himself was not very progressive. Under these circumstances, the Government decided to lower the percentage of value on which loans could be made from 65 per cent. to 50 per cent. It does not affect the loans that are already made, yet the price of the farm has gone down, and the Government has a loan which need not be paid for twenty years.

Muddled Condition.

"There was another reason. When we looked at short term farm loans we found a very unsightly condition. The auditors start off by saying:

"'A very loose and unsystematic method has been employed in keeping the records and accounts. Mr. Murray, organizer of the short term loans, has had these accounts under his control. We consider this a very unsatisfactory way of keeping same, in so much that only part time could be given to the handling of the work. We consider the present form of cash book to be entirely inadequate. The present form of ledger account is insufficient.'

"Accordingly, many of these defects have been improved, and wiped out, but it showed the Government it would have to create a reserve fund not only for the savings offices, but for the agricultural development board, so that their losses entailed in the future might be paid out of this reserve fund rather than be paid by the country as a whole. The Government, therefore, decided (1) to reduce the rate of interest payable to depositors; (2) to create a reserve fund for the purpose of stabilizing the agricultural development board and the savings offices; (3) to pass part of this reduction on to the farmer.

Service Must Pay Way.

"The policy of the Government is that every branch of the service, including this branch, should pay its own way, and that those who receive the benefit from the specific service should pay for it. There is no reason why the general ratepayers of the province should be asked to pay up for any losses or any extra operation charges instituted by the receiving of the deposits of the people, or the placing of money on farm loans.

"The House, I am sure, will be gratified to know that the figures for the month of February, which I have just received, show that 11 of the 15 branches of the savings office show an increase for this month. I am very pleased to note that our deposits at no time fell below $20,250,000, and that to-day the deposits in almost every branch are again on the increase. This a remarkable justification of the Government's policy.

Supplementary Estimates.

TORONTO, March 6.—Supplementary estimates to the amount of $2,1287,592 were submitted to the Legislature Thursday. These are divided among the various departments as follows: Prime Minister's department, $5,000; Legislation, $2,900 Attorney General's Department, $40,448; Insurance Department, $8,162; Education Department, $89,830; Lands and Forests, $5,000; Mines, $21,000; Game and Fisheries, $48,575; Public Works, $1,528,279; Highways, $6,000; Health, $13,200; Labor, $5,800; Provincial Treasurer's Department, $75,700; Provincial Auditor, $24,500; Provincial Secretary's Department, $286,698; Agriculture $26,499. The big expenditure in the Public Works is for the new office building being erected in grams and an editorial from the Sydney Post urging a voluntary submission by both sides of the cases to a Board of Arbitration constituted by mutual agreement, the Premier said:

"Mr. Speaker, I have read these telegrams and this extract from the Post as indicating in the first instance what is the attitude the Government, and to some extent, at least, the public have assumed and taken as to two important subjects of public and local concern.

"(b) Banking coal to stimulate employment for reserve for summer shipment.

"I am sure there can be no misunderstanding as to our attitude and our specific request upon the British Empire Steel Corporation through the president. The answer of the president may be justified, but is not helpful of encouraging in the endeavour to solve a situation that is distressing and becoming more so. It is to be hoped that the language of exaggeration will be avoided. It is a time when wise councils should prevail. Difficult as the situation is and distressing as the circumstances are, we have to recognise that various reasons combine to influence and affect the whole situation. The Government is now in possession of respective replies of the men and the company to our proposals. Both of these replies have been submitted to the men and company, and their further reply ,if any, requested. So far, none having been received from the men as to the reply of the company to our proposals, the Government will take into immediate and careful consideration these replies and decide what further, if any, course it should adopt. It is quite possible that notwithstanding the replies recvived, having regard to the public interest, we shall adopt our own course with a view to ascertaining the essential facts."

Premier Armstrong made his statment in the House. Previous to the statement at Glace Bay threatening a cessation of work at 11 o'clock to-night, by J. M. McLeod, district president of the United Mine Workers of America.

men and their dependents." and that $50,000 be paid to the United Service Fund of Great Britain, and a similar amount to the American Red Cross.

It is provided that the residue of the fund is to be divided into nine provincial allotments, as follows:

Alberta, 7.752 per cent; British Columbia and the Yukon, 11.213 per cent.; Manitoba, 10.654 per cent.; New Brunswick, 4.072 per cent.; Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, 6,288 per cent.; Ontario, 41.237 per cent.; Quebec, 11.622 per cent.; Saskatchewan, 7.162 per cent.

In the Bill, said Dr. Beland, he intended to have Nova Scotia all by herself, and Prince Edward Island likewise. British Calumbia and Yukon Territory had been allotted jointly 11,213 per cent. of the residue of the fund, for the reason that the latter was not organized, and it was considered that the interests of returned men residing in the Yukon might be better served by being joined to British Columbia in this matter. Representations had, however, been received to the effect that it would be preferable to have an allottment to the Yukon itself. He had no objection personally; and if it were the wish of the House an amendment for this object would be presented.

The percentages of allotment from the residue of the fund had been based on the percentage of enlistments, discharges and a number of pensioners in each place. This was considered to be the fairest way.

Opposition Enquiry.

"It has been reported," stated Hon. Hugh Guthrie (Conservative, Wellington, South) "that some order-in-council has been passed within the last few months, disposing of a portion of this fund. Has the minister before him any order-in-council, or can he explain?"

"No money has been apportioned from this fund by order-in-council since 1911," replied Dr. Beland.

"Irrespective of any money being disposed of, has any order-in-council been passed in the matter?" asked Hon. R. J. Manion (Conservative, Fort William, Rainey River).

The minister replied that a certain money had been appropriated from the disablement fund; but not from the canteen.

Sir Henry Drayton (Conservative, York West) declared that he believed that there had been three loans to the Dominion Veterans' Alliance, aggregating $25,000, and covered by order-in-council. This money, he understood, had been taken from the Carruthers' Fund.

"Was the Auditor-General," asked J. A. Clark (Conservative, Burrard) "requested to pass an appropriation for this amount or any portion of the amount mentioned in the order-in-council from the canteen fund?"

"The Auditor General was never requested to pass any amount from the canteen fund by this government," replied Hon. Dr. Beland.

Agents of Government.

Gen. Clark stated that the minister seemed to think that the Government was justified in securing loans from trust funds, and paid to the Dominion Veterans' Alliance, to be repaid by that organization out of the sum of $100,000 which Hon. Dr. Beland expected to be voted, to a central board of three trustees at this session, from the canteen fund. The position was that such appointees would not really be trustees at all, of such a fund, but merely the agents of the government.

In reply to a query by Mr. Clark, Hon. Dr. Beland stated that if such trustees did not see fit to pay the amounts of the loans in question, repayment would have to stand.

Gen. Clark said that if such refusal occurred, the result would appear to be, that misappropriation of trust funds had occurred.

Deputy-Speaker Gordon declared that he had been considering the use of the word "misappropriation," and he did not think that it could be directed towards a minister.

L. W. Humphrey (Progressive, Kootenay West) stated that he could not agree with the view taken by the Conservatives who had spoken so far in the matter. He commended Hon. Dr. Beland on his judgment in assisting the Dominion Veterans' Alliance. The House seemed to have overlooked the fact, that in 1921 a number of orders-in-council had been passed dealing with the allocation of funds in trust for returned men throughout the Dominion. Roughly speaking, $100,000 had been allocated.

Hon. Arthur Meighen stated there was a difference in this case. The canteen fund referred to by Mr. Humphrey was a trust fund, of which the government was a trustee, but the disablement or Carruthers' Fund was one on which an official of the Government and not the Government itself was trustee.

Trustee Liable.

"It was as plain as possible, a breach of trust," said Mr. Meighen. Dr. Manion asked wnere the Government was going to get the money from to pay the trustee if the proposed legislation was thrown out. He suggested that Mr. Scammel the assistant deputy minister, would, as trustee of the fund, be personally liable. Dr. Beland undertook to explain the loan made by Mr. Scammel to the Dominion Veterans' Alliance.

Dr. Manion said one of the officials of that organization had stated that the Alliance never got the money.

Dr. Beland said that the money had been paid, he believed, to the secretary-treasurer, who was Mr. Grant McNeil, and in doing so, the spirit of the trust had been preserved.

"The spirit of the trust has been brazenly violated," said Mr. Meighen. Dr. Beland said he had asked to have the loan made, was not sorry for it, and would do it again.

Dr. Manion thought that Mr. Scammel would feel very uncomfortable about the $25,000 loaned out, if Parliament failed to pass the legislation at present before it.

He considered that there had been a breach of trust.

For Good Purpose.

Hon. E. F. MacDonald, Minister of National Defence, said that the Question was under what terms and conditions the trustee held the Carruthers' or disablement fund. It might well save discussion if, before insinuations were made, the members would wait to learn this. Sir Arthur Currie, whose interests nobody could doubt, considered that there was no other purpose for which this fund could be better used.

General A. D. Ross (Conservative, Kingston) inquired if this opinion were in writing.

Hon. Dr. Beland asked if such an opinion from Sir Arthur Currie were produced, General Ross would agree with him.

"No, I will not," replied General Ross. He was doubtful if General Currie had approved of the matter.

George Black (Conservative, Yukon) enquired why, if the terms of the disablement fund trust had not been violated, should the government go into the canteen funds to pay it back.

Dr. Beland replied that $100,000 had been set aside by way of a bill last year for an adjustment bureau. The bill had not become law, although the House of Commons favored it. The trustee of the fund in question made loans with the idea of having them paid back.

Dr. Beland stated that General Sir Arthur Currie's opinion had been in writing. He could not agree, however, to produce the whole of the letter, as it might refer to other matters.

W. A. Boys (Conservative, South Simcoe) said he would like to know if Sir Arthur Currie had seen the trust agreement. He thought also that there should be a contract for repayment in this case. And if there were one, he would like to have it produced.

Dr. Beland said that the canteen fund belonged to all the soldiers. He failed to see why the Conservative Government in 1921 had made a distribution of some of this money by order-in-council. Why was not Parliament consulted on that occasion, he asked.

Mr. Meighen replide that the Government had the right to expend money, afterwards submitting the expenditure to Parliament when it was called in session. The House of Commons at this session would be asked to approve of expenditures which had already been made by the government. That was a very different thing from using trust funds over which the Government had no control.

The committee rose and reported progress.

ALBERTA COAL.

The announcement from Premier Ferguson that arrangements have been made to bring 100,000 tons of Alberta coal on May 1, and that in a short time it is hoped to get Alberta and Nova Scotia coal here as cheaply as the United States article, is good news.

The advantages to be gained from rendering this country independent so far as her coal supply is concerned are obvious.

It would also mean the building up of a large trade for Canadian railways.

In addition, the manufacturers of the East would benefit as the spending power of many Westerners would be greatly increased by the influx of Eastern money in exchange for coal.

The details of the scheme by which 100,000 tons of Alberta coal is to be brought East in the near future have not yet been given out, but it is hoped that the day is not far distant when there will be a plentiful supply of Canadian coal available in Ontario at a price that can meet the competition of imported fuel.

That will be a glorious day for this country.

THE NEW BEER.

While there may be some variation in the vote when the bill is before the House, the divisions recorded yesterday on the amendments in the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne show that the Legislature will endorse the 4.40 beer measure by a vote of 3 to 1.

It is evident that Mr. Ferguson can count upon his followers almost to a man, and will have the support of five or six Liberals and the three Labour members when the vote is taken.

Chief interest now centres in the regulations that will be set down for the sale of the new beer.

Mr. Ferguson threw some light upon this subject in his speech on Wednesday, but the information he gave the House was very sketchy.

He made it clear, however, that it will not be sold everywhere or confined to standard hotels, as has been variously reported.

There will be a permit system at a nominal charge, and only such places as are approved by the Government will be permitted to sell the 4.40 beer, while its sale to boys under the age of eighteen years will be prohibited.

It is possible that when the bill comes before the House there may be a few bolters from the Government side, but certainly not enough desertions to interfere with the passing of the measure.

Whether the majority of people in Ontario want it or not, stronger beer is assured; all that remains is to draw up the regulations and set the date when the new brew will be on tap for the first time.

FAIR WEATHER FANS.

Following the defeat of the Peterboro Hockey Club in the senior finals comes the usual aftermath of rumours and insinuations, nasty, malicious and even libelous, reflecting upon the honour and integrity of some of the players.

The impartial observer, hearing of a hockey team which, built up for the intermediate series, went out and fought its way through to the senior finals, entered that series with its ace forward and best scorer only a shadow of himself, got none of the breaks and suffered a four-goal beating, and then went back to the opponents' own stronghold and in a gallant effort won a clean-cut victory, would come to the conclusion that here was a collection of athletes who deserved well of their fellow-citizens.

Yet the reward that the Peterboro team is receiving from many of the local followers is the charge that some of them "sold out" in the game at Toronto; in other words, that they accepted money from Niagara Falls or the gamblers or some other source to allow the Niagara Falls team to win.

No man in his sober senses who has a drop of real sporting blood in his body would credit such a despicable charge; it is a cowardly and inexcusable libel upon the reputation of athletes who have done much for Peterboro, and the Examiner is sure that every real fan in the city resents the circulation of these insinuations and innuendoes.

It is evident that a good many people in this city who would be very angry if they were to be called by the term sport has coined—"pikers"—have not yet learned the fundamental principle of real sportsmanship—to win gracefully and to accept defeat without a whimper.

People who lead the cheering when a team wins and lead the chorus of slander and calumny when it loses never enhance the reputation of their home community as a sporting centre.

For the good name of Peterboro, it is to be hoped that the "fair weather" fans constitute but a small—albeit noisy—minority.

THE INCOME TAX.

There will be a good many wage-earners who will heartily agree with Mr. Frank W. Wilson, M.L.A., in his contention that the municipal income tax should be abolished "because of the difficulty of equally applying it and because of the fact that it is not equally applied."

In the first place, this tax is not collected equitably as between municipalities; in the second place, it is not collected equitably as between individuals in the same community.

Why should some of the people of Peterboro have to pay an income tax to the city while the residents of another municipality in the Province escape any such levy?

And if every municipality in Ontario collected the tax, there would still be injustice, inasmuch as it is only upon the person who works for salary or wages that the tax department has any real check.

People whose incomes may be larger than that of the wage-earners cannot be easily traced, and there is no reason to feel confident that their contribution to the income tax, whether municipal or Federal, is always in proportion to their actual income.

There is no escape for the man who is paid a salary or wages; his income can always be checked, and upon him the income tax presses heavily.

Mr. Wilson is not far wrong when he argues that it be abolished so far as the municipalities are concerned.

THE EAST AND THE WEST.

No one can read recent debates in the Dominion Parliament without discerning a strong disposition toward sectionalism. Several Progressive members have already made it clear that they believe the West to be suffering from injustice at the hands of the East. Mr. John Evans, of Saskatoon, sees an Ontario and Quebec majority in the Senate for no other purpose than to dominate the other Provinces. Mr. Robert Forke had a similar thought in the back of his head when he said "a majority in the West would probably treat the people in the East as the East now treats the people of the West."

There is no mistaking these implications. If they have any meaning at all, it is that Eastern Canada is deliberately and intentionally unjust to Western Canada; and that selfishness is at the bottom of this injustice. That was the burden of Mr. R. A. Hoey's Confederation-smashing speech of several weeks ago. It has colored the observations of all Western members of Parliament who have thus far spoken in the debate under way. In all this we must plainly identify a most vicious and dangerous concept of the way the game of politics should be played; for all this talk about the East being hostile to the West is not only the veriest moonshine, but it is also most mischievous. It has been invented for the sole purpose of furthering the political ambitions of those who have uttered it.

Fifteen minutes of sober and conscientious thinking would cure these Westerners of their folly; for it would lead them to realize that they are picturing the East as being peopled with narrow-minded fools. What has the East to gain by being unjust to the West? Absolutely nothing. Nobody has even hinted at any incentive for the hostility and selfishness which are assumed to exist. If the people who live east of the Manitoba boundary have not always seen eye to eye with the people who live west of that boundary, let us say as respects the tariff or the matter of freight rates, it is not because they want to be unjust to the latter, or override their judgment, but because they are convinced that both these matters must be viewed from the national rather than the purely sectional standpoint. In other words, they do not want to see a blunder committed in either relation which would hurt the East in particular and the country as a whole.

Why would the East be hurt by a blunder as respects the tariff or our transportation policy? Because the East would in very large measure have to pay the bill. This is not said offensively. It is not, perhaps, a nice thing to suggest at all; but if we are ever to have the mischievous attitude of these Western politicians corrected, the truth must be frankly recognized. The East is the centre of Canada's industrial life, and the vigor of that life, as well as its expansion, must always turn on a sound tariff policy. The East must neither be blamed nor suspected for desiring to avoid the drainage of its life-blood. The same thing is true of freight tolls. If a mistake is made in that respect, entailing heavier calls on the public treasury to make up the loss, the East feels it in one particular spot—its pocketbook. There can be no doubt of that, since official statistics prove beyond a shadow of doubt that Ontario and Quebec alone pay seventy per cent. of the country's tax-bill.

In other words, the attitude of the East is based wholly on economic grounds. Yet that is precisely the aspect which these Western politicians very carefully avoid. Why? Because that gives the whole matter a broad and patriotic foundation, and eliminates every trace of sectionalism. It happens, however, to be the only foundation about which we should hear in Parliament. It would be a very happy way out if the tariff could be so adjusted that both the West and the East would be helped; but that cannot be done. If the prairie grain grower feels that we ought to have free trade in agricultural machinery of all classes, simply and solely because it would benefit him, he ought to see that for every dollar he would gain thereby—or believes he would gain—fifty dollars would be lost to Eastern wage-earners; and these very Eastern wage-earners are his best customers.

What we need is more economics and less politics; more patriotism and less sectionalism. To base an agitation for tariff amendments and lower freight rates on the assertion that the East is trying to coerce the West for its own benefit, is not only unjustified but is an exceedingly imprudent and perilous thing to do. Sectionalism in any degree is inimical to that unity of purpose and hearty co-operation which is at all times the foundation of national progress. The people of the East have no more thought of dominating the people of the West than they have of cutting their throats. They have not a trace of the feelings which these mischief-makers attribute to them. Their sentiments are genuinely cordial, and would lead them to make all but destructive sacrifices for their friends of the prairies. All suspicions to the contrary are wholly imaginary. Let us all hope that the debate on the Address will serve the purpose of clearing the atmosphere, and that when tariff and transportation issues are reached in positive form a broader and better feeling will obtain.—Ottawa Journal.

IF

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs, and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you
And make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired of waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated, don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good or talk too wise.

Yours is the earth and everything that's in it,
And, what is more, you'll be a man, my son.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 5.—Cattle receipts at the Union Stock Yards today were a little heavier than usual for a Thursday but were cleared out in short order at firm prices. The supply of killers consisted of scattered lots of steers of varying quality with a small assortment of cows and bulls.

Heavies sold up to $8.25 a hundred with choice handyweights ranging from $7 to $7.75. Good cows and bulls remained steady at $4.50 to $5.50 a hundred. A few loads of good western feeding steers sold at $6.35, these being the only store cattle seen on the market today. The inquiry for milkers and springers was no better and there were few sales of this class made.

Calves Sell Briskly.

The small calf run sold briskly at $13.50 for tops with Buffalo buyers picking up the medium to good quality vealers at $11 to $12.50.

The hog market had a slight setback when the buyers refused to come up to the $12.75 mark which has ruled all week. Outsiders paid $12.75 off car for some hogs but packers were holding out for a quarter reduction. No early settlements were made.

As usual on Thursday the lamb offering was almost nil. Prices were steady according to quality with $15.50 to $16.50 a hundred offered for choice lambs.

"It's guaranteed pure — and purity means value in soap" says Mrs. Experience to housewives interested in saving.

"Of course, you know right away that I refer to Sunlight—because Sunlight is the only laundry bar soap made in Canada that is guaranteed pure. A $5,000 Guarantee of Purity goes with every bar; and, according to the makers, this Guarantee has never once been challenged during the whole lifetime of Sunlight Soap.

"It's perfectly obvious, too, that when every particle of a soap is pure cleansing material—and not loaded with useless adulterants and hardening materials—then that soap has more cleansing power and does more work with less labour. A little of it goes a long way. In short, it's really economical.

"That's why I always use and recommend Sunlight for the laundry, dishes and general housework. Sunlight keeps my hands soft and comfortable, too!" Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto, make it

MILBROOK FIRE CAUGHT IN TIME

LATE LAST NIGHT.

MILLBROOK, March 6—(Special)—A small fire broke out last night at 11 o'clock in the Shaw building, formerly Victoria Hotel. Being noticed early in its progress, the blaze was extinguished easily by the use of chemicals and show.

The fire started in a partition between John Gray's office and the living apartments of the Shaw family. Some egg crates were burned.

The loss is covered by insurance.

GERMAN MARK IS WORTHLESS

TRILLIONS ISSUED

NEW YORG, March 6—The German paper mark will go the way of the old Imperial German Emperor on June 5, when nothing will be left of it but a memory. At one time rated with the American dollar and the pound sterling, it now has a nominal value of four trillion marks for one dollar, and after June 5 even that will be taken from it.

In the meantime trillions of the marks are being hoarded by Germans, Englishmen, Americans, Canadians and others who cling to an illusion that paper marks brought several years ago at bargain prices will eventually be restored to their face value. To accomplish this the German Government would need all the negotiable wealth of the world, and more, for in a single day the German Government was able to print more "money" than mankind has mined gold in all history.

Various estimates have been put on the German marks now held in America. The figure may be one quadrillion, or it may be many times that, but not even the most astute bankers have been able to do more than hazard a guess as to the amount. In terms of dollars a conservative estimate as to the cost of these marks was $250,000,000, and some estimates have gone up to the billion-dollar mark.

On the basis of $250,000,000 paid for 1,000,000,000,000,000 German paper marks the American loss has been practically one-quarter of a billion dollars, for at the prevailing price set by the German Government the value of one quadrillion marks is only $250.

When the paper mark had lost all value in foreign dealings, and was stricken off the lists of banks, it was superseded by the German rentenmark. Then, after the Dawes plan, this was replaced replaced by the German reichsmark, or gold mark. The holders of the old German paper marks, it was explained yesterday, still have the privilege of turning in one trillion of the inflated marks for one of the new reichsmarks, this privilege to expire on June 5.

The passing of the paper mark, it was said, would end the biggest currency debacle that a country has ever experienced. Not even the Russian ruble figured in so sensational a toboggan.

ASSUMES CHARGE COBOURG CHURCH

Doctor Boyle Succeeds Canon Sawers at St. Peter's Church.

COBOURG, March 6.—Rev. Temple Stannage Boyle, M.A., D.D., D.C.L., is coming to Cobourg very shortly to assume his duties as rector of St. Peter's church, succeeding Rev. Canon F. J. Sawers, who has gone to St. Matthew's Church, Toronto. It is interesting to note that Canon Sawers was associated with Dr. Boyle at Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, where the latter was for some time the senior curate. Dr. Boyle is a graduate of Trinity College, where he received his B.A. degree in 1898, proceeding to the degree of M.A. in 1900. He then took a theological course at the Diocesan College, Montreal graduating there as gold medallist in 1900; he was ordained in Montreal that same year and appointed to a curacy in Christ Church Cathedral. He went from Montreal to Wingham, where he was rector for a time, and in 1908 he was appointed to the rectorship of Christ church, Chatham. In 1910 he took the General Synod degree of Doctor of Divinity in course and was invited to assume the position of Professor of Church History at Trinity College. He was afterwards made Dean of Divinity there.

In 1915 he was elected president of King's University, then situated at Windsor, Nova Scotia, which carries the distinction of being the oldest university in Canada. He held this position until the end of last year. The college a year ago decided to federate with Dalhousie University and this was carried out and it removed to Halifax. Dr. Boyle remained with it until the college was established in its new quarters. In 1922 King's University gave him the degree of D.C.L., in recognition of his faithful work for the college.

Although Dr. and Mrs. Boyle are not expected to take up residence here for a few weeks, as their furniture is stored at Halifax, he will assume his new work at once. Dr. Boyle preached last Sunday morning at St. Peter's and was heard with much pleasure.

Buried Here Wednesday.

The funeral of Mrs. Thompson, wife of Mr. Norman Thompson, who died at Weston on Sunday, took place here Wednesday morning, upon arrival of the eleven o'clock train to St. Michael's Church and cemetery. Mrs. Thompson before her marriage was Miss Isadora Kathleen Gugatt and was a daughter of Mr. Samuel Gugatt, who resides near Brighton.

Sentence On the 18th.

H. J. Bradey of Chatham, alias Stanley, was found guilty before Judge Cameron of passing a worthless cheque for $12 on the Standard Bank here, and will come up again for sentence on March 18.

He was previously convicted, when he came up before Magistrate Floyd, of passing a worthless cheque for $10 on the Bank of Nova Scotia and attempting to pass a cheque for $10 on the Dominion Bank, and was sentenced to six months in jail by Magistrate Floyd on each of these charges. It was while he was attempting to pass a cheque for $10 on the Dominion Bank here that he was apprehended.

Seeing that he had aroused the suspicion of the manager, Mr. W. J. Spragge, he made a hasty exit from the bank, but two of the bank clerks pursued him and brought him back, when he was taken into custody. W. F. Kerr, K.C., Crown Attorney, prosecuted, and F. J. Hall, K.C., defended the accused.

At the February meeting of the Official Board of Tyrone circuit an invitation was extended to Rev. J. W. Down to remain for a second year.

ATTEMPTS MURDER SHOOTS HIMSELF

Rich Insurance Official Fires Twice at His Son.

PORT HURON, Mich., March 6 (Canadian Press).—Wm. J. Hurley, rich insurance official and tire manufacturer, killed himself with a revolver yesterday after twice shooting Ronald, his son, 22, in the neck. Young Hurley will live. The son, recently married, says his father walked into his home, fired at him and then shot himself.

NINE CASES FOR COBOURG ASSIZES

Five Jury and Four Non-Jury Actions Incite Considerable Interest.

COBOURG, March 6.— Seldom has there been a docket composing so much interest as that which has been arranged for the jury and non-jury Spring Assizes, which open here next week, before Mr. Justice Wright. The jury cases are five actions brought against the Canadian National Railway, over accidents in this district, and there are four non-jury cases.

Hodges vs C.N.R.

Mrs. Jessie Hodges of Colborne, a widow, is the plaintiff in this case. She brings action against the Canadian National Railway for $10,000 damages because of the death of her son, Melville Hodges, who was killed in a railway accident near the village of Colborne, when the truck in which he and Clifford Alyca were riding was struck by a C.N.R. eastbound fast train. The accident occurred on the 28th of January, 1924. The dead boy was the oldest child Frank L. Webb for plaintiff and J. P. Pratt for defendant.

Alyca vs C.N.R.

Is another action arising out of the same accident. In it the plaintiff is Dr. Alyca, Veterinary Surgeon, and cattle buyer, of Colborne and well-known in the district, who brings action against the Canadian National Railway, because of alleged serious injuries received by his son, Clifford, and damages to the truck. Clifford Alyca is 17 years of age. The amount of damages sued for is $10,000. Frank L. Webb for plaintiff. J. P. Pratt for defendants. These two cases were transferred from the Autumn court.

Cambridge vs C.N.R.

The plaintiff in this is a Toronto man who brings action for $15,000 against the C.N.R. because of alleged injuries received by members of the family and death of Morris Wellington Cambridge in a motor accident at a railway crossing near Newtonville last July. Cassels, Brock and Kelly for plaintiffs, R. E. Laidlaw for defendants.

Stewart vs C.N.R.

This action arises from the same accident, and is brought by Sebastian Carruthers Stewart of Toronto, claiming $15,000 because of the death of his wife, Evelyn Florence Stewart. Cassels, Brock and Kelley for plaintiffs, R. E. Laidlaw for defendants.

Parker vs McKague.

Is an action brought by John Parker against John McKague, both parties residing near Baltimore, in Hamilton township. Plaintiff claims $1,000 damages for loss of contents of a barn, destroyed by fire last summer. F. D. Boggs, K.C., for plaintiff. Kerr and Cochrane for defendants.

Public School vs McCrodden.

An action brought by the School Trustees of Union School Sections 1 and 5, Murry and Ameliesburg townships. Plaintiffs claim ownership of certain lands, and ask for an order setting aside a grant from the Crown to Richard McCrodden, and other injunctions. H. J. Snult for plaintiff, Waldron and Bouch for defendants.

Sprung vs Herrington.

Plaintiff in this case asks for a declaration that he is entitled to one half of everything produced on the farm alleged to have been leased by the defendant to the plaintiff on shares, as provided by a lease. Kerr and Cochrane for plaintiff. W. L. Payne, K.C., for defendant.

Graydon vs Graydon.

Is an action for alimony brought by a Cobourg lady against her husband. Kerr and Cochrane for plaintiff. F. D. Boggs, K.C., for defendant.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 5.— Wheat prices suffered another severe setback during the early part of to-days session, May experiencing an extreme loss of 4 1-4c. Buying strength later imparted a firmer tone to the market May closing at $2.02 1-2; July, $1.99 and October, $1.57 3-4.

Shortly after the opening, the market ran into heavy liquidations from an accumulation of over-night selling orders. In the decline, considerable export business was worked. Trade was fairly large with all interest nervous. Liverpool cables were 1 3-4 pence lower, but this slump failed to reflect the break on this side yesterday.

The coarse grain markets continued to follow the trend of wheat, suffering early losses but recovering as buying strength improved. There was a large local trade in oats, barley and rye, with a fair volume of oats being worked from stocks in Montreal.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, March 5. — The demand for fresh eggs is good. Local receipts are increasing daily and the market is easy and has a tendency to lower levels. American fresh continue to arrive and the first three days of this week 9 cars were reported at Montreal. These eggs are passing chiefly as seconds largely on account of the number of dirty and cracked eggs found in the shipment.

Winnipeg dealers pay as delivered extras 34, firsts 32, seconds 28; jobbing extras 41, firsts 38, seconds 34.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

Demand was brisk on the cattle market this morning, steady prices prevailing for all classes and grades values generally advanced about 25 cents above the close of last week.

The Hog market was firm with thin smooths at $11.40 and select bacons, $12.54.

There was no trading on the sheep and lamb market due to lack of receipts.

STERLING RATES.

Sterling demand $4.77 3-8.

Sterling cables $4.77 3-4.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 5. —Despite a great deal of nervous shifting, the wheat market to-day finally established something of a rise in values. The upward tendency was helped by export business said to aggregate 1,000,000 bushels and by increased complaint of dry weather in the West and South-West, wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-4c higher May 1.92 1-4 to 1.92 3-8 and July 1.69 1-2 to 1.69 3-4, with corn varying from 1-4c decline to 3-4c gain, oats 1-4 to 3-8 to 5-8c up, and provisions showing 25 to 60c advance.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, March 5—Owing to decline in prices recorded for wheat in the Winnipeg market on Wednesday there was an increased enquiry from foreign buyers for grain here to-day and a fair amount of business was transacted. There was an improved demand for oats in the local market and sales of several fair sized lots of No. 2 feed were made at seven cents per bushel under the Winnipeg May option, C. S. F. Bay ports, and some No. 3 barley was sold at 13 1-2 cents over the May option, C. I. F. Montreal for first half May shipment.

The feature of the local egg situation was the foreign weakness in the market and prices scored another decline of 1 to 2 cents per dozen, which was attributed to the liberal receipts. The demand for butter was of a very limited character but prices were firm. Little business was transacted in cheese with fodder made No. 1 white and colored goods quoted at 20 1-4 to 20 1-2 per pound, and No. 2 grade at 19 1-4 to 19 1-2 cents per pound.

FIVE MEMBERS OF SESSION TO RESIGN

Protest Against Non-Affiliation With United Church in Burnbrae.

BURNBRAE, March 6.— Good crowds have been attending St. Andrew's for the past month during Rev. McKenzie's series of sermons on the prophets. He has already delivered splendid addresses from Amos, Hosea and Isaiah and on Sunday next will speak on the Book of Daniel.

Young People Met.

The Young People's Guild met on Monday evening with Miss Irene Thompson as leader. The cold weather kept the attendance down.

Five Are Resigning.

Five members of St. Andrew's session have signified their intention of resigning on June 10 next, following the act of the congregation in voting against joining the United Church. They are as follows: Alexander Hume, clerk of session, Malcolm Totton, John Rannie, Edward Rannie and Andrew Milne.

No Quake Here.

Peace and harmony reigned as usual around Burnbrae on Saturday night, as the earthquake left us severely alone.

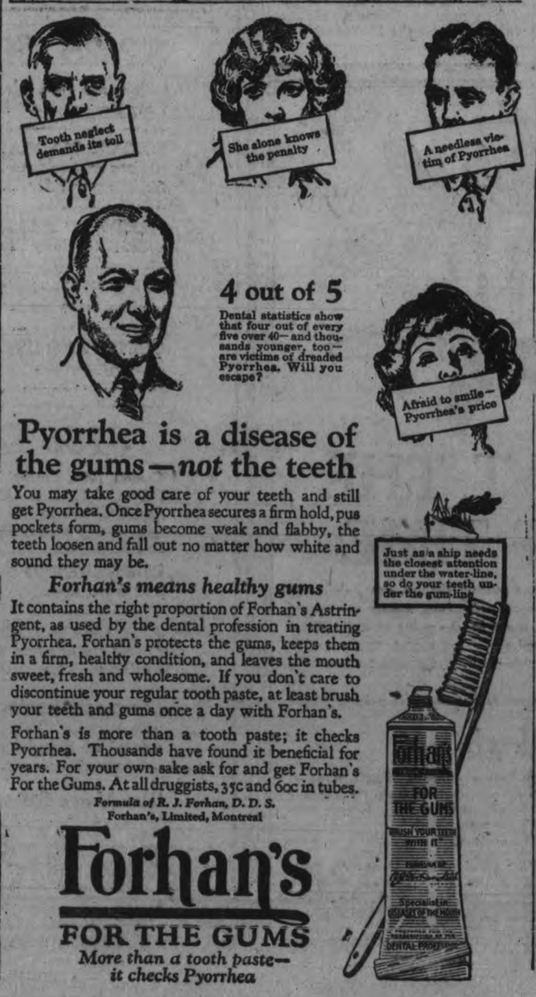
Marked Conditions.

Egg production is on the increase but prices are the reverse, 30 cent per dozen being the prevailing price.

A large number of dairy cattl have been moving out of this district lately. Messrs. Pilgrim and Maguire have loaded three cars at Hoard's recently, while on Monday, Messrs. Atwell and Peake took eighteen head of grade Holsteins from west of Burnbrae and Menie.

The recent cold snap has enabled farmers to get out the wood that was caught in the swamps during the February thaw.

Our guess is this man who says he has a radio made like a wrist watch is just laughing up his sleeve.



YOUR BIRTHDAY

FRIDAY, MARCH 6.—If today is your birthday, one of your greatest faults will be your disinclination to try out new things. You will be inclined to say that what was good enough for your parents will be good enough for you. You will move slowly, and will not be much of a business success until you can cure yourself of this habit. If you are a woman you will be inclined to be lazy in your housework. You will give your husband almost the same dishes week in and week out, and this is likely to cause trouble in your married life.

BAREE SON OF KAZAN

A James Oliver Curwood Serial Novel

STARTS IN

The Examiner Tomorrow

This is the biggest fiction beat of the year—a story of the great North Woods by the famous James Oliver Curwood—never before published in any newspaper.

Every Canadian man, boy, woman and child loves a dog and loves the tales of the wonderful northland.

Here is the prize dog story—a tale of a husky born in the wilderness of timber wolf breed, who comes to know man and to hate him for his cruelty and who comes to know Nepeese, the beautiful and to love her and protect her.

Baree holds the centre of the stage in this marvellous story, but he is surrounded by men and women with the true hearts of adventurers and he lives his life in the wild north, the very mention of which thrills every true Canadian

With the feat of BALTO, lead dog in the heroic dash to Nome, still fresh in their minds, readers of THE EXAMINER will welcome this story of a kindred spirit.

GOOD SOAP SOLUTION.

A very good soap solution is made by shaving one large bar of soap and letting it simmer in three quarts of boiling water until it is entirely dissolved.

CLEANING GASOLINE.

After using gasoline for cleansing purposes strain it through filter paper and it will be clean and ready for use another time.

GIVE YOUR CAR CARE AT FIRST

Run at Slow Speeds for First Thousand Miles, Says Expert.

CHANGE OIL OFTEN

At this season of the year, when many persons are preparing to buy a new car for the Spring and Summer touring season, a word of caution is sounded by H. Clifford Brokaw in the use of the car for the first thousand miles. Care in treatment and in the observation of moderate speed will make what is popularly called all the difference in the world in the smooth running qualities of the car and its all-round condition during its future usefulness.

"Go slowly during the first thousand miles," says Mr. Brokaw. "Run your engine carefully. Perhaps in the process you will acquire a habit of operating your car with a maximum of safety and good judgment."

The necessity for this care in the treatment of a new car is due to the fact that what is known as breaking in the motor is now generally done by the purchaser.

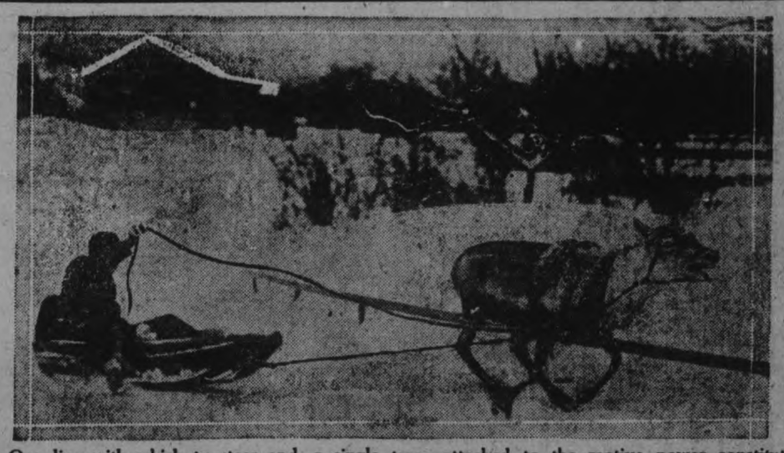
In the process of manufacture it is possible to get a polished glass smooth-bearing surface only at great expense. To save this expense engines are built with reasonably smooth bearing surfaces and cylinder walls, and the polishing process is performed merely by running the engine. In the case of the cylinder walls over which the pistons slide the surfaces may appear quite smooth to the touch, but under a microscope they will be found to be comparatively rough.

Where two rough surfaces are in sliding contact, the minute projections lock into each other and are broken off. This causes wear, and if the wear is too rapid considerable heat is generated. In the case of the piston this heat would cause expansion to the part where the piston would become so tight in the cylinder that parts of the cylinder walls and piston would weld together and be torn away, leaving ridges or scores that would permanently interefere with satisfactory performance of the engine.

"To prevent this excessive wear," explains Mr. Brokaw, "oil is used as a lubricant. The oil forms a film between the piston and the cylinder wall and keeps the small projections on the surface of the metals from coming into close contact. Consequently the wear is very slow. This illustrates the need of thorough lubrication during the breaking-in process. When new oil is put into the motor it will keep the surfaces from close contact provided it is of the right quality. As the motor is run, the oil becomes thinned through the leakage of gasoline into the oil reservoir and it also becomes filled with tiny particles of metal worn off from the surface of the pistons and cylinders. This means that it very quickly loses its ability to hold the surfaces apart. Therefore, in a new engine, the oil should be changed frequently.

"When the hands are cold, if they are rubbed together briskly they tend to warm rapidly. The principle is similar in the motor engine. If the working surfaces slide over each other rapidly considerable heat is generated. If the engine, when new, is run at a high rate of speed, the wearing process is so rapid that the parts become overheated, which in turn makes them wear still more rapidly, thereby generating more heat. The piston expands until it sticks in the cylinder that will never function properly unless it is reground and given a new start.

"On the other hand, if the surfaces are kept well lubricated and are operated at a comparatively slow speed, the wearing-in process consists of slowly knocking off the microscopic high points until the metal is polised to a mirror-like finish. When in this condition it may easily be kept lubricated and further wear takes place very slowly. The process is similar to that of smoothing a board by rubbing it with fine sandpaper."



One line with which to steer and a single trace attached to the motive power constitute the sole harness of this Lapp's reindeer sled.

The Face On The Bar Room Floor.

Following the publication, on Tuesday, of an article telling of the inspiration Hugh D'Arcy received for his famous poem, "The Face Upon the Floor," The Examiner has received many requests to publish the poem in full.

Mr. D'Arcy's original title was "The Face Upon the Floor," but this, he explained in his article, was changed by a Bowery music seller to "The Face on the Bar-room Floor." The words follow, supplied The Examiner by William H. Barnes of Crawford's Grove:

THE FACE ON THE BAR ROOM FLOOR.

'Twas a balmy Summer evening, and a goodly crowd was there,
Which well nigh filled Joe's bar room that stood upon the square,
And as songs and witty stories came through the open door,
A vagabond came slowly in and stood upon the floor.

Where did it come from? Some one said, the wind has blown it in,
What does it want? Another cried, some whiskey, rum or gin.
Here Tony! sic him if your stomach's equal to the work.
I would not touch him with a fork, he's as filthy as a Turk.

In fact he smiled, as though he thought he'd struck the proper place.
Now boys, I know there's goodly hearts among so good a crowe,
To be in such good company would make a deacon proud.

Give me a drink, that's what I want, I'm out of funds you know,
When I had cash to treat the gang this hand was never slow.
What! you laugh as if you thought this pocket had never a sou,
My boys, I once was fixed as well as any one of you.

There, thanks, that's braced me nicely, God bless you one and all,
Next time I pass this good saloon I'll make another call—
Give you a song, I can't do that, my singing days are passed.
My voice is gone, my throat worn out, my lungs are going fast.

Say! give me another whiskey and I'll tell you what I'll do.
I'll tell you a funny story, and a fact I'll promise too.
That I was ever a decent man, not one of you would think,
But I was some four or five years back, say, give me another drink.

Fill her up Joe, I want to put some life into this frame,
Such little drinks to a bum like me are miserably tame.
Five fingers there, that is the score, and corking whiskey too.
Well boys, here's luck, and landlord, my best regards to you.

You've treated me pretty kindly boys, and I'd like to tell you how
I came to be the dirty sot you see before you now.

As I told you, once I was a man, with muscle, frame and health.
And but for a blunder, might have made considerable wealth.

I was a painter, not one that daubed on brick or wood,
But an artist, and for my age was rated pretty good.
I worked hard at my canvas, and was bidding fair to rise,
Till gradually I saw the star of fame before my eyes.

I painted a picture, perhaps you've seen, 'tis called the Chase of Fame;
It brought me fifteen hundred pounds and added to my name,
And then I met a woman, now here comes the funny part,
With eyes that petrified my brain and sunk into my heart.

Why don't you laugh? 'Tis funny, that a vagabond like me
Could ever love a woman and expect her love for me,
But it was so, and for a month her smiles were freely given,
And when her loving lips touched mine, it carried me to Heaven.

Boys! did you ever see a girl for whom your soul you'd give?
With a form like Milo's Venus, too beautiful to live,
With lips that would beat the Kohinoor and a wealth of chestnut hair,
If so 'twas she, for there never was another half so fair.

I was working at a portrait, one afternoon in May,
Of a fair-haired boy, a friend of mine, who lived across the way.
And Madeline admired it; and much to my surprise,
Said, she'd like to know the man who had such dreamy eyes.

It didn't take long to know him, and before a month had flown
My friend had stole my darling and I was left alone.
And before a year of misery had passed above my head
The jewel I had treasured so, had tarnished, and was dead.

That's why I took to drink, boys.
Why! I never saw you smile,
I thought that you would be amused, and laughing all the while.
Why! what's the matter friends, I saw a tear drop in your eye,
Come, laugh like me, 'tis only babes and women that should cry.

Say! if you give me another drink boys, it will make me glad,
And I'll draw right here, the picture of the face that made me mad.
Give me that piece of chalk, with which you mark the baseball score,
You shall see the lovely Madeline upon the bar room floor.

Another drink, and with chalk in hand, the vagabond began
To draw a face that well might buy the soul of any man.
And as he added another lock upon the shapely head
With fearful shriek, he rose, and fell across the picture dead.

TOWN IN DARKNESS

Power Plant and Nine Cars Destroyed in Fire.

GRANDVIEW, Man., March 6 (Canadian Press). — The entire electric lighting system of Grandview was put out of commission on Wednesday night as the result of a fire which originated in the local power plant.

A garage adjoining the plant was completely gutted, and nine automobiles and valuable machinery were destroyed.

The extent of the property damage has not been ascertained.

In The Morning Her Tongue Was Coated HadBad Taste In Mouth

Miss Pearle L. Zinck, Barss Corner, N.S., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with my liver, and used to get such dizzy spells I would have to sit down while I was doing my work.

In the morning, when I used to get up, my tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth and often times, throughout the day, I was troubled with pains in my stomach.

I suffered in this way until a friend of mine who had used your MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS, told me of having taken them, so I decided to try them, and I can truthfully say that they certainly did me a lot of good.

I cannot recommend them too highly to all those who suffer as I did."

You can procure Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills at all druggists or dealers; put up, for the past 30 years by the Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FORD TAKES SHIPYARD.

CHESTER, Pa., March 6. — Announcement is made that Henry Ford will take over the yard of the Merchant Shipping Company here, and erect upon the site an assembling plant.

This follows the passage of several ordinances as "enabling legislation."

A plant exceeding $1,000,000 in cost will be erected and will be the chief distributing centre for Ford automobiles in the East as well as the company's main seaboard transhipment point, where consignments will be loaded for Europe and South America. It will supplant the Philadelphia branch.

Papers transferring the property will be signed this week, it is expected, and construction work will be started before the end of March.

BUREAU CAN SEE FALL OF ANTIS

490 VOTE OUT.

TORONTO, March 5.—The following statement has been issued to the press by the Bureau of Information of the Joint Committee on Church Union:

"In persisting to disparage the great number of rural congregations which have decided to enter the United Church of Canada, the Presbyterian Church Association would give the public the impression that only those congregations which have voted non-concurrence are worthy of special notice. Every single one of these rural congregations is an integral part of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, while the Association which despises them has no connection with the Presbyterian Church whatever, but is an outside organization, instituted for the purpose of obstructing the Union.

"The Church Union Bureau has reported the progress of the present voting without discrimination. Every congregation, large or small, whether for or against Union, has been reported and added to the daily summary. It will be noted that the Association only reports those congregations which vote against Union, and its only reference to those which vote for enfering the Union is in depreciation or ridicule. The Bureau desires to emphasize the following points regarding the present voting and its results:

"1. Every preaching place which has a communion roll is a congregation under the Act, and every worshipping unit, whether it has a communion roll or not, is a centre of spiritual influence in the community which it serves.

"2. All congregations which do not vote go into the United Church automatically.

"3. To date 1,886 congregations have voted, out of a total of 4,509; only 490 of these have voted to remain out of the United Church of Canada.

"4. The vote for Union cannot be fairly estimated, since no less than 803 congregations were unanimous for entering the United Church, and hundreds more will go in without voting.

"5. If the membership of the unanimous congregations is counted there would be a balance of some tens of thousands in favor of Union, and to this would have to be added the membership of the hundreds of congregations which will go in without voting.

"6. In Saskatchewan, out of a total of 885 congregations, only 12 have voted non-concurrence. Of these 12 very few will be able to carry on when the Unionist minorities are withdrawn. In British Columbia there are 22 non-concurring congregations, many of which are aid-receiving charges, and will become defunct or reduced to mission stations when the Unionist minorities withdraw. The same might be said, in varying degrees, regarding the non-concurring congregations in the rural parts of the rest of the Dominion, including Ontario."

'Twas a balmy Summer evening, future.

LIBELLED SHIP RELEASED

HALIFAX, N.S., March 5.—In the admiralty court the libel action for $40,000 against the four-master schooner, Wellington, brought by the owners of the fishing schooner Republic, which was rammed and sunk off Cape Sable with the loss of two men on February 15 was withdrawn and the libelled ship ordered released.

LESS LIQUOR USED AMONG GERMANS

BERLIN, March 6.—(Associated Press).—The faces of hard liquor distillers at Halle grow long when one asks them how business is. They relate that during 1924 only 1,000,000 hectoliters (over 26,000,000 gallons) of distilled liquors were consumed. Before the war, they say, Germany used to be good for 4,000,000 hectoliters and more.

When statistics first began to be assembled on this question, around 1830, the annual consumption was about 1,200,000 to 1,500,000 hectoliters. From 1900 on the consumption was at least three times and usually four times what it was in 1924.

It does not necessarily follow from this that the use of alcoholic drinks in Germany has declined to one-fourth the pre-war consumption. It must be remembered that many farmers, for economic reasons, make their own liquor. Nevertheless, it is safe to say that hard liquor is no longer consumed in as large quantities as before 1924.

Drunken men have become such a menace and nuisance at some railway stations and on trains in Germany that railway officials have issued a general order to employees to remove all intoxicated men from railroad property and deny them the right to travel until they are sober. Employees are instructed to tell drunkards that they are denied the right to travel for their own safety, as well as for the protection of the public.

Prof. Reimberger, rector of Bonn University, made the opening address at the conference recently held in Bonn by organizations fighting alcohol. He said that half of Germany's almshouses and prisons would be superfluous if it were not for the crimes committed under liquor, and said he was in favor of treating drunkards in special institutions ,as well as preventing them from getting liquor.

On the occasion of the fifth anniversary of American prohibition, the newspaper Vorwaerts gave a long review of the statistics concerning the temperance movement in the United States and said in conclusion: "The working classes of all countries, and particularly of poverty-stricken Germany, have good reason to support the anti-alcohol movement and hasten the coming of a prohibition law."

A despatch received here from Vienna says that local restaurants and bars will be closed to habitual drunkards, if a bill now pending in the Austrian Diet is enacted. The measure stipulates that two convictions for drunkenness will bar tipplers from all places where drinks are sold for a period of one year. It will be against the law for anyone to sell alcohol to such persons, a list of whom will be posted at the entrance of every establishment which sells liquor.

MICHAEL O'LEARY SEEKS AID OF G. N.

Canada's V.C. Charged With Smuggling Aliens—Mr. Gordon to Help.

Those who thrilled with pride in the weary war years over the exploit of the famous Michael O'Leary, the wild fighting Irishman who, when interrogated by King George as to just how he managed to capture nineteen Germans and their machine gun, single-handed, answered modestly, "Faith, Sir, I surrounded them!"—those who remember the manner in which, the lone vestige of a decimated Irish regiment, he suddenly went "berserk," as the Viking sea kings used to call it, and charged alone and unaided into a nest of Huns, scattering them and taking their guns, and won for himself the Victoria Cross and what at the time was reckoned on as the undying gratitude of a grateful people, will regret to learn that he is in trouble at the present time with the American authorities at Fort Erie, and is charged with smuggling aliens into the United States. The following letter to G. N. Gordon, K. C., M.P. who has interested himself in O'Leary, and procured a position with one of the railways for him, some time ago, explains itself:

"Fort Erie, Ontario, February 26th, 1925. My dear Mr. Gordon: You have, no doubt, already read the news of this very serious business in which I am at present involved —the charge of smuggling aliens into the U.S. The facts of the case in detail are: On January 23rd Sergt. Fenton and I were called to the Immigration Office in Blackrock, N.Y. and asked to look over two foreigners who had been smuggled across the Border. I told the officer that I had seen one of them five or six days before at the Bridgeburg depot, but I had not seen the other. This matter ended without further parlance. On the 30 January, while on duty as usual with the Erie St. fast freight going to Buffalo, as I got off the train at Blackrock, I was arrested by one of the Immigration Inspectors on the charge of smuggling these two men. Failing to find bail of $3,000, I was held in Erie County jail until 3rd February, when a few friends of the local G.W.V.A. were instrumental in procuring the bail, getting it reduced to half the sum. I have been up before the U.S. Commissioner Keating twice for a hearing, and, failing the requisite evidence on the Federal charge, the case is being held over for the Grand Jury in May. Need I assure you I am totally innocent of this charge? It is a thing the nature of which never appealed to me, in fact, it is an offence which I have perhaps, been too strenuous in putting down.

I am approaching you now to ask if you will use your influence on my behalf, as I consider it is a case or matter for the Dominion Government. I am suspended from work on on M.C.R.R. since my arrest, and I can get no work of any kind here. I have a wife, four small children and a house to keep up for them. So I trust you will see that I am not altogether selfish in appealing to your generosity to help me bring back the prestige I once possessed in Canada.

Let me thank you in anticipation for this, to me, very great favour, and believe me, Very sincerely, Michael J. O'Leary."

Mr. Gordon has drawn the case to the attention of the authorities.

AMERICAN TELEPHONE COMPANY IS RICHEST

Authorized Capital is Now Billion And Half.

NEW YORK, March 6 (Canadian Press). — Directors of the Billion-dollar American Telephone and Telegraph Company will ask stockholders to authorise a $500,000,000 increase in its capitalisation at their annual meeting here on 31st March next, according to the annual report for 1924 of H. B. Mayer, chairman of the board of directors, which was made public on Thursday.

The directors recommended the half-billion dollar additional authorisation, the report shows, to provide for further growth and for "the issue of additional capital at some future date, if and when it shall be found desirable." However, no new stock offering is contemplated in 1925.

With the proposed authorised capitalisation of $1,500,000,000 the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, "the headquarters organisation of the Bell system" may lay claim to being the largest corporation in the United States, if not the world.

Ten Greatest Educators as Adjudged by Eliot

What Each One on the List Did to Win His Place Among the World's Thinkers—Women Are Firmly Ignored Over 2,300 Years.

PHILOSOPHERS AND SCIENTISTS PREDOMINATE

St. Paul's View of Women's Place in Human Affairs is Upheld by Modern Professor—Even Mary Pickford Has Been Ignored.

By P. W. WILSON.

THE venerable Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University, has been described as Boston's most illustrious living "Brahman," but, however high may be his brow and profound his culture, he displays from time to time an unerring instinct for what mere newspapers call a "stunt." And during the last day or two he had set no inconsiderable number of millions of people in this and other countries talking about a list of ten men—including Emerson—who, in his judgment, have contributed most abundantly to the education of the human race during the last 2,300 years. The ten men are:

ARISTOTLE, a philosopher.
GALEN, a doctor.
LEONARDO DA VINCI, an artist and engineer.
JOHN MILTON, a poet.
WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE, a dramatist.
JOHN LOCKE, an essayist.
IMMANUEL KANT, a philosopher.
SIR FRANCIS BACON, a philosopher.
SIR ISAAC NEWTON, a mathematician.
RALPH WALDO EMERSON, an essayist.

Briefly, let us state who these men are and what they achieved.

ARISTOTLE—born B.C. 384—was the Greek philosopher in Athens, junior to Plato, who wrote on logic, rhetoric, natural science, ethics and politics. His pupils met in "the garden" of the Lyceum and, from their habit of walking during study, were known as the "peripatetics."

GALEN lived in the second century, A.D., and was a doctor. He was the first physician who felt the pulse of his patients. While his remedies were empirical, some are used to this day. Of his works, actual or reputed, there are no fewer than 83 genuine treatises, 19 doubtfully genuine, 45 undoubtedly spurious, 19 fragments and 15 commentaries on Hippocrates, whose oath as a physician is still administered to medical students when graduating at Columbia and other medical schools. Galen was a great friend of the Emperor Marcus Aurelius.

LEONARDO DA VINCI, born 1452, is the Italian artist whose famous painting of "The Last Supper" is known throughout the world. He was also an engineer of great skill, and, as an architect, he is said to have assisted in the creation of Milan Cathedral. His sculpture is also of the highest excellence.

JOHN MILTON, the seventeenth century poet, was Cromwell's secretary, a champion of a free press and of religious liberty, and the writer of "Paradise Lost" and many masterpieces of noble verse.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE of the sixteenth century, needs no introduction.

JOHN LOCKE, the philosopher, born 1632, was one who, like Dr. Eliot himself, sought, in a contentious age, to apply to all the problems of life, religious, scientific, social, a clear light of reason which illuminated instead of inflaming thought. His "Essay on the Human Understanding" is a classic.

IMMANUEL KANT, born in East Prussia, 1724, is regarded by many authorities as the prince of philosophic speculation. He pondered deeply on the subtleties of human consciousness applied to cause and effect, and analyzed with abstruse insight the mysteries of mental perception.

Bacon's New Attitude to Truth.

In the Elizabethan era, SIR FRANCIS BACON, Lord Chancellor, philosopher, master of worldly wisdom, presented to the world a judgment of phenomena which was completely scientific in our own modern sense of that word. It was not the discoveries which he made that account for his prestige, but his attitude of mind toward discovery.

SIR ISAAC NEWTON, born 1642, formulated the laws of motion under gravity, separated the colors in light by means of the prism, and made other far-reaching contributions to physical science.

That EMERSON should be included in a list so select and so illustrious is a decision characteristic of Dr. Eliot's refreshing courage. Ralph Waldo Emerson was born in 1803. For seventy years he was the apostle of liberalism in religion, philosophy and statesmanship. His literary style is entirely his own and leaves on the reader an ineffaceable impression. He lectured, preached, wrote, always profoundly yet always with a popular appeal. His name is as well known in old England as in New England—and as highly honored.

To this first list of superminds of the past 2,300 years, Dr. Eliot adds a second list of ten educators, who, he thinks, have led humanity during the past 200 years. They are:

ADAM SMITH, an economist.

MICHAEL FARADAY, a physicist.

JOHN STUART MILL, a philosopher and economist.

WILLIAM ELLERY CHANNING a preacher.

HORACE MANN, a college president.

HERBERT SPENCER, a philosopher.

ERNEST RENAN, a theologian.

CHARLES R. DARWIN, a biologist.

RALPH WALDO EMERSON, an essayist.

None will deny that the second list, like the first, is characteristic of Dr. Eliot's strong individuality. He is himself a distinguished educator who knows precisely what is, in his opinion, the best material for education. Still, there are certain questions that inevitabit arise on Dr. Eliot's selections.

In all such canonizations the fun begins when you consider the names that have been left out. For instance, in this case none of the awards in either list is conferred on a woman. This means that, over periods respectively of 2,300 and 200 years, not one woman, however immortal, has "led forth" the race to a more abundant life as successfully as the least immortal of these nineteen men. It is not merely that women have furnished fewer of the educators than men. As a sex they are obliterated; and it is in the United States, of all countries, that this challenging conclusion is announced.

The view of a woman's place in the scheme of things, which was sometimes indicated by St. Paul, is thus upheld. Sappho, Florence Nightingale, Madame Curie, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, George Eliot, Mary Pickford and Lady Astor are told, politely but firmly, that they are ineligible for Parnassus. In their distinctive point of view there is nothing for which man would exchange, let us say, the speculations of Immanual Kant.

Emerson appears twice in these lists. Would he not be ready to give up his less prominent seat to a lady? And why should not another lady be offered one of the two places reserved for Bacon and Shakespeare who, on a census, count as one?

It may be only a coincidence but, nevertheless, is it a fact that out of the nineteen supermen of the mind no fewer than thirteen are Anglo-Saxon by race—namely, Milton, Shakespeare, Locke, Bacon, Newton, Adam Smith, Faraday, Mill, Channing, Horace Mann, Spencer, Darwin and Emerson? Indeed, the German philosopher Kant was of Scottish descent, making a fourteenth supermind of British extraction. The others are Aristotle and Galen, two Greeks; Renan and Pasteur, two Frenchmen, and da Vinci, an Italian.

For those of us who believe in the dominance of the Nordic, that is as it should be. But will the Anglo-Saxon claim be admitted by the rest of the world? What will France say about the elimination of Rousseau? How will Italy take the omission of Mazzini? Did not Germany give us Goethe? And India Gandhi? And Russia Tolstoy? To what extent is it a fact that two-thirds of the world's education has been due to the English-speaking peoples?

Three Not College Men.

By universities the Anglo-Saxons are distributed thus:

Cambridge, England—Bacon, Newton, Milton and Darwin.

Oxford, England—Adam Smith and Locke.

Harvard, U.S.A.—Emerson and Channing.

Brown, U.S.A.—Horace Mann.

No university—Mill, Spencer and Faraday.

It will thus be seen that Yale and Princeton do not appear in the list, and that three of the most distinguished educators had the advantage of escaping college altogether. Faraday, Mill and Spencer are monuments of what a man gains when his education is unspoilt by any faculty except his own. They taught others because they had to learn everything themselves.

As a loyal Bostonian, Dr. Eliot is not untouched by the local patriotism of a lifelong New Englander. Out of his ten recent educators of mankind, no fewer than three—Emerson, Channing, and Mann—are of those intellectuals of Massachusetts and Rhode Island who should be "weighed, not counted." And Emerson—as we have seen—is included in the more august catalogue that carries us back to the days of Confucius.

Let us next consider the basis on which the various claims of these nineteen superminds will be found to rest. They may be divided thus into groups:

Abstract philosophy: Aristotle, Locke, Kant, Bacon Emerson, Adam Smith, Mill, Channing and Spencer.
Medicine: Gallen and Pasteur.
Art: da Vinci.
Poetry: Milton.
Drama: Shakespeare.
Science: Newton, Faraday and Darwin.
Education: Horace Mann.
Theology: Renan.

It will thus be seen that out of nineteen educators who, in Dr. Eliot's opinion, have rendered supreme service to the mind of our race, no fewer than nine, or practically one-half, have been abstract philosophers, of whom most, if not all, may be described as apostles of pure reason. And it is only because Renan is elsewhere classified as a theologian that the number is not ten, or a clear majority over all other groups combined. There can be no doubt here that the highbrow in Dr. Eliot has triumphed.

The only question is whether a list that includes ten philosophers might not have contained one historian, say Gibbon or Motley. It has often been considered that history has an educative value. Is it wholly wise to suggest to the youth and beauty of our universities and colleges that speculations and theories are enough in themselves without a knowledge of the human drama as a background? Were not some, at least, of these philosophers woefully deaf and blind to the actualities of the real life that surged around them?

Again, is not narrative also a part of education? We have Milton and Shakespeare as the only poets sufficiently educative to rank with the philosophers, but in some lists doubtless a place will be found for a representative story-teller—say, Homer, or Dickens, or Nathaniel Hawthorne—who describes human life as it is lived, not in heaven, not in hell, not in the Garden of Eden, not even in the library, but on this planet. The writings of Gorky, let us say, are crude in their realism, but are they not among the many demands by the common people that, in education, their voice also shall be heard?

Leonardo da Vinci was, of course, a painter, a sculptor, an architect, and an engineer. In his case, therefore, Dr. Eliot has, as it were, killed several birds with one stone. But here, again, the question arises whether, in a Hall of Fame that contains ten philosophers, only one niche should have been allocated to the masters of form and color to whose pens, pencils, brushes and chisels we owe the expression of beauty in the world around us.

As education, music, apparently, is excluded, we must listen to lectures by Locke, Darwin and Spencer. But Handel, Bach, Beethoven, Wagner and Tchailovsky are not admitted to the universal curriculum. Whether a symphony is or is not as important to the human spirit as a syllogism might be another subject for academic debate. After all, it was Shakespeare himself—one of Dr. Eliot's major Ten—who wrote:

The man that hath no music in himself,
Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds,
Is fit for treasons, stratagems and spoils.

The development of music in the last 200 years has been surely of far greater influence on the minds and moods of mankind than philosophy itself. For a thousand who have found themselves expressed in Brahms not one has read and not half a one has understood the subtleties of Kant. Philosophy tries, not always with success, to put life into words. Music recognizes the deeper truth that there is in life what will never be put into words. The inclusion of music might be, perhaps, a corrective of the fallacy that education is verbal. Like the arts of painting and sculpture, music is also a guarantee that education shall include the eye, the hand, the sense of rhythm as well as the important, but not more important, reasoning faculties.

Three Physical Scientists.

In these lists we find the names of three physical scientists. In the choice of scientists, of course, every one will show his preference. All of Dr. Eliot's scientists are British—Sir Isaac Newton winning with his three laws of motion over Galileo and his famous pendulum at Pisa. In the annals of electrical research, Faraday, of course, stands second to none; and Darwin expounded the doctrine known as the evolution of species—a subject on which Dr. Eliot should consult William Jennings Bryan. It is, of course, a fact that evolution, as Spencer and Darwin understood the term, has, like other articles of faith, been somewhat revised by scientific modernists of a later day. And one assumes that Dr. Eliot does not offer these writers as a reliable guide to a thesis for a doctor's degree. It is Darwin as a stimulus that he values.

Horace Mann, an educator, was born at Franklin, Mass., and after a distinguished career in that State entered Congress, becoming finally the President of Antioch College in Ohio. In the Horace Mann School his name is perpetuated. With Froebel, Armstrong, Arnold, Thring and other masters of and pioneers in education he holds an honored place, recognized the world over.

To summarize what Dr. Eliot's ten philosophers taught is impossible. John Stuart Mill was, of course, the apostle of individualism. Herbert Spencer applied the word evolution not to animals alone but to life as a whole. It is, perhaps, a fair remark that the bill of fare somewhat lacks variety. It is a banquet, but it consists of meat. It may be beef, it may be mutton, but it is never fish and never oysters or ice cream.

Next, it is to be observed that between Galen and da Vinci—about twelve centuries, or half the entire period under review—Dr. Eliot does not find one pre-eminent educator, not even Abelard or Dante. A student who confined himself to these philosophers would scarcely know that the Middle Ages existed. For da Vinci was of the Renaissance and a classical. Such a student would be like a tourist in London whose guide-book only mentions St. Paul's. Imagine his astonishment, one day, at the discovery of Westminster Abbey!

Mill and Spencer were not the only people who opened England's eyes to truth and beauty. While they were placidly speculating, England was condemned to colleges consisting of slums and sweatshops. If there are to-day garden cities in Britain, and a concerted endeavor to get rid of the wretched streets which the philosophers held to be inevitable to supply and demand, the reason would be regarded by many as that discovery of the Middle Ages which to Sir Walter Scott was romance; to Newman, religion; to Ruskin, literature; to the pre-Raphaelites, art; to Pugin, architecture, and to Ramsay MacDonald, statesmanship. In the pantheon built by Dr. Eliot, there is no hint of the emancipation of Britain, led by these men.

If we put a somewhat generous interpretation on the period of 2,300 years, we find that it may be held to include at least the influence of all of the founders of the world's most widely disseminated religions, namely, Confucius, Gautama, Jesus and Mohammed. Among educators of the race, none of these names is included, and possibly the omission is wise. Yet it is obvious that an education which ignores personal influences so compelling as these must leave much of life unexplained and untouched.

Dr. Eliot himself appears to acknowledge this, for he includes in his list three names which, presumably, are intended to represent the forces of mysticism. They are Channing, Emerson and Renan. Against these names, taken one by one, not an objection can be suggested. But there does arise the question whether an education so largely based on pure reason is completed by an approach to religion which excludes every teacher, however eminent, who does not subscribe to the Unitarian creed. It is not easy to see in what respect such exclusion differs from the attitude of certain States which say that they will not allow the case for evolution to be heard in their schools and colleges.

That statesmen, admirals and generals—the Caesars, the Bonapartes and the Alexanders—are excluded is a decision on which Dr. Eliot will be congratulated by all who hold that these men, instead of offering an education to others, usually needed to be educated themselves.

For the rest, if one may sum up these comments, it may be suggested that, as a confession of personal preferences, the lists reveal Dr. Eliot in the severe dignity of a reasonable, philosophic, unperturbed and magnanimous student of human affairs. But as a basis for education, the lists are open to the inquiry whether they do not ignore the mind of woman, omit the inspiration of music, insufficiently recognize the arts, eliminate the historian, and allow too large a preponderance to intellectual speculations by men of one temper of mind who view life and faith from one point of the compass only.

Characteristic Thoughts of History's "Ten Greatest Teachers"

ARISTOTLE.

"Instruction, though it plainly has power to direct and stimulate the generous among the young, is as plainly powerless to turn the mass of men to nobility and goodness. For it is not in their nature to be guided by reverence, but by fear, nor to abstain from low things because they are disgraceful, but only because they entail punishment."

GALEN.

"The fact is that he whose purpose is to know anything better than the multitude so must far surpass all others both as regards his nature and his early training. And when he reaches early adolescence he must become possessed with an ardent love for truth like one inspired; neither day nor night may he cease to urge and strain himself in order to learn thoroughly all that has been said by the most illustrious of the Ancients. And then when he has learned thus, then for a prolonged period he must test and prove it."

LEONARDO DA VINCI.

"The intellect will always profit by the acquisition of any knowledge whatsoever, for thus what is useless will be expelled from it, and what is fruitful will remain. It is impossible either to hate or to love a thing without first acquiring knowledge of it."

JOHN MILTON.

"I call, therefore, a complete and generous education, that which fits a man to perform justly, skilfully and magnanimously, all the offices, both private and public, of Peace and War. And how all this may be done between twelve and one and twenty, less time than is now bestowed in pure trifling at grammar and sophistry, is to be thus ordered."

SHAKESPEARE.

"To thine own self be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man."

JOHN LOCKE.

"However numerous may be the systems of education adopted in different countries, and in distant ages of the world, the object proposed to be attained has everywhere been ostensibly the same, viz., by care and training, to render the body and mind of man apt instruments for fulfilling the design of his existence, the acquisition of happiness, social and domestic."

IMMANUEL KANT.

"Education is an art which can only become perfect through the practice of many generations. Each generation, provided with the knowledge of the foregoing one, is able more and more to bring about an education which shall develop man's natural gifts in their due proportion and in relation to their end and thus advance the whole human race toward its destiny."

SIR FRANCIS BACON.

"The winning of honor is but the revealing of a man's virtue and worth without disadvantage; for some in their actions do woo and affect honor and reputation; which sort of men are commonly much talked of, but inwardly little admired; and some, contrari-wise, darken their virtue in the show of it; so as they be undervalued in opinion."

SIR ISAAC NEWTON.

"I do not know what I may appear to the world; but to myself I seem to have been only like a boy playing on the seashore, and diverting myself in now and then finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary, whilst the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me."

RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

"A point of education that I can never too much insist upon is this tenet, that every individual man has a bias which he must obey, and that it is only as he feels and obeys this that he rightly develops and attains his legitimate power in the world."

One Artist is Included, But No Religious Leader, Musician or Statesman—Three in the List Had Advantage of Escaping College.

SING THEIR WAY TO PROSPERITY

MEMPHIS, Tenn., "Helping him to sing means more to each of our store managers than the $5000 insurance policies we give him," says Joseph M. Fly, president of the National Chain Stores Association. He's converted to the use of song in business.

Fly's belief in the potency of song followed his attendance at a Billy Sunday service. More than 600 employees of Bowers, Inc., attended the revival in a body. Fly, who had not attended church in years, went with them. He heard them sing. He saw the effects on them. He checked the sales the following day and saw an increase.

"We expected the usual January slump in business this month," Fly said. "We did not get it. Instead our sales went up, and up.

"There is nothing else which could have caused the difference. I am convinced it was the singing, the comradeship of the employees and the zest that comes from singing. We sing hymns mostly.

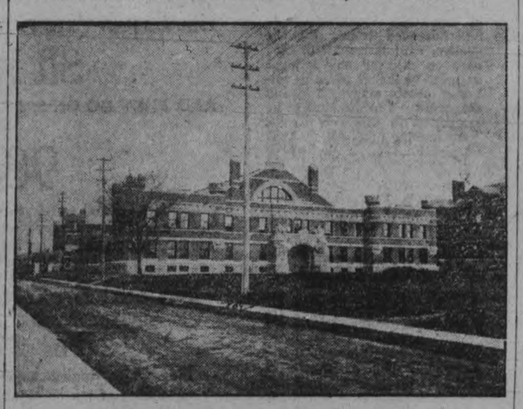
THE ARMOURIES AND PARK, PETERBORO



AT PALM BEACH

Isn't it nice to be where one has to keep off the burning sun's rays. Judging by the smile on Ethel Carhart's face as she strolls on the sand at Palm Beach, she evidently thinks so.

Why dont' they put the scenery in the automobiles, then we could sit on our piazzas and watch it go by!

People who haven't time to stop at a grade-crosing manage to find time to attend the funeral.

RELIEF.

(Hal Cochran)

I'll grant you it isn't a feeling that's great when you look on a task that's before you. That's why it's so easy to wait till too late, with a thing that you know's gonna bore you.

How better, by far, everybody would be if they'd suddenly lose track of worry. Accomplishment's something that's pleasant to see, and the best of it comes without flurry.

Why is it the world keeps on moving along? Why is it that living's worth while? The answer's in doing what's right, and not wrong, and then doing what's right with a smile.

It's human to get a real kick out of work, though the way to succeed may seem hazy. You're that much ahead when you plug 'stead of shirk; when you're really ambitious, not lazy.

Go on, do your frettin' o'er where you are gettin', but plug, and you won't come to grief. The up and a-doing, and not constant stewing, is what really leads to relief.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

BRITISH PLAN SIMPLE BURIAL FOR PROTOCOL

Austen Chamberlain, it is Believed, Goes as Grave Digger.

TEUTON PROPOSALS.

Poland Disapproves Even Consideration of German Suggestions—Fear Flare.

(By Webb Miller, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, March 6.—Austen Chamberlain, Minister of Foreign Affairs, left today for Geneva, where, it was believed, he would prepare a simple burial for the League of Nation security protocol.

Chamberlain will spend the night at the British Embassy in Paris, and will probably lunch with Premier Herriot tomorrow, continuing his journey in the evening. In conferring with Herriot, it is expected Chamberlain will pave the way for an intimation to the League Council that the protocol will be unacceptable. The wider aspects of the British viewpoint toward the security pact will also be discussed.

While in Geneva Chamberlain hopes to confer with various Allied leaders on Germany's latest security proposals, and it is believed that the Italian delegate to the League will be authorized to convey Premier Mussolini's reactions. There is a possibility that Chamberlain before leaving Paris will see Count Skrzynsky, Polish Foreign Minister, who is bitterly opposed to the German offer.

Polish circles in London denounce the German offer as a clever tactical manoeuvre designed to reopen boundary questions, which the Poles considered closed by treaties.

Germany may possible agree to participate in a safety pact covering Western Europe, but is believed determined to endeavor to rearrange the existing boundaries which the Poles fear will sooner or later lead to a serious Central European conflagration.

For this reason Poland regards even consideration of the German suggestion as futile.

MARKET BYLAW TO BE AMENDED

Will Measure Piled Wood Only—Loose Wood to be Sold by Load.

DEMAND CUT WOOD

The question of market regulations occupied most of the time of the Property Committee of the City Council at their meeting last night. Alderman Greene thought that all wood offered for sale on the market should be measured as called for in the by-law. It was pointed out that when the by-law was passed in 1903 the wood brought in was all four-foot lengths whereas now most of the wood is in stovelengths and is not piled but is thrown into racks. Alderman Fife said that as long as people demanded short lengths and were willing to take loads that could not be measured it was up to them and that if the by-law were enforced and farmers compelled to pile their wood they would not come on the market. It was finally decided on motion of Alderman Crowe and Stocker that the council should be asked to amend the by-law to call for the measurement and marking by the market clerk of all wood that was piled on the racks.

Complaints that the space in the market hall was taken up by sellers of fruit, cooking and other such articles and that farmers could not find room for their baskets were considered. Mr. Fisher, the market clerk, said that on all but two Saturdays of the year there was room to spare and that it improved the appearance of the market to have it as full as possible. These Saturdays he said are those before Christmas and Thanksgiving Day. It was suggested that on those days the fruit dealers and others be asked to take the back tables but no change was made in the by-law.

Alderman Stocker and the City Engineer were empowered to arrange with Mr. Taylor for the rental of part of the city's shed and yard at the C. P. R. siding at whatever rental they agreed upon.

PAY BANDIT VICTIMS.

Americans Who Were Captured by Chinese Outlaws Receive Money.

PEKIN, March 6 (United Press).—Payment of money to the Americans who were captured by Lin Cheng bandits two years ago, and held for ransom, was begun by the American Legation to-day.

A cheque for $41,000, payable to Miss Lucy Aldrich, a relative of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who was among those captured, was mailed to the State Department at Washington for delivery to her.

GET $10,000 IN JEWEL ROBBERY

BUFFALO, March 6.—Jewelry, platinum and unset diamonds valued at $10,000 were stolen by yeggmen who entered the plant of the Kamphausen Jewelery Manufacturing Company on the second floor of the Curtiss Building, No. 291 Delaware Avenue.

IN NEW ROLE.

AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Who Will To-morrow, It Is Believed, Prepare Simple Burial for the Security Protocol.

NO CLUE FOUND

Assassination at Niagara Falls is Still Unsolved.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., March 6 (Canadian Press).— Last Sunday's assassination with a bomb of Special Customs Agent Orville A. Preuster remained unsolved yesterday, the fourth day of intensive investigation.

Federal operatives, county officials of Niagara and Lake Erie Counties, Niagara Falls city police and private detectives are engaged in the investigation.

HEALTHY HERDS AT SMALL COST

If Farmer Determined to Eradicate Bovine Tuberculosis, Says Ottawa Official.

TELLS COMMITTEE.

OTTAWA, March 6.—(Canadian Press.)—"Bovine tuberculosis can be eradicated, at low cost, provided the owner is interested in cleaning up his herd and will co-operate with the Government," stated Dr. Geo. Hilton, Veterinary Director General, in addressing the Select Standing Committee on Agriculture and Colonization, of the House of Commons, yesterday. "We realize that an adequate supply of tuberculosis free cattle is necessary," he continued,' 'to maintain our foreign markets."

Dr. Hilton dealt with the organization and policies of the Federal Department of Agriculture for the control and eradication of bovine tuberculosis in Canada.

The accredited herd regulations, passed in 1919, and the restricted area provisions, of 1922, had naturally assisted in combatting the plague. Under the latter regulations, tests had already been carried out in Manitoba and Quebec to clean up tuberculosis in different areas.

Dr. E .A. Watson, chief pathologist, explained the progress made in research work in tuberculosis in Canada.

FURTHER ESTIMATES.

Biggest Item is $7,500,000 to Increase Loan to the C. N. R.

OTTAWA, March 6 (Canadian Press). — Further supplementary estimates, amounting to $7,841,442, and covering expenditures made during the present fiscal year (1924-25) were tabled in the House of Commons last night by the Hon. James A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance.

The largest single item is one of $7,500,000 to increase an amount of $56,000,000 appropriated last session for loans to the Canadian National Railways.

PAVE SIX MILES.

Tenders Called For Work on London-Sarnia Road.

SARNIA, Ont., March 6 (Cana-Press). — The intention of the Ontario Department of Highways to lay six additional miles of pavement on the London road Provincial Highway from the end of the present road is indicated by a call for tenders for the work issued yesterday.

Over the signature of S. L. Squires (Deputy Minister of Highways), tenders are asked for a concrete pavement from a point 6.5 miles east of Sarnia to Rees Corner, a distance of 6.19 miles.

CURZON COLLAPSED.

Condition of Leader of House of Lords Not Serious.

LONDON, March 6 (Canadian Press). — Marquis Curzon, Lord President of the Council and leader of the House of Lords, collapsed while dressing for a public dinner last night at which he was to have spoken.

Physicians were summoned, but found his condition not serious.

They insisted, however, that he should keep his bed, cancelling all immediate engagements.

INDIAN CHIEF WAS ASSAULTED

WORSE NEXT TIME.

PARRY SOUND, Ont., March 6 (Canadian Press). — J. D. Broughton ,police magistrate for the district of Parry Sound, and John M. Daly, Indian agent, along with Provincial Constables Knight and Purvis, held Court in the lower French-Indian Reserve in the School House at Pickerel on the night of 2nd March.

Four white men were charged with breach of the peace and assault, having assaulted the Indian chief at a meeting in his own house on a previous night.

William Newton and Louis Godin were dismissed.

Ernest Newton was fined $1.00, and costs, with thirty days in jail. He is now doing his term in the Parry Sound Jail, having paid the fine and costs.

Magistrate Broughton strongly impressed the crowd that filled the School House at this trial that law and order would be enforced in this district, and promised if called again to Pickerel for any such case as he had just tried, that he would give those coming before him the full benefit of the law.

KING SOON OUTDOORS.

Undertake Sea Trip Next Week If Weather is Favorable.

LONDON, March 6 (Canadian Press). — Physicians still visit the King daily.

There has been no set-back, and it is hoped that in a day or two His Majesty will be able to take a little exercise in the sheltered garden of the Palace.

The Royal trip to the Mediterranean will begin before the end of next week, even if the weather conditions are unfavourable.

The doctors have decided that Prince George must undergo a minor operation for the removal of his tonsils.

COMMITTED TO ASYLUM.

Sarnia Belgian Found Barefoot on Raodside.

SARNIA, March 6 (Canadian Press). — Jules Laymere, a Belgian who was admited to Sarnia General Hospital last Saturday afternoon with both feet badly frozen, was yesterday escorted to Ontario Hospital for the Insane at London.

Apparently mentally unbalanced, Laymere was taken in charge by residents of Sombra after he had been seen running down a side road without shoes on his feet when the temperature was well below freezing point.

OBITUARY

MARTIN FREDERICK

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6.—Mr. Martin Frederick, Maple Street, who had two strokes last week, died on Wednesday night, at the age of seventy-six years. He has been a resident of Campbellford for many years. He leaves to mourn his loss, his widow and two sons and two daughters, Mrs. Ralph Bennett at Heeley Falls, George of town, Mrs. Joseph Caley of Detroit, and Alf. of Fort Erie. Another son, Sam, was overseas in the war, but died from its effects about three years ago. The funeral will be held on Saturday, under the order of the L.T.B., No. 35. Service at the house at two o'clock, and then to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Captain Fisher of the Salvation Army will have charge of the service, as the late Mr. Frederick attended the Army.

Expected That Local War Memorial Will be Started This Year.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 6.—The Campbellford Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire had a very interesting meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the Public Library. Mrs. Ashton, Regent, was in the chair, and about twenty-five ladies were present. Reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. A. Haig, and the treasurer, Mrs. H. Townsend.

The committee who waited on the Council on Monday night gave their report, and it is expected that the War Memorial Monument will be under way this summer. The I. O. D. E. favor having it on the Government land on the west side of the river, near the Baptist Church. There was also a programme supplied by the committee for the month.

Mrs. R. W. Scott gave a splendid paper on the work of the I.O.D.E. in war time and at the present time. Then at the close of the paper, slips were passed around and the ladies were asked to write down suggestions as to ways and means of raising money during the year for the memorial. These were read by the Regent and discussed.

A committee, composed of four ladies—Mrs. R. W. Scott, Mrs. J. A. Stewart, Mrs. L. J. Smith and Mrs. E. H. Greig—was appointed to arrange for a concert and play.

Another item on the afternoon's programme was a reading by Miss Lillian Hay.

Letters of remembrance and sympathy are to be written to Mrs. J. P. Archer, vice-Regent, who is in Peterboro, suffering from a sprained ankle, and Mrs. R. S. Southworth, who has been ill for over a year, and who is at present in California for her health. This motion was moved and seconded by Mrs. Meyer and Mrs. Weston.

Mrs. R. Bell and Mrs. E. H. Greig were appointed auditors for the year.

Mrs. Scott's paper will appear later.

THOUSAND MADE HOMELESS BY FIRE

TOKIO, March 6.—A thousand persons are homeless as the result of a spectacular fire which destroyed 200 houses in the Suzaki Geisha district yesterday. Damage is estimated at $1,000,000.

DIVORCE BILL KILLED.

DUBLIN, March 6 (Canadian Press). — When the Dail Eireann's recent resolution concerning divorce came before the Senate yesterday, the chairman, Lord Glenavy, ruled it out of order.

The resolution in question was introduced recently in the Lower House by the President William T. Cosgrave, and adopted. It declares the bond of marriage indissoluble.

Lord Glenavy based his ruling on the ground that such a resolution was in conflict with the constitution.

C.N.R. OIL LAMPS

Lakefield Suggests That Station Be Modernized.

LAKEFIELD, March 6.—The station is being renovated and the interior is being cleaned and varnished, and will be much improved when the workmen are finished. This would be a very good time to install electricity and make the station a modern one, as it is painfully suggestive of the back-woods to see oil lamps the only light. A light on the outside at the north-east corner would be a great improvement and lighten up what is practically the only dark corner of the village.

CLOSE STUDY OF IRRIGATION IN SOUTH ALBERTA

Will Report to Government on Irrigation From Human Equation Angle.

CAN SETTLERS LIVE.

Under Existing Conditions and Cultivate Land on Profitable Basis.

LETHBRIDGE, March 4. — Dr. J. A. Widtsoe, United States authority on irrigation and land settlement, is studying the "human equation" angle in colonisation of the Lethbridge Northern irrigation project and the placing of that project of 105,000 acres of irrigable land on a sound profitable basis.

He will make a report to the Alberta Government. Premier Greenfield wants to know exactly how irrigation stands in the Province; if settlers can make a living under existing conditions; and, if not, what can be done to enable them to do so.

Dr. Widtsoe will tackle these problems, and it is on his report that the future policy of the Government will be based.

Much confidence is felt in the Widtsoe inquiry into the problem of colonisation and development of the irrigated tracts, and it is believed his report will lead to a general reorganisation of the whole land settlement department of the Government as it relates to irrigated lands.

The other irrigated areas are prospering, the United project, for instance, having declared that it can get along nicely by fixing its rates again at $1.25 an acre. Those on the Lethbridge Northern amount to $5.25 at the present time, and it is a reduction in rates that the farmers are demanding most of all. The C. P. R. Southern, Vauxhall, Taber-Barnwell, and other small projects, are in good shape, and are demonstrating that with intensive cultivation irrigation farming can be made profitable.

Increase Sheep Flocks.

Another cause for encouragement is found in the trend toward diversification on the dry land areas. Farmers are turning from the one-crop method to mixed farming. They are retaining wheat as their cash crop, but are adding corn, sweet clover, root crops, more live stock, especially sheep.

W. H. J. Tisdale, of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association, Toronto, has been addressing a series of meetings through the south country under the auspices of the Breeders' Association. There will be more flocks placed on the farms this year than ever before, the high price for wool, mutton, and for breeding ewes, being attractive.

Lambs have sold in Lethbridge in the past three weeks for as high as $15.10 per hundred ,and the flock-owners are expecting to get 45 cents at least for their wool.

The present sheep population of Alberta is 325,000 head. Most of these are found in the south and central sections of the Province. It is stated by experts that the Province is capable of carrying 2,000,000 sheep, or two-thirds the sheep population of the Dominion. A move is on foot to get the farmers and flock-owners together in a scheme whereby the old ewes, unfit for the range, but good for breeding, will be put out on farms on a share basis.

This is being tried across the line in Montana, and is proving profitable for both the sheep ranchers and the farmers.

THE SPARK PLUG

Vitamins to nourishment are what a spark-plug is to a motor. To sustain vitality, the body needs three thousand calories of food daily, yet if this food is not activated by vitamins the body is unable to thrive in health or strength.

Scott's Emulsion

brings to a weakened system vitamin-activated nourishment of highest degree. A little taken regularly helps wonderfully to build strength and resistance.

Earlier in the day three men went through theice in the river but were rescued by nearby factory employees

WONDERFUL DOG IN NEW SERIAL

The Examiner Has Succeeded in Obtaining a New Kind of Story.

A MASTERPIECE.

Commencing To-Morrow, The Examiner offers its readers an entirely new type of serial story, in 'Baree, Son of Kazan," a real story of the North Woods by the famous James Oliver Curwood, never before published in serial form.

Admirers of Curwood's vital style will rejoice in this story—a prize dog story, the tale of a husky born in the wilderness of timber wolf breed, who comes to know man and to hate him for his cruelty and who comes to know Nepeese, the beautiful, and to love her and protect her. It is filled with interest for dog lovers ,with thrills for the seekers of excitement, an entrancing novel of life in the woods, of men and women with the true hearts of adventures, and above all, of a great and wonderful dog.

Baree, born in the north wastes, had a wolf for a mother and a dog wolf for a father. Yet for a long time he was as innocent and unsophisticated a pup as ever lived. No human child ever found the pursuit of education a more difficult task. He was very young when his father brought a hare into the cavern where the dog-wolf family lived. Then it was that Baree learned tht in order to eat one must kill. It was not long after this that he began his adventures.

Incorporated with the story of the dog, told in Curwood's dramatic fashion, is the romance of Jim Carvel, the outlaw, the pal and master of Baree, and Nepeese, hte Indian princess.

EXPLOSION KILLS 26 IN LENINGRAD

LENINGRAD, March 6. —(Canadian Press). —Twenty six persons were killed and an unknown number wounded by the explosion of oxygen tanks in a building in Leningrad today. The explosion scattered parts of human bodies and debris in all directions. Most of the victims were women and children.

CREPE FOR INAUGURATION.

GRUNDY CENTRE, Iowa, March 6.—William Gardner, an osteopath, was so grieved at the inauguration of President Coolidge that he ran a flag in his yard to half-mast and hung a piece of crepe over it.

Gardner, who supported Senator La Follette last fall, declared President Coolidge had done none of the things he had promised to do and that his inauguration was a detriment to the prosperity of the State and nation.

WAVE 72 FEET HIGH HITS GIANT OLYMPIC.

Suddenly Lifts Up Under Liner, Engulfs the Bridge, and Does Damage.

NEW YORK, March 6. — A huge wave struck the White Star liner Olympic last Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, damaging the bridge and the navigating instruments.

The crest is estimated to have risen 72 feet above the water line of the giant vessel, which arrived from Cherbourg and Southampton, a day late because of gales practically all the way across.

Captain W. Marshall said the wave was most peculiar. The sea was not unusually rough when the wave suddenly lifted up under the Olympic and engulfed the bridge. It played havoc with a ventilator, broke a "clear view" screen and bent the metal pedestal of a compass.

ORNAMENTAL FOBS.

Ornamental watch fobs, preferably of silver mounted on black ribbon, are used with the tailored suits for spring.

AIRSHIP TOO COSTLY

Explorer Says Sailing Vessel More Economical for Arctic Use.

STOCKHOLM, March 5.—(Associated Press.)—Airship exploration of the polar region is financially wasteful, and better scientific results can be obtained at a small fraction of the cost through the use of an old-fashioned, moderate-sized windjammer, according to Captain Hugo N. Pallin, a Swedish explorer, who has placed before the Anthropological and Geographical Society of Sweden a detailed plan to investigate one of the still unknown "white spots" about the North Pole. An inherent disadvantage of the airship for polar work, Captain Pallin says, is the lack of transportation facilities after making a landing.

The Arctic region now best worth studying Captain Pallin considers to be the one north of Siberia, particularly the neighborhood of Nicholas II land. About this territory little is known. It may be as large as Nova Zembla, and may be connected through a series of islands with Franz Josef Land. What Captain Pallin proposes to do is to equip a hunting vessel of about 80 tons, having auxiliary motors, and then stay in the Arctic at least two and perhaps three years. The crew he would limit to seven men, of which three would be scientists. The total cost would not be over $30,000.

The Man From Kish Was The First Liar

By C. T. HALLINAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, March 6th (United Press)—Who is the earliest recorded liar?

Answer: The man from Kish.

At least the Weld-Blundell and Field Museum expedition which has been excavating the long-buried city of Kish—4,000 B. C. and eight miles east of Babylon—thinks that the humorous baked-clay tablet which has been unearthed there describes the most ancient liar thus far known to history. He was a hunter and the tablet satirized him in the act of telling a "tall story" about his prowyess in the hunting field; or it is barely possible that he is being lampooned as a nature faker." At any rate, a Sumerian artist has caught and immortalized him in the acting of pulling a yarn that nobody can or will believe.

And as this man was—as has been said—4,000 B.C., the habit of telling "long ones" seems to have an almost respectable antiquity.

Among the other evidences of Sumerian civilization which the expedition unearthed are:

Miniature chariots used by the children of Kish.

Ladies' bone hairpins with massive tops.

Clay tablets recording the oldest writing yet found in the whole history of the human race

Picture of a king wearing divided skirts, one tail of which has been tucked up under his belt. This also is something brand-new. The history of costume shows nothing like it.

Profesor Stephen Langdon, an Amerian, now Professor of Assyriology at Oxford, and the director of the expedition which has unearthed these treasures, showed a picture of the socalled Tower of Babel, a structure about 200 feet high. It is the most striking monument in Babylonia, but Professor Langdon explained that the real tower of Babel mentioned in the Bible was taken down by the Arabs in the Middle Ages and used to build a palace at Baghdad.

OVERLAPPING PANELS.

Overlapping panels, bound with ribbon, make an unusual hem finish on a flat crepe frock. It gives much the effect of a flounce.

Y.W.C.A. SLEIGH DRIVE

Annual Winter Outing Attracted Many—Jolly Time For Newcomers.

The annual sleigh drive of the Young Women's Christian Association members was held last evening, when about twenty-five young ladies enjoyed a real old-fashioned drive around the outskirts of the city, in bob sleighs loaned by Mr. Hugh Bertram and Mr. Oke, of Oke and Hagerman. The girls had a jolly time with songs and whistles and enjoyed refreshments of coffee and doughnuts around the fire later at the Y. W. C. A., several of the members contributing ukulele music. The sleigh drive was a new and novel experience to two or three of those taking part, new residents just lately come from the Old Land and enjoying their first winter in the Dominion.

AIRPLANE SERVICE

Former War Ace Heads British Columbia Organization.

VANCOUVER, March 6 (Canadian Press). — Inauguration of airplane service from the coast to Dease Lake district, in the interior of British Columbia, is planned by an organisation headed by Major Donald Maclaren, former war ace, according to the Vancouver Sun.

The newspaper goes on to say that it is understood the service, which is to be maintained by several large seaplanes, will be aided by a Government subsidy for mail carrying and guarantees from the large operators in the area.

It is hoped that the planes eventually will operate between Vancouver and Dease Lake, and also link up other outlying parts of Northern British Columbia.

Eveready's Part in Providing Radio Entertainment

Since the early days of Radio, Eveready has provided the batteries which have made Radio Receiving Sets possible. Without these compact, powerful sources of power Radio would not be available to the thousands of homes in the cities and on the farms where Radio is the popular source of education and entertainment.

Eveready also has a definite part in your Radio entertainment; the "Eveready Hour" —an hour of delightful musical features, broadcast every Tuesday at 9 p.m., (Eastern standard time) from a group of high power stations including WEAF, is one of the most popular Radio programmes. Radio dealers everywhere sell Eveready Radio Batteries.

Check Sent Out to Widow of Dead Detective.

MONTREAL, March 6. — Announcement was made Thursday by the Banque Canadienne Nationale that it had, on behalf of the Canadian Bankers' Association, sent checks to nine people—the widow of one detective and eight other detectives— comprising their share of the $5,000 reward in connection with the round-up and conviction of the bandit gang which a year ago held up the money car of the then Bank of Hochelaga and fatally shot its driver, Henri Cleroux, for whose death four men were hanged and two others sentenced to the penitentiary.

DO YOU COUGH. COUGH ALL NIGHT LONG?

Terribly distressing and wearing on the system is the cough that comes on at night and you cough: cough all night long and can't get to sleep.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP WILL GIVE YOU RELIEF

Mrs. John Lyman, Enterprise, Ont., writes: "After having had whooping cough I contracted bronchitis, and for days and nights I coughed continually, and could get no rest or sleep, but after taking one bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup I found great relief, and after having taken several bottles I was relieved of my trouble."

This valuable cold and cough remedy has been on the market for the past 35 years; you don't experiment when you buy it; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SEASON TO TEST PIRATES' TRADE

Probably Both Cubs and Pittsburgh Will Profit From Big Deal.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 6.—Which club, Pirates or Cubs, got the better of the only real big major league trade made since the last baseball season?

What effect, if any, will the exchange have on the pennant race of 1925 in the National League?

Charley Grimm was the leading first sacker in the National League last season, according to fielding averages. He swung a club on the attack for an average of .287.

Pittsburgh received to replace Grimm a rookie, Niehaus, who has to win his spurs. He may prove to be a far better all-around player than Grimm. That remains to be seen.

Rabbit Maranville, playing second base for Pittsburgh, with Grimm on one side of him and Glenn Wright, sparkling young shortstopper, on the other side, had what neutrtals declared was his greatest defensive season in 1924. He batted .265.

Maranville goes to the Cubs in exchange for George Grantham, a lad who can slap the apple with power and regularity, but whose fielding at the Keystone sack is only so so.

Wilbur Cooyer, left-hand pitcher, won twenty games and lost fourteen toiling for Pittsburgh last campaign. Aldridge, right-hander, pitching for the Cubs last year, won fifteen and lost twelve.

The reader may draw his own conclusions from the statistics presented. Wouldn't it seem that Grimm, Maranville and Cooper would be more valuable to a club than Niehaus, Grantham and Aldridge.

An air of mystery surrounds the dismissal of the three Pirtaes, for that is what it really was One might fill two columns with the gossip one hears.

A term may be borrowed from the divorce court to explain the situation—"incompatability." This is a more serious thing on a ball club than it is in the home.

Pittsburgh willingly sacrificed defensive strength that was a real asset to have a machine that would run smoothly all along the pennant road.

Chicago isn't worrying about the incompatability tendencies of the former Pirates—a change of scenery usually cures that ill, temporarily, anyhow.

Cubs May Shift Players.

It is rather a coincidence that while Maranville and Grantham are listed as second basemen, neither is expected to play the position which he filled last campaign.

Charley Hollocher, Cub shortstop, has been voluntarily retired because of illness He may join the Cubs when they return from their training jaunt to the Pacific Coast. Again he may not.

If Hollocher doesn't play, Maranville probably will become the regular shortstopper. Rabbit made his reputation as a short fielder for the Boston Braves and can reutrn to his first love.

Bill McKechnie, Pirate boss, already has announced, that Grantham will be used in right field. Moore, who played the outfield last year, will replace Maranville at second base.

Bill Killefer, the Cub manager, has at least four young players to try at the second base post if he decides to assign his captain, Maranville, to shortstop.

Another coincidence is that Killefer is considering shifting Barney Friberg to the outfield. Barney was a third sacker last season, but only a fair one.

The Cubs need a right-hand hitter in the outfield. Friberg only batted .2788 last year, but Killefer thinks he will be a more consistent base-hit producer if he plays in the garden.

The expected shifts planned by both managers may have a decided bearing on the outcome of the Pittsburgh-Chicago trade. Experiments always are uncertain.

From this distance it seems probable that both Cubs and Pirates will be in the pennant hunt with no reason to cry over the trade.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one or two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a souple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

MEXICO TO BUILD ROADS BY GAS TAX

Republic Uses Same Method of Raising Revenue as Ontario.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MEXICO CITY, March 6.—One by one the Calles government is seizing on the vital problems that confront the republic and pressing towards solution that will bring prosperity to all classes. As is the case with most of Mexico's apparently vexing problem, the question of creating adequate highway facilities is one, the solution of which is simple in conception, but difficult in application.

By the simple process of imposing a one centavo per litre gasoline tax, the government is undertaking a road-building programme of wide scope. Hitherto road-building has been a direct drain on the treasuries of the nation, states and cities. Under the new plan there is to be cooperation of all political units throughout the Republic toward a highway system such as Mexico has never seen, but has long needed.

The Secretary of Communication and Public Works is at present gathering statistics on the amount of gasoline consumed in the country. When this work is accomplished, Secretary Tejada will present the data to Secretary of Finance Pani, who will in turn lay the whole project before President Calles for his approval.

Although there have been sporadic protests from the owners of automobiles over the project, it now is the sense of the majority of these that they will benefit ultimately along with the others. The oil companies have expressed the opinion that the small tax on gasoline will not affect sales to any appreciable extent.

Under the tentative programme th tax will be levied by the Federal government and the construction of highways will be under the supervision of government engineers, assisted by the States and municipal authorities throughout the country.

Inasumuch as the agrarian elements will be most benefitted by a good road system, the government has circularized the agrarian districts with an appeal, that the farm elements assist in the progrmme in any practical way. While the gasoline tax will produce only a small amount of money in the rural districts, it is pointed out that the rural population can assist by contributng manual labor. The agrarianists have been requested to immediately notify the government what might be expected of them in the way of assistance.

The plan is to establish a network of highways connecting the richest agricultural sections with the more densely populated towns and cities thus affording an outlet for produce and probably reducing the cost of living for the ultimate consumer.

Some of the richest soil in Mexico, especially in the States to the south of the Federal District, is poorly cultivated, because there are meagre transporation facilities for produce. Many regions in the tropic belt are virtually isolated from the larger markets and the constructon of ample highways will prove a godsend to the population.

In a large measure the agrarian problem revolves around the solution of the transportation problem. Once the highways of Mexico tap the agricultural belts effectively, intensive production and the resultant prosperity will be an actuality.

DRANK CARBOLIC ACID.

Freight Agent at St. Thomas Died at His Own Hand.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., March 6 (Canadian Press).—Wililam H. Jolly, freight agent of the Pere Marquette Railway, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by drinking carbolic acid. Mr. Jolly left his office at 11.30 in the morning for lunch, but did not go home and failed to return to the office. His body was found in the club rooms of an organization he belonged to, about four o'clock. An empty bottle labelled carbolic acid stood on a table near by, with an open letter addressed to a sister residing in Niagara Falls, Ontario.

The letter, which was written on the club's stationery intimated to his sister that he believed his action would be better for all concerned, and that he would be happier. He made a request that the funeral be strictly private and expressed the wish that no flowers be accepted.

Deceased was about forty-five years of ake. He is survived by a wife and four children.

LOSE WEIGHT.

One-half grapefruit, asparagus omelet, 6 radishes, ½ broiled spring chicken, 1 cup fruit salad, 4 tablespoons stewed onions, 4 tablespoons apple snow, 2 pieces whole wheat toast, 2 small bran muffins, 1 gluten roll, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Asparagus Omelet.

Two eggs, 2 tablespoons hot water, 1 teaspoon butter, salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons asparagus tips.

Separate yolks from whites of eggs and beat yolks until thick and lemon colored with the hot water. Beat in sugar and pepper. Beat whites on a platter until stiff and dry and fold in yolk mixture.

Melt butter in hot frying pan, turn in egg mixture and cook like any omelet. Just before folding and slipping to hot platter cover half the omelet with the cooked and seasoned asparagus. Fold and serve at once. The stalks of the asparagus should be used for soup for the rest of the family.

GAIN WEIGHT.

One-half grapefruit with sugar, 4 buckwheat pancakes, 4 ounces fresh country sausage, 4 tablespoons maple sirup, 4 tablespoons apple sauce, asparagus omelet with 4 tablespoons creamed asparagus, 6 radishes, 1 cup cream of mushroom soup, ½ broiled spring chicken, 2 new potatoes in cream sauce, 4 tablespoons French fried onions, 1 cup fruit salad with 4 tablespoons whipped cream dressing, 4 tablespoons apple snow with 4 tablespoons boiled custard, 4 tablespoons rice pudding with sugar and ¼ cup cream, 2 bran muffins, 2 2-inch squares corn bread, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 pint whole milk.

The tender stalks of the asparagus should be cut in inch pieces and cooked in water to cover until tender. Add to cream sauce and pour over omelet. Any water remaining in the pan in which the asparagus was cooked can be used in the sauce.

Plenty of butter and half asparagus liquor and half cream make a delicious rich sauce. When the liquor is used this way none of the value of the vegetable is best.

The rice pudding is made with milk, eggs and raisins, the more raisins the better. It is served warm with sugar and cream.

LOSE WEIGHT.

One-half grapefruit without sugar, 1 cup chicken broth, 2 thin slices cold roast lamb (about 2 ounces), 6 spring onions, 6 radishes, 1 head lettuce, 1 half-inch slice meat loaf, ½ cup stewed tomatoes, 4 tablespoons diced boiled turnips, 4 tablespoons canned cherries, 2 whole wheat popovers, 1 slice crisp unbuttered gluten toast, 1 gluten roll, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Whole Wheat Popovers.

One cup whole wheat flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 scant cup water, 1 teaspoon melted butter, 1 egg.

Mix salt and flour and add water slowly, beating constantly with egg beater to procure a perfectly smooth batter. Beat egg until light and beat into first mixture, using beater. Beat, adding butter, for five minutes. Turn into sizzling hot buttered iron muffin pans and bake half an hour in a hot oven.

GAIN WEIGHT.

One-half grapefruit, 2 slices broiled bacon, 2 poached eggs, 1 cup chicken broth with rice, 4 tablespoons minced lamb on toast, 6 spring onions, 6 radishes, 1 head lettuce, 1 cup split pea soup, 2 slices meat loaf, 4 tablespoons scalloped potatoes, ½ cup stewed tomatoes with toast cubes, 4 tablespoons diced boiled turnips with butter, 4 tablespoons canned cherries, 1 large piece chocolate layer cake, 2 whole wheat popovers, 3 tablespoons putter, 2 slices raisin bread, 2 slices graham bread, 2 tablsepoons orange marmalade, 1 pint whole milk, 1-6 rhuborb pie, 4 tablespoons Thousand Island dressing, 1 tablespoon sugar.

Sugar, butter and toast cubes, added to the stewed tomatoes, increase the number of calories to an alarming degree if you are too fat, but are just so much gain if you are too thin.

The salad dressing, for the head lettuce, increases the fat calories. Of course, any preferred dressing can be substituted, but the change may stimulate a lagging appetite.

If preferred, the radishes and onions can be combined with French dressing as a salad.

MODELS PARADE

NEW YORK, March 5. A parade of men models, showing the newest Spring styles in men's wear was a feature of the dinner given by the New York Custom Cutters' Club at the Hotel Commodore in connection with the club's two-day style show. The men walked up and down on runaway in a glare of spotlights and with musical instrument, as in a women's fashion show, and were viewed by about 1,000 diners.

The new Spring styles show no radical change, except that the shoulders are more broad and the trousers pust as wide if not a little wider than formerly. The Spring bottom type of trousers, affected mostly by young boys, has completely disappeared.

The styles shrown in the parade were for well dressed men of sedate tastes. To be quite up-to-date a man must wear "loose" clothes. The coat must hang loosely from his shoulders natural or padded as the case may be, and his trousers must correspond to his coat in fullness and straight lines. Clothes must not fit too closely to the figure. Everything points to a man's comfort, according to the latest authority.

An authentic dress chart prepared by the club, showing how to dress for all occasions, was distributed. This chart provides for nine changes of costume, from the dress of formal receptions to the business or professional dress, and includes suggestions for the proper togs to wear when golfing, motoring, yachting or dancing.

The formal evening coat, or swallowtail, is suggested for all formal occassions, and the dinner coat, or tuxedo, can be worn only at informal affairs, like the theatre, club and stag functions. The high silk hat is mentioned as correct for day weddings, formal balls and receptions and the opera.

The swallow-tail and the silk hat almost disappeared during the war and their revival has been gradual acording to the custom cutters but nowdays if a man wants to dress corecotly he must don his silk hat and formal evening coat.

Insurance executive says Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is "Conqueror of Constipation"

Here is a most remarkable tribute to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN:

For more than one-third of a century, I was an addict to all kinds of pills, drugs and nostrums to alleviate the tortures resulting from constipation. They brought only temporary relief. Then I tried Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and as a result I have a new birth of freedom from the terrible foe of the race. I am again in the pink of condition, the personification even of youthful vigor in my advancing years. Truly, Mr. W. K. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the conqueror of constipation.

Gratefully yours,
(Signed) A. M. SWEENEY,
(Address on request).

Let Kellogg's ALL-BRAN conquer constipation forever for you. Doctors recommend it. It is what they call a bulk food, that sweeps the intestine clean, stimulating digestion and normal, healthy action. Something habit-forming pills and drugs can never do.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, relief is guaranteed or your grocer returns the purchase price. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made in London, Canada. Served in leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

NEW YORK MECHANICS SWIM IN BEST CITY HAS TO OFFER

Autocrats of Building Trades Now Receive From $10 a Day Up—City Has Army of 10,000 Union Workers to Place on $1,000,000,000 Contruction Program This Year.

NEW YORK, Mar. 6.—Early one evening recently a well-proportioned young man, neatly yet not exactly smartly dressed, approached the dining room of a new unfinished hotel in the Park avenue district, only the lower floors of which have been opened to guests. He carried himself with an air of perfect composure, still there was that something about him which stamped him as different from the usual softly reared types of the neighborhood.

He had that indefinable air of participation in achievement, the outdoor shine upon him which completely blinded the bobbed-haired little checkroom girl to any of his limitations in dress.

"Your hat and coat, if you please," she called out in a soft, low voice.

"Oh, yes," he blushingly replied, as he handed them over and added with the candor of the twenties. "Of course I am here this time to dine and not to catch red-hot bolts in a keg and rivet steel girders together."

He was given a small table at the side by the maitre d'hotel, who took no account of his cautious tread in the luxurious thickness of the carpet nor his face bronzed from exposure to the elements. Not even was surprise registered when his hands as they held the menu card displayed the callous ridges of the toiler.

As like as not some rich young fellow back from one of the "dude ranches" out West or an airplane, motorboat, racing car or golf fiend, thought the maitre as he waved for a waiter to take over the white piece of paper upon which he had written the rugged guest's modest order.

Fortune had favored the writer with the next adjoining table, and, appropriating those rights which belong to two men alone in a strange place, I asked: "You have been here before if I heard your remark to the checkroom girl aright?"

"Every working day for five weeks," was the frank reply. "I am an iron worker—member of the housesmiths' local. Yes, we have received a 5 per cent. wage increase along with the rest of the artisans in the building trades. Now get $10.50 a day, which is better than 'white-collaring' in some Wall street office for half that.

"Made up my mind that when this bed-and-board castle opened I would come around and have the 'red carpet' flung out at me. You know standing upon a narrow beam up there in the sky often one wonders what kind of a place she is going to be when all dolled up. We iron workers blaze the trail for the other trades into a new building and——"

The rest was not especially interesting, mostly about the small town up-State where he came from, the best moving picture he had seen in the last week, and, oh, yes—he was planning to bring on his mother and set her up in a bungalow he was paying for in Queens.

This is the mechanic of 1924—all doors open to him, swimming in the best that the great city has to offer her favored sons. He has a motorcar, phonograph and radio set—everything.

The building construction planned for this year alone will cost in the neighborhood of $600,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

To do this building construction the city has an army of about 100,000 union workers, who are enjoying the highest wages paid anywhere in the world under agreements made with the 900 contractor members of the Building Trades Employers' Association, which maintains headquarters in West Thirty-third street.

It is labor's harvest time, for the whole situation has been democratized. There is no "Labor Czar" in the saddle—the last of this imperial breed of trouble-makers, Robert P. Brindell, is serving out a prison term at Great Meadows Reformatory.

The control is in a Labor Congress, where all the building trades are represented. Each agreement was made with an individual union, and all of the skilled artisans since the first of the year have received a 5 per cent. boost in the official schedule of wages.

The autocrats of the building trades now are the bricklayers, the stone masons, the stone setters, the plasterers, the marble carvers, the hoisting engineers and the slate roofers, who receive $12 for an eight-hour day. In addition, there is extra pay for overtime and bonuses besides.

Next are the twelve trades whose members receive $10.50—the carpenters, the housesmiths, the asbestos workers and insulators, the cement masons, the elevator constructors, the marble cutters and setters, the metallic lathers, the painters and decorators, the plumbers and gas fitters, the roofers and sheet-metal workers, the steam and hot-water fitters and the tile layers.

Electricians receive $10 a day, the same wages as paid the stone cutters, the mosaic and terrazzo glaziers, the houseshorers and sheathpilers and the glaziers. Day laborers, beg pardon, we should have said helpers, get $7 and $8.

In fact, if labor is not satisfied this year in the building trades it never will be.

The only clouds on the horizon are the constantly arising disputes between the labor unions. Drawing of hard and fast jurisdictional lines destroys all elasticity and prevents the adoption of more economical methods—for instance, the insistence of compensation for which no adequate return is given, this requiring payment for wasted time in which no creative work is done and unreasonably increasing the cost of construction wor

One new arbitrary rule that has been started in the New Jersey district has been the demand of the housesmiths that the first iron worker hired must receive a foreman's pay on "steady time" and not "broken time" by the week, regardless of the number of days on which work is done.

Then there is he insistence of the hoisting engineers upon the employment of one of their number to throw the switch on a motor that is used for driving a pump to keep water out of the excavation when that work could just as well be done by a day laborer.

Or the demand of the electricians that only one of their members b permitted to change the electric plug from one socket to another in temporary lighting, or the insistence of the plumbers that only one of their union shall "break up" the joint of a waterpipe line.

Labor probably never will be reasonable—the only hope is for it to be less unreasonable.

French Burglars Greedy

Take Both Furniture and Reward Left to Spare It.

PARIS, March 6—Adrien Le Franc is a careful man, leaving nothing to chance. When he closed for the winter his little bungalow, which he built with his savings, at La Varenne, on the River Marne, Le Franc nailed an envelope on the door, addressed "Messrs. the Burglars," which contained a 500-franc bill and the following lines:

"Please leave my furniture. Enclosed is a small sum, which will reward you for your pains for the visit."

The burglars came, took envelope, furniture and everything and left a note, nailed in place of Le Franc's, saying:

"Thanks for the cash. Sorry, but the furniture is absolutely essential, too. Julot is getting married."

MILLION TOURISTS REVEL IN SUN OF FLORIDA'S MUSHROOM CITIES

Southern Playgrounds Reap $150,000,000 During Four Months' Season.

SUNSHINE TO SELL

Miami Has 115 Hotels and 350 Apartment Houses.

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—Florida's greatest season since it became one of the nation's winter playgrounds is reaching its climax. Before the end of this month the rush of tourists from the chilly north will reach its peak. In the four months of the season, it is estimated that more than 1,000,000 tourists will have come into the state, loafed and played a few weeks and departed. They will have left behind between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 tribute to the sun god in return for the hospitality of Florida.

Florida has the sunshine to sell. Fresh air and a place to play are thrown in as good measure. Florida advertised and this season the flood of pleasure seekers has broken all records, with every promise that it will increase. Looking for the sunshine, they have come from east, west and north, by the thousands on railroad and steamship, by automobile and private yacht. They have come to a land without care. There is amusement for every taste and every purse. There are horseshoe pitching under the palms in the parks; games where the sky is the limit in all-night casinos; sea bathing, golf, polo, fishing, yachting, automobiling. There is the nightly whirl of society events or clubs and theatres along moonlit roads where world-famous orchestras play and noted actresses entertain until the next day's sun peeps above the horizon of sea.

Auto Tags of Every State.

License tags of every state are on the automobiles which roll over the smooth asphalt roads. Flags of every American yacht club fly from the trim craft tied to the piers. The great army of tourists which throng the streets in the cities and villages, stand in queues in front of the restaurants and brighten the scenery with costumes of every cut or color is nation-wide. Some do not notice a $5 over-charge and others figure to make less than that over the day's expenses.

Men whose names are nationally famous and the other thousands are here. It is Florida's month in the sun and 300,000 visitors are basking along a scant 600 miles of its coast, lured by sunshine and play.

"Sunshine" is the terse explanation which observant citizens give for the prosperity which is coming with increasing volume into the gulf-lapped peninsula. All other causes, they say, are merely incidental. They may peter out or change with time, but the sunshine will continue.

In Miami selling sunshine has been brought to its greatest perfection. This year the crop will bring between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000 to the city, according to E. G. Sewell, the conservative president of its Chamber of Commerce. It will come from 300,000 tourists, who can be counted on to leave at least $45,000,000 for shelter, food, and recreation and $30,000,000 more invested in real estate. This authority, who has grown with Miami since it was a sandy fringe of scrub pine on the edge of the everglades, says the army of tourists changes about four times during the season until the peak is reached about the middle of this month. He figures that each one will spend an average of $10 a day, which, in view of hotel rates, proves he is conservative.

Story of Advertising.

How the almost deserted waste has been built in ten years into a city of 75,000 inhabitants with an equal number of tourists through the season, and a farming country which ships 6,000 carloads of winter vegetables, is a story of advertising.

"In 1891 a Mrs. Tuttle came here from the north and bought 600 or 700 acres of land for the proverbial song," Mr. Sewell said. "She was the first real estate investor. A mail carrier occasionally walked from Palm Beach, sixty-seven miles away, fording the rivers. Any one who wandered into the wilderness away from the coast would have perished. In 1896 the railroad was extended and the site of the Royal Palm hotel, an Indian mound with the bones of sixty-three warriors, was cleared. Nothing much happened until 1914, when business was so bad that we had to do something or starve."

Mr. Sewell grumbled so much that the other merchants put him in charge to silence him. They scraped $3,000 together. Letters were written to nineteen newspapers in the north. Several photographs of palms and hibiscus were taken and one newspaper designed a cut to go with the advertising. The entire fund was spent for newspaper advertising. It was win or ruin for the merchants.

The tourists came and for three weeks that winter the town of 7,500 was short of accommodation. Everybody got busy and built houses and hotels.

Fund Larger Each Year.

The next year the fund was $21,000. A band was hired to give free concerts for ten weeks for $10,000. The remainder was distributed among more newspapers. In the winter of 1916-17 5,000 visitors were turned away. In 1917 the fund was $31,000 a band was brought from New York, the season was twelve weeks and 10,200 tourists could not get accommodation during the busiest month of the winter.

It went steadily upward, advertising the sunshine, until this year, the year closing next March 31, the fund was $170,000, of which the city government contributed $125,000. The afternoon and evening band concerts run for eighteen weeks, for the season is growing longer. The advertisements are in sixty newspapers and twenty magazines, none south of the Mason and Dixon line and extending to Canada, Omaha and Kansas City. In addition are electric signs in New York and Chicago, posters in railroad stations and hotels—sunshine, bathing girls, royal palms and straw hats — an irresistible appeal on zero days.

To this in the last few years has been added a rough $250,000 of advertising by the real estate companies which centre in Miami. The railroads which bring the visitors and the hotels which are scattered along both coasts and in the interior do as much more; distributed over the entire state.

Tourists Increase Each Year.

All sing the invitation to come to the sunshine and play. The northerners come. Some stay. Others return to the north and come again. The somber winter garb disappears over night and bright garments rival the sunshine and the flowers. Each year the number increases. This year, in Miami alone, the tourists were 25 per cent. more numerous than a year ago and the sales of property showed an equal increase.

Over the trail which the lone mail carrier waded down the coast once a fortnight thirty years ago are steel rails which carry ten trains a day in each direction, each averaging twenty Pullman sleepers.

Miami has 115 hotels and 350 apartment houses. After the season's rush is over $50,000,000 in building is projected before next season's start. It is the same story of ten years ago, when the advertising started, repeated each year on a larger scale.

The world loves sunshine and play.

GETTING SKINNIER EVERY DAY

Hollows in Cheeks and Neck Growing Deeper Every Week.

Something Must Be Done and Done Right Now—Quick.

Ten of thousands of thin, rundown men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing, flesh producing vitamines, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets are as easy to take as candy and if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will give you your money back—and only 60 cents for 60 tablets. Ask Warne Drug Co., McDermid & Jury, Jas. Lynch, or any live pharmacist anywhere.

But be sure to get McCoy's, the original and genuine, and bear in mind that for thin, sickly kids they are wonderful—a very sickly child—age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

Large, Hideous Necks Can Be Prevented

How many of your friends and acquaintances are affected with Goitre, the most disfiguring and difficult disease to cure?

Physicians and scientists have exhausted every known means to offer you a preventive for this ugly, dangerous disease without marked success—until now.

A minute particle of Iodine has been introduced into pure Windsor Table Salt. Enough to satisfy the thyroid gland but a quantity so small as to be tasteless when used on your table or in your cooking.

Everywhere the efforts of the Canadian Salt Company in producing an efficient Goitre preventive have been sanctioned by medical authorities.

Should you run the risk of dreaded goitre another day? Your grocer has

Mistaken For Bear Cub Dog Has Narrow Escape

Mistaking a dog for a bear cub, a daughter of a half-breed trapper fired and missed him by a hair's-breadth. She later caught the dog in a trap and he became her close companion and protector.

The girl was attacked by a hulking factor, McTaggart, who had been forcing his attentions on her, and the tamed wild dog came to her assistance and drove the attacker away. McTaggart killed the trapper and burned his cottage and Nepeese and the dog were cast out to roam the northern wilderness.

How the dog finally saves his mistress, and how they settle down with one another to live happily is told in "Baree, Son of Kazan," starting in tomorrow's Examiner.

Two Boys, Aged 15 and 14 Are Missing For Ten Days

TORONTO, March 6.—(Canadian Press). — Parents of two Toronto boys, Howard Curling and Tom Wilkinson, aged 15 and 14, respectiv have instituted enquiries in an effort to ascertain the whereabouts of the lads who have been missing for ten days.

They were last heard of in Oshawa where they were put on a motor bus to return to Toronto.

GERMAN PLANS SET POLES AGOG

Say Any Attempt to Grab Polish Territory Will Mean War.

SITUATION GRAVE.

WARSAW, March 6. — (Canadian Press).—The German proposal to guarantee peace at a price which is understood here to consist of revising her eastern frontier so as to take away territories from Poland, has caused intense feeling in Polish official circles.

The Gazeta Warsawka, the official organ of the National Democrats, who hold 100 seats in the Diel, declares the proposal is tantamount to a fresh partition of Poland similar to that of the eighteenth century.

The newspaper affirms that any attempt to diminish Polish territory along the German frontier or elsewhere will mean war, as 30,000,000 Poles will never willingly agree to such fresh partition.

USE SULPHUR TO HEAL YOUR SKIN

Broken Out Skin and Itching Eczema Helped Over Night.

For unsighly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms, or body you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—The committee in charge of the dance held in the Victoria Hall on Friday evening, 27th February, under the auspices of the Eastern Star, L.O.B.A., No. 525, wish to have it known that the statement made in last evening's paper referring to disorderly conduct in some hall on that date had nothing to do with their dance whatever, as they were responsible for the amusement department only. They had a first-class floor manager, and perfect order ruled throughout the evening.

Trust this may meet with the approval of the inquiring public. — Yours,

Other Side.

THAT SALARY CUT.

To the Editor of Examiner.

Sir,—Having read in daily press comment on the action of City Council recently changing their mind on and reversing their decision on the salaries to be paid to the members of Court of Revision, some of us did not do so; but we were in the minority when others did change.

One member started off by saying that the members of Court of Revision were acting for the city, and the city might loose as much as would be gained.

I think that is, to my mind, a very peculiar reason to advocate. Are we to say that the Court of Revision can be influenced by salary?

If so, where is the ratepayer to get redress if he thinks he is assessed too high? The city has the Assessor looking after the city's interests, and the ratepayer, if he chooses, can appeal to the Court of Revision, who decides the question. They are supposed to be free from any such influence, and I don't think that a cut in salary would have had any such effect.

So this is one case of where $175.00 could have been saved and still give satisfactory and sufficient remuneration for services rendered.

JOSEPH CROWE,

V. J. M'ELDERRY IS APPOINTED CROWN PROSECUTOR AT CORNWALL

Will Present Crown's Case Against Thomas Collinson, Charged With Murder.

SHOT GIRL.

V. J. McElderry is to be crown prosecutor in the trial of Thomas Collinson for murder at the Cornwall Assizes next Wednesday.

On November 22, 1924, Collinson it is said, fired two shots through the window of the home of Beatrice Thorpe, 17, fatally injuring her as she had refused his attentions. He was arrested and committed for trial when the coroner's jury brought in a verdict finding that he had shot her. Mr. McElderry is preparing to combat a plea of insanity from the defence.

RESPONSIBLE POSITION.

V. J. McELDERRY.

Peterborough Lawyer who will prosecute a murder charge against alleged slayer of sweetheart.

ST. PAUL'S CHOIR IS CARRYING ON

Annual Supper Given by the Ladies' Aid Was a Happy Affair.

The choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church last night were called to meet at 6.30—an unusual hour, no doubt—but there was a reason! It was their supper hour on this night of the year—the evening set apart on which the Ladies' Aid of the church hold forth and banquet the members of the choir, from the esteemed organist, Martin B. Chenhall, to the most demure chorister; and there were others.

About one hundred choir members and friends were on hand.

The scene in the church hall was glorious — four tables laden with viands; the decorations were lovely, the old brass candlesticks, some of them from Auld Ireland, no less, surmounted with lighted candles, on the long gold crepe centrepiece, with a profusion of daffodils and marigolds intermingled, and the happy faces of those seated thereat, made the scene pleasant and appealing.

There were songs and choruses interspersed with the menu, and Martin Chenhall, Jr., and Charlie Sedgwick guided the audience over the selections.

A short toast-list followed the supper, with T. C. Elliot as toastmaster. His is the knack of saying the right thing at the right time.

The first call was the toast to the elders and managers, the spiritual leaders and finance magnates, respectively, of the church ,and many kind words were expressed on their behalf..

William Madill, for the Session, thanked the donors for the response and expressions of appreciation, and E. F. Mason ,the wizard of finance, also acknowledged the compliment for the Managers.

"The Ladies' Aid" (of which Mrs. Jordan is the president for 1925), was the next toast, proposed by Mr. Sedgwick in a short and inspiring address; and to this the gathering responded worthily.

The toasts were all followed ,with "Jolly Good Fellows" and cheers.

T. C. Elliot gave the toast, "The Choir," coupled with the name of Martin B. Chenhall, organist and choirmaster; and here again the toastmaster showed a fine choice of speech when referring to the work of this important branch of the church services.

Harry McKeown responded in a few appropriate terms, at the same time expressing words of welcome to the new members who are filling the places vacated after the recent vote on church union. The loyalty of the choir to church and organist was voiced by the speaker.

William Madill added his words of warm welcome, on behalf of the church ,at the same time mentioning that about fifteen new members would be added to the choir roll shortly.

Martin Chenhall, Jr., and his pianist called for more choruses, Harold Snelgrove sang, the band of "gazooers" mounted the platform and rendered their "sweet" music.

James Connal, on behalf of the Ladies' Aid, presented Mr. and Mrs. Chenhall with a silver basket, filled with daffodils.

The tables were cleared in short time, and games were enjoyed by all, as were duets by Greta LeBarr and Mr. Kimmel and Mrs. R. W. F. Davidson and Harry McKeown; song by Mrs. W. Byers; the gazoo band, under the baton of Harold Snelgrove; and six ladies of the Aid gave a charade.

"Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem concluded the event.

The arrangements were very complete ,and showed that at least two organisations—the Ladies Aid and the choir—are carrying on "business as usual in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Oliver Steer mentioned during the toast period that the Sabbath School is fully manned ,with two of the finest teachers in Peterborough visiting last Sabbath and offering their services.

Work hard and save your money now so when you get old you can afford to have spring fever.

COAL MINERS TO CEASE WORK AT ELEVEN TO-NIGHT

No Eleventh Hour Effort is Likely to Avert a Tie-Up.

MAY ASK FOR HELP.

To Maintain Collieries of the British Empire Steel Corporation.

HALIFAX, March 6 (Canadian Press).—At one o 'clock this afternoon Premier E. H. Armstrong wired J. W. McLeod, district president of the United Mine Workers of America, at Glace Bay, as follows:

"While we deplore the outcome of negotiations with the company, as intimated in your telegram yesterday, we trust you and your executive will exert your good offices in safeguarding public interests."

This message was despatched following a meeting of the government, at which the present situation was precipitated by the decision announced by coal miners of the British Empire Steel Corporation yesterday, to cease work at 11 o'clock tonight. Indications are that no eleventh hour attempt will be made to avert a tie up At Glace Bay today horses were being removed from the mines and pumps in a number of cases dismantled, preparatory to the stoppage of work.

At Sydney, vice-president J. E. McLurg announced that the corporation intended to maintain their collieries to the best of their ability and might have to appeal for assistance.

DID PAAVO NURMI LAP WHOLE FIELD

Denied by Toronto Sportsmen Who Witnessed the Sprint at Hamilton.

TORONTO, March 6 (Canadian Press) — Considerable controversy prevailed this morning at headquarters here of the Ontario Branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada over reports sent out from Hamilton last night, where Paavo Nurmi, "Flying Finn," established a new Canadian record for a distance of one mile and a half, in a handicap race in which there were eight other contenders

According to newspaper reports this corning, Nurmi was credited with having "lapped" the field, but this is disputed by Toronto sportsmen who witnessed the event Jack Kay, running under the colors of the Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto, who was in receipt of a handicap of 135 yards, was never "lapped," and according to officials of the A.A.U., quoting J. H. Crocker, official referee, Kay had at least twenty-five yards of his handicap to spare when he breasted the tape.

AUTOGRAPH QUILT TO BE AUCTIONED

Golden Link Mission Circle Completes Work—News of Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, March 6—A number of workers connected with the Golden Links Mission Circle gathered at the home of Mrs. G. W. Sayles on Wednesday afternoon and completed the work on the autograph quilt which has been under way for some time.

The names, which have been secured through the efforts of the Circle members, and include not only a large number from this entire district but many from outside points as well, are worked in red on a white ground, and the whole has been put together with lengths of red, the binding being of the same color. The entire effect is very pleasing,and it is expected there will be a ready sale for the quilt which will be put up at auction at the basket social on March 17.

Mrs. J. McKnight, president of the Circle, has given much time and labor to the completion of this undertaking, those assisting on Wednesday being Mrs. P. Stinson, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. Lambert, Sr.; Mrs. G. Locke, Mrs. Sayles, Misses M. E. Needham and P. Burnham. Mrs. V. C. Lambert, who is superintendent of the Circle, was also a visitor during the afternoon, bringing "Baby Alvin' " with her and showing her active interest in the work being done. The Circle will be glad to welcome its superintendent at the monthly meetings again as soon as home duties will permit her attendance.

The hostess and the president, assisted by Miss Marie Kenyon, served tea when the work was finished, and a pleasant social hour was spent over the tea cups before the guests left for home.

The Circle is under obligation to raise fifty dollars annually toward Miss Hawken's salary as teacher in the Wahstao Home and Boarding School, in Alberta. Ruthenian children predominate among the pupils at this school.

Y. P. League.

The Young People's League continued its study of the Indian Mission Fields in Canada at the regular meeting this week, the vice-president Mrs. G. W. Sayles, being in the chair.

The Dominion has been covered now with the exception of Ontario, and this province will be taken up at the next missionary meeting. Much useful and interesting information has been acquired while the study has gone on from month to month.

Next week the meeting is under the citizenship department, and another debate in the series which has been carried on during the winter months, will be the main item on the programme. G. Elson is the vice-president.

C. G. I. T. Grant.

The Wide Awake group of Canadian Girls in Training held its weekly meeting on Tuesday evening, the president, Jean Burnham, in the chair.

Arrangements were made during the business session to secure from the Department of the Interior at Ottawa a new series of slides on Canada's Water Power and present same at the last meeting in March, the C.G.I.T. group being responsible for the programme whenever a fifth Monday comes in any month of the year.

Practice of the May Pole Drill, and the pageant "The Gateway of Womanhood" which are to be given at the St. Patrick's Day basket social took place when the regular session was dismissed. The boys of the C.S.E.T. groups are taking a share of the programme for the social, and Mr G W Sayles will auction off the baskets A prize is being offered for the best decorated basket, following the same plan that was found so successful last year

CANADA NEEDS BUSINESS MEN

J. J. Seitz Pleads For More Boys to Enter Business World.

TOO MANY SCHOOLS.

J. J. Seitz, President of the United Typewritr Company, made a plea for the development of more business men to run the country and its business in his address to the Kiwanis club to-day. He said that whereas it had formerly been possible to get boys for the asking, willing to start at the bottom and work their way up, how, in most offices, there are men and girls, but no boys. The girls do good work, but they do not carry on as do the boys, as sooner or later they leave to go to homes of their own.

A great deal of the difficulty, Mr. Seitz laid at the door of the present educational system. Too many boys are going to the High schools and colleges, looking for their B.A. or other degree. Mr. Seitz said he had no quarrel with the professional men, who were very necessary, but that it was economically impossible for all boys to go to the Universities and the business world must get some of them while they were still young.

One of the worst features he saw was the young man who was unable to complete his University course and who came looking for a position when he was unable to do anything. Another thing Mr. Seitz deplored was the tendency of the present generation to watch the clock and drop work as soon as the hour struck.

The remedy as Mr. Seitz sees it is to train up the younger generation to do without the expensive tastes in government and education that the present generation has so that they could make Canada the greatest country in the world

After Mr. Seitz had spoken, Miss Wright of the United Typewriter Company, gave a demonstration of speed typewriting. Miss Wright typed practised matter at the rate of 70 letters in 5 seconds and took dictation on the machine as fast as Mr. Jarrett, former Champion Typist of Canada, could talk.

Waltz Days — HAL COCHRNA'S DAILY POEM

There once was the day when the music we'd play was mostly all ballad and such. Your grandma would know how those old-timers go, though today they're not sung very much.

The love songs of old, when the lovers were bold, were sweet both in music and word. The tales they'd unfold little heart feelings told and the lyrics were never absurd.

It was waltz music time that was built to a rhyme. There was sway that was sweet as could be. The dances of old, so I've often been told, were affairs of just sweet ecstacy.

Today? Well, how changed, with the tunes rearranged, till the best that the modern youth has in some lines from the old into new meter scrolled. And today we are calling it jazz.

The sweetness and tenderness seems to have slipped, as your present-day orchestra plays. Of old 'twas the lovers' sweet waltz that they tripped. 'Twould be fun to go back to those days.

CANNOT OBTAIN A WINK OF SLEEP FOR EARTHQUAKE

Mother Earth Continues to Tremble and Shake Away Down East.

LIVING IN DREAD.

Canadians in Quebec Afraid They Will Have to Vacate Homes.

QUEBEC, March 6 (Canadian Press).—"We haven't had a wink of sleep for the past three or four days. It is getting to such a pitch that we are living in constant dread. We don't know what is coming next. The suspense is awful, and if present conditions continue we will have to vacate our homes; that is all there is to it."

Thus spoke a resident of Baie St. Paul yesterday, as he stepped off the train on a trip of this city. He said that earthquake disturbances had gained a stranglehold on the nerves of the people.

Latest reports from down the St. Lawrence River substantiate these statements. They are to the effect that last evening at La Malbaie and Les Eboulements, the strongest shocks since Saturday last were felt shortly before 7 o'clock. Houses were shaken, but no serious damage was reported.

Weather statistics for this winter show the mean temperature has been even worse than that.

SUICIDE FOILED.

OTTAWA, March 6. — (Canadian Press).—Having attempted to end his life by cutting his throat with a razor while coming to Ottawa on the C.N.R. train from Parry Sound, Nick Tucker, an Austrian, employed at the Booth lumber camps at Brule Lake, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and was taken to the Civic Hospital, where he lies in an unconscious condition. Passengers in the car with the man prevented him from carrying out his desperate intentions when they found him in the lavatory bleeding profusely from a wound in his neck. The man is about 55 years of age.

NEGRO CLERGYMAN EXPOSED AS FAKE

Collector For Tabernacle of Saints Left Town in a Hurry.

A colored gentleman was in Peterboro on Thursday, who claimed to be a clergyman. He was soliciting financial assistance to build a tabernacle for the Saints and had mny credentials supposedly from the mayors and authorities of various cities.

When he applied for permission to canvass for funds in Peterboro his credentials were examined and questions asked. A local clergyman was called to verify the answers and it was found that the gentleman was an imposter, as he had never held the position claimed and had not been educated at the college mentioned. When pressed, he confessed that he was not what he had represented himself.

The police were notified, but although a diligent search was made the visitor could not be found, and it is thought that he walked out to some nearby flag station and took a train for parts unknown.

Latest Comment on Grain and Industrial Markets.

Closing Quotations on Principal Active Stocks.

CHICAGO.

Sentiment after the close appeared to be bullish on wheat and neutral on other grains, with no decisive trend here it is likely that foreign developments will serve as the chief governing factors. It is pointed out by some of the leading corn bulls that the present weakness in low grades of corn in the spot market here is due to a rush of low-grade grain to market by owners who realize that the poor quality of corn makes for a probability of serious condition deterioration in the event of a sudden spell of warm weather. They believe when this poor corn is out of the way an acute shortage of all grades will be experienced. Dry weather continues over the winter wheat belt and the forecast does not give any promise of immediate change. There are sections suffering from lack of moisture, and rising temperatures tend to aggravate the situation. Bad crop reports continue to come from various points in Texas and Western Nebraska, where the wheat crop is suffering from lack of adequate moisture. The weather forecast did not hold any promise of rain for these districts. Cash grain at Chicago yesterday had an easy tone, with low grades of corn two cents lower and oats one cent off relative to futures. The wheat basis is unchanged with few offerings, while choice grades of corn were scarce and steady to strong. Further advances in hogs brought new investment buying of lard, while some profit-taking was in evidence on upturns.

BASEBALL PREPARING FOR A NEW SEASON AS HOCKEY NEARS FINISH

Annual Meeting of the O. A. B. A. Scheduled for Saturday, April 4.

REVIEW AND SURVEY

Fifteen Leagues in Eastern Ontario Affiliated With the Provincial Association.

OSHAWA, March 6.—With the winter's pastime of hockey having reached the stage when the semi-final and final dates of the Dominion championship plays offs are announced, the sport loving people naturally turn their thoughts to the coming season of baseball. The 1925 province wide season of the amateur is to be put under way on the 4th day of April next, for according to Article VII, Clause (A) of the constitution of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, the annual meeting of that body "shall be held on the first Saturday in April, which is just one month from the coming Saturday. The Secretaries of the different leagues and associations connected, covering Ottawa in the East, Sarnia in the West, to Sudbury in the North, will in the course of the next few days receive notice from Acting-Secretary A. J. Walsh, of Toronto, the place of meeting in Toronto and in connection with the annual meeting there are two clauses in the constitution which have an important bearing, viz:

Article V, Clause (E) reads:

"Nominations for the Officers of the Association and two auditors shall be in the hands of the Secretary (which is 91 Quebec Avenue, Toronto) not later than two weeks before the date of the annual meeting."

Article VIII, amendments, reads:

"No amendment or alteration shall be made to any part of this constitution except at the annual meeting, and only by a two-thirds vote of the members present. Notice of any proposed alteration or amendment must be filed with the Secretary of the Association in writing at least two weeks prior to the annual meeting, and the Secretary shall then forward by registered mail a copy to each association or League at least one week in advance of the annual meeting."

East of Toronto there are fifteen leagues or associations affiliated with the Ontario Association as follows: Peterboro City, East Peterboro, Lindsay Juvenile, Trent Valley, Central Ontario, Cobourg Juvenile, Northumberland, Durham and Ontario, Oshawa Church, Bay of Quinte, Hastings-Prince Edward Junior, Tri-County, Lennox-Addington, Kingston City and Ottawa Eastern Ontario, all of which are entitled to have two delegates at the annual meeting in Toronto, on Saturday, April 4.

Tall Oaks From Little Acorns Grow

The Ontario Baseball Amateur Association has had a remarkable growth and success since the Ontario Branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, at a meeting in February 1913, appointed a commission to enquire into the possibilities of organizing baseball in Ontario on an amateur basis. The members of the commission headed by W. J. Smith, of Toronto as chairman; G. C. Walker, P. M. Walsh, of Toronto and W. J. Snyder of Hamilton, all of whom with the exception of G. C. Walker, who is now located out of Ontario, can be seen in regular attendance at each annual meeting, Smith and Kennedy, past presidents, Walsh as acting-secretary and treasurer and Synder as the present first Vice-President. Through the efforts of these baseball enthusiasts, the Toronto Amateur Baseball Association was the first to be organized in 1913. The following year the Hamilton Amateur Baseball Association came into existence and the first inter-city amateur championship play-off occurred. In 1917 amateur baseball had become so well established that at a meeting held in Hamilton on Saturday, May 4, 1918, the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association was organized with the following leagues or associations as the charter members: Toronto Amateur Baseball Association, Hamilton Amateur Baseball Association, Brantford City League, Oshawa Town League, Kitchener City League, Dundas Town League and Preston Town League. In the year 1919 Eastern Ontario became entered in the senior series, mainly through the efforts of J. J. Solomon, who up to last year resided in Peterboro, and held the second vice-presidency of the Ontario Association, to which he was elected in 1923. Today the Ontario body has a province wide organisation, which includes forty-five leagues or associations and in sport is second to the Ontario Amateur Hockey Association as to territory and activities. With a Dominion organization working today, it is only a matetr of time when the champions of the East will be meeting the Western champions for the all Canadian Amateur Baseball honors.

East Holds Up Well in Champions

In the winning of championships of the O.B.A.A. the East has won nine, mainly through the efforts of the ball teams organized in Peterboro City, and the Liftlock City holds the record in the matter of wins registered in any one season, that of 1923 when they annexed the Intermediate, Junior, Midget and Bantam. In the competition for the "Times Trophy" which represents the championship of the senior division, the East has only been succesful once, the Grand Trunks of Belleville, Central Ontario League champions in the first year of the local leagues' existence, 1919, brought the trophy East;; Toronto has won it three times, Hamilton once and Galt twice. The "Spalding Trophy" which goes with the intermediate championship has been held by the East four out of the five years of competition, Picton won it in 1920 and 1921, Canadian General Electric team, Peterboro in 1922 and 1923 ,while last year it was taken West by Oakville. The "O.B.A.A. Trophy" and Junior championship in its five years has been in Brantford, Toronto, Guelph, while in 1923 and 1924 Peterboro Lakeviews captured the silverware. In the Juvenile section for the "Mail and Empire Trophy" Toronto has carried off the honours in three out of the four years of competition and Hamilton once; Peterboro Midgets have won the "Evening Telegram Trophy" twice in 1922-23 and Toronto once in 1924, while in the Bantam division Peterboro Rotary Club won in 1923 and Toronto McCormacks in 1924.

Outlook For the Coming Season.

The teams comprising the senior Central Ontario Amateur Baseball League in their organization meetings evidently enbibed with " a new broom sweeps clean" and on every executive of teams, new faces will be seen in charge of affairs, while in the league executive, seven out of the ten members will be new: 2nd Vice-President, H. T. McFadden, Peterboro; 3rd Vice-President, N. P. North, Belleville; Secretary-Treasurer, N. W. Thompson, Belleville; Executive members, F. J. Bailes, Oshawa; Alex Givens, Kingston; Gordon Matthews, Peterboro and A. Weir, Belleville. The old faces still holding office are Past President, M. P. Duff, Belleville; President, C. M. Anderson and first Vice-President, W. L. Kennedy, Kingston.

In regards to the personnels of the different teams in the league Peterboro will likely be an amalgamation of the Canadian General Electric, Lakeviews and old C. O. League players with "Shiner" Johnston on the management end and should be a first division team of near home brew winner. Belleville is likely to trot out most of the old brigade, with a sprinkling of younger stuff, but hardy likely to try to go through another season of two games a week with the one slab artist, which means that the side wheeler Don Jeffrey, who has been side tracked the last couple of seasons will get a chance and by the time the certificates are handing in to be passed on "a new 'un" will come from undercover. Kingston is well fortified with players, having most of last year's list to choose from—now that Knotty Lee's pro team has been eased off—and some good intermediate material of last year anxious for a try out and a couple of new faces thrown in. Oshawa has all last year's intact and from reports plenty of new material to round out a Central Ontario League winner. But of the new stuff there are three teams in Oshawa claiming preseason promises to attach their John Henrys' to certificates and inside news states that viligent committees have been appointed to be pressed into service on Saturday, April 4, when the certificate blanks of the senior and intermediate classification are handed out. When the Central Ontario, Durham and Ontario and Oshawa Church representatives land the blank slips there promises to be a merry chase for players and the Lord's Day Alliance will need to date Sunday one day ahead or back to stop the speeders.

STUNT SKATER AT LAKEFIELD

Norman Falkner, One-Legged Veteran, Entertained Rink Crowd.

LAKEFIELD, March 6.—Mr. Norman A. Faulkner, of Toronto, the world's only one-legged skater, was the special attraction at the Rink on Wednesday, and drew a very large crowd, who marvelled at his wonderful performance. In three separate acts, he gave demonstrations of plain and fancy skating, cut figure eights, Greek stars, double and single, pigs' ears and other figures quite beyond the skill of the ordinary skater with two legs, and is a remarkable feat in a man with one leg. Mr. Faulkner later appeared with an artificial limb, and skated with two skates with only the slightest suggestion of a limp. Mr. Faulkner's "stunts" were watched in silence, very unusual in 'Lakefield's big playhouse,' but when complete each one received a hearty round of applause.

Mr. Faulkner is a returned soldier and has a pleasing personality, which won him friends among the crowd. The Citizens' Band was in attendance and played for the skating which occupied the time between the acts.

Besides a large number of local people, there were a number present from Young's Point, Selwyn and Warsaw.

HERE'S NEWEST STUNT IN SPORTS

Sea-Going Golf, They Call It, And It's Being Played With Much Fervor on Florida "Courses" These Days

ON THE "GREEN" IN SEA-GOING GOLF

Here we have the latest thing in sports—sea-going golf. It is now being played down in Florida and is said to be a most interesting past ime.

The game is played from a boat and the ball spends its time in the water, being lifted from one wave to another with an ordinary golf club. Cups are located at various intervals and it is necessary to putt on the "blue" to sink the pellet, the same rules applying as in the actual game.

Phot shows two devotees of this novel sport playing a round on the "sea course" at Ormond Beach.

GOOD HOCKEY GAME.

Tuxis Boys' League Turn in Fast Brand of Winter Sport.

The Methodist boys beat the Presbyterians in the Tuxis Square Hockey League on Tuesday at the Lakeeld Arena. Both teams played good clean hockey, and as the ice was fast a good game resulted. Neither side lacked vocal encouragement from a large number of supporters. V. G. Simpson gave complete satisfaction as a referee.

The line-up:

Methodists—Goal, H. Hamblin; defence, H. Reddick and S. Nixon; centre, E. Wannamaker; right wing, H. Stabler; left wing, G. Sherin; subs., F. Madill and R. Alford.

Presbyterians—Goal, K. Junkin; defence, E. Morin and R. Fayne; centre, F. Payne; right wing, D. Davis; left wing, D. Kidd; subs.,

The NUT CRACKER BY JOE WILLIAMS

MR. R. HORNSBY

Mr. Rogers Hornsby has signed a three-year contract to remain in St. Louis. Mr. Hornsby apparently is the kind of gent who likes to labor under stifling handicaps.

Mr. Hornsby is one of the rarest characters in sport. We never met anybody who didn't like him aplenty. Even the pitchers who feed him their fast one and duck.

Mr. Hornsby has demonstrated that a guy can be a genius and still wear a soft collar and a soft smile.

Mr. Hornsby is the greates right-handed hitter in baseball, but this is the least of his virtues ..... He has more loyalty than a giraffe has neck.

Mr. Hornsby could easily have maneuvered himself into a New York uniform, with increased pay and a starring role in the world series.

Mr. Hornsby is no Carl Mays. With him an agreement is an agreement, a duty a duty and a job a job. Even if it is in St. Louis under the academic guidance of Branch Rickey.

Some flowers need careful culturing to attain their full fragrance .....Mr. Hornsby is the kind of flower that can blossom with complete splendor and serenity in an ashheap.

If consistency is a jewel Mr. Hornby is a whole rope of pearls. He has led the National League hitters for so many years the name of the man he succeded is lost to memory of the oldest inhabitant.

It is said Mr. Hornsby is just a fair second baseman. He is a fair second baseman in the same sense that Napoleon was a fair general and Salome an amateur hip shaker.

Mr. Hornsby has no weakness at the plate. Unless it is for fresh Mobile shrimps. His record for shrimp eating from a sitting position, form and distance considered, is 4523.

BOXING MEET FOR MONTREAL

MONTREAL, March 6.—Provincial amateur boxing championships will be held here March 23 and 24.

FIRST GAME TO NIAGARA FALLS

BREAKS COUNTED.

TORONTO, March 6 (Canadian Press).—Niagara Falls outlasted Grimsby in the first game of their Allen Cup elimination series at the Arena last night, shot three goals in the third period and won a hard fought battle 4 to 2. It was anybody's game for the first forty minutes, which ended with the score 1 to 1, but either team had an edge it rested with the Peach Kings, who, however, lacked the final kick to their attack and it cost the Intermediate O.H.A. champions the goals necessary to win the game. But the break came in the second period, when Shorty Horne, on one of the finest individual plays, got right through the defence, tricked Mayo out of position and then missed the cage by inches. The score was 1 to 1 at the time, and a goal then would have put Grimsby in front with a good chance of staying there. However, class really told in the last twenty minutes, after both teams had set a terrific pace in the first two periods, the sustained speed of the players making the game the best to be played in the O.H.A. series in Toronto this season. Nearly 7,000 fans, including 1,000 from the Fruit Belt, packed the Arena and they will all be back for the return game tomorrow night.

As in the game with the Soo, Grimsby started out in the first period to set the pace and they hit up a dizzy one.

WARKWORTH GIRLS PLAY LAKEFIELD

Game Monday Night Begins at 9 O'clock—Both Are Fast.

LAKEFIELD, March 6.—On Monday evening the Warkworth girls' hockey team will play the local girls' team at 9 o'clock, as the girls will not arrive in Peterboro till the 8.10 train, and there will be skating before the game. The Warkworth team has had a good season's record, and it should be well worth while. It is probable that the Ottawa Alerts will play the locals later in the season.

SOCCER MEETING

Juniors of City and District Meet Monday Evening.

A special general meeting of the Peterboro and District Junior Football Association will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Monday evening, March 9, at 7 p.m. to hear the report of the deputation which was appointed to meet the senior organization.

A large attendance of members is requested as very important business will come up for discussion.

All players who intend to play for the Masseys are requested to leave their names at White Bros. Sports Shop, Charlotte street, as soon as possible.

Outstanding Feats—Stole 43 bases in 1923, ranking second to Max Carey. Accepted 374 putouts and 518 assists same season, leading league's second basemen in total chances handled. Batted .281 in 1923.

ANOTHER CHALLENGE.

Millbrook Wins and Loses and Goes After Carew Cup Again.

The Carew Challenge Cup, which had a brief two weeks' sojourn in Millbrook, is held for the second time by the Stouffville Curling Club. On the previous occasion it was won by a rink from the Queen City Club within ten days after being taken by Stouffville, and a similar experience may be in store now, as the Queen City is the next in line to play for the trophy.

The local club showed its sporting spirit by sending in a challenge for the cup shortly after the defeat which allowed Stouffville to take the trophy home with them on Tuesday.

Two "pick up" rinks enjoyed a friendly game of curling at the local ice Wednesday, a tie score of 12 points each, being the result.

The rinks lined up as follows:

R. Waddell, skip; J. A. Vance; Ross Edmunds; J. Wells.

R. H. Edmunds, skip; G. W. Sayles, Russel Smith, W. Pitt.

Arrangements will probably be made to hold a banquet at the Waverly Inn when the Allen Cup, won by G. W. Sayles' rink this season, will be presented. A definite date has not yet been decided upon.

PETERBORO CRICKET CLUB.

A general meeting of this club will be held in the Chamber of Commerce Council room on Monday, 9th inst., at 7.30 p.m., to transact important general business and ratify the actions of the Executive.

All members who have already sent in application forms and any others wishing to do so are urged to be present.

NURMI AT TORONTO.

Chopped a Minute Off Mile and a Half Run at Hamilton.

TORONTO, March 6.—(Canadian Press).—Paavo Nurmi, the Finnish flyer, fresh from his sensational achievement at Hamilton last night when he ran a mile and a half in the fast time of 6 minutes 55 1-5 seconds, making a new Canadian record, and lopping more than a minute off the old record, is expected to establish still more marks for Canadian speedsters to shoot at, when he will run at the Coliseum here tonight.

FALCONS WIN FROM GEORGE ST. STARS

Hand the Church Boys a 5-1 Trimming at Brock Street.

At Brock Street Rink, last night, George Street Church All Stars yere presented with a 5-1 pasting, by the notorious fire hall Falcons.

The Stars stacked against a heavier and more experienced team tried hard to offset this advantage by the use of combination, which was successful on the soft ice.

The smoke merchants were never headed after Evans gave them their second marker in the first period, at the end of which the score was 3-1, with the Fireman doing the cheering.

In the last period, the Falcons sailed right into the Church boys and at one time kept them bottled up at their own end of the Arena for five minutes.

McColl in the Star's goal, chose a good night to be at top form, and held the birds t be at top form, and ents, stopping four re-bounds from one close in shot in professional style.

The Fire Fighters tallied twice in this frame. Smith squeezed one in at close range, and Lewis knocked the other through when McColl let the puck park in front of his bungalow

McColl was the brightest star on the church team, and had a busy night keeping the score down. Dormer and Martin on the forward line rushed well but were treated roughly by the Falcons defence.

The hosemen were all good. Dundas and Evans were in rare form, while Ward held up his net well, and only managed to let one beat him. Martin was responsible for the lone one, saving the stars a shut-out.

Fred Thirnbeck handled the bell satisfactorily and leniently, each team received two penalties.

The Players .

Stars: McColl, goal; Miller and Fowler, defence; Dormer, Centre; Jarvis and Martin wings; Spencer sub.

Falcons: Ward, goal; White and Smith, defence; Evans, centre; Dundas and McNeeley wings; Lewis and Lundy subs.

Tonight the Fire Hall will endeavor to chalk up another win at Brock Street from 6 to 7. The Examiner sextet will be the victims.

Charles Nicholas, of Campbellford, Goes to Hospital For Treatment.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6.—Mr. Chas. Nicholas, Inkerman street, left on Thursday morning for Toronto, where he will enter the hospital for treatment for his eye and ear, as he has not been in good health lately and has suffered much pain. He was wounded in the war and lost one eye. He will be away for some time.

Mrs. John Rome, of Stanwood, is visiting friends in Campbellford this week.

Mrs. Wm. Collard, Palliser street, had the assistance of some of her neighbors to a quilting bee at her home. After the afternoon's work supper was served and a social hour spent.

Mrs. John Rome of Stanwood, is spending this week in Campbellford, visiting several of her relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McDonald, of Healey Falls, are at Kingston, visiting Mrs. McDonald's parents, Rev. and Mrs. H. Burnham.

C.G.I.T. Visited.

Miss Helen Perry, of Toronto, Baptist Girls' Work Secretary, made a visit to the C.G I.T. in the Baptist church in Campbellford, last Friday afternoon and evening. The girls served tea in the Sunday school room and afterwards the mothers and some of the older girls of the church were present and all enjoyed the splendid talk Miss Perry gave about the C.G.I.T. work. A social hour was spent at the close of the address and all were glad to meet Miss Perry. Miss L. Weston, leader of the C.G.I.T. and the girls are doing good work here.

Mr. Wilfrid Scott of Picton was in Campbellford on a business trip on Wednesday and was also visiting his aunt, Mrs. C. W Turner, Queen street.

Miss Mabel Rowe, of Healy Falls, is visiting her uncle, Mr. Dan Rowe, at Huntsville.

Miss Agnes Clysdale, formerly of Campbellford, late of Belleville, who has been visiting friends in Cobourg, Dunnville and other places, is visiting Mrs. Jno. Chase, Inkerman street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hoover, Queen street, received word from their daughter, Mrs. Church, of Orillia, that their grandchild, Betty, was quite ill and confined to her bed. They have also received word that their brother-in-law, Mr. Bert Fisher, also of Orillia, who had an operation some few weeks ago, is greatly improved.

Mr. Wm Train, of Seymour East, has rented the farm of Mr. Alex. Innes, in 8th concession of Seymour. He takes possession this week.

Mr. Edward McConnell, of Percy, has rented the farm, lot 22, in 13th concession of Percy, owned by Mr. Jas. Forde, Garry street.

Mr. G. C. Taylor and family, of Peterborough, who purchased the new bungalow on Richmond street, lately occupied by Captain Hyland, of the Regent Theatre, moved into his new home on Tuesday.

Born—In Campbellford, on Sunday, March 1st, 1925, to Mr. and Mrs. Harper Hinds, Bridge street, a daughter (Gertrude Bernice).

MACARONI INVENTOR REMAINS UNKNOWN

Another Unsung Benefactor of the Human Race Still in Obscurity.

Another unsung hero and benefactor of the human race is the man who invented macaroni. He may have lived in China, but Italy gets the credit. In all probability his name never will be known. History credits Chinese with the invention of this food, which now is looked on as peculiarly and typically Italian, and that country deserves credit, if not for the invention of macaroni, then for adopting it as a national food and for her constant fidelity to it through the centuries.

History further tells us that when the 15th century rolled around Italy was the only European country enjoying macaroni. For several centuries thereafter Italy held the secret of its manufacture. Later some enterprising French chef introduced it into France. It is on record that King Louis XIII ordered a dish of it from an innkeeper of Tours, who had made a great name by its preparation.

Macaroni has become so popular throughout the world today that Italy consumes fifty pounds per capita, annually, while in the United States and Canada more than half a billion pounds are eaten yearly. The increasing popularity of macaroni, spaghetti and vermicelli is due to its ease of preparation, palatability, nutritive value and the countless ways it may be served by the thrifty housewife.

AT THE GRAND

"THE MOTH."

Flavored slightly with a reminiscence of "The Bat," the play offered by the Mae Edwards Players at the Grand Opera House last night, "The Moth," had a filled and enthusiastic house, which seemed to enjoy every moment of a sparkling drama. The quality of the entertainment given by the Edwards stock company is extremely good throughout, and Peterboro has possibly never seen a better class of production at such low prices. They give the very best and a good deal over, for the money, and provide an evening chuck full of interest and amusement.

"The Moth," last night's bill, is one of those amusing affairs where the chief character plays a double role. The audience knows pretty well just who he is, but the other players don't, and complications pile up until the final dramatic denouement.

Carleton Pinckney was excellent as "Number 363," the hero of the piece, and Mae Edwards made a charming and unconventional heroine in the role of Jane Morrison, who befriends the convict she has visited, arranges his escape from prison, then falls in love with him after he takes the job of a butler at her father's home. The supporting cast was fine throughout, with Miss Peggy Adams as the mother, Mrs. Henry Morrison, Charles T. Smith as Henry himself, henpecked and loud-voiced and Miss Leslye Thomas as Claire, the maid who pretends to be a criminal to secure evidence against the main villain, Judge Melford, played by Arthur Hebert. Lawrence Hayes has a minor role as Office Saunders, and Jack Farr is the comedian of the play, the sissified Archibald Runyan, whose ingenuous foolishness adds to the general merriment of the production which goes with snap and vim from beginning to end.

The feature vaudeville between acts was greeted with uproarious applause, the jazz orchestra being recalled time and again and responding with several generous encores. This aggregation of rapid-fire players has even Plunkett's famous jazz orchestra beaten, in the way of fast and furious syncopation, and lovers of jazz music in the audience went wild over their efforts last night, applauding them to the echo. Along with several added selections, they played a number of novelty fox trots, in "Georgia," "Doo Wacka Doo," "Lime House Blues," and "Jealous," the latter with a splendid baritone solo by Charles Smith.

Other entre-acte numbers included a humorous monologue by Charles Downes that brought down the house, and a fine exhibition of ventriloquism by Jack Farr, with his red-headed "Tommy" doll.

This evening will see the feature play of the week's bill, in "Her Sacrifice," dramatized from Adele St. John's "Cosmopolitan" story, "The Worst Woman in Hollywood." There will be a special children's matinee to-morrow, with a mystery play on Saturday night, closing the week's offerings, with "The Unseen Hand." Anyone who has missed seeing the Mae Edwards Players during the week should make a point of attending their closing performances.

AT THE ROYAL

"PAMPERED YOUTH" ARTISTIC SUCCESS GREAT FIRE SCENES.

A well directed splendidly acted picture wtih a wealth of human detail, 'Pampered Youth" may not appeal to patrons who care more for rapid-fire action and melodramatic hokum than stories in which character development set forth. But there can be no doubt of its winning favor in certain quarters, for there are critical fans in plenty who will appreciate the diverse lights and shadows, the intense pathos and sincerity of purpose which distinguish this production.

The older generation will surely greatly approve the wonderfully true to life atmosphere of the early nineties with which Director David Smith has surrounded the feature, and quite possibly the younger may find pleasure in the contrast it affords with modern times. The film abounds in accurate detail and there are not wanting touches of clever timely comedy to relieve the serious trend of the tale.

Particularly interesting are the quaint styles in women's clothing, especially when taken in conjunction with the advent of the first 'horseless carriages,' and if the prevailing mood of the film be dignified and sedate there is plenty of excitement crammed into the finish.

For the fire scenes which terminate matters are as full of brisk action and genuine thrills as the most ardent admirer of melodrama could desire. It's a crackerjack climax to as fine a study of social snobbery, self-sacrifice and patient suffering as has ever been screened.

One's sympathy naturally goes out to the lovable Isabel Minafer from the start, while overcome with a burning desire to kick her spoilt brat ofa boy into oblivion both in the early and late stages of his career. But he redeems himself after a fashion, and a suggestion of future happiness for Isabel leaves a good impression at the close.

Alice Calhoun is wistfully appealing as Isabel, a role for which her beauty and quiet charm peculiarly adapts her. Ben Alexander is remarkably effective as the juvenile George and Cullen Landis has never done better work than his portrayal of that awful snob in manhood. Allan Forrest scores as Isabel's erstwhile disgraced lover and excellent support is given the principals by the remainder of the cast.

The photography throughout is superb, deep sets are employed with artistic effect and clear, distinct lighting prevails.

FIREMAN NIGHT AT ROYAL.

On account of the wonderful fire scenes in "Pampered Youth," the Peterboro fireman have been invited as guests if the Royal To-Night. 'Pampered Youth," is the Booth Tarkington story that won the Pulitzer prize in the year it was published and the fire horse race and runaway are some of the high lights of the production.

AT THE REGENT

GEORGE O'BRIEN REPEATS SUCCESS IN NEW PICTURE.

George O'Brien, he of the irresistible "O'Brien Smile," who has won fame in the two big Broadway successes, "The Man Who Came Back" and "The Iron Horse," went over big in the new William Fox special production, "The Painted Lady," at the Regent Theatre last night.

His attractive temperamental leading lady in the painted title-role, Dorothy Mackaill, captured the hearts and imagination of both men and women in this loveliest of love stories marked by many dramatic climaxes and strong tragic, humorous and romantic moments.

"The Painted Lady" provides 100 per cent. entertainment.

It is the swift-moving, gripping, ardent tale of the young girl, victim of the Big City, driven by hunger against her will to be a painted paria and plaything of luxury.

Till, in a gorgeous, glorious South Sea setting, with Love whispering in the perfumed breeze and whispering in the waves that lap the coral island, she meets the virile, honest sailor chap.

AT THE CAPITOL

BUCK JONES IS IN TOWN IN WHAT IS CALLED HIS BEST FILM.

"The Man Who Played Square" Is Offered as Epic of Exciting Gold-Rush Days.

Critics of the larger cities seem to agree with William Fox, the producer, in his claim that "The Man Who Played Square" is the best picture in which Buck Jones has starred for several moons. It is said few western romances have developed as much high-speed action and as many fast-moving thrills as this one affords, and the local fans who like this kind of cinema entertainment will have the chance of seeing it at the Capitol Theatre beginning to-day.

This film unfolds a comedy-drama of epochal importance since it is acknowledged to make a vivid visualized pictorial record of the spirit actuating the men who made gold-mining in Northern California such an alluring business in the earliest days of the famous gold-rush.

Buck Jones, as the hero in this picture play, is summoned into the gold region by a life-long pal, who needed his aid after a mortal clash with a villainous tyrant who sought to deprive him of his half-interest in the most valuable mine thereabout. He gets on the scene in time to hear his pal's dying statement and to receive from him a quit-deed made out in his favor. This leads to his intensive activities to see justice done and from this point the stirring events happen with such rapidity as to cause much gasping.

Of course the daughter of the villain, the latter of whom had been killed for his misdeeds, had taken charge of the mining property and she tried to emulate her father's cruelties. Wanda Hawley plays this role and inevitably her playing of it leads to an intense love affair with the hero, but cleverly designed complications keep everybody guessing as to the outcome up to the last minute. Some of the best and most realistic fights ever photographed for a feature are claimed for this one and Jones is given plenty of chances to show his fistic prowess as well as his horsemanship.

Hank Mann, in a big comedy role, and David Kirby, as a villain extraordinary, are great.

OBITUARY.

MRS J[illegible] DRUMM

COBOURG, [illegible]ch 6.—The funeral of Mrs. L[illegible], wife of Mr. James Drumm, Haldimand Township, took place on Wednesday from her late residence to St. Mary's Church and Cemetery, Grafton. The pall-bearers were Vincent Drumm, son, and Harry McLaren, son-in-law; Nathaniel Drumm, brother-in-law; Nathan Drumm, cousin; Charles Carroll, Hamilton Township, cousin; Newman Drumm, Provincial Road East, nephew.

Among relatives from a distance who attended the funeral were Mr. Patrick Drumm, Rachester, brother-in-law; Miss Godfrey and Mrs. Connors, Hastings, cousins.

Mrs. Drumm had been an invalid and confined to her couch for practically seven years. Last year her health seemed to improve and fond hopes were entertained by her family for her complete recovery, but some months later she became worse again. She tried treatment in hospitals in Toronto and other places in an endeavor to regain her health, but nothing proved of lasting benefit. Besides her husband, Mrs. Drumm leaves a married daughter, Mrs. Harry McLaren, Cobourg, and one son, Vincent, and a daughter, Miss Olive at home. With all, very deep sympathy is felt.

The funeral was largely attended and many spiritual offerings showed the high regard in which Mrs. Drumm was held.

MRS. JOSEPH SPENCELY.

The death occurred at 10 o'clock this morning, in St. Joseph's Hospital, of Ada Jane Nelson, beloved wife of Joseph E. Spencely, after a short illness.

She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Harold Paquette of this city.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 251 Princess Street, on Monday, March 9th, to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment. Commandant A. J. Smith officiating.

MARY GILCOUR.

The death occurred in Philadelphia on March 5, of Mary Gilgour. The funeral will be from Belleghem's Funeral Chapel on Saturday afternoon at 2.30. The funeral will be conducted by Rev. Robert Pogue, and interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

NO LEPROSY IN PETERBOROUGH SAYS DR. YOUNG

Several Physicians and the Police Corroborate Denial of Outbreak.

UNFOUNDED RUMOR.

Molded After British Columbia Case, Absurd Story is Branded False.

Rumors of leprosy in the city which have been current for some days were finally disposed of to-day in interviews with Dr. T. W. H. Young, Medical Officer of Health, several city physicians, and the police. There is no truth in the story that has been bandied around regarding a school teacher having the dread disease, and no doctor has encountered a case anywhere in the city.

The story told on the street, and repeated to The Examiner some days ago, was to the effect that a young lady, visiting a theatre, suffered from nose-bleed and borrowed a handkerchief to stop the bleeding. Next day she was reported to have leprosy, contracted from the handkerchief which, it was said, had come from a Chinese laundry.

Strange to say, this follows in detail a story carried on the wires from Vancouver a few days ago, and appears as though it may have been repeated here with the substitution of local names.

In any event, Dr. Young told The Examiner to-day that he has had no report from any doctor, and personal investigation has led him to the positive conclusion that there is no truth in the story. Nor is there any trace of lenrosy in any laundry or anywhere else in Peterboro.

Other doctors, interrogated to-day by The Examiner, confirm Dr. Young's statement, and the police have independently investigated without finding any basis for the rumor.

Not Dangerous.

Even if the story were true—and it apparently is not — there would still be no occasion for panic. Dr. Young is authority for the statement that leprosy cannot be passed in the way stated, but is transmitted by actual contact over a long period. Clothes will not carry contagion of leprosy. Merely sitting beside a leper for a few hours will not transmit the disease. In fact, Dr. Young says, if a leper takes care of himself in the way of cleanliness, he is not so dangerous as a tubercular sufferer, so far as passing contagion goes.

On the authority of these men, charged with the preservation of the public health, there is no leprosy in Peterboro; no young lady has been sent to "leper island," and the entire story is a fabrication.

SCOTTISH MEMBERS UPHOLD KIRKWOOD

Clydeside Representatives Absent From House—Political Fund Bill Lost.

LONDON, Eng., March 6.—(Canadian Press).—The handful of Scottish members from Clydeside refrained from attendance in the House of Commons to-day in protest against the suspension yesterday of their fellow-member, David Kirkwood. Other Labor members, who walked out of the House yesterday when the Kirkwood suspension was voted, were in the Chamber in full force this afternoon, however, for the debate on the Trades Union Political Fund Bill, to which, although it was the bill of a Conservative, Prime Minister Baldwin moved an amendment, which means virtually killing the measure.

The object of the bill is to amend the Trade Union Act of 1913, which authorizes the union to exact contributions used for the support of the Labor party from all union members unless they have made written application for exemption. Under the new bill every trade unionist would be free to contribute to the political fund if he made written application to do so. Conservative and Liberal trade unionists would thus not be required to contribute to the fund used for the support of an opposition political party.

Mr. Baldwin, in moving the amendment, which declared that "while approving the principle of political liberty embodied in the bill, the House is of the opinion that a measure of such far-reaching importance should not be introduced as a private member's bill," said he deprecated its introduction last Friday, especially as the time for the debate was insufficient and the bill dug right into one of the most difficult fundamental questions in the country.

The bill was formally rejected this afternoon, when the Prime Minister's amendment carried by a vote of 325 to 153.

VOL. LVI., No. 56 PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, MARCH 7, 1925 PRICE THREE CENTS

TOO MANY BARNACLES ON "SHIP OF STATE" COMMONERS DECLARED IN CRITICISM OF THE CIVIL SERVICE

Federal Departments Over-Staffed—Public Works Salaries $614,655 Passed.

TALK OF ECONOMY FAILS OF SOLUTION

Tribute Paid to Competent, Industrious Officials — Commission Itself Under Fire.

DEFECTS REVEALED.

General Manager Over All Deputies One of the Proposals.

OTTAWA, March 7—Suggestions for a field day to discuss reform of the Civil Service were heard in the House Friday. Public Works estimates were under discussion and from members on both sides came the criticism that the Civil Service was overmanned.

There were some of the finest in Canada in the Civil Service, said Hon. H. H. Stevens, former minister of trade and commerce, but there were also a lot of barnacles and they should be got rid of. Robert Forke, Progressive leader, observed that there was talk of economy, economy all the time, yet the Civil Service kept increasing. He thought all parties should get together and try to find a solution without playing politics. J. T. Shaw, Independent of West Calgary, thought a general manager should be appointed over all deputies.

H. C. Hocken, Conservative of West Toronto, felt that Canada needed a Coolidge.

L. H. Martel, Liberal of Hants, sharply took the ground that a judge, retired with an allowance should not hold another position.

"What about a deputy minister?" queried Mr. Hocken, and at this there was Conservative applause.

"I would put him in the same category," replied Mr. Martell. "No man has a right to sponge on his fellow citizens."

Appropriation Passed.

Votes under discussion were $614,655 for salaries and $75,000 for contingencies, Department of Public Works. Both were adopted shortly after the House resumed at the evening sitting.

Discussion on the Civil Service was opened by Mr. Stevens, who criticized the extent to which superannuation allowance had grown in various government departments.

Mr. Martell thought that if he and Mr. Stevens could get togther, they could "cut the service by 40 per cent. and still have a better Civil Service."

Mr. Stevens advocated that when vacancies occurred in departments, they should be filled by employees from other overstaffed departments. In that way, no one would be turned into the street. It was time to stop asking the Civil Service Commission day after day, for new appointments, while help was available in the overstaffed departments.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, said that just what Mr. Stevens had suggested was being done every day in the service.

Mr. Stevens retorted by saying that there was an example of "gross extravagance" in the Interior Department, where one of the most valuable of civil servants had been forced into retirement in the prime of life. Mr. Stevens declined to give the man's name, but promised to do so when the Interior Department estimates were before the House.

Hon. Dr. King declared that the statement that 50 per cent. of the Civil Servants were inefficient, was unfair.

Hon. H. H. Stevens denied having made any such stattment. "What I said was that 50 per cent. of civil servants were of the highest type, and he did not think that it was fair to them that girls in the Civil Service did not do their work satisfactorily.

Demands Increasing.

Hon. Dr. King, while admitting that certain departments had increased, pointed out that the demands for the performance of additional duties were becoming greater. The Minister of Customs had been approached in reference to the question of smuggling; but if he were going to have more efficient service, in patrolling the border, and along the Pacific Coast, this would mean an increase in that service.

Mr. Martell did not consider that one minister should be put under fire alone as regards increase in the service. He personally knew of the case of a transfer of a man in the Public Works Department from Ontario to Nova Scotia to fill a vacancy there. The minister in doing so, was not playing politics. He did not think that any minister should be blamed for a system which had grown up since Confederation. He considered that the proper thing to do would be to have some member give notice of motion in the matter, have a field day, and discuss the whole matter.

Mr. Hocken suggested that all parties should get together irrespective of politics. "There are more politics in the Civil Service than in the Liberal party," he stated, "or the Conservative party," added Mr. Hocken. "There are men in the Civil Service playing politics all the time. I do not mean party politics, but thep were playing their own politics. One deputy," he stated, "says you help me here, and I'll help you there." There were more politics in the Civil Service than in the House of Commons, in his opinion.

Some Civil Servants were building up their own branches for the purpose of building u their own salaries. If anything were done to remedy conditions, it must be by all ministers working together.

Hold Up Appointments.

He had suggested before, giving a holiday in the matter of new Civil Service appointments; and he thought this should be done. Men could be transferred from one department to another to fill vacancies. He had asked about a month ago, how many new appointmtnts had been made by the Civil Service Commission in 1924. So far, he had not received the information.

L. J. Lardner (Conservative, Vancouver Centre) considered that the suggestion for declaring a holiday in matter of Civil Service appointments was an excellent one. If increases were to be stopped, the ministers were the persons to do this.

"Does not my Hon. Friend think," asked Mr. Martell, "that it would be a good thing to scrape the whole Civil Service Act and Civil Service Commission and start something new?"

"No, I do not," rtplied Mr. Ladner. The proper course, he considered, would be to correct the deficiencies, keep the structure, but improve it.

Milton N. Campbell (Progressive, Mackenzie) thought that a good deal of criticism in this matter came from sections that wanted patronage. He thought some of the members should be more frank, and state what was at the back of their minds.

"Can the Hon. Member show," enquired Mr. Martell, "that as a result of the Civil Service Commission, more satisfactory appointments have been made to office?"

Mr. Campbell replied that if he did produce figures, he doubted that they would be accepted. He thought that the country as a whole endorsed the principle of Civil Service Commission. There were, however, weaknesses.

Preftrred Patronage.

Mr. Martell assured Mr. Campbell that the constituency of Hants believed in the system of patronage.

Mr. Hocken stated that recommendations of members of Parliament to the Civil Service Commission often destroyed an applicant's chances of getting an appointment. The question of a man's integrity should be of great consideration in making an appointment.

Mr. Martell pointed out that often the man who obtained the highest marks was not always the best.

"Does that apply to law examinations," asked Rev. A. J. Lewis (Progressive, Swift Current).

Mr. Martell replied that it applied to law examinations and also to examinations in theology.

Hon. R. J. Manion (Conservative, Fort William) advised cutting down departmental staffs wherever possible. He suggested that when a vacancy occurred, it should be filled by someone already in the department, instead of taking in a new clerk. If this was done, the staffs would graually be reduced to normal.

John Evans (Progressive, Saskatoon) stated that one reason why the Civil Service Commission had failed to retain full confidence in the country, was because it had not received the support of the present government. The heads of departments were not co-operating as they should with the Civil Service Commission. He warned the Government that the people of Canada would not stand for the abolition of the Civil Service Commission.

Too Much Power.

R. K. Anderson (Conservative, Halton) while not desiring the abolition of the Civil Service Commission, said that he thought its jurisdiction was too broad. Control of appointments in the outside service should not be in the hands of the Commission, he thought. The Commissioners had no way of obtaining information as to the best person to appoint to a position in the outside service without applying to some person in the vicinity where the vacancy existed. The person applied to might be biased in favor of some applicant who was not qualified to fill the position. Sometimes, members had to take the responsibility for appointments which they had not had anything to do with.

Ottawa Collegiate Girl Missing Since Thursday, Friends Fear Foul Play

OTTAWA, March 7 (Canadian Press). — Seventeen-year-old Evelyn Bannister, of Sault Ste. Marie, who has been attending the Ottawa Collegiate, has been missing since Thursday at noon, when she left the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. A. Campbell, with whom she lived in Ottawa.

A large number of family friends, under the direction of the police, are combing the city for some trace of the girl.

Foul play is feared, as Miss Bannister had never indicated the slightest intention of leaving her aunt's home nor had she any acquaintanceships in Ottawa which might have led to her going away.

She was in good health. She is described as of medium height, slight build, dark eyes, and brown bobbed hair.

INDIANS OF RESERVE IN ALBERTA SELL TOWNSHIP OF THEIR LAND FOR $187,200

Every Man, Woman and Child Gets $100 in Cash—$20,000 For Sick Relief and $100,200 Set Aside Capital Account.

EDMONTON, Alta., March 7 (Canadian Press). — The Indian population, numbering 67, of the Saddle Lake Reserve, lying to the north of the Saskatchewan River, 45 miles north of Vegreville, have this week come into some unexpected wealth—every man, woman, and child receiving a cash payment of $100 as the result of the sale of a township of their land to the Soldiers' Settlement Board.

The negotiations for the sale were conducted at a mass meeting of the Indians.

In the block disposed of, which lies to the north of the reserve, there are 18,720 acres, and the purchase price was $187,200.

Fifty per cent. of this goes to the Indians, $57,000 is being paid in cash, and $20,000 is being set aside by the Government for the relief of the poor and sick, and to encourage agriculture in the reserve.

The remaining $100,200 is being placed to capital account, and will draw interest at the rate of 5 per cent.

CONSERVATIVE WHIP UNAWARE OF CHEQUE THAT MIGHT UNSEAT HIM

Public Accounts Disclosed Payment of $24.86 For Groceries From His Store.

SOLD BY MANAGER.

Wm. Ireland Explains Technical Breach of Law—Will Retain His Seat.

TORONTO, March 7.—The Ontario Legislature next week will pass legislation to prevent the possibility of one of its members losing his seat by an inadvertent breach of the Legislative Assembly Act. The Act provides that no member of Parliament may accept money from the crown except his sessional indemnity, and other monies properly voted. The public accounts shows that a sum was paid to the grocery store of William Ireland, chief Conservative whip, in Trenton, and was charged against the Ontario Government. Mr. Ireland noticed this in the public accounts, and before the orders of the day in the Legislature, made the following statement Friday:

"This morning I learned for the first time that in the public accounts there appears an amount of $24.86 paid to me for provisions. Upon inquiry, I learned that at a function held at the opening of the Moving Picture Bureau at Trenton where about 5,000 people were present, some refreshments were served. Apparently somebody procured a small amount of these goods from my store. A cheque was apparently issued by the treasury department and forwarded to me at Trenton. My manager evidently got the cheque and deposited it in the ordinary course of business without my endorsation or knowledge.

Unaware of Purchase.

"I want to state to the House that the whole matter occurred entirely withou my knowledge or approval. It is a very trifling transaction, but I realize the seriousness of a breach of the law regarding representation in the Legislature, and I hasten to make this explanation. It will be for the Legislature to say what action should be taken in the matter."

The Premier said that Mr. Ireland had come to him about the matter. The cheque was not endorsed by Mr. Ireland, and while it was a technical breach of the Act it was unfortunate. He suggested that on Tuesday he bring in a bill which would protect the member against losing his seat. He felt under the circumstances that the House would agree unanimously.

W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, said that certainly there would be no opposition from his group. W. E. Raney also gave assurance that the Progressives would support the bill, "as nobody would like to see the government lost its whip, particularly these days when it was an instrument of great service."

W. K. Homuth, Labor member, also assured the Government that Labor would support the bill.

Betting by Employees.

The Prime Minister also took ocasion to state that he had learned that some one was making visits to the Parliament Buildings and from the Civil Service soliciting bets on horse races. He stated that he wanted it understood among the civil servants that the Government proposed to put a man to watch these things and to see who the "handbook" man was. If caught, he would be made to suffer as far as the law could make him, and any civil servants caught making bets through him would be immediately dismissed. The Government, he said, would not take the risk of employing such men and such things must be stopped at once.

Thirteen private bills were introduced in the Legislature, including a City of London bill which provides

Winnipeg Grain Pit In Frenzy As Price Falls

WINNIPEG, Man., March 7 (Canadian Press).— In a steady downward movement, the wheat prices on the local exchange yesterday suffered the most drastic break in many months.

As a climax to the bearish sentiment prevailing right from the opening, the May future was forced down to the lowest point of the day, shortly before the close, at $1.90 3-4, a decline of 11 3-4 cents over Thursday's finish.

The pit was in a frenzy, with liquidation pouring in from all quarters.

Prices on the coarse grain markets experienced sharp recessions, with rye and flax particularly affected by the bearish wave.

B. C. JAPS SHOW FRUIT GROWERS UNION EXAMPLE

Little Brown Men in Western Province Make Sacrifices To Co-operate.

WHITES DIVIDED.

Growers and Dealers Break Contracts— Heavy Penalties to be Imposed.

OTTAWA, March 7. — (Canadian Press).—"Japanese settlers in this country are one hundred per cent. co-operative," said L. E. Taylor, of Kelowna, B.C., president of the British Columbia Fruit Growers Association, in addressing a meeting of the Eastern Ontario branch of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists here Friday. Mr. Taylor pointed out that the vegetable growers of that province only succeeded in securing satisfaction from the cannery companies when they presented a united front.

The problems of the fruit growers were accentuated by the lack of unity and co-operation in their dealing with canners and wholesalers. "Unfortunately some growers show a tendency to stay out of the co-operative association if the conditions of the moment seem to offer them temporary advantages by so doing. With the Japanese it is different. Even at financial sacrifice, they have again and again proved that they are willing to co-operate.

"Bootlegging in our fruit industry," he said, "is as prevalent as is bootlegging in liquor in other parts of the country, and is just as detrimental. Growers and dealers under contract with the Fruit Growers' Association from time to time dealt outside and broke the contract. Owing to the fact that the legal validity of the contract was a little in doubt, the association at first could take no definite action; but this condition has been changed. Plans are under discussion by which very heavy penalties will be incurred by any such breach of contract in the future—three months in jail and a fine of $500 being likely to have a salutary effect."

FALSE LURE IN 'LITERATURE' OF THE RAILWAYS

Delegation of Farmers Propose That Government Scrutinize Advertising For Settlers.

MANY REQUESTS.

Representatives of All Provinces in Delegation Received by Federal Cabinet.

OTTAWA, March 7. — (Canadian Press).—With resolutions covering a wide range of subjects, a large delegation representing the Canadian Council of Agriculture, waited upon the Government Friday.

Through its various members, which were introduced to the Cabinet Ministers by W. A. Amos, president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, the delegation urged amendments to the Naturalization Act, changes in immigration regulations, Senate reform, revaluation of soldier settlers' lands, supervision by the Government of literature sent out by railway and steamship companies to attract immigrants, substitution of physical training for cadet corps training as at present in effect, and other matters.

J. P. Brady, secretary of the United Farmers of Quebec, the first speaker, informed the Government that in certain cities cream substitutes, containing less than fifty per cent. cream, were on sale at the same price as pure cream.

George F. Edwards, president of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers, stated that some of the literature sent out by railways and steamship lines to attract settlers created a false impression as to the ease with which farming operations could be started in Canada. He thought that this literature should be examined by the Government.

Soldiers' Lands.

A resolution urging "revaluation of all soldier settlers' holdings with a view to placing settlers on a sound economic basis," was presented by P. Wright, representing the United Farmers of Manitoba. Mr. Wright said that it was almost impossible for some of these settlers to carry on, and that they would be forced to abandon their farms if some relief was not given them. Mrs. J. S. Amos asked for amendments to the Naturalization Act to enable a married woman to take out personal naturalization papers. She also urged an amendment which would permit a woman of British nationality marrying a foreigner to retain her nationality. She pointed out that women of British nationality sometimes married aliens who had no intention of taking out naturalization papers in Canada. Under the law as at present drafted, the woman ceased to be a British citizen.

Cadet Training.

Adoption of amendments to the Bankruptcy Act, proposed by the Banking and Commerce Committee at the last session of Parliament, was asked for by G. Revington, of the United Farmers of Alberta. Mrs. R. Gunn, president of the United Farm Women of Alberta, presented a resolution asking that the sum now voted by the Federal Government for cadet training be turned over to the Provincial Departments of Education for physical training of children. She stated that cadet training would never have the support of the whole public, while the value of physical training was generally acknowledged. Also no provision was made for the physical training of girls when the sum was earmarked for cadet training.

A resolution was presented by Bruce Monevin, United Farmers of Alberta, expressing the pleasure of the Council at the announcement that an inter-provincial conference is to be held to consider the question of the reform of the Senate, and expressing the hope that the result would be a real measure of the Senate reform.

Would Lower Tariff.

D. G. Mackenzie, United Farmers of Alberta, urged that indirect taxation tended to enhance the prices of the necessaries of life and of the implements of production, in particular, taking from the pockets of the consumers several times the amount of public revenue therefrom. He asked that the Government consider the necessity of maintaining the income tax at substantially the present scale, reducing and removing those protective duties on imports which increase the costs of living and production and of applying surpluses of revenue, whenever available, to tariff reductions in preference to the reduction of other indirect taxes, such as sales tax.

J. Ward, secretary Canadian Council of Agriculture, advocated the suspension of coastal shipping laws, in a manner that would protect farmers and shippers, and also be in the interests of Canadian ports.

Geo. F. Edwards, president of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers, urged the advisability of using the national credit to provide the agricultural industry at reasonable interest rates with intermediate credit, which was now entirely inadequate and with long-term credit, which was in the main only available at rates of interest higher than is paid by other industries in Canada.

John R. Reed, United Grain Growers' Association, presented a resolu-

YOUTH VIOLENT SINCE ACCIDENT FACES GALLOWS

W. G. Watkins, 21, Found Guilty of Slaying Verdun Grocer in Store Raid.

SENTENCED TO DIE.

Montreal Judge Says Modern Civilization is Producing Young Criminals.

MONTREAL, March 7.—William George Watkins, alias Davies, 21, was found guilty last evening of the murder of Francis Xavier Beauvais on the night of September 8 in Beauvais grocery store at Verdun, and was sentenced to be hanged on June 12 by Mr. Justice Wilson in the Court of King's Bench. Alfred Deschambault, 17, one of the gang who raided the store at the time Watkins held up the postman-grocer and shot him, was found guilty of manslaughter, and will be sentenced later.

On Monday, Sydney Harrison, the Swift Current, Sask., youth, who has been granted a separate trial in connection with the murder, will appear before the court.

In their address to the jury, both J. C. Walsh, K.C., Crown prosecutor, and Alban Germain, K.C., counsel for the defence, dwelt on the youth of the accused.

Reckless Youth.

In his summing up, however, Mr. Justice Wilson scored the present-day "civilization—modern, progressive, advanced, ultra-modern, which had produced what?"

Bandits who are children, mere children with the complexion of school girls. In the days gone by, we thought of the bandit as a man with long hair, huge, with three or four guns in his belt, and some knives to spare. And what do we see today? Children before the courts on the gravest of charges."

His Lordship deplored the situation and commented on the need for parents doing more to guide their children.

The addresses to the jury took up most of the afternoon. The empanelled men were closted for more than an hour betore they reached a verdict.

According to his mother's testimony, Watkins has been a bad boy, uncontrollable and subject to spells of violence ever since he suffered an accident in 1914.

Shot at Policeman.

Mrs. McDonald, now the wife of a Westmount policeman, widow of George Watkins, was the chief witness at Friday morning's session of the trial. She told the court that in 1916 her husband went overseas, leaving her alone with her five children. William George, she declared, "turned everything he could lay his hands on into explosives." On one occasion he fired on a constable in the street from the roof at the corner of Chatham and Notre Dame streets with a revolver he had obtained from "a little boy friend' because the officer had once chased him.

Since his accident, the nature of which was not revealed, he had become particularly violent. There had been a great change in his temperament. He had "wanted to kill everybody." One of his favorite pastimes was to go to St. Joseph's Shine on Cote des Neiges Road, where a great deal of blasting was carried on, in the hope of being able to obtain explosives for his bombs, which he made out of tin cans. Once he had tried to choke his step-brother with a towel. Also he had, on more than one occasion, threatened his mother with death, declaring he "could kill her in three minutes." He had gone to sea "to be near the big guns," and had been discharged from two ships.

CONDEMN BOY SCOUTS.

NEATH, Wales, March 7.—(Associated Press).—On the ground that they savored too much of "militarism" the Boy Scouts and the Girl Guide movements were strongly condemned by the Welsh division of the Independent Labor Party at a conference here recently. A resolution was passed advising all Independent Labor Party parents to prevent their children joining either of these movements.

Canada Needs a Coolidge To Slash Burden Of Taxes, Suggestion Of H. C. Hocken

OTTAWA, March 7 (Canadian Press). — "What this country needs is a Coolidge," H. C. Hocken (Conservative, Toronto West) told the House of Commons yesterday afternoon when a discussion of the public works estimates turned towards Civil Service matters.

President Coolidge, he said, had announced that he could cut the taxation of the United States until it was $25.0 per capita, while Canada was paying $45.00 per capita.

"We ought to have in our Prime Minister the same courage that was in President Coolidge," said Mr. Hocken.

"Canada could not expect to compete with the United States while bearing twice the burden of taxation upon the individual, and the place to begin was in the Civil Service by cutting expenditure by $10,000,000. No other business would be carried on the way the Government of Canada was carried on," he said.

RAILWAY RUM RING ALLEGED

MEAL TICKET CASE.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 7 (Canadian Press). — Alleging that an organised ring of bootleggers under the guise of railway employees were operating on an extensive scale between Winnipeg and Duluth, Minn., W. Dean, a cook on a Canadian National Railway train, injected a new angle to the Canadian National meal ticket forgery case, in which six former employees in the Police Court yesterday were charged with conspiracy to defraud.

Mr. Dean testified that a Prohibition officer of the city of Duluth was a party to the traffic, while a person unnamed, in St. Boniface, Man., supplied the liquor.

Dean stated that he had been associated with one of the accused, who produced a bundle of bogus meal tickets. After discovering this he said he had revealed the facts to Premier Mackenzie King, Hon. E. J. McMurray, and the Hon. Hal. B. McGivern.

The Solicitor-General, Dean said, had told him to go ahead and investigate.

Under cross-examination he admitted undertaking this work purely from a sense of public spirit, and to protect the revenue of the country.

"Do you not sell a little whisky on your run?" Max Finkelstein, of the defence counsel, asked Dean.

He admitted he did. The witness said he bootlegged on the trains because he had to be "one of the boys, and they all were doing it."

The whisky, he added, was obtained from a bootlegging ring and not illicit distilleries.

The case was postponed for one week.

Dean testified he was treasurer of the Winnipeg Liberal Association. When he learned of the alleged plot to fleece the railway company by means of forged dining-car tickets, he consulted the officers of the Liberal Party, he stated, and it was decided to investigate the matter.

GERMANY SEEKS NEW PRESIDENT

Marx Named as Probable Republican Candidate—Mud-Slinging Starts.

ATTENTION DIVIDED.

(By Carl D. Groat, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BERLIN, March 7. — Wilhelm Marx, former Chancellor, who recently resigned the Prussian Premiership, will probably be the Republican candidate for the Presidency. His record as Chancellor, coupled with his winning personality, is causing the movement in his behalf to gain strength and political indications are they will stand a far better chance of victory than any of several other candidates being considered.

Mud slinging tactics are already being employed in the campaign.

The Republicans on the other hand have not made use of the dereliction of the Monarchists, which were unearthed in connection with that scandal. While the Presidential campaign is already causing enormous interest, the public's attention is divided by two other matters—the security pact and the railroad strike. There is a general feeling that a safety pact would go far toward healig Europe's post war suspicions and alarm, but the German press is doubtful if France would permit any workable safety pact, and it also is worried because of Poland's criticism of the proposed pact.

CHICAGO WATER DIVERSION CUT TO 8,500 CU. FEET

Withdrawal From the Great Lakes to be Reduced to 4,167 by 1935.

DECISION BY WEEKS.

U. S. Secretary of War Orders Big City to Instal Sewage Plant.

WASHINGTON, March 7 (Canadian Press). — Finis as far as the United States is concerned was yesterday written to the dispute over lake levels between the Sanitary District of Chicago and States other than Illinois bordering the Great Lakes and Canadian lake interests.

Secretary of War Weeks issued his decision with respect to withdrawal of water by Chicago from Lake Michigan, ruling that diversion for the present should be limited to 8,500 cubic feet per second, and that it should be reduced to 4,167 feet by 1935.

The Secretary granted a permit for an average of 8,500 feet until 31st December, 1929, but this is conditional on various undertakings by the Sanitary District and may be revoked.

One of the attached conditions stipulates no unreasonable interference with navigation.

Other important conditions under which the Sanitary District which asked for a diversion of 10,000 cubic feet, is granted a slightly lesser amount, are:

That the Chicago Sanitary District shall carry out a programme of sewage treatment by artificial processes before the expiration of the permit;

That the Sanitary District shall pay its share of the cost of regulating or compensating works to restore the levels of the Great Lakes, and shall post a bond or guarantee of $1,000,000 as evidence of good faith in this matter;

That the Sanitary District shall submit to the Chief Army Engineer of the United States and to the Secretary of War Weeks plans for the controlling works to prevent the discharge of the Chicago River into Lake Michigan during storms. (These works are to be completed by 1st July, 1929.)

Subject to Annulment.

Unless the conditions are carried out the permit may be revoked without notice at the instance of the Secretary of War and subject to such action as Congress may take.

It is pointed out that compliance with the terms of the permit dealing with sewage treatment will make possible the reduction of the diversion to 7,250 cubic feet by the end of 1929.

In transmitting the permit to Lawrence F. King, President of the Board of Trustees, Chicago Sanitary District, Mr. Weeks wrote:

"I cannot emphasise too strongly the importance of diligent and prompt execution of the conditions imposed. If it is necessary to increase the bonding power of the Sanitary District from 3 to 5 per cent. of the assessed valuation of the taxable property, or if increased taxing power is imperative the requisite gislative permission should be obtained promptly.

"While it is not in my province to dictate, I sincerely urge the reduction of your expenses to the lowest possible requirements and further, that arrangements be made with the packers and the corn products interests to treat their own waste before discharging it into the sewers.

"I believe that steps should be taken which will enable Chicago to complete the entire work within ten years."

Follows Court Decision.

Mr. Weeks' decision followed the action of the Supreme Court upholding his right to control the diversion of water from the Great Lakes under his authority to control navigable waters. Chicago's contention to the contrary were fought by all States bordering on the Great Lakes, except Illinois, which also opposed at the public hearing by the Secretary e[illegible]cation for permission to wit[illegible]w 10,000 feet per second.

At the hearing representatives of Canadian lake interests were present.

"This Department has always held and continues to hold," Mr. Weeks wrote to Mr. King, "that the taking of an excessive amount of water for sanitation at Chicago does affect the navigation on the Great Lakes adversely, and that this diversion of water from Lake Michigan should be reduced to reasonable limits with utmost despatch. I appreciate that the desired reduction cannot be made instantaneously."

FRESH FRUITS HERALD SPRING

Bananas Made Record Time —Oranges Not Very Plentiful—Pineapples Coming.

EASTER LILIES.

The vanguard of the fresh fruit and vegetables that herald welcome spring days is seeping into the city by way of the rail line and the last remnant of the old vegetables is going out in the same way. Yesterday, the first car load of bananas came in, and a local broker sent out a car load of old carrots to Toronto markets.

This is the earlist date on which bananas have come into the city. Last year, a car come in on March 7th, but this year they were here on the 6th. All the way from Port Limon in South America came this car. These Limon bananas are considered some of the best of the bananna supply, which is named variously after the different sections which send them to Northern ports, different grades including Baracos and Santa Martas and Jamaics and Guatemalas and Telas. The casual customer is not advised, however, to begin specializing on certain qualities, as they look pretty much the same on the stalk. Bananas are temperamental, it seems. A shade lower temperature in the ripening room than they desire causes them to retain a green shade and a hard contour and they refuse to change to the mild golden colour which they will assume if treated to the proper temperature. Normal bananas, the "fat" fruit, as they are called, require a week in the ripening room after their long, cold voyage from summer climes.

Oranges are in a "firm" market, and not excessively plentiful. The late Valencias will be in soon. There are also coing in boxes of oranges which have been 'water separated," as they say. That is, they have been tested in certain ways to discover just how much the recent bad frosts in California did them damage. Another interesting test used in this connection is the "Hesperidin crystal" test, tiny crystals being used to discover presence of frost.

Tomatoes from Mexico are in the stores. The local hot-house crop this year suffered considerable blight and was unsatisfactory.

The ill wind that blows good to others is apparent in the case of the potato supply. Although growers will suffer from the English embargo placed on American and Canadian potatoes, consumers will benefit by larger supplies of choice spuds and lower prices. Already, this is proving to be the case.

New cabbage journey all the way from the Southern States to grace Canadian tables, along with new carrots and spinach. Cultured Boston sends the haughty cucumber, high-priced and exclusive, retailing at 40 and 50 cents apiece, and from Cape Cod come cranberries. The leafy artichoke, endives and nice, bright red radishes are new comers, also Brussels sprouts are 30 cents a quart.

Pineapples are expected in within the week and strawberries, also, at 85 cents a quart, will appear in local fruit stores next week.

In wholesale circles, J. E. Adams reports a good volume of business, with increasing orders for March. Collections are improving but are not yet altogether satisfactory. Farmers are laying in their yearly stock of sugar, February and March, it seems, being favorite months for this. Sugar is still in a firm market, with moderately low prices, and one large refinery recording a pronounced shortage of raws.

Canned goods are moving rapidly, with shortage in several lines, notably in corn and certain grades of beans. Spices are in a short market with maces, peppers, ginger and nutmegs on the up grade.

In connection with the projected Australian agreement, ratification of whichis a matter for this session of the Federal Parliament to consider quotations on Australian currants, and samples, are already coming in to wholesale houses. As Australian currency is based on the English system of pounds, shillings and pence and their weights follow the English system also, with 56 pounds and 12 pound boxes, instead of the Canadian 50s and 100s, the Dominion dealers anticipate a certain amount of difficulty in their trading operations with the Antipodes.

In dairy circles, butter and eggs remain fairly stationary in price. Cheese is firm, with supplies lowering and a well cleaned-out old make

In the florists' windows are forerunners of Easter already, in the lovely waxen calla lilies. The local stores lean to the old-fashioned variety of this lily, with the pistil shorter than in the new type.

JARVIS PAYS PART OF $600,000 FINE

Says $140,000 Represents His Share of the Profits and Pepall Got the Rest.

TORONTO, March 7.—(Canadian Press).—There has been action on the huge fine imposed on Aemilius Jarvis and Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer, who were convicted of conspiring to defraud the province in certain bond transactions. It was announced by the Attorney-General this morning that $140,000 of the $600,000 fine imposed had been paid by Mr. Jarvis who is now undergoing six months' sentence at the jail farm in York County.

Mr. Jarvis claims that $140,000 represents what he states was his actual profit, namely, $166,000 plus five per cent. interest, since it was made. Mr. Jarvis, in paying this amount of the fine, states that the remainder of the profits in the bond transactions went to Andrew Pepall, who is now in Los Angeles. Jarvis states he got one and a half per cent. of the value of the bonds in London and Pepall the rest. Peter Smith was sentenced to three years and is now in Portsmouth Penitentiary. Chief Justice K. M. Meredith, who sentenced them, added a fine of $600,000, which he figured was the total amount which had been taken by the men concerned and which rightly belonged to the province. He stated that the men would stay in jail until the fine was paid. Counsel for Jarvis appealed the decision and that appeal is still before the High Court. The Attorney-General would make no comment on the probable effect of the payment of $140,000 of the fine on the appeal. That is a matter for the High Court judges. In the meantime the province is the richer by $140,000.

Andrew Pepall, whom Jarvis claims got the remainder of the profits, is now fighting extradition in Los Angeles.

TWEED HAS BAND.

Organization Meeting Had 20 Players and Instruments Available.

TWEED, March 7.—An enthusiastic meeting of bandsmen and some would-be bandsmen met in the Council Chamber on Friday evening. W. B. Huycke, the old leader and bandsman for many years, was elected chairman and after calling the meeting to order briefly outlined the purpose for which the meeting was called He asked John Sills, the acting secretary, to read the list of players with instruments available numbering about twenty. The matter of a leader was first taken up and W. B. Huyck and W. J. Burgoyne were proposed. Mr. Huyck suggested that Mr. Burgoyne be leader and that he would assist. This suggestion was unanimously received. The matter of a suitable practice night was debated and decided. A hall was also selected and the secretary authorized to arrange for the same. The matter of a site was chosen and a committee asked to obtain a lease where a band stand could be erected, and seats arranged for. The band was called for practice on Tuesday night at 7.30 when organization will be completed at the end of practice. The leader having made a short but pointed address and among other matters pointed out the necessity of every member being at practice regularly and on time; also that all members on days of engagements acquit themselves like gentlemen. Mr. Burgoyne's remarks were timely and heartily received The meeting was adjourned till March 10th, at 7.30.

for some municipal work and grants to the Western University. Second reading was given the bill to incorporate the Village of Ripley, Bruce County; to authorize John McRobie, Petrolia, to make application to practise optometry; to incorporate the Municipality of Paipoonge, Northern Ontario. Hon. W. F. Nickle got second reading for bills making minor changes in the Ontario Companies Act and the Surrogate Court Act.

Doctors' "Scripts."

Answering questions, the Government informed the House that the Secretary for Northern Ontario, did not include the drafting of legislation in his duties and that the only report made by him was his annual report. To a question asking how many doctors had exceeded a certain number of prescriptions a month, Mr. Nickle replied that there was no authorized number that might be issued, as each prescription stood on its own merits. However, he stated that 1,114 doctors had exceeded the fifty per month last year and that 352 had exceeded this number in December. Eighty-eight issued more than 60 in the fiscal year past and 49 in December; 25 issued more than 75 in the fiscal year, and seven in the month of December. Some doctors issued these in more than one month and are considred twice in the figures given.

The House was informed that W. S. Beamish, defeated Conservative candidate in he last elections, had not been employed by the Government. Attorney-General Nickle replying to another question ,said that 105 informations for breach of the O.T.A. were laid in Windsor in July and August last. In 44 cases, the magistrate decided there was insufficient evidence. The Minister of Lands and Forests said that the agreement of settlement made by the old government with the Austin Nicholson Lumber Company had been set aside and $2,644 collected from the company for trespass.

The House, adjourned to meet Tuesday.

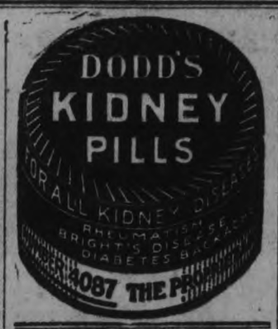
A FREEMASON'S SUFFERING

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" WORLD'S BEST REMEDY FOR CONSTIPATION

MR. J. H. McLEOD

"I was troubled very badly with Rheumatism and Constipation and tried a great many remedies without relief, until a friend of mine recommended "Fruit-a-tives". I took several boxes and was very soon completely relieved and am very grateful to "Fruit-a-tives". I think that "Fruit-a-tives" is the best remedy in the world and have recommended it to a great number of friends who have benefited by it".—J. H. McLeod, Nova Scotia Freemason's Home, Windsor, Nova Scotia.

Constipation is the great curse of old age. Yet day by day, more and more elderly people are enjoying vigorous health through "Fruit-a-tives". This natural medicine—made from intensified fruit juices—ensures the complete natural digestion of food for people of all ages. At your dealers, 25c and 50c.



TURKS PREPARE TO START WAR

Announcement Made of 8 Divisions Moved to Disputed Musol Area.

CAUSE OF FEAR.

GENEVA, March 7. —(Canadian Press). — Turkey has asked the League of Nations not to discuss at next week's meeting the appeal of Greece over the expulsion of the most Rev. Constantines, Patriarch of the Greek Orthordox Church. Angora previously had announced unofficially that Turkey would not recognize the league's right to consider the dispute with Greece as it was a purely domestic affair.

It is believed council probably will accede and postpone indefinitely, the subject until further conversations with Angora and Athens thereby giving time for an amicable adjustment of the difficulties.

The situation in Turkey is causing considerable apprehension here, especially as to the effect the Kurdish revolt will have upon the Mosul boundary commission decisions. It is intimated the Turks staged the risings as a smoke screen to permit the concentration of troops along the Kurd vilayets, which are adjacent to the disputed Mosul zone.

Angora's announcement that eight divisions have been moved there is taken as indicating that the Turks are preparing for military action if the league commission findings prove impossible of acceptance.

HIS SYSTEM WAS ABSOLUTELY CLEARED

So Says Ontario Youth After Taking Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Edward Dupuis suffered from kidney ailments and found relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Auld, Ontario, March 6.—(Special).—"I took one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and it did me so much good that I got a second box and it absolutely cleared my system.

I suffered from rheumatism and back aches. I often had stiffness in my joints and I was always tired and nervous. My head also used to ache. I am never bothered now"

This statement comes from Mr. E. Dupuis of this place.

Mr. Dupuis suffered from three of the various ills that accompany any kidney trouble. That's why he got prompt and permanent relief from Dodd's Kidney Pills. They act directly on the kidneys, strengthening them and enabling them to do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood. Impurities in the blood are the seeds of disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills make good health by removing the seeds of disease. Sound kidneys mean pure blood. Pure blood means good health.

OBITUARY

FUNERAL HELD.

The funeral of the late W. Howard Waram was held yesterday afternoon from the residence of Mrs. R. Waram, Gilmour street, to Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. Mr. Gordon officiating.

The pallbearers were four members of the old Eko Camp Club.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Clayton Waram of Barrie, Miss Waram of Lakefield, Mr. Charles Neilson and others were here for the funeral.

MRS. GEORGE STEVENS.

The death occurred this morning at 5.41, in St. Joseph's Hospital, of Margaret Minerva Ashley, beloved wife of George Stevens, after an illness of two weeks, from blood poisoning. She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, four daughters, two sons and one brother. The daughters are: Mrs. A. R. Reynolds, Chapleau, Ont.; Mrs. R. S. Merrifield, Sarnia; Mrs. J. E. Chapman, Chilliwack, B. C.; Mrs. E. V. McNeely, Peterboro. The sons are George A. Stevens, Pittsburgh, Penn., and Charles A. Stevens, Oshawa, Ont. One brother, Wm. F. Ashley, Belleville, Ont. The funeral will take place from the family residence, 364 Mark Street, on Monday, March 9, at 3 p.m., to Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

KINGSTON APPOINTMENT.

Professor O. D. Skelton Will Probably Succeed to Ministerial Position.

OTTAWA, March 7 (Canadian Press). — Professor O. D. Skelton, formerly of Queen's University, Kingston, will, it is expected, be appointed Under-Secretary for External Affairs at the end of the present month, in succession to Sir Joseph Pope, who is retiring.

Professor Skelton is at present Commissioner of the Department.

NORWOOD LOSES OVERTIME GAME

Campbellford Juniors Score Winning Goal, Breaking 3-Goal Tie.

BEST OF YEAR.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7. — Campbellford Junior O.H.A. team came into their own last night, when they defeated Norwood's smart team in ten minutes' overtime by a score of 4 to 3. The full time score was 3 all. Norwood was just about the fastest team to show their stuff here this season, while the Bear Cats never worked better than they did last night, and the small crowd came away from the rink, saying it was the best game they had witnessed this year.

Norwood have an exceptionally clever goaler, a big heavy defence, and forwards, with lots of speed, good puck carriers, and they play their positions and check back all the time.

It would be hard to pick out a star on either team. Lemyre was good going and coming and scored the winning goal in the last half of the overtime; going around the defence he shot; Bush took it on the pads, and Lemyre fired again, but Bush got in front of the rubber, only to have it roll out in front, and Lemyre shoved it in the other side of the net.

Blue never played better than he did last night. He was all over the ice, and his terrific speed enabled him to overhaul the Norwood puck carrier when he had a big start. "Bill's" effort for the Bear Cats' second goal was the best of the night. He came down the centre, walked around the defence and across in front of the net. When Bush came out to meet him, he pulled the puck around and shoved it into the empty net.

Cowell with his wicked shot was dangerous all the way, and while he only bulged the twine once, he had the Toronto banker in the Norwood nets performing like a jumping jack.

McArthur and Parsons played grand hockey, and were regular hornets at back-checking.

Saunders was very steady in the Bear Cats' net, and while not called upon to save as often as Bush, he was right on the job all night.

Two of Norwood's goals were the result of combination plays that carried them right in on top of him, while King got the other on the rebound of his own shot.

Norwood scored a goal in each period, King, Beckett and Rogers being the marksmen. The Bear Cats were blanked the first period. Blue scored from a scrimmage in the second period, and repeated in the third on his lone effort, while Cowell picked the corner from a side shot. There was no score in the first half of the overtime, and Lemyre made his clever play for the winning counter with two minutes to go. The line-up:

Norwood Intermediates — Goal, Bush; defence, Beckett and Weir; centre, King; wings, Rogers and Baker; sub. Rothwell.

Campbellford Juniors—Goal, Saunders; defence, Lemyre and Flint; centre, McArthur; wings, Cowell and Blue; subs., Parsons and W. Baker.

Referee—B. Reynolds, Campbellford.

COMMUNIST DEPUTY IS ASSASSINATED

Shot as Leaving Club in Heart of Sofia—Assassin Arrested.

ATHENS, March 7. —(United Press).—The communist deputy St. Ejanoff has been assassinated, says a dispatch from Sofia, Bulgaria. The deputy was shot as he was leaving the military club, in the centre of the city.

The assassin was arrested and was reported to have confessed, implicating government adherents as instigators of the plot.

WARNS HOTELMEN.

Must Play the Game or Lose License in British Columbia.

VANCOUVER, March 7.—(Canadian Press).—"The beer regulations were made for the public and not the hotelmen," stated Hugh Davidson, Liquor Commissioner, addressing the annual meeting of the British Columbia Hotelmen's Association here.

"The law will be enforced fairly and fearlessly. Hotelkeepers who do not play the game will lose their licenses promptly and others who will observe the law will be granted the privileges.

"In this way the hotel business will be quickly restored to the pedestal of public esteem from which it never should have fallen."

In explanation of the provision barring sandwiches, soft drinks and tobacco, he said that hotelmen had no greater right than any other property owners to beer licenses, and that it was not fair when they were given this concession that they should enjoy others.

MORE ACTIVITY IN STEEL MILLS

Bright Spot in Toronto Trade Report — More Wheat Money in Winnipeg.

OUTLOOK BETTER.

WINNIPEG, March 7. — The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association Limited reads:

Halifax: Wholesale trade slightly improved. Retailers report business good for the season of the year.

St. John: Wholesale trade reported normal for this time of the year. Retail trade slow. Collections fair.

Montreal: Wholesale trade in seasonable lines showing a slight improvement and retail trade generally up to expectations. Collections slow to fair.

Toronto: Retail business is standing up fairly well. In sections, however, inclined to sales at special prices. Jewellry trade quiet. Industry steel and iron mills more active. Several mills have reopened some other trades quiet. Collections generally fairly good.

Winnipeg: Wholesale trade is reasonably active with substantial improvement in some lines although situation as a whole has not yet fully developed. Release on interim dividend by wheat pools of three western provinces is expected to materially improve collections and should stimulate business generally with country retailers and in town react favorably on all lines of trade.

Regina: Local wholesale and retail trade conditions are up to expectations for this time of the year. Collections slow to fair.

Saskatoon: No marked improvement has been noted in wholesale and retail lines since last report. Collections: Improvement expected with the receipt of money from the wheat pool.

Calgary: Business generally during the last week has been somewhat disappointing. However, this is regarded as only a temporary situation Current collections are fair with past due accounts slow.

Edmonton: Wholesale trade conditions very good. Collections a little slow, evidently held up pending distribution of wheat pool.

Vancouver: All lines both wholesale and retail report a slight improvement noted. Collections fair to good.

GOOD NEWS FOR RHEUMATIC PEOPLE

Now Known That This Trouble Must be Treated Through the Blood.

The most a rheumatic sufferer can hope for in rubbing something on the tender, aching joint is a little relief. No lotion or liniment ever did or ever can do more than this. The rheumatic poison is rooted in the blood. To get rid of it you must treat it through the blood. Any doctor will tell you that this is true. If you want something that will go right to the root of the trouble in the blood, take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The whole mission of this medicine is to purify and enrich the bood, and when they do this all blood troubles, including rheumatism, disappear. Among those who have proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. Annie Wright, Woolchester, Alta., who says: "I was a suferer from rheumatism for six years, and during most of that time my life was one of misery. I tried several doctors, and many remedies recommended, but never got more than temporary relief. The trouble seemed to affect my whole system and I was badly rundown and suffered from headaches as well. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and through these I found complete relief and today I feel like a new person. I can therefore strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to anyone suffering as I did from this trouble."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

READJUST PENSIONS.

Of Mounted Police and Their Dependents.

OTTAWA, March 7.—(Canadian Press).—A resolution favoring an amendment to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act, providing that pensions to officers, their widows, and constables, granted prior to July 7th, 1919, be re-adjusted in accordance with the recent rates of pay was passed in the House of Commons Friday without opposition. The resolution states that "no such readjustment shall authorize the increase of any payments for pensions that accrued before the passing of the proposed legislation."

NEW CUNARDERS.

Trans-Atlantic Travel Requires Use of Three New Liners.

LIVERPOOL, March, 7 (Associated Press)—The Cunard Company will commission three new liners during the coming spring and summer, the Carinthia, Alaunia and Ascania. The Carinthia, 20,000 tons will carry first, second and third class passengers and is intended for the Liverpool-NewYork service, with her first sailing in August.

The Alaunia and Ascania, each of 14,000 tons register carrying cabin and third class passengers, will enter the company's Canadian service.

RAILWAY STRIKE TIES UP FREIGHT

Berlin Stations Affected — Negotations For Higher Wage Re-open.

BERLIN, March 7. — (Canadian Press). — The railwaymen's strike spread this morning to the freight handlers in the three principal freight stations of Berlin.

Only about one-fourth of the workers reported for duty, and freight consequently was badly tied up. The next group likely to join in the strike movement are the maintenance of way men. Union officials are resuming their negotiations today with the railway administration.

The men are demanding a higher wage.

Freygovel, manufacturers' agent, with offices at 26 ictoria Square, who was arrested in Toronto on Tuesday, charged with importing illegally and smuggling drugs into Canada, appeared before Judge Enright yesterday and wa sremanded without bail until preliminary investigation, fixed for March 13.

The charge on which Freyvogel is being detained is that of importing, with a shipment of drygoods, consigned to a local firm, narcotic drugs valued at $5,000.

ARRESTED FOR ARSON.

Alleged Attempt to Set Montreal Store on Fire Frustrated.

MONTREAL, March 7.—George F. Perkins of the Perkins Electric Company 347 Bleury Street was placed under arrest Friday charged with having tried to set fire to premises belonging to him at 115 St. Catherine Street East on January 15 1924. The warrant was signed by Fire Commissioner Emmett Quinn. According to detectives engaged on the case the alleged attempt was frustrated insurance policies on the stock were cancelled and the place finally vacated.

A second complaint charges Mr. Perkins who is a well known business man with having "had someone unknown set fire to the warehouse at 150 St. George Street" on August 14 1924.

This warehouse contained a quantity of goods belonging to Mr. Perkins' Electric Company, which were insured for $25,000.

The accused appeared before the Fire Commissioner and was released on $5,000 bail. Preliminary hearing was fixed for March 24.

THE RUMOUR FACTORY.

For the past two or three days Peterboro has been seething with two sensational stories of the type that cause natural wonder as to the imagination of the individuals who invented them and the credulity of the people who keep them in circulation.

One of these stories dealt with the terrible fate of a young school teacher who had contracted leprosy; the other with the rumoured arrest of a number of Peterboro and Stratford hockey players, presumably because their teams had been beaten by Niagara Falls.

The two yarns were on a par as regards truth—for there was not the slightest foundation, except the imagination of Morons, for either rumour.

There is no leprosy in Peterboro, and the whole story, which had been growing in detail as it spread, was nothing but a fabrication.

Nor were any hockey players arrested either in Stratford or Peterboro, or anywhere else.

Peterboro seems to be the habitat of a couple of individuals with a most dangerous imagination—for it is beyond the bounds of coincidence that the two yarns eventuated from the one source—and of a whole lot of people who refuse to use the grey matter beneath their hats when confronted with gossip, that on the face of it is nonsensical.

If any sensational events of this nature ever do happen in Peterboro the newspapers everywhere will have the story; and until they see it in print people should be exceedingly careful about spreading rumours for which they have no proof and the origin of which is unknown to them.

THE BUDGET.

Three features are outstanding in the budget speech of Hon. W. H. Price, the Provincial Treasurer, —first, the announcement of the imposition of two new taxes; second, the admission that in spite of these taxes there will be a deficit of $3,000,000 in the year's operation, and third, the mass of information with which Mr. Price supplied the House.

In the latter connection it is stated that not in years has such a careful and detailed statement of Provincial finances been contained in a budget speech.

Mr. Price has taken the right course in giving the people of Ontario every available fact in regard to the financial condition of the Province.

The budget will fall short of balancing by $3,000,000 this year, the expenditures being estimated at $49,000,000 and the revenue at $46,000,000, but the Provincial Treasurer offers a ray of hope by declaring that it may be possible for the Province to get on an even footing next year, although as the increase in fixed charge over last year is a million and one-half dollars, it is evident that rigid retrenchment will be necessary.

As for the two new taxes, the 3-cent levy on gasoline had previously been announced, but the beverage tax, which is interpreted as a beer tax, although Mr. Price gave no information as to whether or not it would be confined to the new brew, was a surprise.

Anyway, the Provincial Treasurer expects to get $2,200,000 from this beverage impost, while the gasoline tax is counted upon to contribute $2,300,000 for the balance of the year, $3,000,000 counted on in a year's operation.

The deficit last year was $8,325,645, so that a reduction to $3,000,000 for 1925 is an improvement that will be appreciated, as it indicates that a balanced budget is possible in the near future with careful financing.

An innovation that will be appreciated by the newspapers is the sending to each editor in the Province of a copy of the public accounts, a courtesy on the part of the Provincial Treasurer that will be very helpful to the Ontario journals.

COOLIDGE AND ECONOMY.

President Coolidge seems to have the happy faculty of being able to give voice to what the majority of people are thinking, and this knack was never more clearly demonstrated than in his inaugural address, especially in that portion of it that stressed the need of economy.

The President, of course, was talking of conditions and problems in his own country, but surely every word of the following can be applied to Canada:

"When we turn from what was rejected to inquire what was accepted, the policy that stands out with the greatest clearness is that of economy in public expenditure with reduction and reform of taxation. The principle involved in this effort is that of conservation. The resources of this country are almost beyond computation. No mind can comprehend them. But the cost of our combined governments is likewise almost beyond definition. Not only those who are now making their tax returns, but those who meet the enhanced cost of existence in their monthly bills, know by hard experience what this great burden is and what it does. No matter what others may want, these people want a drastic economy. They are opposed to waste. They know that extravagance lengthens the hours and diminishes the rewards of their labor. I favor the policy of economy not because I wish to save money but because I wish to save people. The men and women of this country who toil are the ones who bear the cost of the government. Every dollar that we carelessly waste means that their life will be so much the more meagre. Every dollar that we prudently save means that their life will be so much the more abundant. Economy is idealism in its most practical form.

"If extravagance were not reflected in taxation, and through taxation both directly and indirectly injuriously affecting the people, it would not be of so much consequence. The wisest and soundest method of solving our tax problem is through economy."

If the Canadian people could be sure that their legislators, municipal, Provincial and Federal, visualized the need of the hour as clearly as it is set forth in the above words of the President of the neighboring Republic, they would have reason to hope for some measure of tax relief in the near future.

MR. WILLIAM PUGSLEY.

A great lawyer, a colorful politician, a brilliant parliamentarian, a charming, engaging personality—such was William Pugsley, dead in Toronto. Mr. Pugsley was one of the few men who come to Ottawa from Provincial politics and sustain the reputation which precede them. In the hectic days between 1907 and 1917, indeed, he was perhaps the most arresting figure among those who rallied around Laurier. Fielding was more acute, Lemieux more eloquent, Sifton more hard-hitting, Fitzpatrick more crafty, but for sheer versatility of capacity, for fertility of resource, for subtlety in execution, Pugsley stood out like a mountain.

When Pugsley was under fire, which was often, the corridors were always empty. One can see him now sitting there, calm, unperturbed, smiling; competent in any situation; turning away wrath with good humor; courteous to most provocative of opponents; but with iron hand beneath the velvet glove. A duel between Sir Robert Borden and Mr. Pugsley was a vivid contrast in temperaments. On the one side was the Saxon mind, direct and crashing, a bluff, frontal fighter wielding a battle-axe with formidable effect. On the other side a subtle, agile mind, a master of the foils, dancing away from his lunging opponent, and using a rapier with skill.

Between 1911 and 1914 Pugsley was at the summit of his fame. The Reciprocity debacle had yet left Sir Wilfrid with a brilliant band of lieutenants. Mr. Lemieux was putting into his speeches a flaming eloquence fanned by deep attachment to Laurier. Frank Oliver, grizzled fighter, revelled in bitter attack. F. B. Carvell—"Fighting Frank"—harassed with studied insolence. Michael Clark, one of the greatest debaters that Parliament has seen, spoke with the passion of a crusader. And Murphy, Macdonald, Guthrie, Bureau, and others, made up a corps of hard-bitten shock troops that rarely faltered in action.

But Pugsley was the greatest Roman of them all. He was not, strictly speaking, a great debater. His speeches lacked passion, denied adventure, and rarely persuaded. But he was a master of tactics, a strategist whose capacity for obstructing a Ministry would have warmed the heart of Parnell. His skill was most strikingly exhibited in the famous naval debates of 1912-13. It is almost impossible now to realize the bitterness and the passion of those stirring days. It is almost impossible to imagine the members of the present Parliament leaping upon their seats in frenzied applause; or trying to drown out each others voices with "O Canada" and "Rule Britannia;" or keeping Parliament in session for 110 hours continuously; or hurling challenges and insulting epithets across the floor of the House. Yet all of these things, and more, happened in the hectic session of 1912; and through it all William Pugsley was a central figure. He was the rock upon which successive attacks broke, and receded; the mainstay of the greatest fight that Parliament has seen since Confederation. Time and again, Conservative strategy and numbers seemed to have carried the day, but always Pugsley stood in the breach, unruffled, unbreakable, to deny victory. On one occasion alone, when the battle raged hottest, he remained in or near his seat for 7 hours at a stretch. Prince Charlie never received more devotion than was his from Liberals in those days.

Bitterness never entered his heart. To the most vindictive of opponents, to newspaper men from journals that denounced him, he was the soul of courtesy and kindness, a philosophical, detached, considerate gentleman who knew not rancor nor insolence.

One may question his conception of politics. One may challenge the quality of his statesmanship. But when censure has said it last word, much of good will still be remembered. He may not have promoted any great cause, nor changed much the course of our history. But he was a salient, a memorable figure, nevertheless; and even those who fought him without quarter must experience a pang at his passing.—Ottawa Journal.

A GRAVE DANGER.

Dr. Raymond D. Morand, prominent Border Cities physician, does well to sound a note of warning against a grave danger that confronts Sanada—the rapid increase in the population of urban centres at the expense of the rural districts, says the Border Cities Star. Too many young men are leaving the freedom of the country for the workshops of the city and the result is not good for Canada.

That the condition referred to by Dr. Morand exists, no one can deny. That it is bad, that it is unfortunate, that it is opposed to the best interests of the country and of the people individually must be admitted. But how are we going to change the condition? How are we going to keep farmers' sons on the farm? Dr. Morand suggests that more vocational education, more specialization of labor and greater attention to practical training are needed. He believes that farmers should avail themselves of the advantages of the Ontario Agricultural College to a greater extent.

Any city man who thinks that the farmer basks in a bed of roses is under a serious delusion. The farmer has his ups and downs, his good years and his bad years, his problems, his disappointments, and lots of hard work! At the same time he does enjoy advantages that do not belong to most of his brothers in the town. He is his own "boss," his time is his own to do as he sees fit, his life is active and healthy. And in this day and age farming is, or should be, much more attractive than it was a few years ago. Hydro, natural gas, the invention of a thousand and one new labor-saving machines, paved highways, rural mail delivery, the motor car and the telephone have brought the city's advantages to the farmer's door, without bringing him the city's drawbacks.

Agriculture has been, is and no doubt will be for many years to come, the basic industry of this country. Nothing must be left undone, no reasonable expense spared, to maintain its present position and to build it up and increase it. Upon the prosperity of rural Canada, depends the prosperity of urban Canada, and rural Canada cannot prosper if the drain of her young men continues at the present rate. Keeping youth on the farm is one of the most important tasks this country faces.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Evidentally alcohol and gasoline are going to mix in the tax bills at least.

Toronto has saved three-twentieths of a mill in taxation by skimping on the appropriations for parks and libraries. Is the saving worth while at that price?

Spring poetry: The sap is flowing in the trees, there is a weakness in our knees, we've shed our heavy beeveedeeze.

Oh, what is so rare as a day in June? Our guess is a player piano in tune.

An Alabama dude is a man who cuts a chew of tobacco with his knife instead of biting it off.

In Mississippi, a lazy man is one who hasn't energy enough to make his boys go to work.

"You never can tell when a woman's going to change her mind." That's a new song. We can. "Always."

And if you don't know why one changes her mind it's because "because."

We kicked the moth out of our bathing suit last night. He had eaten a hole big enough to make six doughnuts.

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of nothing.

Sometimes a reckless spender starts out and ends on the rocks and sometimes he ends on the rock pile.

The first sign of spring is a bathing girl on a magazine cover.

About 20,000 new laws will be before state legislatures this year, there being no law against introducing them.

A THOUGHT.

THE ROTARY SPIRIT.

A little kindness every day
While we're at work or at our play.
A little smile, a little song,
A word of cheer when things go wrong,
To help a brother on his way;
It's such a little thing to do:
Yet means so much to me and you;
Let's not forget that little smile
That little kindness all the while,
Which gives us joy and courage too;
A little kindness; 'twas the plan
To help us all since time began;
The only heaven that we can know
Along life's pathway, as we go,
Is love bestowed by man to man.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 6. — Union Stock Yard cattle figures for the week show that the run was 1,400 heavier than that of last week, and that the market advanced a full quarter a hundred under the increased offering. So far the market has revealed no Lenten dullness. Exporters and butcher cattle buyers were active and there were also a few out-of-town inquiries for killing stock.

Receipts for the week amounted to 7,600 cattle, 1,720 calves, 8,900 hogs, and 637 sheep and lambs, included in this number 329 cattle and 866 were billed through. Receipts last week were 5,847 cattle, 889 calves, 6,038 hogs, and 458 sheep and lambs.

Two loads of heavy steers went for a top of $8.60 a hundred, while the majority sold between $7.50 and $8.50. Exporters and packers were in the market for choice heavyweights and paid up to $8 for a few lots. Good to choice heavyweights went mostly from $6.50 to $7.50 a hundred, with some fair cattle downward of $6.

Export 1,275 Cattle.

Export shipments amounted to 1,275 catle, of which 247 were billed for Antwerp. Bulls sold a quarter higher at $4.50 to $5.50 for the best, with a couple of hundred being taken for overseas. Good heifers averaged from $6.50 to $7.50 a hundred. Another source of strength was cows, which ranged from $4.50 to $5.50 for best butchers with exporters paying as high as $6 for a few fat animals.

The offering in store cattle was very meagre, and if more had been at hand the whole supply could have readily been sold. Farmers paid up to $7 a hundred for short-keep feeders, with a fair to good western stockers and feeders at $5 to $6.50 a hundred. The milker and springer trade constituted the only dull section of the market. Cows were hard to move at $70 to $90 for the best, and some were still waiting for buyers at the close.

Buffalo buyers remained operating for the heavier calf run, which was absorbed at firm prices. Odd tops made $13.75 to $14 a hundred, with the bulk of good to choice vealers at $11 to $13.50. Light calves sold downward to $7 a hundred.

Hogs Close Uncertainly.

As road conditions in the country were better during the week, farmers were able to get some delayed hogs to market. The run was over 2,500 greater than that of last week, but the market advanced a quarter on Monday, reaching $12.75 off car for thick smooths and $13.98 for selects. Trading closed uncertainly, with buyers bidding $12.50, but with salesman expecting to receive $12.75. Yesterday outsiders paid this figure for some animals off car, but in the main packers held out for the quarter reduction. The result was a temporary deadlock with no early settlements being made.

In the lamb division the run was small and of scattered variety. Good lambs of the right weights brought $15.50 to $16.50, with mediums and heavies from $13 to $15 a hundred. A few good lightweight sheep stood firm at $8 to $9 a hundred, with heavies making $5 to $8.

This Company Offers You Life Insurance at Cost

DO you understand the difference between a Mutual Life insurance company and the ordinary insurance company?

The Mutual Company is organized to give insurance to its policyholders at the cost of carrying on the business. The only members of the company are the policyholders. They lend each other mutual financial support, and no charge is made for this mutual service except to cover actual cost of operation.

The Mutual Life of Canada grew up in this country from a sound if modest foundation of 500 members fifty-five years ago. Today it is one of the strong, stable institutions of Canada, with assurances amounting to more than $295,000,000. The Mutual Life of Canada is the only strictly Canadian Company in Canada offering life insurance at cost.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK

WINNIPEG, March 6. — Receipts 385 cattle and calves; 1200 hogs; 9 sheep.

Good demand prevailed on the cattle market this morning, prices on most classes ruling well in line with yesterday's closing figures.

The hog market continued on the upward trend, thick smooths selling from $11.50 to $11.75.

No prices were established on the sheep and lamb market.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, March 6. — Receipts are reported to be much heavier the tone of the market is easier. The supply at Alberta points is reported to be sufficient to meet the consumptive demand. Reports from the Maritime Provinces also point to much heavier receipts.

Toronto jobbing specials 42, extras 40, firsts 37, seconds 34.

Montreal dealers paying delivered extras 35 to 36, firsts 30 to 32, United States fresh firsts jobbing 35, seconds 33.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, March 6.—Extreme dullness marked the export trade in Canadian grain here to-day, the only business being reported was an odd lot of barley and oats for March shipment. Prices for oats were reduced another cent per bushel with Ontario No. 3 grade being quoted at 63 cents, and No. 4 grade at 61 cents per bushel, ex-store.

Owing to the weakness in the Canadian cash wheat situation at Winnipeg, the local flour market for spring wheat grades was again weak and prices were reduced another 30 cents per bushel, which makes a net reduction of 60 cents per bushel for the present month to date. Winter wheat flour was also reduced ten cents per barrel.

The weakness that developed in the local egg situation on Thursday was more pronounced to-day and local wholesale jobbers reduced prices a further two cents per dozen. This was attributed to increased offering of Canadian stock and the liberal supplies of American eggs coming forward. An easier feeling developed in buttter and prices were a shade lower. The trade in cheese was inactive and prices were unchanged with fodder made No. 1 white and colored goods quoted at 20 -4 to 20 1-2 and No. 2 grade at 18 1-4 to 19 1-2 cents per pound.

Beans were quoted at $2.70 per bushel.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 6. — Enormous selling of wheat to-day smashed prices down 12 3-8 cents a bushel. Unlooked for big shipments reported to have been made from Argentina, Australia and India started the break in values and before the day was ended the market here was in a semi-panic condition. The closing was wild, 4 to 11 5-8 cents net lower, May 1.80 3-4 to 1.81 1-4, and July 1.62 1-4 to 1.62 3-4 with corn 1-2 to 2 1-4 cents down, and oats 7-8 to 1 3-8 cents off. In Provisions, there was 10 to 65c advance.

Failure of export demand to enlarge in this country even after the decline in prices here had become drastic, gave the final jolt to the wheat market just before the close. The absence of new export business appeared to convince many traders that likelihood of any acute world shortage of wheat this season had greatly lessened and that theories of scarcity no longer looked good. Whether the leading domestic holders of wheat had joined in the selling stampede was a much debated point after the market had closed but the fact that one of the houses most conspicuous in to-day's selling has heretofore represented these holders was taken in many quarters as evidence of the affirmative.

ARE YOU COMMITTING THIS CRIME AGAINST YOUR HEALTH?

An enormous number of people are weak, nervous and ailing, always complaining and doctoring, simply because they have committed the great American crime against their health—because while indoor life, overwork and improper diet have exhausted the iron from their blood, making it thin, pale and watery, they have made no effort to replace this iron which the blood must have to keep them well and strong.

You can easily determine, whether you have been committing this health crime. You can get more iron by eating plenty of spinach, lentils and green vegetables. But doctors always advise people who are anaemic, weak, nervous and run-down to take iron in concentrated form—organic iron. Nuxated Iron is organic iron like the iron in your own blood and like that in spinach and green vegetables. It is entirely different from the mineral iron used in the past, for it is readily assimilated and so acts much more quickly and surely. Besides, it doesn't injure the teeth or disturb the stomach. Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be equal to eating half a quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen baked apples. Millions of people have used it to quickly help make rich red blood, and give increased strength, energy and endurance.

Make this convincing test:—Get Nuxated Iron today and take it for only two weeks. You will notice a marvelous improvement in health and strength, or your money will be refunded. Sold under this absolute guarantee by all good druggists.

I.O.D.E. AIMS AND WORK

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7.—The following is the paper (in part) given by Mrs. Scott, at the meeting of Campbellford Chapter, which was much enjoyed by all the ladies present. The most evident difference between the I.O.D.E. of war time and the same organization in peace times, is a matter of objective. During the war it was practically made for us, but in peace time we may allow ourselves more latitude in our choice of objectives. It would seem though that each I.O.D.E. should regard itself as a nucleus of "better citizenship" in its own community—for as a chain is weakened to that same degree by its weakest link, so each person in a community with no definite standard as a citizen, weakens our community average of citizenship by that much.

Each one of our Order may be quite satisfied that her standards and ideals are satisfactory, but are we also endeavoring to educate and help some one else, who has not the same standard?

On all sides we hear discussions of Canada's needs at the present time and her very precarious financial position. Some would adjust all these difficulties with tariff reforms, immigration policies, or pulpwood embargo, and other local and drastic remedies, but there is a suspicion that national prosperity, like morals, can not be entirely legislated.

Mr. R. T. Calder, Montreal's former Crown prosecutor, in a recent address before the men Canadian Club of that city, designates individual thrift, with special emphasis on the individual, as the keynote to the entire scheme of general prosperity, so ardently desired by us all.

Here again we are foced into terms of community averages, and certainly women have a large share of that responsibility in their own hands.

Some places have begun by inaugurating thrift campaigns among the children—offering suitable prizes on essays on thrift, or children's gardens cared for entirely by themselves—taking great care to emphasize the fact that true thrift is never stinginess, any more than generosity is necessarily extravagance.

Environment is another factor of great importance and a beginning of a "Beautifying Campaign" might be made by starting a Clean-Up Week at this particular season of the year. Here again the children provide excellent material to start on, by teaching them to think several times before they scatter papers, fruit peels and other rubbish in the streets.

We might also care to regard ourselves as responsible for the oversight of cases of individual or family distress, such as that caused by a fire last week, when a family was rendered destitute and homeless. A few hours spent in providing and making new outfits of clothing for them might make all the difference between discouragements and fresh hope, and it is a well recognised fact that the discouraged individual is never the best citizen.

This very interesting arrangement of the three letters N.O.W. appeared recently. Now is one of the most important words in the English language, and by a re-arrangement of letters may mean that now by our own efforts we have won something of real value to ourselves and the community. Naturally, in the effort to develop a real community spirit, we should encounter difficulties which would be good for us. Sliding down hill is a very exhilarating sport to be sure, but the muscular development essential to a healthy life is acquired in the less swift climb up the hill.

War Memorial.

Mrs. Haig, the secretary, was asked to read the following facts about the I.O.D.E. War Memorial.

The war memorial of the whole Order undertaken by the National Chapter in June, 1919, and approved at each annual meeting since then. It is the responsibility and the privilege of each Primary Chapter, whether formed before or after 1919, to help to complete the fund. Purpose—The memorial of the Order as a whole throughout Canada to the men and women who gave their lives in the Great War. Amount aimed at, $500,000. Amount contributed, plus accumulated interest, is less than $400,000.

Amount yet needed, more than $100,000. In 1924 the National Chapter endorsed the suggestion of the president of the Manitoba Provincial Chapter, that an energetic and earnest effort should be made to complete the fund this year, if possible, before the treasurer's books close in April.

(a) Bursaries for children of killed or totally disabled soldiers. Purpose—To show our gratitude to the men who gave their lives for the Empire by helping to give their children the education which they would have given them. Money for these bursaries—A sufficient sum was set aside to provide one bursary in each Province each year till 1938, after that time practically all eligible children will be past college age. Of this sum both principal and interest are being used. The bursary is worth $300. a year for four years, and may be held at any Canadian University or the Royal Military College.

Almost all Canadian universities allow $25 a year or more in fees to our bursary-holders, make it worth $325 a year, while not covering the expenses of a student away from home, this bursary makes a college course possible, where otherwise it would be impossible. Number of bursary-holders—Since 1920, forty-three sons and daughters of killed or totally disabled soldiers have held these bursaries or are now holding them. Nine have graduated. Awarding the bursaries—In each province memoranda stating the conditions are sent to schools preparing for matriculation. Applications must be sent in by April to the Provincial Educational Secretary, who can give anyone further information. In awarding the bursary the committee considers the applicant's school work, character, general abilities and interests and the circumstances of the family.

(B) Overseas post-graduate scholarships—Purpose—To bring Canadians into closer touch with Britain and the rest of the Empire by sending picked men and women, graduates of Canadian universities, to Britain for former study which they would otherwise probably have to take in the United States, running the risk of acquiring there an American point of view and of remaining in the States instead of returning to Canada.

Money for these scholarships — This scholarship is worth $1,400, to be held for one year. Only the interest of this part of the fund is being used, so that this part of the War Memorial will be lasting, a link with the Mother Country for years and years to come. When the fund is complete, it will be possible for a scholarship to be awarded each in the province. At present one can be awarded only every alternate year, i.e., four Canadians are sent to Britain one year and five the next.

Number of scholarships—Since 1921, eighteen Canadian men and women, two from each province, have studied at a British university for one year. There they have come into contact with students from all parts of the Empire.

Awarding the scholarships — In each province memoranda are sent to the universities, and chapters are urged to let eligible men and women know about these scholarships. Applications must be sent in in October to the Provincial Educational Secretary, who can give further information. Returned men or members of their families are given the preference.

(C) Pictures—Purpose—To show Canadian children, by means of pictures hung in the schools, something of the service given by Canadians in the Great War. These pictures, for the most part, reproductions of pictures painted for the Canadian Government, and beautifully colored, represent all kinds of service.

Money for these pictures—A sum of forty thousand dollars was set aside to buy one thousand sets of eighteen pictures each. These sets were bought and divided among the provinces to be distributed among the schools. Each Provincial Chapter is looking after the framing and distribution of its own allotment of pictures. In this way the War Memorial is threefold, showing Canadian children in years to come what the war meant, helping to educate boys and girls whose fathers gave their lives in the war, and carrying on the Imperial ideals for which these men died, by sending chosen Canadian men and women for further training in Britain.

Administration of the fund—The War Memorial Fund is invested for the Order by the Royal Trust Company. At the annual meeting of the National Chapter, the national treasurer's statement, placed in the hands of each member, shows the payments in the various divisions of the fund. Each payment from the fund is authorized by resolution of the National Chapter, usually on the recommendation of the War Memorial Committee, on which each province is represented. A certain sum has been set aside, the interest of which is used to cover the expenses of administering the War Memorial Fund. Rigid economy is exercised, and each year any interest not used is transferred to the main fund.

ANOTHER CAVE HERO TO TRY STAGE CAREER

CINCINNATI, O., March 7.—Another hero of Sand Cave is going on the stage.

Next Thursday, at Hamilton, O., Ed. Brenner, first man to reach Floyd Collins in his underground tomb, will become a vaudeville actor.

Before Brenner, the cave victim's father and brother announced they would capitalize on their experiences through the theatre.

Brenner will appear in the same clothes he wore when he entered the crawlway and hung his head down to reach the prisoner. His act will be a six-minute talk about the cave tragedy.

MUCH HAIR-DYEING

London Women All Want White or Grey Hair Now.

LONDON, March 7. (Associated Press)—A leading West End Hairdresser has said recently that hair dyeing is now one of the most lucrative parts of his trade. Many women are asking for their hair to be dyed white because of the distinguished effect snow-white hair gives the owner. Others are seeking a steely-grey color while others want the "pepper and salt effect" created when hair begins to be streaked with grey.

Red and copper tints are going out of fashion and possession of this class of dyed hair are most anxious to undergo the new process.

He fortells things so accurately, or has, that even Government officials listen with attention. The famed mystic avers the troubles of 1924 with the United States will fade and better times are ahead.

FARMERS' CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Oysters and Speeches Make Pleasant Evening For the Springbrook Branch.

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, March 7—The U.F.O. Club of Springbrook held an oyster supper in the Oddfellows' Hall on Tuesday evening, March 3rd, followed by a programme in the Orange Hall. Music was provided by Mr. Baker and the Misses Heath and Mason

The speakers were Rev. D. R. Clare and Mr. Curry, of Middlesex, a member of the U.F.O. executive.

Young People Met.

The Young People's League meeting was in charge of the Christian Endeavour Department. Miss Effie Knox took charge of the proceedings. Miss L. Conner gave a reading, "Room in Heaven." Mr. Cotterell gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "Christian Generosity." He said that strictly speaking there were five gospels, not four. The fifth is St. Paul's, referred to by himself at least four times. In it he gave a reminder of a remark of Jesus, not elsewhere recorded. "It is more blessed to give than to receive" Continuing the speaker urged that Christian generosity should not be displayed for the purpose of self-advertisement or for what a person can get out of it, but from the unselfish desire to help others. It does not refer alone to financial aid, but to the giving of our talents and ourselves to others. The spirit of devotion to the higher interests of mankind as portrayed in the self-sacrificing life of our Lord, needs awakening in us. The streams of self-sacrifice flowing so freely in the years of the war for the Empire's cause have since stemmed. The prediction that they would continue to flow for the Christian cause has not been fulfilled. God grant, he exclaimed, that revival of self-sacrificial action in the work of the church, whereby all activities will receive the support so much needed.

Ladies' Aid Met.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Conner. Reports were received from the treasurer concerning the St. Valentine's social. It was decided to have a sale of home-made cooking on March 14. After discussion of several items of business a dainty lunch was served by the hostess. Those present were: Mrs. D E. Bell, Mrs. (Dr.) Thompson, Mrs. Sanderson, Mrs. Donnelly, Mrs. Wightman, Mrs. Clare, Mrs. Egan, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Dale, Mrs. R. O. Jones, Miss E. Knox, Mrs. Linn, Mrs. C. A WOUND IS AN OPEN DOOR

Absorbine Jr. enables you to shut the door quickly.

The skin is Nature's own protection against germs. When it is bruised, broken or cut, that protection is withdrawn. The door is open. As quickly as possible Nature closes it by forming what we call a scab and renders you comparatively safe against infection. But this scab sometimes takes days to form and until it has fully sealed the wound, even until the wound has thoroughly healed again you must furnish the required protection yourself.

A few drops of Absorbine Jr. in the water will give you an antiseptic wash that will kill all possibility of infection and help nature to heal the wound. As well as being a very powerful germicide, Absorbine Jr. will draw out the inflammation and bring instant relief.

Absorbine Jr. is antiseptic, germicide and liniment in one container—handy to keep always in the house; easy to carry around if you travel.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

by James Oliver Curwood

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

CHAPTER I.

To Baree, for many days after he was born, the world was a vast gloomy cavern.

During these first days of his life his home was in the heart of great windfall where Gray Wolf, his blind mother, had found a safe nest for his babyhood, and to which Kazan, her mate, came only now and then, his eyes gleaming like strange balls of greenish fire in the darkness.

Baree, of course, would never know their story. He would never know that Gray Wolf, his mother, was a full-blooded wolf, and that Kazan, his father, was a dog. In him, nature was already beginning its wonderful work, but it would never go beyond certain limitations. It would tell him, in time, that his beautiful wolf-mother was blind, but he would never know of that terrible battle between Gray Wolf and the lynx in which his mother's sight had been destroyed. Nature could tell him nothing of Kazan's merciless vengeance, of the wonderful years of their matehood, of their loyalty, their strange adventures in the great Canadian wilderness—it could make him only a son of Kazan.

And then came that wonderful day when the greenish balls of fire that were Kazan's eyes came nearer and nearer, a little at a time, and very cautiously. Heretofore, Gray Wolf had warned him back. To be alone was the first law of her wild breed during mothering-time. A low snarl from her throat, and Kazan had always stopped. But on this day the snarl did not come. In Gray Wolf's throat it died away in a low, whimpering sound. A note of loneliness, of gladness, of a great yearning. "It is all right now," she was saying to Kazan; and Kazan—pausing for a moment to make sure—replied with an answering note deep in his throat.

"He would have slunk back into the friendly gloom of the windfall, but at this moment Gray Wolf came around the end of a great log, followed by Kazan."

Still slowly, as if not quite sure of what he would find, Kazan came to them, and Baree snuggled closer to his mother. He heard Kazan as he dropped down heavily on his belly close to Gray Wolf. He was unafraid—and mightily curious. And Kazan, too, was curious. He sniffed. In the gloom his ears were alert. After a little Baree began to move. An inch at a time he dragged himself away from Gray Wolf's side. Every muscle in her little body tensed. Again her wolf blood was warning her. There was danger for Baree. Her lips drew back, baring her fangs. Her throat trembled, but the note in it never came. Out of the darkness two yards away came a soft, puppyish whine, and the caressing sound of Kazan's tongue.

Baree had felt the thrill of his first great adventure. He had discovered his father.

This all happened in the third week of Baree's life. He was just eighteen days old when Gray Wolf allowed Kazan to make the acquaintance of his son. If it had not been for Gray Wolf's blindness and the memory of that day on the Sun Rock when the lynx had destroyed her eyes, she would have given birth to Baree in the open, and his legs would have been quite strong. He would have known the sun and the moon and the stars; he would have realized what the thunder meant, and would have seen the lightning flashing in the sky. But as it was, there had been nothing for him to do in that black cavern under the windfall but stumble about a little in the darkness, and lick with his tiny red tongue the raw bones that were strewn about them.

The sun was straight above the forest when, an hour or two after Kazan's visit, Gray Wolf slipped away. Between Baree's nest and the top of the windfall were forty feet of jammed and broken timber, through which not a ray of light could break. This blackness did not frighten him, for he has yet to learn the meaning of light. Day, and not night, was to fill him with his first great terror. So, quite fearlessly, with a yelp for his mother to wait for him, he began to follow. If Gray Wolf heard him, she paid no attention to his call, and the scrape of her claws on the dead timber died swiftly away.

This time Baree did not stop at the eight-inch log which had always shut him in his world in that particular direction. He clambered to the top of it and rolled over on the other side. Beyond this was vast adventure, and he plunged into it courageously.

It took him a long time to make the first twenty yards. Then he came to a log worn smooth by the feet of Gray Wolf and Kazan, and stopping every few feet to send out a whimpering call for his mother, he made his way farther and farther along it. As he went, there grew slowly a curious change in this world of his. He has known nothing but blackness. And now this blackness seemed breaking itself up into strange shapes and shadows. Once he caught the flash of a fiery streak above him—a gleam of sunshine—and it startled him so that he flattened himself down upon the log and did not move for half a minute. Then he went on. An ermine squeaked under him. He heard the swift rustling of a squirrel's feet, and a curious whut-whut-whut that was not at all like any sound his mother had ever made. He was off the trail.

A new terror held Baree rooted there In an instant the whole world had changed. It was a flood of sunlight. Everywhere he looked he could see strange things. But it was the sun that frightened him most. It was his first impression of fire, and it made his eyes smart. He would have slunk back into the friendly gloom of the windfall, but at that moment Gray Wolf came around the end of great log, followed by Kazan. She muzzled Bare joyously, and Kazan in a most doglike fashion wagged his tail. This mark of the dog was to be a part of Baree. Half wolf, he would always wag his tail. He tried to wag it now. Perhaps Kazan saw the effort, for he emitted a muffled yelp of approbation as he sat back on his haunches.

For Baree it had been a great day. He had discovered his father—and the world.

CHAPTER II.

And it was a wonderful world—a world of vast silence, empty of everything but the creatures of the wild. The nearest Hudson's Bay post was a hundred miles away, and the first town of civilization was a straight three hundred to the south. Two years before, Tusoo, the Cree trapper, had called this his domain. It had come down to him, as was the law of the forests, through generations of forefathers; but Tusoo had been the last of his worn-out family: he had died of smallpox, and his wife and his children had died with him. Since then no human foot had taken up his trails. The lynx had multiplied. The moose and caribou had gone unhunted by man. The beaver had built their homes undisturbed. The tracks of the black bear were as thick as the tracks of the deer farther south. And where once the deadfalls and poison-baits of Tusoo had kept the wolves thinned down, there was no longer a menace for these mohekuns of the wilderness.

Following the sun of this first wonderful day came the moon and the stars of Baree's first real night.

Half a dozen times, as Baree wandered about near the windfall, he heard a soft whir over his head, and once or twice he saw gray shadows floating swiftly through the air. They were the big northern owls swooping down to investigate him, and if he had been a rabbit instead of a wolf-dog whelp, his first night under the moon and stars would have been his last; for unlike Wapoos, the rabbit, he was not cautious. Gray Wolf did not watch him closely. Instinct told her that in these forests there was no great danger for Baree except at the hands of man. In his veins ran the blood of the wolf. He was a hunter of all other wild creatures, but no other creature, either winged or fanged, hunted him.

In a way, Baree sensed this. He was not afraid of the owls. He was not afraid of the strange blood-curdling cries they made in the black spruce-tops. But once fear entered into him, and he scurried back to his mother. It was when one of the winged hunters of the air swooped down on a snowshoe rabbit, and the squealing agony of the doomed creature set his heart thumping like a little hammer. He felt in those cries the nearness of that one ever-present tragedy of the wild—death.

This rabbit was the climax in the first chapter of Baree's education. It was as if Gray Wolf and Kazan had planned it all out, so that he might receive his first instruction in the art of killing.

The fact that Oohoomisew, the big snow-owl, had made her nest in a broken stub not far from the windfall was destined to change the whole course of Baree's life, just as the blinding of Gray Wolf had changed hers, and a man's club had changed Kazan's. The creek ran close past the stub, which had been shriven by lightning; and this stub stood in a still, dark place in the forest, surrounded by tall, black spruce and enveloped in gloom even in broad day. Many times Baree had gone to the edge of this mysterious bit of forest and had peered in curiously, and with a growing desire.

He was fully three hundred yards from the windfall when he passed Oohoomisew's stub and into a thick growth of young balsams. And there—directly in his path—crouched the monster.

With a space of two feet between them, the pup and the owlet eyed each other. In that moment, if Gray Wolf could have seen, she might have said to Baree: "Use your legs—and run!" And Oohoomisew, the old owl, might have said to Papayuchisew: "You little fool—use your wings and fly!"

They did neither—and the fight began.

Papayuchisew started it, and with a single wild yelp Baree went back in a heap, the owlet's beak fastened like a red-hot vise in the soft flesh at the end of his nose. That one yelp of surprise and pain was Baree's first and last cry in the fight. The wolf surged in him; rage and desire to kill possessed him. As Papayuchisew hung on, he made a curious hissing sound; and as Baree rolled and gnashed his teeth and fought to free himself from that amazing grip on his nose, fierce little snarls rose out of his throat.

For fully a minute Baree had no use of his jaws. Then, by accident, he wedged Papayuchisew in a crotch of a low ground-shrub, and a bit of his nose gave way. He might have run then, but instead of that he was back at the owlet like a flash. Flop went Papayuchisew on his back, and Baree buried his needle-like teeth in the bird's breast. It was like trying to bite through a pillow, the feathers were so close and thick. Deeper and deeper

"Papayuchisew started it, and with a single wild yelp, Baree went back in a heap, the owlet's beak fastened like a red-hot vise in the soft flesh at the end of his nose."

Baree sank his fangs, and just as they were beginning to prick the owlet's skin, Papayuchisew—jabbing a little blindly with a beak that snapped sharply every time it closed—got him by the ear.

The pain of that hold was excruciating to Baree, and he made a more desperate effort to get his teeth through his enemy's thick armour of feathers. In the struggle they rolled under the low balsams to the edge of the ravine through which ran the creek. Over the steep edge they plunged, and as they rolled and bumped to the bottom, Baree loosed his hold. Papayuchisew hung valiantly on, and when they reached the bottom he still had his grip on Baree's ear.

At this critical point, when the understanding of defeat was forming itself swiftly in Baree's mind, chance saved him. His fangs closed on one of the owlet's tender feet. Papayuchisew gave a sudden squeak. The ear was free at last—and with a snarl of triumph Baree gave a vicious tug at Papayuchisew's leg.

In the excitement of battle he had not heard the rushing tumult of the creek close under them, and over the edge of a rock Papayuchisew and he went together, the chill water of the rain-swollen stream muffling a final snarl and a final hiss of the two little fighters.

CHAPTER III.

To Papayuchisew, after his first mouthful of water, the stream was almost as safe as the air, for he went sailing down it with the lightness of a gull, wondering in his slow-thinking big head why he was moving so swiftly and so pleasantly without any effort of his own.

To Baree it was a different matter. He went down almost like a stone. A mighty roaring filled his ears; it was dark, suffocating, terrible. In the swift current he was twisted over and over. Then he rose to the surface and desperately began using his legs.

Suddenly Baree found himself at the edge of a deep, dark pool in which the water lay still as oil, and his heart nearly jumped out of his body when a great, sleek, shining creature sprang out from almost under his nose and landed with a tremendous splash in the centre of it. It was Nekik, the Otter.

The otter had not heard Baree, and in another moment Napanekik, his wife, came sailing out of a patch of gloom, and behind her came three little otters, leaving behind them four shimmering wakes in the oily-looking water. What happened after that made Baree forget for a few minutes that he was lost. Nekik had disappeared under the surface, and now he came up directly under his unsuspecting mate with a force that lifted her half out of the water. Instantly he was gone again, and Napanekik took after him fiercely.

It was about three o'clock in the afternoon, and the sun should still have been well up in the sky. But it was growing darker steadily, and the strangeness and fear of it all lent greater speed to Baree's legs. He stopped every little while to listen, and at one of these intervals he heard a sound that drew from him a responsive and joyous whine. It was a distant howl—a wolf's howl—straight ahead of him. Baree was not thinking of wolves but of Kazan, and he ran through the gloom of the forest until he was winded. Then he stopped and listened a long time. The wolf-howl did not come again. Instead of it there rolled up from the west a deep and thunderous rumble. Through the treetops there flashed a vivid streak of lightning. A moaning whisper of wind rode in advance of the storm; the thunder grew nearer; and a second flash of lightning seemed searching Baree out where he stood shivering under a canopy of great spruce.

At first Baree could hardly stand, his legs were cramped; every bone in his body seemed out of joint; his ear was stiff where the blood had oozed out of it and hardened, and when he tried to wrinkle his wounded nose, he gave a sharp little yap of pain. If such a thing were possible, he looked even worse than he felt. His hair had dried in muddy patches; he was dirt-stained from end to end; and where yesterday he had been plump and shiny, he was now as thin and wretched as misfortune could possibly make him. And he was hungry. He had never before known what it meant to be really hungry.

When he went on, continuing in the direction he had been following yesterday, he slunk along in a disheartened sort of way. His head and ears were no longer alert, and his curiosity was gone. He was not only stomach-hungry: mother-hunger rose above his physical yearning for something to eat. He wanted his mother as he had never wanted her before in his life. He wanted to snuggle his shivering little body close up to her and feel the warm caressing of her tongue and listen to the mothering whine of her voice. And he wanted Kazan, and the old windfall, and that big blue spot that was in the sky right over it. While he followed again along the edge of the creek, he whimpered for them as a child might grieve.

The forest grew more open after a time, and this cheered him up a little. Also the warmth of the sun was taking the ache out of his body. He grew hungrier and hungrier. He had depended entirely on Kazan and Gray Wolf for food. His parents had, in some ways, made a great baby of him. Gray Wolf's blindness accounted for this, for since his birth she had not taken up her hunting with Kazan, and it was quite natural that Baree should stick close to her, though more than once he had been filled with a great yearning to follow his father. Nature was hard at work trying to overcome its handicap now. It was struggling to impress on Baree that the time had now come when he must seek his own food.

With the thinning out of the forest the creek grew more shallow. It ran again over bars of sand and stones, and Baree began to mose along the edge of these. For a long time he had no success. The few crayfish that he saw were exceedingly lively and elusive, and all the clamshells were shut so tight that even Kazan's powerful jaws would have had difficulty in smashing them. It was almost noon when he caught his first crayfish, about as big as a man's forefinger. He devoured it ravenously. The taste of food gave him fresh courage. He caught two more crayfish during the afternoon.

With the approach of night Baree's fears and great loneliness returned. Before the day had quite gone he found himself a shelter under a big rock, where there was a warm, soft bed of sand. Since his fight with Papayuchisew, he had travelled a long distance, and the rock under which he made his bed this night was at least eight or nine miles from the windfall. It was in the open of the creek-bottom, with the dark forest of spruce and cedars close on either side; and when the moon rose, and the stars filled the sky, Baree could look out and see the water of the stream shimmering in a glow almost as bright as day. Directly in front of him, running to the water's edge, was a broad carpet of white sand. Across this sand, half an hour later, came a huge black bear.

Until Baree had seen the otters at play in the creek, his conceptions of the forests had not gone beyond his own kind, and such creatures as owls and rabbits and small feathered things. The otters had not frightened him, because he still measured things by size, and Nekik was not half as big as Kazan. But the bear was a monster beside which Kazan would have stood as a mere pigmy. He was big. If Nature was taking this way of introducing Baree to the fact that there were more important creatures in the forests than dogs and wolves and owls and crayfish, she was driving the point home with a little more than necessary emphas's. For Wakayoo, the bear, weighed six hundred pounds if he weighed an ounce. He was fat and sleek from a month's feasting on fish. His shiny coat was like black velvet in the moonlight, and he walked with a curious rolling motion with his head hung low. The horror grew when he stopped broadside in the carpet of sand not more than ten feet from the rock under which Baree was shivering as if he had the ague.

It was quite evident that Wakayoo had caught scent of him in the air. Baree could hear him sniff—could hear him breathing—caught the starlight flashing in his reddish-brown eyes as they swung suspiciously toward the big boulder. If Baree could have known then that he—his insignificant little self—was making that monster actually nervous and uneasy, he would have given a yelp of joy. For Wakayoo, i spite of his size, was somewhat of a coward when it came to wolves. And Baree carried the wolf-scent. It grew stronger in Wakayoo's nose; and just then, as if to increase whatever nervousness was growing in him, there came from out of the forest behind him a long and wailing howl.

With an audible grunt, Wakayoo moved on. Wolves were pests, he argued. They wouldn't stand up and fight. They'd snap and yap at one's heels for hours at a time, and were always out of the way quicker than a wink when one turned on them. What the use of hanging around where there were wolves, on a beautiful night like this? He lumbered on decisively. Baree could hear him splashing heavily through the water of the creek. Not until then did the wolf-dog draw a full breath. It was almost a gasp.

(To be Continued.)

DIAMONDS IN DEMAND.

Jeweler Says There Will Never Be Enough Precious Stones.

LONDON, March 7.—(Associated Press).—There is no likelihood of diamonds becoming as cheap as colored beads, despite the recent prolific discoveries in South Africa, Gordon Nathan, a prominent diamond dealer, said recently to a reporter of the Daily Graphic.

"There never will be enough natural diamonds to satisfy the demands," the speaker added. "Even if that mysterious syndicate of which we hear so much fulfilled its threat and flooded the market today with $100,000,000 worth of diamonds, no lasting harm would be done. They would be bought up in ten minutes; the trade would suffer a temporary depression and the demand in a short time would be as keen as ever."

NO WRITTEN DEED OF TRUST MONIES

Memorandum Being Prepared on Fund, Beland Says.

OTTAWA, March 7. — (Canadian Press).—A memorandum is being prepared by the Assistant Deputy Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment respecting the trust funds, the disposal of which was questioned in the House of Commons on Thursday by Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition.

Hon. Dr. H. S. Beland, Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, announced in the House of Commons Friday, in reply to questions, that there was no written deed of trust. The funds were put under the complete control of Mr. Scammell, the Assistant Deputy Minister, who used them as he saw fit after conference with the principal donor. Dr. Beland presumed that the memorandum would be tabled within a few days.

CHEMISTS BREAK PRICE.

Synthetic Nitrogen Causes Slump in Shares of Chilean Companies.

LONDON, March 7.—(Associated Price).—The fear of synthetic nitrogen becoming a serious competitor to the Chilean product is now being regarded more seriously than for 20 years past, and has caused a rather sharp decline in prices of producing company shares on the stock market.

A writer in the annual review of Aikman, Ltd., nitrate brokers, speaking of the artificial product, declares that synthetic nitrogen in its various forms is daily becoming a more serious competitor to Chilean nitrate of soda, owing to the cheaper price at which it can be sold, and that the erection of several large plants for the production of both sulphate and nitrate of lime is at present under consideration in various countries.

QUEENS STARTS FUND CAMPAIGN

Students to Raise $25,000 to Complete Building Fund For Memorial.

GRADS GIVE $40,000.

KINGSTON, March 7—(Canadian Press).—The Alma Mater Society of Queen's University launched a campaign yesterday, to continue until Wednesday next, to raise the $25,000 among the undergraduates to complete the building fund for a students' union, which will be erected as a war memorial to the soldier dead of the University. The men of the University will be asked to pledge themselves for $50 and the members of the Levana for $25, to be paid within two years after graduation.

At the launching of the present campaign the war memorial fund stood at over $40,000, this sum having been donated by graduates and undergraduates of other days.

Yesterday, before a large audience in Grant Hall, W. H. Coverdale, consulting engineer of New York, the Rector of the University delivered his rectorial address, in which he enlarged upon the value of a college education. He was introduced by Principal W. L. Grant, of Upper Canada College, Toronto.

PHENOMENA OF QUEBEC QUAKE

Disused Telephone Wires Charged With Electricity —Fissures in Earth Emit Water.

FOUR INCHES WIDE.

MONTREAL, Mar. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Telephone lines that had been out of commission for six months, suddenly becoming charged with electricity, fissures opening in the ground and emitting water and sand, noises like the reverberation of distant thunder, are reported as accompaniments to the earthquake which shook the whole of St. Maurice Valley last Saturday night, and which has continued intermittently throughout the week. From the remote townships of Quebec reports still come in of the terrifying effects of the earth-tremble. "La Presse," Montreal, French language newspaper, prints the following despatch from Baie St. Paul:

"The last seismic disturbance which has manifested itself with such persistence at Baie St. Paul and throughout the whole of Charlevoix County has produced certain effects which may have an interest for savants. About five or six days prior to the earthquake it was noticed at Baie St. Paul that telephone wires which had not been used for six months, and through which no current of electricity had passed, became suddenly charged as if they had come in contact with live wires. This phenomenon happened last week and was reproduced on the following day. The weather was calm; there was not the slightest breeze, but there was a light, wet snow falling and the atmosphere was heavy and oppressive.

"At the same time the telephone and radio apparatus were likewise affected. People using them heard a sort of snizzling, unaccustomed and of a nature all its own. The conclusion reached was that the atmosphere had become surcharged with electricity or with a peculiar sort of gas in consequence of the unrest within the terrestial globe which produced the 'quake of Saturday and the vibrations felt since.

"These things were noted by a large number of people."

The paper goes on to record that several cracks, the widest of which was about four inches, appeared in the ground between Baie St. Paul and St. Urbain, and that these closed up almost immediately. They emitted water and sand. On the night of the 'quake, February 28, the shocks were accompanied by a sound which resembled the rushing of a river pouring into an abyss, followed by a noise like the roaring of an express train that died to the apparent rumble of distant thunder. All these noises seemed to come from the north or the north-west.

STUDENT DEBARRED FOR EVADING INITIATION

Appeals to Heads of Alberta University Failed.

EDMONTON, Alta., March 7. — Because he refused to bow to the dictates of the Student's Union of the University of Alberta in submitting to the initiation programme prescribed by that body, Dwight H. Rice, of this city, declared Friday that he had been debarred from attending lectures. He stated that his appeals to the University authorities had proved aboritive, and now he hints at taking legal action against "student tyranny."

Rice ignored the demands on the grounds that they disregarded all rules of sport, requiring him to make a clown of himself for the amusement of the sophomores and to disgust of the public.

HAD BOILS ALL OVER HIM

There is only one way to get rid of boils and that is by going right to the seat of the trouble—the blood—as the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

cleanses the system and removes all the foul matter from the blood in a way that few medicines will do.

Mrs. Chas. Rankin, Bulyea, Sask., writes:—"A few years ago my husband had a terrible time with boils. On one arm he had 16 between his elbow and wrist; five on the back of his neck, and several more on different parts of his body. He tried everything he could think of, but got no relief until he took Burdock Blood Bitters, and to his surprise it completely relieved him of his boils in a very short time."

DIED AT HIS WORK.

Elderly Stratford Man Stumbled Downstairs.

STRATFORD, March 7.— While engaged in his duties at the Globe-Wernicke factory here late Thursday, Thomas Caney, aged 70 years, fell down the stairs leading to the basement and when picked up was dead.

Physicians were called and attributed death due to heart failure, no inquest will be held. The deceased man was a native of Kent, England, and had been a resident of city for twenty years.

WESTWOOD NEWS.

WESTWOOD, March 7. — Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Cardwell and son spent the week-end in Toronto and while there attended the hockey match between Peterboro and Niagara Falls.

Miss J. Graham spent the week-end with her friend, Miss Gwen Renwick.

Mrs. Jno. Sargent received the sad news of the death of her cousin, Robert Tudhope. She attended the funeral in Peterboro on Friday.

Mr. Chas. Manley has been very ill, and all hope for his speedy recovery.

Mrs. J. Arnold spent a few days in the village this week. She intends leaving for the West very soon.

Quite a large number from the village and vicinity took advantage of the good ice on the pond on Saturday evening ,and report a good time skating.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Warner were in the village recently.

Mr. Wm Renwick and Mr. Harry Carter were among those who attended the hockey match in Toronto on Feb. 26.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS ALWAYS IN THE HOME

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she will use nothing else, and as long as there are babies in the home you will always find a box of Baby's Own Tablets on hand. Thousands of mothers have become convinced through the actual use of the Tablets that there is nothing to equal them in banishing constipation and indigestion; breaking up colds and simple fevers; expelling worms and promoting that healthful refreshing sleep so necessary to the welfare of little ones. Among the thousands of mothers who praise Baby's Own Tablets is Mrs. Alex. J. Perry, Atlantic, N.S., who says: "I always keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house as I know of no other medicine that can equal them for the minor ills that come to young children." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ANCIENT BOOKS LAST.

Volumes on Seattle Library Shelves Published in 1683.

SEATTLE, Mar. 7 (Associated Press) — University of Washington library officials declared that producers of books in the days of Swift and Dryden put more durable bindings on their books, than do modern printing establishments. As evidence is was pointed out that one book published in 1683 and several issued shortly after that were on the library's shelves for circulation.

"Tired and Worried Nervous and Despondent"

Mrs. M. Chevalier, Belle River, Ont., writes:

"For eight years I suffered from despondency and nervousness. Sometimes I could not sleep at night for worrying and the next day I would be so tired that my work was a burden to me. I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and can say I am now entirely relieved of the nervousness from which I used to suffer, and things do not worry me as they used to.

"Dr. Chase's Ointment also relieved me of eczema on my arms, which had bothered me for three years. My house is never without Dr. Chase's Medicines."

THE SAAR CHARGES.

Waugh Denies That He Is Authority For Allegations Against French.

WINNIPEG, March 7.—(Canadian Press). — Ex-Mayor R. D. Waugh, former British representative on the Saar Government Commission, today emphatically denied the substance of a London cable which made him authority for charges against the French of misgovernment in the Saar.

"No one has any authority to connect my name with any such story," he said, and declared it was apparently an attempt to draw him into a controversy over the Saar.

PUSSY-WILLOWS AT THE MARKET

Came From Millbrook This Morning With Greetings For Peterboro' Patrons.

Pussy-Willows came all the way from Millbrook this morning to nod a greeting to patrons of the basket section at the farmers' market. Over "foreninst" them, as the Irishman puts it ,were other harbingers of Spring, in fresh bunches of green onions and radishes and parsley.

One may purchase a variety of things in this section of the busy Saturday morning market. Besides the regular commodities, there are offerings of home-made cooking, in pies and cakes and fancy biscuits, bright-hued artificial flowers with brilliant green foliage, cucumber pickles done up in mustard in milk bottles, at 15 and 30 cents each; rich, clotted Devonshire cream in blue bowls at 50 cents; head cheese in waxed paper, at 25 cents; furniture polish in tall bottles, and a table strewn with embroidery silks and needles, fancy work in linen, and crochet and tatting pieces, flanked by serviceable blue woolen mitts, raffia and reed baskets, a baby's coatee in white and blue fine wools, and urchins crying "lamp shades," and selling big wire frames at 25 to 75 cents each.

Eggs were on the down grade this morning. From a last week's quotation of 40 and 42 cents a dozen, they had dropped as low this morning as 33 cents a dozen. Farmyard dwellers are getting more energetic in these bright days. Butter was 34 and 37 cents a pound, chickens 33 and 35 cents a pound. Mere "hens" were 25 cents a pound, but "young hens" were 28 cents.

Downstairs, the fish dealer had a brisk Lenten trade that purchased anything from tiny smelts at 10 cents a pound to long red salmon at 13 cents. The man with dark amber honey in a glass sealar turned away many a longing customer who mistook his product for fresh maple syrup. This honey was 65 cents and $1.25 in five and ten pound pails. Pure clover honey in two and one-half pound tins was 40 cents.

Potatoes were plentiful and were selling at 75 and 80 cents a bag. Sulphur beans were 2 quarts for a quarter. Beef was 10 and 12 cents a pound; pork, 17 and 19 cents. Roots were quoted as usual.

A pen of lordly Black Minorcas with high polish to their glistening feathers attracted a deal of attention. Pure bred, they were selling at $2 apiece, and pure bred Hamburgs next door, with their "rose" combs, were $3 each. Little Yorkshire pigs were $9 a pair.

It was a real Springtime crowd that lingered about the lower entrance of the market this morning, but it looked like a frigid day in winter upstairs, where a coterie of back warmers clustered thickly about the mildly-burning stove. In this season people linger in groups and spread all over the sidewalk and stairways. They discuss the weather and the current news items in bunches and back away from each other without observing the impending traffic. Sidestepping retreating conversationalists is a science. One makes one's way around them to come face to face with a couple of urchins sprawling over the floor or a tiny girl wheeling a doll's carriage, its occupant carefully swathed from the draft.

KAUFMAN TAKES PROMPT ACTION.

Institute Legal Action against Firm For Alleged Infringement of Design.

An important legal action has been instituted by a Kitchenr industry against a Montreal manufacturing company the outcome of which will be awaited wtih great interest throughout Canada. The Kaufman Company has filed a suit in the Exchequer Court of Canada against the Miner Rubber Company of Montreal seeking an injunction restraining the latter company from manufacturing and selling certain designs of overshoes of which the plaintiffs claim they were the originators and which it is further alleged were registered with the government by the plaintiffs under the Industrial Designs Act.

The plaintiffs in their suit claims:

(a) A declaration that the plaintiff has an exclusive right to the said industrial design.

(b) A declaration that the defendant has infringed the plaintiff's industrial design.

(c) An injunction restraining the wrongful acts aforesaid.

(d) An order for the destruction of or delivery up by the defendant of all products or articles in the possession or control of the defendant to which the said industrial design has been applied.

(e) The payment of damages or an account of profits as the plaintiff may elect.

(f) All necessary accounts and inquiries.

(g) Such further or other relief as the nature of the case may require

(h) The costs of this action.

"Y. W." GIRLS START MISSION CAMPAIGN

Banquet Launches Work of Raising Funds—Interesting Facts Told.

A banquet for the young ladies who have been chosen as leaders in the Y.W.C.A. campaign for funds for the Foreign Work budget was held at the "Y" last evening, and was attended by about forty girls and the members of the Religious Work Committee. They met at six o'clock in the tea room, which was prettily decorated for the occasion with Japanese lanterns and flowers, with candles on the pretty crepe paper cloths.

Mrs. J. D. Richardson gave a talk on India, China and Japan, and the growth and development of Y.W.C.A. work in those countries, interspersing in her address several stories and many interesting facts. Mrs. Richardson told the girls how much she had enjoyed looking up particulars about the foreign work of the Y.W.C.A. and how interest is quickened as one studies and reads in answering the question: "Why should we send money for foreign work?"

Mrs. Richardson read an extract from an address made by Miss Kawai, a Japanese secretary, in which the writer said that the Japanese, not being Christian, have not learned to give as we have learned, and that Canadians should feel grateful that Japan is not required to give to us.

Miss Kawai is looking forward to the day when Japan will give more than is needed in her own land, so that she can send workers to foreign countries. An extract was also read from a letter by a little Japanese school-girl, who had just attended a "Y" conference, and recorded how impressed she was at the time.

Miss Leta Brownscombe then told an incident of a Japanese girl who came to Canada, worked in Montreal for a year, then returned across Canada to Japan, and how she was helped by the Canadian "Y" Associations, by their Travellers' Aid helps, boarding-homes, employment bureaus, classes in which she studied, and clubs where she had good times and made friends.

Canadian Associations have always been interested in foreign work. The Western Y.W.C.A.'s chiefly support the work in China, and the Eastern Associations work in India. Ontario supports the work in Japan, with the exception of Hamilton, where the Association now supports one of its own secretaries, Miss Lucille Chambers, in India.

Miss Margaret MacNaughton, who went to Japan at the time of the earthquake, is a gift from the Ontario Associations.

Miss Emma Kaufman, whose home is in Brantford, has built up the work in Japan wonderfully, and in Tokio they now have a Japanese general secretary ,Kato San, who visited the local "Y" at the rally last fall.

Peterborough's share for the work in Japan is $150.00 ,and the forty girls who gathered last night are starting out to raise that amount among the members and friends of the Peterborough "Y."

Miss Annie Waltob, former chairman of the Religious Work Committee ,wished the girls success ,and said it was worthwhile service.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Miss Gladys Collinson.

UNUSUAL CASE IN HISTORY OF BOXING

Fighter's Second Almost Knocked Out His Man's Opponent With Bucket.

NEW YORK, March 7.—(Canadian Press). — The State Athletic Commission, in suspending the license of a boxing second for a peculiar offence, passed on one of the most unusual cases in its history this week.

The second, seeing his man slowly being battered into complete submission by his opponent, tossed the towel into the ring as a token of surrender in fistic circles. The referee, failing to see the white flag, continued the fight, whereupon the second grabbed the water bucket and gave it a toss over the ropes. His aim was far better than his judgment, for he knocked down his man's opponent and almost knocked him out.

WILD SCENES AT IRISH EVICTIONS

Tenants Attack Sheriff With Pitchforks—Finally Decide to Pay Up.

BELFAST, March 7.—(Canadian Press).—Wild scenes occurred yesterday during attempted seizures for non-payment of rent on property in County Clare belonging to Captain James Charles Arthur, who figured in the famous Robinson vs. Midland Bank suit as former aide-de-camp to Rajah Sir Hari Singh.

The sheriff's party and police were at first obliged to flee, but later returned with military reinforcements and clashed with the hostile crowd of tenants, who were armed with pitch-forks. The situation was eased when a number of the tenants paid their year's rent.

When the sheriff and military had retired, bridges leading to the district were rendered impassable by the felling of trees.

ANNUAL DINNER.

Chamber of Commerce Will Hear Deputy Minister Speak on Highways.

The subject of the address by Mr. S. L. Squires, Deputy Minister of Public Highways, Provincial Government, to be presented to the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday evening next, will be, "Roads and their relationship to the economic and social development of this province."

Invitations have been extended to the County and City Councils, and Mr. Squires states that he will be pleased to speak to representatives of both rural and urban municipalities.

Matters of interest to all citizens will be reviewed by the Deputy Minister.

The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will convene at dinner at 7 p.m. on Tuesday.

Results as Different and Desirable Today as They Were a Year Ago

When the Chrysler Six was introduced early in 1924 it was apparent at once that its engineers had advanced far beyond conventional conceptions of performance and riding qualities.

The results were not only so different, but so desirable that it took more than 32,000 cars in the effort to satisfy the first year demand—a record.

Chrysler results are acknowledged to be as different and as desirable today as they were in 1924 and the public is as eager to possess them. For where else can you find a 3-inch motor that develops 68 horsepower, better than 70 miles an hour, with a gasoline economy of fully 24 miles to the gallon?

Where else can you find the complete absence of vibration and the elimination of sidesway and roadweaving? Where can you find all these things and many more, such as the oil-filter that cleanses the oil as the car runs, the air-cleaner for the carburetor, the Chrysler-Lockheed hydraulic four-wheel brakes that assure perfect control at all speeds?

Only in the Chrysler Six.

We are eager to give you a practical demonstration of these remarkable results and thereby establish to your satisfaction that the Chrysler Six is the best built car the industry has yet produced.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan. Dealers everywhere.

Gin Pills relieved her headaches and backaches

Headaches and backaches frequently indicate kidney trouble, and may be the forerunners of dangerous illness. Read how one sufferer was relieved.

"My trouble has been very bad headaches, backaches and dizzy spells. I started taking Gin Pills and only used a little more than half a box when my headaches and backaches stopped and now I feel like a new girl. I am well and have had no return of those distressing headaches and backaches."

MANOEUVRES LIMITED

Japanese Navy Will Confine Annual Practice to Coastal Attack.

TOKIO, March 7. (Associated Press)—Tentative plans for the manoeuvers of the Japanese navy next autumn contemplate operations decidedly limited in extent and scale as compared with those recently concluded. It is understood the problem will be strategical rather than tactical. As roughly agreed upon the plan is to defend the Kure naval port from an attack by a combined fleet advancing along the main land coast from the seas to the north of Hokkaido toward the Indland Sea via the coast of Shikoku province.

PROGRESSIVES ARE NOT DECIDED AS TO SUBSIDY

Forke Wants More Information on Peterson Project.

OTTAWA, March 7.— (Canadian Press)—Progressive members of the House of Commons have not yet reached a decision as to their attitude towards the proposed government subsidy to the Petersen Steamship Line, this was intimated by Robert Forke, Progressive leader, following a progressive caucas Friday.

"We had a general discussion in regard to the Hudson Bay Railway said Mr. Forke, 'so far as the proposed subsidy to the Petersen line is concerned, our policy is one of "wait and see." The caucas was not called for discission of the subsidy and no decision has been reached on it. For my own part, I want more evidence before I make any statement as to my attitude towards the proposal."

Mr. Forke added that discussion on the Hudson Bay Railway was rather for the purpose of making Eastern Progressive acquainted with the Western view point for the formulation of any definite programme of future action in the matter.

Charges Misgovernment.

British Representative Says French Misgoverned Saar Valley Under League Banner.

LONDON, March 7. — (Canadian Press).—Startling charges of misgovernment of the Saar Valley by the French under the aegis of the League of Nations, are made in a letter written by R. D. Waugh, for three and one-half years British representative on the governing commission of the Saar.

This letter is embodied in a memorandum prepared and circulated by a high personage here, to whom Waugh's letter was addressed.

RECORDS CLASSIFIED

France Has Many Records of World War Already Filed.

PARIS, March 7.—The historical service of the French war department has beaten all records in the preparation of its first collection of documents relating to the World War. It took the same service 40 years to complete the compilation of the history of the war of 1870; in this case it has done an equal amount of work in about one-tenth the time.

Documents were collected and classified as the war went on, and this work still continues. The documents already fill four floors of the big Babylone barracks in Paris, and General Girard, who directs the work, anticipates that larger quarters will eventually be needed.

HER NERVES SO BAD SHE COULD NOT SLEEP

Mrs. Grace Kitchen, St. George, Ont., writes: "After having a severe attack of pneumonia I was left in a weak and run down condition. My nerves were so bad I could not sleep nights, and in the day time I had terrible fainting spells, caused by my heart being weak. Finally I got so bad I had to take to my bed for weeks at a time, but one day I read about

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

so decided to try them.

After taking one box I felt a slight improvement. I have now taken five boxes, and have gained 35 pounds in weight. I am now more than able to do all my own housework as well as considerable outside work. I cannot recommend Milburn's H. & N. Pills too highly for those suffering as I did."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—Before leaving your town I thought I would ask space in your columns to air my views on road conditions in your rural sections, through which I have travelled during my sojourn with you, and which I cannot commend to fellow-travellers. I have never met worse conditions anywhere in Ontario. We talk of advancement of our highway systems, but question if in the days of Adam could less indifference have been shown in providing winter roads. The old statute labor system may have had its weaknesses, but now nobody seems to be responsible. We hear of road commissioners and road overseers, but where do they live? By the condition of many of the roads it is in Boston or Philadelphia.

When a traveller finds himself manoeuvring through plowed fields and unbroken pastures for miles in a day's travel, it is high time to look for a remedy. I had heard of rural mail routes being in operation from your city, and on some leading roads they might succeed to fair advantage, but leaving these, God pity the poor horses. If road commissions are worthy of their calling they would go into the untravelled as well as leading thoroughfares and see to it that some sane person is appointed to keep the roads in proper condition, for the Angel of Death may come at a time when we think not.

Yours,
A TRAVELLER.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir.—May I invite in your columns a discussion pro and con as to the wisdom or otherwise of all public organizations omitting from their discussions the most important national question upon which the people of Canada have to decide, namely that of Protection or Free Trade. The reason the subject is omitted is that it constitutes a part of political platforms. It would seen to be a sensible and reasonable rule that all petty politics should be taboo, but surely Canada wants its public bodies to take part in the development of sane public opinion on a subject that means economic life or death according to the way it is decided. Anyone who cannot endure hearing the opposite side of a question thoroughly aired is not a very desirable member of any organization, and instead of this question being taboo, every organization should invite discussion and pass a resolution recording its views. These organizations will discuss unemployment, trade conditions, wages, immigration, emigration, taxes and transportation, but the subject upon which all these rest must be mentioned only under one's breath. If the Chinese or Hindoos followed such a course, I should like to hear some Canadian's comment on it. Such words as "superstition," "undeveloped," "funny people," would inevitably creep into our criticism. Boards of Trade for instance are organized to guard the interests of the communities in which they are organized. Today cities like Quebec, Sherbrooke, Montreal, Peterboro, Toronto, Hamilton, Oshawa, Brantford, St. Catherines, Galt Kitchener and Windsor are being strangled by the Free Trade policy that is being adoptd step by step. I have mentioned some cities by name but it applies to all towns and cities, and the farmers who rely upon them as customers. All are being strangled and all should be the concern of our Boards of Trade and other public bodies interested in forming correct public opinion. The reasons this strangulation is taking place I shall embody here in a proposed resolution, and I would ask constructive members of Boards of Trade and other public bodies to request that this resolution be discussed before the members; and when I say constructive, I do not mean Conservative, for happily I know many Liberals who are just as constructive as any Conservatives.

"Whereas Canada's wages are established in the United States by internatonal unions and by the law of supply and demand; that if our wages are lower than those of the United States our people go to the United States to get the higher wages.

That United States conditions and unions thus fix our basis of cost. That is one horn of our dilemma. The other horn is that if we do not pay United States rates of wages we cannot produce our goods at prices that will compete with European goods made under much lower wages and sold in depreciated currencies. Failure if we do, failure if we do not pay high wages.

That the United States can pay high wages behind their tariff woll which is three times as high as the tariff that protects Canadian wages.

That this leaves our farmers, work people and manufacturers working with their hands tied.

That this difference in tariff allows the United States to bleed Canada of $200,000,000 every year on trade balance alone.

"That in addition we must pay about $150,000,000 interest and dividends to the United States on American investments in Canada.

That in 10 years the United States have sold us $2,000,000,000 more goods than we sold to them, and that we mortgaged our country for $2,000,000,000 to pay for these goods that we could have made ourselves.

That this difference in tariff has caused 300,000 people to leave Canada for the United States every year for the last three years.

That these people are farmers' customers, and as a consequence our farmers are obliged to leave much of their crop to rot where it was grown because of having no market.

That every farm and household in Canada is mortgaged to the extent of $2,350.00 on account of our public debts and that every person that leaves Canada imposes a greater burden on those who are left.

That Canada's total debts, internal public debts and external amount to $916.00 per capita as against Germany's $261,00 per capita, which experts say she cannot pay.

That unless we adopt a policy that will enable us to reduce our indebtedness we shall become bankrupt.

Therefore be it resolved that we petition the Government of Canada to impose a tariff as high as that of the country that establishes for us our basis of cost."

It is my belief that Canada has only the choice of two things—a tariff at least as high as that of the United States, or bankruptcy. Mr. Otto Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb & Company, a banker of international fame, said in Toronto, that Canada should have a higher tariff than the United States. This question should be discussed, not in a political or heated way, but in a cool, fair minded way, willing to hear both sides. Any organization wishing to debate the the above resolution, and if a better protagonist is not available I shall be glad to defend the resolution up to the limit of my ability to fill engagements. Or if any speakers want the facts and figures to assist them in defending the resolution, I shall be glad to send same on request.

I am sending this to the leading papers believing that all who are really interested in Canada's welfare will publish it.

Yours very truly,
W. R. MORSON,
President, Prosperity League of Canada, 64 Wellington Street West, Toronto.

YOUNG EQUESTRIENNE STARS IN HORSE SHOW

Peggy Alexander is Well Known in Peterborough—This is From Miami.

Little Peggy Alexander, who is just 10 years old, celebrating her own with Washington's birthday, is one of Miami's best little equestriennes and won for herself many admirers in her riding at the Society Horse Show at Coral Gables last Tuesday night. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Alexander of Oak Orchard and Peterboro.

Peggy was the rider of "Peter Pan," the pony owned by Sonny Gilman, that won the silver cup in the pony class.

Peggy first started riding about a year and a half ago and has kept it up ever since, going out to the riding academy from three to five times every week following her school hours at Miss Kate Collier's private school in Miramar.

Not satisfied with her unsual riding feats, Miss Peggy is also a fine swimmer, and is frequently seen at the pools on Miami Beach. Her first swimming lessons were taken up in Canada at their summer home, Oak Orchard Lodge at Peterboro, Ont., about 70 miles northeast of Toronto, where she has spent the summers of her young life.

One can realize what a very busy little girl Peggy is with her program of school and studies, which she by no means neglects; riding and swimming, during her winters here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Alexander, managers of the Dolphin Hotel, and summers spent among Canadian woods and lakes, where the program is reduced to mostly swimming and riding with a lot of both.—Miami Herald.

HARMLESS LAXATIVE
For Sick, Feverish, Bilious Children

Mother!

When Child is Constipated Give "California Fig Syrup"

Children love the pleasant taste of "California Fig Syrup" and gladly take it even when bilious, feverish, sick, or constipated. No other laxative regulates the tender little bowels so nicely. It sweetens the stomach and starts the liver and bowels without cramping or overacting. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

TEACH CHILDREN HOW COUNCIL ACTS

Scene: The City Council Chamber. Time: 9 p. m. Occasion: Regular monthly meeting of the City Council.

The Aldermen are having an argument over the proper method of financing the new sewage disposal plant. They differ about the issuing of debentures. The debate waxes acrimonious.

Voice from the audience: "Why don't they get along with the business. Don't they know that debentures for this class of work requires no vote?"

The aldermen all look surprised and direct their attention to the front rows of the gallery, which are packed with school-children. It is school-children's attendance night and a solemn conclave of earnest faces forms a ring about the barred off enclosure where the city fathers are transacting business. This is the first time that an actual interruption has occurred from the junior audience, but the Mayor and aldermen are beginning to feel that the youngsters are rather bored at times with their long-winded debates over trifling matters.

The above scene has never been enacted. It may never take place. But it might happen if a brand new idea that occurred to an Examiner representative at a meeting of the Council where a certain alderman declared that he didn't really know what a debenture was, could be carried out. This was a system whereby school children in senior classes would be sent on Council meeting nights to attend, "mark, learn and inwarly digest" the various proceedings carried on.

The freckle-faced boy who delivers the papers at the door tonight may be the Mayor of a future era in the city in which he lives. The loud-vioced lad who plays marbles on the street corner may be one of the aldermen in fifteen or twenty years, and control the city's finantion in their a b c's and in arithmetic and history, but what are they learning about municipal matters? Very little.

School curricula contain many things that are more or less interesting to young minds, and many things that are more or less remembered by them in later years. It is a moot question if everthing that passes through the ear or the eye of the scholar is retained. The writer of this article can remember well spending long hours over botanical specimens and learning all the long Latin names of flowers and weeds without knowing much about their English cognomen, but can remember with distinctness at the present time only one important fact with regard to these elongated botanical lessons; and that is the undeniable assertion that a sweet pea has a "papiliancious corolla", the first word meaning "butterfly-shaped." As for the long list of historical dates and of geographical facts which were committed painfully to memory at that period of life, they have vanished like last year's leaves, never to come again.

All of which simmers down to the interrogation: Would it not be a good thing for school children to learn a little more about civic government? Even if they never have anything to do with municipal offices, they at least are pretty certain to form a part of that large section of the tax-paying public which has to pony up for the various schemes originated in the City Council Chamber, and thus being an accessory after the fact, as it were should know a little something about the workings of the inner machinery.

At the present time, a certain amount of knowledge along these lines is imparted to pupils in senior lower-school grades. As far as construction is concerned, they are taught, and are supposed to know something, of the methods of election procedure. In Senior Third form, they are coached on local matters, in Junior Fourth, on provincial, and in Senior Fourth, on fedderal government. But they possess a poorly-fashioned textbook on the subject, and the subject takes up only twenty-five per cent of the space on their history examination papers, and their tuition in such subjects is not very interesting. They are awaiting the advent of a promised new text book that will deal with such information in a simpler form.

Local Druggists Have Modern Remedy for Colds

A Vaporizing Salve which is Rubbed Over Throat and Chest for Colds.

When Vicks VapoRub, the "external 'method of treating sore throat, bronchitis, deep chest colds, or croup, is applied over throat or chest, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat.

These vapor, inhaled with each breath carry the medication directly to the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion.

Colds are usually relieved over night.

AROUND THE TRAINING CAMPS

Frisch Signs at $18,000 a Year—Vance a Holdout—The Dodger Hurler Opposes Ten-day Release Clause—Sore Arms in Yankee Camp.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Frank Frisch of the Giants has signed, Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn has not signed, and Aaron Ward and Bob Meusel have appeared in the Florida training camp of the Yankees with sore arms.

Frisch, after a conference with Manager McGraw between practice sessions at Saratoga Wednesday, admitted that he had accepted terms but refused to discuss his salary. McGraw also was silent, but word leaked out that the Giants' captain had accepted the $18,000 papers which he held a year ago. President A. Stoneham, it is reported, refuseo to raise th figure.

Terry Wants Raise.

With Frisch in line, McGraw encountered more trouble when Bill Terry, somewhat overweight, declared the amount offered him was not enough. Bill is the only full fledged first baseman in camp and took part in the practice despite his dissatisfaction.

At St. Petersburg the pitchers became so tired during the long afternoon drill that George Wiltse, former Giant pitcher and now Yankee coach had to step upon the mound for a time. Deacon Everett Scott, greatest of long-distance performers, found his arm in poor condition at the end of the rehearsal.

Vance Quits Practice.

The information from the Brooklyn camp at Clearwater was surprising, as President Ebbets had announced that Vance was under contract for three years at a reported salary of $50,000. The pitcher who startled baseball last summer declared that he had not signed and would not sign a contract which included the 10-day release clause. Ebbets explained that the National League rules demanded that such a clause be inserted, so Dazzy quit after morning practice and went to the golf links. Doak, Grimes and Taylor still are to be signed and Wheat has not arrived.

Athletics Start Practice Games.

PHILADELPHIA, March 7.—Reports from the Florida training camps of the Philadelphia major League baseball clubs yesterday told of fine weather and rapid improvement in the condition of the players.

At Fort Myers, Manager Connie Mack has divided his 31 men into two squads and has ordered six-inning games daily in addition to the morning batting and pitching workouts. In the first of these contests yesterday the regulars defeated the yannigans 13 to 4. Rommel and Cline were in the box for the regulars, while Meeker and Harris carried off the batting honors of the day with three safeties in as many times at bat.

Howard Ehmke Signs Botston Contract.

BOSTON, March 7.—With Howard Ehmke, one of the Red Sox star twirlers, and Valentine Picnich, catcher, back in the fold, the Boston American League outfit at New Orleans is nearer actual playing shape than ever, according to word from the camp yesterday. Both Ehmke and Picinich put their names to contracts yesterday and Manager Lee Fohl forwarded both to President Quinn. Ira Flagstead, whose outfielding was a feature of the late season playing, is now the only one of the regulars missing from the lineup.

White Sox Have Seven Shortstops.

CHICAGO, March 7.—Manager Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox has found plenty of shortstop material decorating the club training camp at Shreveport, La., and the fight is on for the regular berth.

Seven candidates are on the scene and another is expected. Among the seven are Harvey McClellan, veteran, who was out most of last season because of illness, and Ike Davis, former Columbus player, who was tried out last fall. Bill Barrett, who filled the position most of last season, will augment the potential shortstoppers when he arrives.

George Bischoff, husky catcher obtained from Fort Worth, arrived yesterday. A five-inning game game was won by a team captained by Bud Clency, 3 to 1, over Manager Collins'.

The regulars, Grimm at first, Adams at second, Maranville at short and Barney Friberg at third, gave the natives topic for talk by a snappy fielding exhibition.

Real Estate Lures Walter Johnson

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Walter Johnson, whose right arm was a potent factor in the rise of the Washington Americans to the base ball pinnacle last year, has virtually abandoned aspirations of ownership in a minor league club and intends to take up residence in Florida as a real estate operator two years hence. Walter made this statement at the Tampa, Florida, training camp yesterday in explaining why he signed a two instead of a one-year contract with the club the other day, stating he already had purchased some property in the Alligator state.

President Griffith brought another of his lately acquired veteran hurlers into the fold yesterday when Dutch Ruether accepted terms and signed up.

Sisler Not Worried About Holdouts.

ST. LOUIS, March 7.—The absence of four known holdouts, McManus, Jacobson and Danforth of last year's squad, and Leo Dixon, a backstop bought from St. Paul, is not working any inroads on Manager George Sisler's training plans. If any sufferers are present at Tarpon Springs, Fla., it is the motion picture men who are unable to "shoot" the entire Brownie squad.

Sisler has arranged the days so that no time is lost and so far has not tightened up on the young moundsmen. An expression of Kenny Willams, outfielder, best describes it. "I didn't know they made 'em so fast so early," he said as some fast ones whizzed past his head.

Manager Branch Rickey, of the Cardinals, put some fun into the practice yesterday at Stockton, Calif., by placing the regular infielders in the outfield and bringing the fly chasers into the infield. In this predicament the Cardinals romped over a local semi-pro. team, 11 to 3.

RAILING SAVES DRIVER FROM DEATH

While traveling at a terrific speed on the Carson City track, Stuart Wilkinson narrowly escaped death when his car hit the lower railing and skidded to the top of the track. Wilkinson is shown just where he landed, holding to the railing. Oil leaking from his car made the track so slippery that the race was called off.

DEMSEY MUST BATTLE WILLS

New York Athletic Commission Issues Ultimatum to Champion.

KEARNS COOL.

NEW YORK, March 7.—(Canadian Press).—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, must accept or decline a challenge filed by Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, within 24 hours or take his place among the blacklisted in this state.

This ultimatum was issued by the State Athletic Commission Friday after a stormy session in which both the Wills and Gibbons challenges were considered.

The heavyweight titleholder was officially notified of the two challenges in a telegram sent to him in Los Angeles by the Commission late yesterday. The Wills challenge was given priority because it was filed one week before Gibbons sent in his battle bid.

OUT OF QUESTION.

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—(Canadian Press).—Dictation on the part of the New York State Athletic Commission as to who Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, shall and shall not fight is out of the question, Jack Kearns, the titleholder's manager, declared here late Friday in answer to a demand by the New York Commission that Dempsey reply within twenty-four hours to the challenge of Harry Wills, the negro contender.

AURA LEE WINS JUNIOR O.H.A.

Defeat Owen Sound Greys 7-6 Last Night and 14-11 on Round.

4-TIME CHAMPIONS.

TORONTO, March 7.—(Canadian Press).—Aura Lee won the Junior O.H.A. championship last night for the fourth time in the past ten years defeating Owen Sound 7 to 6 and taking the round 14 to 11, the score in Owen Sound on Wednesday being 7 to 5 in favor of Aura Lee.

Courage and brains decided the series for the red and white clad youngsters. And the supposed superior speed of the Greys was not in evidence in the series, and especially was it absent last night.

Aura Lee were forced to play over fifty minutes with only seven players available, "Tip" Foster, the sturdy defence star, being badly injured shortly after the game got under way.

EAST DELAYS FINALS.

Western President Says Schedule Was Not Adhered To.

CALGARY, Alta., March 7.—(Canadian Press). — E. L. Richardson, president of the Western Canada Hockey League, yesterday complained that the east had not lived up to its agreement with the west in the Stanley Cup series, stipulating that the National League champions be ready to enter the world series by March 15th. He said he would raise no trouble over this point, but expressed determination to see that the contract terms are carried out in future.

"We could just as well have made it easier for our clubs," said Mr. Richardson, "had we wished to exceed the time limit, but in strict obedience to our understanding we drew up our schedule in order to be through our play-off and all prepared for the Stanley Cup by March 5. The N.H.L. champions cannot reach the prairies before March 23 and the Pacific Coast before March 24."

The NUT CRACKER

BY JOE WILLIAMS

FLORIDA, U.S.A.

Accurately and authentically translated this should read Florida, United Salesmen of America.

This beguiling state of palms and putters teems with garrulous gents who deal lavishly in real estate, orange groves and apple sauce.

The population is divided into three classes: those who are selling real estate ,those who have retired from selling real estate and those who are planning to start selling real estate.

The mad rush to the gold fields of California and the hysterical stampede to the oil lands of Texas were one-reel comics compared to the ten reel super-extravaganza Florida is filming.

It seldoms rains in Florida. When it does and strangers walk away with mud on their shoes the State Land Assessor indicts them for grand larcency. Thats' how important the soil is.

Florida is just the spot to which Ponce De Leon bounced, paging Bubbling Geyser of Eternal Juvenility. Ponce was several centuries ahead of the timetable. He should have waited until 1925.

Today Ponce would find gray-haired mamas from New England wearing knee-top skirts and inhaling eloquency of Turkish fags. He would pipe bald-headed Pittsburg bankers revelling in second childhood and spraying beach cuties with amorous glances.

But if he didn't bring along a full bag of niblicks and Vardon's newest book on playing iron shots to greens he would be out of luck like a retreating worm without a wiggle.

Besides golf atrocities, fashionable hotel horrors and non-refillable climate, Florida is also noted for abundant production of ivory ..... More ball teams train in Florida than anywhere else.

This is probably destiny's way of giving the rest of the country an even break .....It must be horrible to have a look at loose eared rookies and underfed reporters for a month at a stretch.

GROVE SCHOOL DEFEAT WARSAW

Score in the District League Game Was 9-2—Ice Was Soft and Heavy.

CURLING SCORES.

LAKEFIELD, March 7.—In the Lakefield and District League last night, the Grove School defeated Warsaw by 9 to 2 on ice that was heavy with slush. Grove broke away fast, running up six goals in the first period. Warsaw tallied one in the second and in the final five students added three, while Richard Darling got another for the visitors.

The teams were:

Grove School.—Goal, Griffith; defence, Christmas and Loosemore; centre, Rainnie; right wing, Young; left wing, Fawcett; subs., James and Barnard.

Referee, E. H. Northey.

The goal getters were Fawcett 3, Rainnie 3, Loosemore 2, Christmas 1, and R. Darling 2.

Just a year ago Warsaw defeated the School for the District Cup, but the students have greatly improved this winter. The game last night was fast, and clean although the ice did not permit much combination.

Mercantile Bonspiel.

REVALUATION OF VETERANS' LANDS

Government Considering Recommendations—Bought at Peak Prices.

OTTAWA, March 7. — (Canadian Press). — Consideration is being given recommendations made by a Parliamentary committee of last session that loans made to ex-soldiers holding land under the Settlement Act be reduced, and that farm lands be revalued, by officials of the Department of Finance, Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, announced in the House of Commons Friday, in answer to a question by A. Speakman (Progressive, Red Deer).

Mr. Robb said there was a mistaken idea that the land held by the veterans was mostly over-valued. He had noticed that in cases where farms were sold, many brought higher prices than were paid for them originally. There were, however, instances in which stock and equipment had been bought at peak prices, and was hence over-valued.

Opposed to Subsidies.

A further resolution states that pending an investigation establishing the extent to which ocean rates are unreasonable, and that they will be effectively reduced by granting Dominion subsidies, the Canadian Council of Agriculture goes on record as deprecating so serious an expenditure of public monies on subsidies, which in principle are undesirable and justifiable only in cases of proven national necessity.

In reply to Mr. Motherwell, J. A. Maharg, M.L.A., who presented the resolution, would not say that the Petersen contract was opposed. The Council did not have as full information as the Government had, and did not feel justified in making definite pronouncement in this particular case.

R. M. Johnston, Regina, urged that Parliament take the necessary steps to restore the terms of the Crow's Nest agreement as it applied to all commodities before its suspension.

A. Baynton, Saskatchewan Grain Growers, asked that a reduction be affected in import duties on all the ordinary necessaries of life, raw material for manufacturing purposes and on all implements of production.

Australian Treaty.

D. G. McKenzie, United Farmers of Alberta, opposed the proposed Australian treaty. He urged upon the Government that in all reciprocal trade agreements the concessions made by Canada be in the form of reduced duties and that no preference be given which involves an actual increase in any tariff duty.

A. J. M. Pool, president United Farmers of Manitoba, requested the placing of kerosene on the free list.

Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, pointed out, in reply to various representations, the difficulties the Government would experience in attempting to control any advertising in respect to immigrants outside of Canada. Advertising in Canada, of course, the Government could control by legislation.

California's Campaign.

"If the Americans put up a prohibitive tariff against our agricultural products, why shouldn't we put up a tariff against some of their products?" Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, asked the delegation. "The Government needs to have some club to handle these fellows," he continued. Mr. Robb stated that the Californians were putting up a big lobby all through Canada to defeat the trade agreement between Canada and Australia. The reason for the lobby was that the Californians knew that they would have to bring down their prices for raisins when they were called upon to compete with the Australian and South African product.

"You speak of going down to the United States with a club. Why not go down with a smile," asked J. F. Reid, one of the members of the delegation. "You might get better results."

Mr. Robb replied that that was a matter of opinion.

One of the delegates asked why the Government could not use ships of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine instead of subsidizing the Petersen line of steamships.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, replied that the Government ships would be useful only as a supplemental service. They were not constructed in such a way that they could be used. "Of cours, you can sup soup with a knitting needle if you want to," he remarked. "They're too big for the canals, and not big enough for the ocean," he continued.

"Isn't the best proof that the arrangement with the Petersen interests is going to be effective, the lobby which is being carried on against it?" asked Mr. Robb.

MINERS STRIKE IN NOVA SCOTIA

Some Mines Will Be Allowed to Flood—Officials and Clerks Save Others.

14,000 MEN OUT.

SYDNEY, N. S., March 7. —(Canadian Press).— Following the failure of negotiations that commenced last December, looking toward a new contract between the British Empire Steel Corporation and its miners in Nova Scotia and passed through many stages, including the appointment of a conciliation board, a hundred per cent cessation of work in practically very coal mine in Nova Scotia commenced at .. o'clock last night, involving some 14,000 men. With the exception of one or two small collieries on the mainland, privately owned, not a single ton of coal will be mined in any of the great mines that constitute the most important industry in the province.

Maintenance men left their posts and were relieved by company officials, clerks from the offices and company stores, who will endeavour to keep the machinery going to save the mines from destruction by water and gas. This was true in all the colleries except five which will be allowed to flood and will not be reopened.

FIRE BILL.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 7. — (Canadian Press).—It cost the people of British Columbia $249,300 to fight forest fires during 1924, Hon. T. D. Patullo, Minister of Lands, announced Friday.

The number of fires last year totalled 2,174; the largest reported since the forest protective force was established.

Edinburgh Bishop Urges Ban On Race Suicide

EDINBURGH, March 7.—(Associated Press).—Speaking on birth restriction at a meeting of the Edinburgh diocese of the Episcopal Church, Bishop Walpole said "that it is quite clear to my mind that Great Britain should follow America and France and prohibit the use of contraceptives in order that our place among the nations may be preserved."

The bishop had previously pointed out that conditions now are not what they were 50 years ago. Forty per cent. of divorces occurred in those families where there were no children, he said, adding that he believed that in only a small proportion of these cases were children impossible. Divorce, he said, hardly ever occurred where there was a "reasonable" family.

GERMAN LANDLORDS TO GET A CHANCE

Germany is Now Slowly Abolishing Her Permanent Rent Legislation.

By CARL D. GROAT.

BERLIN, March 7.—(United Press).—Germany is slowly abolishing her "permanent rent legislation."

While the American capital, Washington, is considering putting in compulsory rent legislation, Berlin and the other cities of Germany are trying to get away from war and post-war artificial regulation of the dwelling problem.

Since the war, German dwellers have paid each month a varying percentage of the pre-war rent, plus a certain percentage for repairs, dwelling taxes (to be used in building new houses) and so on. Up until recently this rent approximated two-thirds of the pre-war price, though owners of furnished flats could charge what they could get. And they got plenty.

Moreover, there were "Wohnungsaemter"—rent bureaus—which sat in judgment on the rights of families to have a dwelling. They quartered on house-owners other families, making, for instance, the holder of a six-room flat take in a family into three of the rooms.

This made for strife. There have been endless cases of serious rows between renters and their unwelcome tenants.

The money taken for dwelling taxes, to build new houses, was largely eaten up in administration costs, though Berlin has managed to put up a few new houses with this fund.

Now, it is proposed to abolish "Wohnungsaemter" on the first of October, so that there will be more freedom of action in letting to desirable tenants. Some remnants of the old law will remain, however. The price will be fixed at the pre-war standard, and landlords will be prevented from ejecting tenants before the latter find new quarters.

However, building for private account is now flourishing, and it is estimated that within another year or two everybody will have a chance for a flat of their own.

With introduction of the pre-war rent, foreign holders of Berlin and other German property will begin to realize something on their investments.

The landlord has been housewealthy, but money poor, and could not do with his property what he saw fit. Likewise he made no repairs, for he had no money. Theoretically, the tenants kept the house repaired, but in actuality the majority of German houses were simply permitted to decay.

BIG MEN SCARCE.

Only 5 Out of Every 100 Suitable For English Police.

LONDON, March 7.— (United Press).—Britain is becoming alarmed at the difficulty of finding big men for her police forces. Ninety-five per cent of the would-be recruits are now being rejected. Perhaps ninety per cent of the applicants never reach the examining doctor because size and appearance make them manifestly unsuitable. And the educational tests knock out so many more that "a chief constable is lucky if he finds five suitable men among a hundred applicants," according to Sir Leonard Dunning, His Majesty's Inspector of Constabulary.

Sir Leonard attributes the difficulty primarily to "the general deterioration of the nation's physique and the after effects of war-time privation which are showing in those who are now reaching manhood."

London wouldn't be London without its giant coppers. Any one of them towers at least six feet in his stockings and weighs about 200 pounds. They carry no firearms but their truncheons have the respect of criminals the world over.

BRITISH PREFER DOLES TO SERVICE

Servant Problem in England is Very Complex.

LONDON, March 7.—Great Britain's surplus of women combined with the unemployment problem, there being approximately 300,000 women and girls out of work, has brought about a strange situation in the servant shortage which experts for months have been endeavoring to straighten out. American women living in London say that it is more difficult to obtain the services of a cook or housemaid than it is in most of the cities of the United States.

Authorities disagree as to the cause of the scarcity. Some contend that a great many women who have been receiving unemployment doles from the government prefer to exist as best they can on a few shillings a week to working out where they are virtually on duty all day long. Their pay here averages from $150 to $300 a year, with board and room, but in many instances maid servants of general cooks in large households receive a good deal more than this.

The London newspapers are filled daily with advertisements for cooks and maids of various kinds many of the housekeepers offering some sort of inducement to attract the attention of the eligibles. One of these which appeared recently, read:

Servant bonus — A $15 reward will be paid to anyone finding a really reliable cook general, apply Lady——"

Another advertisement, which ran for several days, was a follows:

"Wanted—A truthful, happy, willing girl ,trained for general housework—if there is one."

The government has under consideration an investigation of the system of doles which, it is contended in housewives' circles, should be tightened up a bit so that girls and women, and men too, would not be able to draw a regular allowance from the state treasury unless they were willing to work, and were compelled to show documents indicating that they had actually sought a task of one kind or another.

Incidentally it is related that twice as many young women as young men were sent to the overseas dominions last year under the auspices of the Salvation Army, which, in the opinion of Commissioner Lamb, is "a matter for congratulation in view of the tragic excess of females over males in the British Isles."

Bulgaria Ranking Well In Modern Sanitation

SOFIA, March 7.—(Associated Press).—A representative of the Rockefeller Foundation in Europe, Dr. Selskar Michael Gunn, before his departure from Sofia after his visit of inspection of sanitation in Bulgaria, arranged for the sending of six local physicians for a year's course of study and practice in American hospitals. These doctors are to be selected by competitive examination, and will leave next September.

Dr. Gunn pronounced himself highly pleased with the arrangements for sanitation in Bulgaria, which he pronounced superior to the achievements along the same lines in several European countries.

UNIVERSAL'S COWBOY STAR AND COMEDIAN

Hoot Gibson Won Fame and Admirers With His Smile and Acting.

Hoot Gibson won fame and a countless army of admirers with his smile and his acting in Westerns, and when they tried to call him by his real name, Edward Gibson, his friends all rebelled. Universal had to ball hero, not to speak of a circus him in the pictures where he could do hard riding and win out with his quick infectious grin.

Hoot is not only the winner of the Pendleton Round-Up of 1912 and of many hard riding contests since, but he is a comedian of real ability as he has proved in his pictures portraying the lives of a sailor, a private in the army and a baseball hero, not to speak of a circus clown and every variety of hombre known to the great West.

He started in his screen career as a member of Dick Stanley's Congress of Riders, and he was the hero of one of the first five reel Westerns ever made. H joined Harry Carey's Rough Riders when the latter was a universal star and succeeded him as Universal's principal Western star.

His best pictures are "The Rambling Kid," "The Hurricane Kid," "The Ridin' Kid from Powder River," "Hit and Run," "The Sawdust Trail" and he has just finished a very fine picture taken at the Pendleton Round Up and called "Let 'er Buck."

Hoot is happily married to Helen Johnson of vaudeville fame and has just built a very handsome home in Hollywood. He is a decided blonde in type with a fine athletic build and a winning smile and personality.

PEDESTRIANS GIVEN THE RIGHT OF WAY

Los Angeles Autos Must Stop For One to Cross the Road.

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—The new traffic ordinance recently made effective here gives pedestrians the right of way over motorists outside of the central traffic zone. One afoot desiring to cross a street at any intersection not under police control is supposed to signal his hand to approaching motorists, whom the law obliges to stop until the crosswalk is clear.

The pedestrians, however, are held rigorously to rules, in that they are prohibited from crossing streets anywhere except at corners. "Jaywalkers" are liable to arrest. In the downtown congested districts the foot traffic is required to follow the police signals and move with vehicles.

Violators of the ordinance, including "jaywalkers", are subject to a fine of $50 and a jail sentence for the first offense; a $100 fine and ten days' confinement for a second violation and for the third transgression a fine of $500 and a six months jail sentence.

A dozen pedestrians were arrested the first few weeks of the new law. Police officials look for more complete cooperation when it is realized that the regulation saves time and protects life.

The original draft of the ordinance proposed that horse-drawn vehicles be banished from the congested districts, but that section was revised to exclude horses from the downtown streets between the hours of 4:30 and 6 p.m.

The ordinance in general has embraced the recommendations of the recent national conference on street and highway safety held in Washington at the request of Secretary Hoover.

Generous Help Extended To Worthy Young Swedes

STOCKHOLM, March 7.—(Associated Press).—Champions of increased good will and co-operation between America and Sweden are gratified at an announcement made public here by the Sweden-America Foundation of 20 new scholarships donated by leading Americans, including Thomas A. Edison and J. P. Morgan, and American concerns for the purpose of enabling Swedes to pursue studies and get practical experience in the United States. Each student gets a stipend of $1,500 a year for a maximum of two years, and the privilege of practical study in the institutions of the donors.

These scholarships have been obtained through the efforts of A. R. Nordvall, Vice-President of the Sweden-America Foundation in Stockholm, who served at Washington during the war as Sweden's High Commissioner for Trade in America. During the past five years 20 other scholarships of $1,000 each have annually enabled ten students from each of the two countries to pursue studies in the universities and colleges of the other. Next year 30 Swedish students will benefit from scholarships given for study in America.

Slaveholders In Arabia Modify Their Methods

JERUSALEM, March 7.—(Associated Press).—The slave trade still flourishes in Arabia where a state of war exists between the Hashemite family, the former rulers of Mecca, and Sultan Ibn Saud, the Wahabi leader and contestant of the Husseins' vested rights to Moslem's holiest city. One of Ibn Saud's first acts after attacking the Hedjaz was to free many slaves.

Conditions, however, differ considerably from the methods of former days. The slave markets have now been closed, and it is very rare to hear of a slave being offered for sale openly. But this does not prevent the existence of slaves in the service of the noble and wealthy, who still have the children of their old slaves in their service. These were neither freed by their masters, nor did they ask their masters to free them, being content to live in the houses where they were born.

In the Yemen, it is said, the children of negroes may be offered for sale. The masters who have such slaves are free to do what they like with them; even if a slave is killed by his master the latter cannot be held responsible for the crime.

Paris Again Endeavors To Set Style For World

PARIS, March 7.—(Associated Press).—A directoire touch in day costumes and Oriental influence with gorgeous embroideries in evening frocks, marked the opening of the spring season of the Paris dress-making establishments, now in full swing.

Long haired mannequins have virtually replaced the bobbed haired variety at the grand openings of the leading houses.

The lines are straight and skirts flare. The long V and dropped stomach effects are evident. Many of the models have the front cut in the long V, or the ornamentation is arranged with the V as the basis.

In the tailored costumes the colors incline to browns and the various shades of beige, in which kasha cloths are extensively employed.

Evening frocks and wraps run to Oriental styles, many of them having the wrapped around effect finished on one side, with a long tassel where a sleeve might have been. But sleeves, on the whole, appear to be in the majority and they are more or less fancy and curious in their cuts. Some are open at the elbow and puffed at the wrist. When sleeves are absent, however, they disappear completely. Some evening dresses show deep armholes, and in many instances the bodices seem to be cut away under the arms.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

HAROLD LLOYD AND BUCK JONES.

The inimitable Harold Lloyd is at the Capitol Theatre to-day, in the type of comedy that made him famous. "Bumping into Broadway" has plenty of the situations in which the athletic and daring comedian does some wonderful stunts.

The feature picture, "The Man Who Played Square," starring Buck Jones, is a real thrilling drama of Western life and cowboy stuff. Buck Jones has the reputation of replacing even the adventurous Tom Mix in the regard of many movie fans, and he is a regular "he" man, with a readiness to fight at any or all times that has plenty of scope in this picture, which is filled with episodes in which the star mixes things up very thoroughly for his masculine companions. The fight in the cookhouse, with "Pronto" Matt Blake engaging in a free-for-all with half a dozen husky companions, abetted only by the cook and his weighted shoe, is a fast and furious affair. There is also a thrilling rescue of the heroine from a dynamited and blazing mine, showing the inner workings of the various levels, and a siege of the gold-vaults, where the honest employees of the mine's owner, Miss Bertie, stand off the marauders who come for the ore.

Wanda Hawley plays the leading feminine role, as Miss Bertie, and Hank Mann does the comedy part, as the loyal cook, with his pal, the monkey, on his shoulder.

BICYCLE CONTEST AT ROYAL.

Every boy and girl who is interested in owning the best bicycle it is possible to buy will be interested in the contest starting soon at the Royal.

The management of the Royal would like about fifteen energetic boys and the same number of girls to enter the contest, which is entirely original and somewhat on the lines of a popularity contest.

All details will be given on applying at the theatre.

"PAMPERED YOUTH" LAST TIME TO-NIGHT.

The discriminating patron will enthuse over "Pampered Youth," a Tarkington story, artistically produced with a fire scene for a climax that is now the talk of the town. This production will be screened for the last time to-night.

GREAT SUSPENSE IN NEW MYSTERY DRAMA AT ROYAL MONDAY.

To those who like mystery in their dramatic entertainment a treat is promised next Monday when "The Girl on the Stairs," the latest Elmer Harris production in which Patsy Ruth Miller is starred, is given its first local showing at the Royal Theatre.

Briefly, the story centres around a sleep-walking girl. One night, during one of her somnambulistic strolls, a murder is committed in the house that adjoins her home. Just before the discovery of the body of the murdered man she is seen descending the stairs from his bedchamber. As a motive for the killing, a packet of love letters written by the girl during her school days is found in the man's room. Added to all this evidence, her footprint is discovered on the knife with which the murder was committed. Her guilt seems certain and it is not until the very last reel that the mystery is unravelled.

Harris has surrounded Miss Miller with an imposing array of talent included in which are Niles Welch, Freeman Wood, Bertram Grassby, Arline Pretty, Shannon Day, Michael Dark, Frances Raymond and George Periolat.

The story is an original adaptation by Harris of Winston Bouve's magazine story of the same name and treated in an entirely different manner than the original. The picture was directed by William Worthington under Harris' personal supervision.

HOOT GIBSON SCREENED IN DARING WESTERN ROLE

Action, rapid and thrilling action, promised to be the keynote of "The Ridin' Kid From Powder River," Universal-Hoot Gibson production to be screened in the Royal Theatre next Thursday.

Tully Marshall, Gladys Hulette, Gertrude Astor and Walter Long have prominent parts in the supporting cast, and a bunch of the Universal Ranch Riders contribute some spectacular horsemanship. Others in the cast are William A. Steele, Sydney Jordan, Howard Truesdell, Frank Rice, Nelson McDowell, Fred Hume, Bowditch Turner and Newton House. Edward Sedgwick, who has directed Gibson in some twenty pictures for Universal, directed from an adaptation of Henry Herbert Knibbs' novel.

Believing that authentic incidents of the history of a country in the making have dramatic as well as historic value Universal executives sets its research department at work assembling data from various sources that have to do with the early days of the Southwest. This data once assembled it was turned over to the scenario department to be made into the script for a motion picture.

Inasmuch as some of the data came from records and names of persons who may have relatives living, the real persons who had an active part in some of the events pictured in this production are concealed, so far as identity is concerned, under fictitious names.

ST. JAMES' CONCERT.

Big Audience Applauded Every Item in High Class Entertainment.

The concert given in the Sunday School Hall of St. James' Methodist Church last evening by the Sunday School orchestra, proved a very enjoyable and high-class entertainment by local talent. Every number was heartily encored by the large audience present, and much enthusiasm was manifested over the musical efforts of the orchestra and assisting soloists. The assistant superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. Wm. McLaren, acted as chairman for the occasion. Clifford Rusaw led the orchestra, with Mrs. E. Hotston at the piano.

The concert opened with an orchestral number, "The Lion's Bride," followed by an overture, "The Golden Sceptre." Other orchestral numbers during the evening included a march, "The Billboard," an overture, "The Pilgrims," and an overture, "Ivanhoe."

Violin selections were played by Miss Winnie Evans, cornet solos by Mr. E. A. Cechetti, vocal numbers by Miss V. Buckham, Miss Florence Saunders and Mr. B. Moore, a reading by Miss Jean Hamilton, a piano solo by Mrs. F. Hotston, and several selections by a string quartette, composed of Messrs. Rusaw, Chenhall, Foster and Farthing. A vocal quartette, including Messrs. Albert and Thomas Williams, Pratt and Worrall, also gave several numbers.

The regular Sunday school orchestra was augmented last evening by the presence of six extra players, in Mrs. M. B. Hoyland, Miss K. Taylor, Messrs. Chenhall and Iredale, violins; R. Farthing, 'cello, and E. A. Cechetti, cornet.

LAUDS THRIFT FOR YOUNG MEN

First Step on Ladder of Success, Says F. H. Wallace.

Y. M. SUPPER.

"Simply a decision in your own mind that you will make good, simply setting an objective and constantly striving for it, an objective which will call for financial sacrifice or thrift to reach it," was F. H. Wallace's definition of thrift given by him last evening in speaking at the weekly young men's supper in the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Wallace began by giving a little known definition of thrift found in Webster's, "a plant with pink or white flowers found on mountain tops, or on shores." He applied this to the common idea of thrift, saying that by practice of the thrift one can climb the pinnacle of success and look back at those still struggling up the slope, and by the same habit one can gain the shore of safety and calm and see the others still struggling all unprepared in the winds of adversity.

Mr. Wallace told how his father had tried to teach him thrift in his early boyhood. He contrasted the simplicity of the spending in those days to the many channels for the spending of money for the youth of to-day.

"There is an anxiety to make money but not to save it to-day," said the speaker. He went on to explain that there is a difference between thrift and stinginess. There is, to-day, a tendency to extravagance and four-flushing. He gave as an example of thrift the manner in which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is bringing up his children. He advised the keeping of books to know just where the money spent has gone and the putting away of a portion of each week's wages where it will not be spent.

The speaker cited the statistics that only three people out of every hundred over the age of 60 years are self-supporting. "This is the greatest incentive to thrift."

Mr. Wallace then named over some of the greatest men in the business world who, starting as poor boys won their present position. All had said that they owed success to their practising thrift.

George Holman came to light as a comedian of no mean ability last evening, and he kept the room echoing to roars of mirth while he held the floor.

A. C. Kimball sang two splendid numbers, and altogether it was the most successful programme of the season.

5 EARTH TREMORS FELT AT QUEBEC

Shocks of Several Seconds Yesterday Affected Many Frail Buildings.

QUEBEC, March 7. —(Canadian Press).—Five feeble earth tremors are reported to have been felt in Quebec yesterday and reports from various outlying districts are to the same effect. The shocks lasted several seconds only, and were only sufficiently strong to be felt in frail buildings. At other places notably at Malbaie and Tedousac, the shock is said to have shaken a numebr of buildings and startled the already unnerved inhabitants.

BROCK ST. RINK NO SKATING TO-NIGHT

FRANCE READY FOR EVACUATION SOON

But Must Have Effective Security Pact and Strong Armaments Control.

PARIS, March 7. — (Canadian Press.)—In connection with talks now in progress between Premier Herriot and Foreign Secretary Austen Chamberlain of Great Britain on the security question, it is understood on best authority that M. Herriot has assured Mr. Chamberlain that France is ready under certain conditions to evacuate the entire Rhineland in the near future.

These conditions would be the granting of an effective security pact, an understanding that a strong control of armaments along the Rhine by the League of Nations would be provided.

Conversations between the two statesmen continue to-day.

Herriot Besieged.

Premier Herriot's after-dinner talk last night with British Foreign Secretary Austen Chamberlain lasted until midnight, but no information was vouchsafed as to exactly what was discussed

When M. Herriot arrived back at the foreign office, carrying his own special copy of the Versailles Treaty he was immediately besieged by the newspaper correspondents. They were able, however, to extract nothing from him except the statement that he was satisfied with the talk and that it would be resumed at 3 o'clock this afternoon after a luncheon in the foreign office.

COLLEGIATE LIT. HAS BRIGHT PLAY

Form Four B Responsible For Production of "Music Hath Charms."

At a meeting of the P.C.I. Literary Society, held yesterday afternoon in the Assembly Hall, the programme was presented by Form Four B, an all-boys form, who staged a two-act play entitled "Music Hath Charms."

The play went off in a clever, rollicking manner without a hitch, and it ranks high among the list of form stunts given during the past three years. The play was the story of the star pitcher of Montank College, who falls "sertously" in love just before the crucial game of the season. His chum, who fears that unless he is rooted from his fancy, his pitching will be spoiled and the honor of the old college dragged in the mire, hit upon a plan to bring him back to himself." The plan was a real snappy meeting of the Glee Club held that night in the twirler's room and naturally it worked to perfection.

Alden Bookhout played the part of the "mooning" pitcher with all the sighs and longing looks, while "Pine" MacDonald added considerable pep as Charley, the chum, so wrought up about his chum's state of mind and heart. Melville Fusee, as the college bookworm, talked learnedly of moraines and the glacial period, and always wore that seeking - after - the - knowledge air. Chester Crawford, as the jovial, baton-swinging, professor, couldn't be improved upon.

In the Cast.

Students of Montank College and members of the Glee Club.

Jack, W. Rome; Dick, W. Merrell; Bill, A. Sands; George, H. Baker; Tom, H. Coulthard; Arthur, C. Jackson; Professor-Director of the Glee Club, C. Crawford; Props. Manager, C. Crawford; Directing Manager, S. Hunter.

The Orchestra.

Stewart Widdess and his Garnet and Grey Music Makers consisting of Stewart Widdess and Arnold Spencer, violins; Miss Jean Bryce, piano; William Cormack, trumpet; Douglas Widdess, saxaphone, and Robert Cormack, traps, during the intermission gave a concrete proof of the fact that "music hath charms."

PREMIER BALDWIN'S APPEAL FOR PEACE

Declines Use of Majority in House to Achieve Political Success.

LONDON, March 7 (Canadian Press). — Everybody was talking to-day about Premier Baldwin's remarkable speech in the House of Commons yesterday, when he made an earnest appeal for industrial peace and declined to use his big Parliamentary majority to achieve political success.

At the Premier's behest the House formally rejected the Trades Union Political Fund Bill, which would have freed Conservative and Liberal Trade Unionists from the requirement under the Trade Union Act of 1913 of contributing to a fund for the support of the Labour Party.

Disgruntled a Few.

Although the Premiers attitude disgruntled a few of his own followers, and was dubbed by some of his opponents as a piece of opportunist strategy, his speech made a big impression upon the house, particularly the Labourites, and was the subject of animated praise in the Lobbies.

The press to-day is extremely eulogistic, declaring that the speech vastly enhanced the Premier's reputation and hold on the Conservative Party.

DEAD MAN RODE ON TOP CROWDED BUS

Made the Trip of Ten Miles Seated Beside Woman Passenger.

NEW YORK, March 7 (United Press).—On a seat atop of a crowded Fifth Avenue bus, a dead man rode yesterday for more than ten miles. The conductor finally discovered the man was dead after all the other passengers had dismounted.

The conductor said the man paid his fare and took his seat, and that while the car was still about nine miles from its point of destination he noticed him apparently asleep.

During most of the trip, a woman sat beside the man.

Two Soup Kitchens at One Colliery for Relief of Children —Some Miners Lack Clothing to Apply for Aid.

HUNDREDS OF DEPENDENTS FED

"If Armenia or India Was Worse Than This, Thank God I Was Not There," Comment of Minister.

SYDNEY, N.S., March 9.—Relief measures for the needy families of the miners of District 26, United Mine Workers of America, have been in operation over the week-end and it is believed that despite the meagre amount of money at the disposal of relief workers much is being effected. A central food depot is established in Glace Bay. Saturday afternoon provisions were issued and in cases where families were too destitute to apply personally for relief these were forwarded. Two soup kitchens are being maintained at No. 2 Colliery for the children.

Volunteer workers, headed by Rev. F. Macevoy of Glace Bay, have been busy over the week-end in relief activities and the following figures were given out by Mr. Macevoy:

Friday, nine hundred and forty-three dependents fed, and dinner to three hundred and seventy school children, at New Aberdeen.

Saturday, provisions given to nine hundred and fifty-nine dependents, and dinner for three hundred and forty-four children.

Mr. Macevoy, in a statement Saturday nights says that one-half of the actual condition has not come to light. These figures, he said, represent No. 2 alone.

"I had not time," he said, "to compile for other collieries where there has been much idleness." If Armenia and Japan after the shock, or India in famine were any worse than God, I was not there. Glace Bay Council gave $5,000 to carry on with, but this is a mere bagatelle, since distress is becoming more widespread and acute."

Strike Unchanged.

There has been no change in the strike situation which involves 12,000 miners. A protest from reserve mines that the British Empire Steel Corporation had removed the pumps from that mine was answered by J. E. McLurg, vice president of the corporation, that if the miners, who had withdrawn their men from the power house, agree to return these workers, the pumps would resume operations.

Labor Sends $500.

OTTAWA, March 9.—Sympathetic support from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada to the Nova Scotia miners in their present fight with the British Empire Steel Corporation is manifested by a telegram despatched Sunday from headquarters of the Congress here and signed by Tom Moore, president, and P. M. Draper, secretary-treasurer, on behalf of the executive council. Following is the text of the telegram.

"J. W. McLeod, President, District 26, U.M.W. of A., Glace Bay, Nova Scotia.

"Having followed progress of your negotiations as closely as possible, we are desirous of helping you to secure results satisfactory to men involved.

Anwering your telegraphic appeal Congress executive council unanimously approve of sending you five hundred dollars to aid in resisting threatened wage reductions and relieving some of the distress connected therewith, and cheque for this sum is bing mailed.

"To further secure undivided support throughout Dominion your executive are also given authority to add endorsation of Congress executive council to your appeal for funds to aid in present dispute."

"Not Local Issue."

Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress, in an interview, expressed the view, that there can be no division of opinion in the ranks of organized labor in the Dominion as to the need of supporting the miners of Nova Scotia in their present struggle.

"This is not merely a local dispute, but one which arouses general interest throughout Canada," said Mr. Moore. "Any cry as to unreasonable and high wages to these workers is amply refuted by the evidence published from impartial investigators during the past few years all of whom stress in their reports the amount of poverty always existing in this coal field and the general low standard of living in the district," said Mr. Moore.

Resources A Mockery.

He added the opinion that the oft-repeated declarations of the benefits of Canada's natural resources become a mockery when the men involved in the development of these resources are compelled constantly to accept such conditions.

The president of the Trades and Labor Congress expressd admiration for the manner in which J. W. McLeod and his local executive have been handling the situation, for the restraint they have shown, and for their steadiness in endeavoring to avoid an open break.

Edward H. Cass, 94, of Oak Park, Chicago, is said to be the oldest living Mason. He was tendered a reception at his lodge, Siloam Lodge No. 780, after completing his 70th year as a member of the order. He joined the order at Bangor, Me.

BALDWIN'S SPEECH LAUDED BY PRESS

Appeals for Good-will And Co-operation in Industry.

LONDON, March 9.—(Associated Press.)—Everybody was talking over the week end about Premier Baldwin's remarkable speech in the House of Commons Friday, when he made an earnest appeal for industrial peace and declined to use his big Parliametnary majority to free Conservative and Liberal trade unionists from the requirement under the Trade Union act of 1913, of contributing to a fund used for the support of the Labor Party.

Although the Premier's attitude disgruntled a few of his own followers and was dubbed by some of his opponents as a piece of opportunist strategy, the speech made a big impression upon the House, particularly the Laborites, and was the subject of animated praise in the lobbies.

It was a great feat of oratory such as those which made Gladstone and other Parliamentary spellbinders famous, but instead an earnest, homely, and at times even emotional plea for good-will and co-operation in the industrial world. To some extent it was a sequel to the speech the Premier delivered at Birmingham the previous evening, in which he stressed the hopelessness of attempting a common task in an atmosphere of "diabolic suspicion between man and man."

The press is extremely eulogistic, declaring that the speech not only vastly enhanced the Premier's reputation and hold on the Conservative Party, but surpassed in interest and importance anything heard in the House of Commons in many years.

This editorial praise is not confined to the Conservative newspapers but is lavishly bestowed by some of the Opposition organs. Thus the Liberal Daily News says:

"It was a very great personal triumph and much the best speech Mr. Baldwin ever made. It is very difficult to conceive any speech on such a subject which could have been better."

"FACE PEELING" FATAL TO HOLLYWOOD WOMAN

"Beauty Doctor" Fled After Charge of Manslaughter.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 9.—Detectives Saturday began an investigation into the death of Mrs. Jessie Gilchrist during a "face peeling" operation in Hollywood.

The detectives were working on a report that Mrs. Gilchrist underwent another face modeling operation last June at the hands of Dr. Gertrude Steele, "beauty doctor," who fled to Germany after she had been charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of a patient.

It was thought that Mrs Gilchrist's death might have been due indirectly to the first operation as well as to the operation under which she died.

Chemical analysis of the woman's brain showed traces of phenol poisoning, and the theory was that the operation last June may have left her particularly sensitive to the effects of the phenol solution commonly used in face-peeling operations.

WOMAN SPIRITUALIST IS ADVISER TO PIRIE

"Spiritual Adviser" of Man Condemned to Die on March 24.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 9.—John Buchanan Pirie, under sentence of death in the county jail here, for the murder of Caroline Freeland and their two children, on Saturday actually laughed and chatted with Mrs. Mollie Ransom Sutton, Toronto, spiritualist and an old friend, whom he has selected as spiritual adviser in his few days remaining before he hangs on March 24.

"It was more like a family talk. He discussed a number of personal reminiscences," declared Mrs. Sutton on leaving the jail.

Asked as to whether the condemned man had made any progress in spiritualism and if his mind was travelling on an actual plane, Mrs. Sutton declared that while Pirie had undoubtedly made considerable progress in this direction, she doubted very much if he had progressed sufficiently to be able to communicate with loved ones in the spiritual realm.

POLICE SPOIL A BEER PARTY

About a Dozen Faced Magistrate To-day—Had Roast Turkey.

RAID LAST NIGHT.

The police rounded up a number of drunks on Simcoe Street last night. The party had been partaking of beer said to have been purchased from James Hunter who was arraigned and pleaded not guilty on a double charge of intoxication and selling. When arrested they were roasting a goose it was said to complete the feast. In police court today, Fred Wilson, Victor Scobell, Archie Barbeau, Clarence Hynes, John Hynes, Arnold Clancy, Wilfred Curtain and Emmett Fox pleaded guilty. George Fox pleaded not guilty but Inspector James Reid, Sergeant John Deannard and P. C. John Naples swore that he was drunk.

Doctors To Issue Liquor Prescriptions

TORONTO, March 9.—(Canadian Press.) — Rumoors that the Ontario Government intends to abolish the system by which doctors issue prescriptions for liquor for medicinal purposes were declared to be without foundation to-day by Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General.

BETTER POLICE PROTECTION IS AIM COMMITTEE

Hundreds of Chicago Citizens Band Together Against Crime.

ASK NEW FORCE.

Judge Caverly Is One of the Leaders in the New Movement.

CHICAGO, March 9 (United News)—Several hundred citizens who have suffered from the crimnial element in this state and are therefore qualified for membership in what they call the "Committee of men who have been wronged," will hold their first convention on Wednesday for the purpose of discussing plans to fight crime.

The initial meeting will be held in Springfield, Ills., and leaders of the organization will appeal to the Legislature to establish a state police force.

The committee is made up of persons from all branches of civil life. They intend to make a demand for better police protection.

One of the individuals responsible for the organization is Judge John R. Caverly, of the Chicago Criminal Court.

TOWN TO FIGHT OIL COMPANY FOR LIFE

Citizens Ordered to Vacate Wyoming Oil Field.

LAVOYE, Wyo., March 9.—Frontier-like Lavoye, perturbed as never before, sought Saturday means to stave off her day of judgment, set by a Federal Court because, it is alleged, the soil on which this boom town stands is occupied in trespass and against the laws of the land.

News of the decree of Federal Judge Kennedy in Cheyenne, ruling that Lavoye's townsite—the home of 1,500 persons—rightfully belongs to the Ohio Oil Company, was received with outward calm by grizzled, weather-beaten citizens, but nevertheless caused deep concern.

The court held that the oil company was entitled to possession of the land within sixty days through a lease granted by the Government for oil development.

Business leaders of Lavoye, which lies in the heart of the Salt Creek oil fields, promptly called a mass meeting, at which citizens reiterated their stand not to vacate and announced a continuance of their fight in higher courts.

Sprouting up almost overnight during the oil rush, Lavoye's homes are mostly flimsy frame structures. The town has three weekly newspapers, several motion picture theatres and other institutions built with a view of being permanently maintained.

B. E. STEEL MAY ABANDON MINES

Ultimatum Demands Protection For Men Imported to Replace Clerks.

NO DISTURBANCE.

SYDNEY, N.S., March 9.—(Canadian Press).—The abandonment of the coal mines owned by the people of Nova Scotia, and operated by the British Empire Steel Corporation under a lease, is the alternative held out by J. K. McLurg, vice-president of the company, in the event of failure on the part of the Provincial Government to afford protection for the men he considers necessary to bring into the colliery district in order to supplant the members of the clerical staff now engaged in manning the pumps and fans. Quiet reigns throughout the affected area, and the miners express determination not to commit any overt act, believing that such would benefit the cause of the employers. Not even the customary picketing is being carried out. Up to a late hour this morning Mr. McLurg had received no reply to his appeal for protection, but Premier Armstrong intimated at Halifax last night that in view of there being no disorder, the protection sought would not be forthcoming.

John W. McLeod, district president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared this morning that if a committee of the men had induced a number of the 'white collar' laborers to quit work at No. 2 power house, the executive had not authorized such action.

Relief for the destitute in the mining districts of Cape Breton is occupying chief attention in the strike situation to-day.

FRENCH REFUSE TO MAKE POLAND SECURITY PAWN

German Desire to Restore Eastern Frontier Stumbling Block in Negotiations.

MEETING IN PARIS

Chamberlain and Herriot Discuss New Alignment of Powers to Replace Protocol.

PARIS, March 9 (Canadian Press) —The twenty-four hours that have passed since the conversations between Premier Herriot and Austen Chamberlain, the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, on the subject of security, have not brought any important addition to what has already been made public on the subjects discussed.

The British side, apparently moved by the details given out to the French press and published on Sunday morning, gave out some intimatiqus for the benefit of the British press, which for the most part are confirmatory of the French version.

One new and interesting point disclosed is that when M. Herriot insisted that the proposed five or seven power pact, if formed, should not diminish the period of Allied occupation of the Rhineland, and that it should respect Article 44 of the League covenant whereby infractions of the demilitarisation of the Rhineland constitute aggression against the signatories of the treaty, Mr. Chamberlain was able to reassure M. Herriot, explaining that Herr Stresemann, German Foreign Secretary, in response to the British inquiry had declared, in making his security pact proposal, that he did not expect a reduction in the periods of occupation.

Polish Obstacle.

Undoubtedly the question of Germany's eastern frontiers is the main stumbling block. M. Herriot said that France would respect the terms of her treaty with Poland, and that any plan which looked like purchasing French security at Poland's expense was unthinkable to French opinion.

It is said the British spokesman advocated in principle the inclusion of Germany as a good general policy for the protection of France, and also as a good European policy, in that it would tend to prevent the formation of a Russo-German bloc built to counteract the Franco-British bloc, which would exist under a simple treaty between France and Britain.

It is understood the French spokesman by no means excluded a compact with Germany, but elaborated on the French fears that Germany would use the option thus given her not only to try and divide Britain and France but to seek revision of the clauses of the Treaty of Versailles.

He especially emphasised the German statement that while the Reich was ready to accept the western frontiers, including definite renunciation of Alsace-Lorraine, she wished to establish the principle of arbitration of differences with Poland or Czechoslovakia.

As M. Herriot explained, France and her Allies took this to mean that Germany did not accept the Eastern frontier as fixed by the Treaty of Versailles.

In reply, it is stated, Mr. Chamberlain said the conditions of Germany may have suggested that the first proposals were not necessarily final, and that there was a wide field for negotiation.

The French Premier stood on the position that it would be very difficult to get the Chamber to accept any German conditions looking to a revision of the territorial sections of the Treaty of Versailles.

German Admission to League.

The two Foreign Ministers discussed the admission of Germany to the League of Nations, and the current understanding is agreed that if by next September Germany had given a fair appearance of intending to fulfill the disarmament clauses of the treaty, she would be admitted at the next Assembly.

The Foreign Ministers explained their plans for having the League take over the armament inspection of Germany and discussed ways and means for having the League guarantee a Rhine peace fence between France and Germany.

BARS FRONTIER CHANGE.

Poland's Attitude Made Clear by Premier Grabski in Senate.

WARSAW, March 9. — Poland will insist upon the retention of her present frontiers, established under the peace treaties, Premier Grabski declared in reply to an interpellation in the Chamber of Deputies.

"The suggestion made by the German Government to the Allied Powers on the occasion of the diplomatic conversations relative to the evacuation of the Cologne zone," he

STONE CRUSHED WORKER'S HEAD

Blast Hurled Rock Through Wall to Kill S. J. Bowerman.

BIG FAMILY.

BELLEVILLE, March 9 (Canadian Press).—Smith J. Bowerman, an employee at the Canada Cement Company's plant at Pointe Anne, was on Saturday afternoon the victim of a fatal accident. He was in the building when a large stone was hurled from a blast penetrating the side of the building striking Bowerman in the left side of his face and head, fracturing the skull. The victim lived but a short time. Deceased was 58 years old and leaves a widow and five children.

OPENED COUNCIL NATIONS' LEAGUE

Geneva Invaded By Diplomats and Newspaper Men From All Europe.

BRITAIN OBJECTS.

GENEVA, March 9. — (Canadian Press).—Austen Chamberlain, the British Foreign Secretary, as President of Council, opened the twenty-third session of the Council of the League of Nations to-day.

Diplomats, Government agents and newspaper men have come to Geneva from all corners of Europe, attracted by the large number of important questions on the Council's programme, especially the problem of the Geneva security protocol, which Great Britain is expected to declare unsuited to British ideas.

The British, however, resent any advancement of the idea that they are killing the protocol. Their representatives insist that what they intend to do is to explain their objections to the proposed pact. The present indications seem to be that action on the protocol will be postponed to the meeting of the League's Assembly in September, and that meantime negotiations for the guaranty pact recently proposed will be pushed. Great Britain's statement on the protocol may be forthcoming to-morrow.

PROGRESSIVES AND LIBERALS COMBINE

Will Merge Interests and Enter Low-Tariff Candidate in Norfolk.

SIMCOE, March 9 (Canadian Press). — Representatives of both Liberals and Progressives at the meeting in Battersby House here, unanimously agreed on the merger of political interests in Norfolk County.

If the two riding associations agree with the decision of the committee, the problem of representation in the next election will be solved by entering a low tariff candidate in the field.

BUSINESS GOOD; GETTING BETTER

Railway Traffic is Indication of Improvement, Says C.P.R. Official.

BIG CONVENTIONS.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 9 (Special to The Examiner). — Proof that business condition in Eastern Canada are improving is forthcoming by the large increase in Western freight traffic that has taken place over our lines in the past three weeks, announced W. R. McInnes, vice-president in charge of traffic, Canadian Pacific Railway, at the Royal Alexandra Hotel to-day.

Mr. McInnes said that it was confidently expected that this increase would continue, especially as the second wheat pool payment would put such a large sum of money in circulation throughout the West.

"Turning to the passenger traffic prospects for the year," said the vice-president, "things are indeed rosier than ever as the tourist bookings are very heavy. We are also interested in the many large conventions that are to take place this year along the Pacific Coast, mostly at Seattle, San Francisco, and Los Angeles, and will be attended by over one hundred thousand delegates.

Arrangements have been made for large numbers of them to make the journey one way through Canada—many of them coming by way of Winnipeg and some by way of Portland. All of them will visit the mountains.

Where Ignorance Is Bliss.

LONDON, March 9.— "Do You Know Your Empire?" demand The Daily News, and its stable companion, The Star, in introducing a cross-word puzzle comprising names of places within Great Britain at large. One of the clues given is "an important Canadian city." The only word that fits the space indicated is "Ontario." So it looks as if The Daily News and The Star do not know their Empire. These papers, incidentally, have carried some of the most bitter attacks against conditions in Canada which have been published on this side in recent months.

IROQUOIS, Ont., March 9 (Canadain Press.—The trial of Thomas Collinson, of Matilda Township, charged with the murder of Beatrice Thorpe 17-year-old Dundas County school girl has been set for Tuesday, March 10th, at Cornwall, before Mr. Justice Lennox. The Thorpe girl, who was alone with her brother at her parents' home near Brinston, was shot down while at her supper. The shot was fired through the window. V. J. McElderry of Peterboro will be Crown Prosecutor.

RUSSIAN TAX CUT

Soviet Announces New System to Reduce Burden.

TIFLIS, March 9.—The Government announced to the Society convention to-day that it had decided to reduce this year's agricultural taxes by 40 per cent.

In connection with the new measure the whole system of assessing the peasantry for taxes will be changed. Instead of an estimation of the income of the peasant on the eve of the harvest, the Government is now going to calculate taxes on the basis of the harvest of the last three years, and the State is to bear the expense of uncollected taxes of those with failing crops, instead of the previous practice of charging an additional tax upon the regions where the harvest is good.

The Government also stipulated that part of the taxes collected from the peasantry will go to cover expenses of the local budget of the rural districts.

The measure will bring great relief to the peasantry, and the announcement was received by the convention, especially by the peasant section, with great enthusiasm.

BANNED BY BRITISH.

LONDON, March 9.—British army doctors are rejecting 82 out of every 100 men who apply for enlistment. Two years ago the percentage rejected was 58 per cent.

REO BREAKS ITS OWN RECORD FOR FEBRUARY

Shipments for February, 1925, were greater than in any previous February for the Reo Motor Car Company, according to an announcement just made by officials of the company. Despite unfavorable weather conditions, business for the veteran company was noticeably better than in the corresponding month of any former year.

This is looked upon as the forerunner of an unusually good spring business for Reo. Distributors and dealers are low with respect to stocks of cars, by far the greater number having only their samples on their sales floor.

Having felt the sharp demand for both passenger cars and Speed Wagons, many of the dealers are revising their estimates of spring requirements, and there is now every indication that the Reo shops will be placed on an increased production schedule in order to meet the needs of the distributing organization.

Reo has been especially fortunate in marketing its Twentieth Anniversary Sedan. This model, it will be remembered, was the first full-sized four-door, sedan on a standard chassis to be announced by any manufacturer at the price of an open car of similar mechanical quality.

The announcement of this Reo model in November may be said to have actually created new standards of closed car construction for the automotive industry. A number of two-door and one or two other four-door sedans were announced after the Twentieth Anniversary Sedan, but Reo's well-established mechanical excellence and manufacturing integrity, coupled with the attractive appearance of the car, have maintained the lead gained when the model was introduced.

DANCING IN ITSELF IS IMMORAL AND SINFUL SAYS FATHER TRUDEL

Condemnation Voiced on Grounds of Passion and Voluptuous Music — Destroys Modesty and Leads to Greater Sins.

QUEBEC, March 9 (Canadian Press).—Dancing and immodest dress came in for strong criticism yesterday in the pro-cathedral, when Rev. Father Pierre Trudel, who is conducting a Novina, chose these topics as his subject. The preacher described all dancing as an occasion of sin, and asserted that it should be forbidden. In a previous sermon, the speaker advocated the practices of moderation in all things, and he followed this yesterday with the statement that moderation would not do in the case of dancing, because dancing was immoral in itself.

"These dances," Father Trudel said, "either by their movements of their significance arouse passions and offend modesty. All sovereign pontiffs, bishops and clergy have spoken against them. Benedict XV., for example, at various times asked that exotic dances be banned by by society, on the ground that nothing so quickly destroyed modesty.

"Why are modern dances an occasion of sin?" the preacher asked; and proceeded to reply, "because of the passions they arouse, because they pave the way to greater sins because of the voluptuous music that accompanies them."

TROUBLE IN AFRICA.

Somali Tribes Battling For Possession of Oasis—Women Carried Off.

LONDON, March 9.—(Canadian Press).—A Nairobi despatch to the Daily Express says the transference of Jubaland to Italy under the recent treaty has given occasion to disturbances, two Somila tribes battling for the possession of a certain oasis. No casualties are reported, but a number of women are said to have been carried off.

The British native garrison at Bismayo, near the scene of the trouble, has been reinforced, the despatch adds, as developments are expected.

BETHANY NEWS.

Basket Social Under Auspices of Women's Institute Gave Good Returns.

BETHANY, Ont., March 9.—Mr. and Mrs. John Staples of Lindsay, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. Staples' mother, Mrs. John Staples.

Miss L. Washington has returned to the village after a lenghty visit with friends in Cavan.

Mr. Thos. Jackson has moved to the farm recently vacated by Mr. Milton Challice, and Mr. Challice has moved into Mr. Jackson's residence, and taken over the grocery and butcher business.

Owing to the illness of Rev. W. H. Dafoe there were no services on the Bethany circuit on Sunday. The Methodist congregation went from the church to the Presbyterian Church and were heartily welcomed by the minister, Rev. Mr. Walker.

Basket Social.

The Women's Institute held a successful basket social in the town hall on Friday evening. The social opened with the singing of "The Maple Leaf." Mrs. S. Jamiehon, president, gave an outline of the expenses connected with the Institute. The lighting of the streets costing around twenty-five dollars a month, and explained that the social was held principally on that account. Instrumental duet, Miss K. McCarthy and Miss D. Dafoe; reading, Miss Beatrice Darroch; vocal duet, Misses Jean Thorndyke and Helen Byers; instrumental, Mr. D. A. Greenlaw; vocal duet, Misses Jean and Helen McKinnon; instrumental, Jean Thorndyke.

Mr. Alex. Monk acted as auctioneer of the many baskets which were presented. The one holding the novelty was the one shaped like a bottle end marked "Ferguson's 4.4 per cent. The baskets went at good figures, ranging in price from a dollar to over two dollars. The amount realized being over sixty dollars.

A BAD COLD DEVELOPED INTO BRONCHITIS

Mrs. Levi Ogden, Amherst Shore, N.S., writes:—"My baby girl had a very bad cold which turned to bronchitis, and she could not sleep at night for the coughing. I gave her everything I could think of to relieve her, but nothing seemed to do her any good, and she was not getting any better. I was advised, by a friend, to try

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

I did so, and after giving her a few doses I saw good effects so I kept on with it. I gave her two bottles, and her cough soon left her, and now she is as well as can be. I cannot praise 'Dr. Wood's' enough; it is certainly a wonderful medicine."

This preparation has been on the market for the past 35 years; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Is This Your Birthday

Monday, March 9. —If to-day is your birthday, you will have pronounced views on many subjects and be well known in later life for your advocacy of them. Many of your views will prove to be right, although your early advocacy of them will draw derision because you will be "ahead of your time." Women born today are very resourceful, and will be a success in business. The prospects are that you will inherit a small amount of money.

DO THIS AFTER SEVERE ILLNESS

How to Speedily Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But no body wants to take the ill-smelling, horrible tasting, stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness and especially after the Grippe or a stubborn cough or cold.

Ask Warne Drug Co., McDermid & Jury, Jas. Lynch, or any other regular druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 Tablets—60 cents.

FOR DAMP CLOSETS.

If a closet is damp, place a cup of quicklime in the corner and it will absorb the dampness and disinfect as well.

RUSSIAN PRINCE PASSES IN PARIS

Was Premier of the First Revolutionary Government And Allies' Friend.

PARIS, March 9.— (Associated Press.)—Prince Georgi Yevgenievitch Lvoff, former Prime Minister of the first and second Provisional Russian Governments, died suddenly of heart disease at his suburban apartment here Friday night.

Prince Lvoff was an aristocrat of aristocrats by birth, a descendant of the Rurik, who, in the ninth century, created the kernel of future Muscovy, and a son of the composer of the Russian national anthem. He was a pure Slav and throughout his career displayed the characteristic Slav tendencies toward liberalism, and kept aloof from the old court. His life is a story of the progress of democracy in Russia.

After graduating from the University of Moscow as a Bachelor of Law he settled on his estate in the Province of Tula and helped organize the local Zemstvo. In 1893 he became the head of this organization and by his unselfish labors for reforms won the gratitude of the masses. He established schools and hospitals and did everything in his power to promote the welfare of the peasants, thereby earning the suspicious disapproval of the Government In the war with Japan he organized sanitary and feeding stations for the army, and afterward refused political advancement from the Czar, preferring to continue his social activities.

The continued antagonism of the Government was shown by its declining to recognize his election as Mayor of Moscow in 1913. With the outbreak of the World War Prince Lvoff was placed at the head of the Pan-Russian Zemstvo organization, which gave valuable help in the provisioning of the army and in supplying medical aid. In the Congress of Zemstvos he played a prominent part in bringing about the first Duma, to which he was returned as a member for Tula. On the overthrow of the Czar his appearance as Premier of the first Provisional Government gave hopes that order wold be maintained in the revolution and his sane and liberal views receive authority.

But from the beginning his Government was under the thumb of the Soldiers and Workmen's Committee and proved powerless to check the drift toward the German peace and social disintegration. When he turned over to Kerensky such powers as he had the revolution had passed into the hands of the extreme radicals. There are critics who maintain that Lvoff had he possessed a firmer hand night have altered the course of events.

Since his retirement Prince Lvoff had devoted himself largely to various forms of welfare work. As head of the Association of Russian Zemstvos Outside Russian he visited the United States in 1922 to raise money for his expatriated countrymen. He called at the White House and thanked President Harding on behalf of the Russian people for the assistance given them by America. He was about 60 years old.

OBITUARY

MRS. CORNELIUS O'SULLIVAN.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 9.—Mr. George O'Sullivan, Booth Street, received word on Sunday that his mother, Mrs. Cornelius O'Sullivan, had died that morning at 9 o'clock, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. R. Pegman, Rochester, with whom she lived. Mrs. O'Sullivan was in her eighty-first year, and had been ailing for some time, and at the last died from the effects of a stroke. The remains will be brought to Campbellford, and will arrive here on Wednesday. The funeral will be held on Thursday morning, but the hour has not as yet been decided upon.

The late Mrs. O'Sullivan was formerly a resident of Seymour Township, then moved to Campbellford, and lived here in town for several years before going to live with her daughter. Another daughter, Sister Antoinette, and a son, Father Frank O'Sullivan, who had just arrived from Florida, were with her when she passed away.

Mr. George O'Sullivan, of Campbellford, was over to see his mother last week and spent from Monday till Thursday with her.

Mrs. O'Sullivan was well-known in the country as well as in town.

WARKWORTH PERSONALS.

WARKWORTH, March 7.—Miss Maud Miller returned to Peterboro on Friday, after spending a couple of weeks with friends in town.

Mrs. Bob Hazelton, of Toronto, is visiting the parental home.

Mrs. Joseph Owen is spending a few days with friends in Peterboro.

Miss Clara E. Ewing, of Toronto, is spending the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Ewing.

The Campbellford Seniors journeyed to Warkworth on Thursday evening and defeated the local team.

The friends of Mr. Archie Thompson are pleased to hear he is improving after his recent illness.

REDS SHOOT 7 MUTINEERS.

Leningrad Court Deaf to Pleas for Mercy by Convicts Who Revolted.

LENINGRAD, March 9. — Seven prisoners who were accused of mutiny against the prison administration were shot here on Saturday.

The prisoners, in vain, made an earnest plea for mercy to the Court.

GLASGOW FAILS IN BRICKMAKING

Municipal Plant to be Offered for Sale, Say the Authorities.

GLASGOW, Mar. 9. —This city which has demonstrated the possibility of efficient municipal ownership of public utilities, has failed in municipal brick-making. At least this seems to be the conclusion of many from the fact that Glasgow's municipal brick-making plant is to be offered for sale.

As a matter of fact, the exact status of the enterprise has not been determined. The situation is peculiar and a little difficult to understand. One thing is certain, in common with many such ventures which were undertaken soon after the close of the war, the cost of Glasgow's municipal brickplant killed all hope of it becoming a paying venture whenever business conditions should return to the normal.

The business was not established by the municipality, but was a going concern purchased jointly by local authorities and the Scottish Board of Health. The investment was thought necessary because, in 1921, there was a great shortage of housing and a chaotic condition both in the building trades and in the manufacture and transportation of building material.

The Deficit.

The Scottish Board of Health was empowered to grant subsidies to encourage building and it agreed with the Glasgow authorities to apply funds to make up the deficit, if the city would assume for the purchase of the brick-making plant an obligation of four-fifths of a penny on the tax rate. But the health authorities made the condition that at the end of three years the brick works should be valued and the value credited to the State-aided housing scheme of the local authorities; that is, if the authorities should think it advisable to go on with the work of making brick.

The original cost of the plant was about the equivalent of $225,000. It is now recognized that this is an enormously excessive figure, precluding all possibility of operating at a profit. The capital price remaining now after the expiration of the three years is still about $175,000. And so the Glasgow authorities have said to the Board of Health that to deliver bricks in Glasgow in competition with local brickmakers the capital invested in the plaint ought not to be more than aboue $40,000. They made the offer to carry on the business if the Board of Health would relieve them of responsibility beyond that cost, but the board refused. Thereupon, it was concluded to put the plant upon the market.

Like Others.

The case is quite like many others which grew out of inflated and unsettled conditions soon after the war. At that time the market for bricks to be used industrially and for ornamental bricks was such that the brickmakers of Glasgow would not produce bricks for the construction of common houses. Bricks were being shipped all the way from London and the price of common bricks had arisen to about six times pre-war prices.

The municipality seemed justified in undertaking to provide material for a rousing programe sadly delayed. Soon after the municipal plant began to operate the price of bricks fell, and the city's enterprise was given credit for effecting an enormous saving to home-builders. At the time, the authorities openly declared that they did not regard the brick plant as a municipal experiment but as a necessary means of securing material of which the people were sorely in need.

Public opinion generally seems convinced that the experiment was justified, although it involved considerable loss. An emergency was met and the continuance of the housing program was made possible. Even now, it is belived, if a part of the excessive capital cost can be written off, the plant will be able to continue and prove itself an effective check upon profiteering in a necessary commodity.

Mexico To Combine Her Mail and 'Phone Service

MEXICO CITY, March 9.—(United Press).—Mexico will undertake to combine her postal and telegraph systems, in order to bring both these departments within the general plan for drastic economies in all Governmental departments.

According to Senor Cosme Hinojosa, director-general of the postal service, it is estimated that the Government will effect a savings of five millions pesos yearly once the program is completed.

Work will be begun in the smaller offices in order to demonstrate the advisibility of carrying the project throughout the systems. The savings will be effected principally through the reduction of personnel and rentals of offices.

If the trial service demonstrates conclusively that the estimated economies can be realized, the program will continue until all second-class offices have been combined. Thereafter it will continue until it includes all the postal and telegraph system of the Republic.

The proposition has met with considerable opposition among both the telegraph and postal operatives owing to the fact that many of them will find themselves without employment.

Prince Needs Trailer Behind H.M.S. Repulse To Carry Paraphernalia

LONDON, March 9. —(United Press) —The Prince of Wales is trying to rigure out how he can make H. M. S. "Repulse" accommodate all the people and things he wants to take with him when he sails for South Africa on March 28th. Here's H. R. H.'s list.

Ninety men, including 21 special servants and eight valets; a twenty piece jazz band.

Two hundred suit cases. Enough food and equipment to stage a reception for 900 people.

LADIES HELD SALE OF HOME COOKING

St. Mary's Parish, Campbellford, Benefits by $200—Pleasant Occasion.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 9.—The ladies of St. Mary's Parish are to be congratulated on the success of their home cooking sale and afternoon tea, which was held on Saturday afternoon in the store on Front Street, next door to J. A. Louck's.

There were many donations sent to the cooking booth, which was in charge of Mrs. P. J. Kelly and Mrs. Geo. O'Sullivan, who were assisted by Miss Brunelle, Mrs. Thos. Callery, Mrs. Frank Kennedy, Mr. (Dr.) Bussey and Mrs. J. E. Birks. The ladies were all kept busy during most of the afternoon.

Miss K. O'Shaughnessy was the cashier.

Another booth having home-made bread and country produce was in charge of Mrs. McNamara, assisted by Mrs. H. A. Wood, Mrs. Patrick O'Connor and Mrs. Joseph Kelleher. There was also a guessing contest with Mrs. Geo. Nicol and Mrs. M. Mulhearn in charge. The prizes given for this were won as follows:

Centrepiece, Mrs. Ernest Cassan; flower bowl, Wr. Fitzpatrick; basket of eggs, Mrs. John Rellis; box of candy, Miss Kathleen Keenan.

And last, but not least, a very pretty tea room in charge of Mrs. Jas. Kerr and assisted by Mrs. Dunk Misses Margery Byrne, Bernice Farrell, Monica Biute. Mrs. Thomas Dewey had charge of the tea and coffee. Mrs. Duncan Kerr was the cashier

The tea room had six tables, each one decorated with a different color —gold, white, rose, mauve, blue and yellow. Each of the tables had the dishes, linen, flowers and lights of its own color. These indeed made a very pretty effect and those taking afternoon tea enjoyed the dainties served in such a dainty way.

Mrs. Joseph Kelly of Rice Lake looked after the music.

The total proceeds amounted to $211.25.

Of this only six dollars were needed for expenses, leaving the ladies of the parish $205 clear, which was a little over $36 ahead of last year.

Another of the activities of the ladies of St. Mary's Church will be a euchre party, given in the Assembly Hall of the High School on Easter Monday.

Personal.

Mr. Ernest Holly has purchased the farm of Mr. Sam. Adams, near Trent Bridge, and will take possession the tenth of March.

Mr. Frank Kennedy, of Cornwall, spent the week-end at his home on Rear Street.

Miss Bell, sister of Mr. J. H. Bell, who came over from England some months ago, and visited Mr. and Mrs. Bell, George Street, and who has been in Toronto for some time, is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bell, where she underwent an operation on Thursday. She is doing well.

The firemen were called out on Saturday morning about 8 o'clock, but it proved to be a false alarm.

Rev. C. F. McIntosh, who was away in Prince Edward County most of last week speaking in the interests of the religious education work, returned home on Saturday and took the evening service in the Methodist Church on Sunday.

OPPOSE PROTOCOL.

Predicted That Britain Will Favor Five-Power Pact.

GENEVA, March 9.—(Canadian Press.)—The outstanding prediction concerning the coming League of Nations Council meeting is that the British will declare unalterable opposition to the Geneva protocol of which Foreign Minister Benes of Czecho-Slovakia is author and suggest as a substitute a five-power agreement by Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Belgium It is also expected that Germany will be asked to join the league unconditionally as a condition prior to the security pact.

CHICAGO RENTS LOWER.

Reductions Run From $5 to $30 a Month For Flats.

CHICAGO, March 9. — Chicago rents are going down and reductions of 5 to 10 per cent. are being made in many neighborhoods Concessions of one and two months' rent and liberal allowance for decorations and repiars are also being offered.

Some real estate men say that 30 per cent. of the city's flat dwellers will move on May 1. This has caused a rush on the part of landlords to get leases signed for next year.

The general rule is a reduction of $5 a month for apartments renting for less than $100 a month; $10 a month for those that bring between $100 and $200 and $20 to $30 for apartments renting above $200.

SHIEKS ARE APT IN POLITICAL GAME

Swell Voters List to 10,000,000, Although Irak Has 3,000,000 People.

BAGDAD, March 7.—Although the total population of Iraq is less than 3,000,000, the parliamentary election returns submitted from all districts indicate that there are no fewer than 10,000,000 voters in the country. It appears that some of the tribal sheiks, with political ambitions, were inclined to exaggerate the number of their tribes when compiling their electoral registers.

An official investigation is now being made into this sudden swelling of the population, and the election results are being held up until the inquiry has been concluded. Democracy is likely to have many more unforeseen results in Iraq. It is significant that eagerness to be represented in the parliament of Iraq outweighed the important consideration that, if compulsory service were ever introduced, large quotas of men would be expected from tribes with long lists of voters.

It is urged that a reliable census of Iraq be made. It would not be a novelty in the country. The rulers of ancient Babylonia knew with a fair degree of accuracy how many men they held under their sway.

NEWS OF CAVAN

CAVAN, March 9.—Thomas McIndoo received a telegram yesterday morning, informing him of the death of his brother-in-law, Dr. R. Dean that morning at his home in Michigan. The body is being brought here for interment, the funeral taking place on Tuesday afternoon from Mr. McIndoo's residence to St. Johns cemetery, Ida.

Wm. Earle, of Nova Scotia, is visiting his brother, Jno. Earl.

George Wallace, of Millbrook, visited Cavan friends on Thursday.

Mrs. Robt. Hooton, of Fairmount, has returned home after a few days' visit with her sister, Mrs. Jas. Douglas

Mac. Newton, who has been ill with scarlet fever, is improving.

The Tuxis Boys held thir annual basket social in the hall Friday night and it proved a success in every way. All enjoyed a programme of dialogues, reading and singing by Mr. Ward of Westwood, after which the baskets were auctioned off by Wm. Pritchard. They sold all the way from fifty cents to three dollars and thirty-five cents. The whole proceeds amounted to fifty-two dollars.

BARRIE THE MODEST.

LONDON, March 9.—Sir James Barrie so dislikes self-advertisement that the words "By J. M. Barrie" have disappeared from the massive electric sign advertising the film production of Peter Pan. He informed the theatre he would appreciate it greatly if the words were darkened.

FAITHFUL ORGANIST.

LONDON, March 9.—Miss Helen Cope has played the organ in Kings way Church for 60 years. During that long period she has been absent from Sunday services only four times.

A BRITISH SECRET.

WEYMOUTH, Eng., March 9.—England is keeping a close secret just how the dreadnaught Monarch was sunk by the Atlantic Fleet recently. This secrecy may cause a debate in Parliament similar to the American investigations into the use of the airplane to sink battleships.

BULL CHARGED TAM.

Little Girl Had Narrow Escape When Bull Going to Market.

HARRISTON, March 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Little Ruth Myles had a narrow escape from an enraged bull on Saturday, which was being led to market by three men. The little girl, who wore a red tam, was walking down Elora street when the bull sighted the emblem of danger and charged at the child. Men on the street called to her to run into a store, which she did. She was not a moment too soon, for the animal raced right up to the store door.

THUGS TIE WATCHMAN.

Leave Bakery Without Loot When Other Employee Approaches.

TORONTO, March 9.— (Canadian Press).—Robert Kelly, watchman for the George Lawrence bakery, was tied hand and foot and bound to a chair by ropes by two armed masked men who sought to rob the place about 11 Saturday night. The thugs left the place without even gaining admittance to the office, much less looting the vault in which was several thousand dollars. The robbers hastily decamped at the approach of another employee of the firm.

MATCH CAUSES DEATH.

RUGBY, Eng., March 9.—Mrs. Euphemia McKinnie, an invalid, was burned to death when she struck a match to see the time and her nightdress caught fire.

LADIES' BANQUET A HUGE SUCCESS

The Old Members of Knox Church Society Dined New Members.

HAVELOCK NEWS

HAVELOCK, March 9. — The Ladies' Aid Society of Knox Church gave a banquet to new members on Wednesday evening, when a most enjoyable time was spent in the school-room of the church.

At the beginning of the year a special effort was made to increase the membership of this society, and a committee was appointed to visit all the ladies of the congregation who were not members, the result being that the membership was doubled.

Two guessing contests, won by Mrs. A. M. Buchanan and Mrs. H. F. McNichol, and the following short programme added much pleasure to the evening's entertainment:

Vocal duet—Mrs. H. F. McNichol and Mrs. Quinn; reading—Mrs. E. Henderson; address — Mrs. Jno. Howe; recitation—Mrs. E. Henderson.

Seventy members sat down to the ample and appetizing repast, the tables being made additionally attractive with pink and white hyacinths.

A vote of thanks was tendered the ladies responsible for the success of the function.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. D. Vansickle is visiting Mrs. R. Brown at Smith Falls.

Dr. Henry Scott, of Toronto, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Scott.

Miss Blanche McClintock, of Elderado, is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Lena Williams.

Mrs. Jean Moore spent Friday in Toronto.

WHY FAIRBANKS MADE "BAGDAD"

There is a touch of the fantastic even in the reason I made "The Thief of Bagdad"—for it is a reason impelled by the unseen. It is a tribute to the fineness that I believe underlies the workaday philosophy of men; a recognition of the inner forces that belie the sordidness of Life.

There can be no doubt that the human soul's reaching for finer, higher, more ethereal things is intuitive and first manifests itself in a child's love of fairy tales and fantasy.

The dreams, longings and roseate ambitions of childhood are relegated to the background of Life by the struggle of existence, but stifling them doesn't kill them. They persist throughout the years. There are moments when we all "dream dreams."

Imagery is inherent in the human breast. The brave deeds, the longing for better things, the striving for finer thoughts, the mental pictures of obstacles overcome and successes won are nearer to our real selves than our daily grind of earthly struggle.

"The Thief of Bagdad" is a story of things we dream about; a tale of what happens when we go out from ourselves to conquer Worlds of Fancy. We set out to win our Heart's Desire; we confuse our enemies; we demean ourselves bravely; our success is complete; our reward is Happiness.

I believe that this is the story of every man's inner self and that every man will thus see it.

That's the reason I made "The Thief of Bagdad."

ATTRACTING IMMIGRANTS.

One matter brought to the attention of the Federal Government by the Canadian Council of Agriculture that deserves more than a passing thought was the request that the Government supervise the literature sent out by railway and steamship companies to attract immigrants to Canada.

There has been too little attention to this phase of the immigration question, and it is to be feared that many Britishers have been induced to come to this country by too glowing descriptions of Canada as a land flowing with milk and honey.

The Examiner believes that Canada offers a fine opportunity for immigrants wishing to go on the land who are not afraid of work, and who are prepared to face a stiff battle during their first years here.

That description would bring the right kind of immigrant to the Western Provinces—and if it frightened off the weaklings and the worthless so much the better.

There is no justification in bringing settlers in under false impressions that Canada is a country where one's meals can be picked off the trees and farms can be acquired and operated with a minimum of labour and a maximum of revenue.

There are enough advantages that can be truthfully described to bring plenty of settlers—and of the calibre most likely to succeed.

MADE-IN-CANADA.

Radio fans throughout Canada who listened to the programme broadcasted by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association the other night heard some very excellent arguments why Canadians should insist upon buying made-in-Canada goods whenever possible.

Mr. C. J. Bodley, Chairman of the Toronto branch, was the speaker, and he succeeded in filling the air with a large quantity of common sense packed into a short, snappy address.

What it means to be consistent in buying articles manufactured in this country can be clearly seen in the statement of the speaker that every dollar spent on Canadian goods pays an average of 33 cents into the pay envelope of a Canadian worker, while the balance is divided among retailers, wholesalers, railways, supplies of raw material and shareholders.

Naturally, with each of these spending money on Canadian goods for professional services, the effect of the dollar is magnified and some portion inevitably comes back to the man who spends it.

"We need only make sure that every time we buy food to eat, clothes to wear, furniture, soap and other necessities and luxuries," the speaker reminded his unseen audience, "that wherever possible we are getting Canadian products and the business of Canada must prosper accordingly."

Simple enough, isn't it?

Yet how difficult it seems to put that commonsense rule into practice?

A CHALLENGE TO THE MEMBERS.

According to the Provincial Treasurer, Ontario, in spite of imposing two new taxes, will have a deficit of $3,000,000 on the year's operations.

In view of that fact, and of Mr. Price's plea for economy, the members of the Legislature will be displaying considerable hardihood in going ahead with the proposal to increase the sessional indemnities to $2,000, a total increase of $66,000.

When the financial position of the Province is such that even with new taxation, bringing in an estimated revenue of $4,500,000, a large deficit must be expected this year, the situation calls for the members of the Legislature to strike a genuine note of economy and to set an example for everybody by letting the indemnity increase stand over for the present.

After the Province is able to show a balanced budget a proposal to pay the members more for their attendance at Queen's Park will be received with better grace.

Just at present the citizens generally, no matter what their political affiliations may be, can see not an iota of justification for the increase, and the members may as well understand that if they take advantage of their position and pocket an additional $600 each their action will be keenly resented by the people, who are looking to the Legislature to prove its protestations in regard to retrenchment by waiving this chance to grab more money for the individual members and larger salaries for the Ministers.

THE NOVA SCOTIA STRIKE.

The situation in Nova Scotia has been allowed to drift along until the difficulty between miners and operators has developed into a strike with 12,000 miners out of employment and thousands of families in dire distress because credit has been refused to them by the company's stores.

Neither the Federal Government nor the Nova Scotia authorities can be congratulated upon the attitude adopted toward this very unsatisfactory situation.

The Ottawa administration has refused to take any action whatever, claiming to have no jurisdiction in the matter, while the Nova Scotia Government has done little but talk, until the trouble got out of hand.

Yet, Ottawa found no obstacle in the way of sending Ontario troops into the district on the occasion of a previous strike, and there was much that could have been done by the Provincial authorities if they had handled the situation with judgment and decision.

The Examiner agrees with the London Advertiser in its contention that the Nova Scotia Government should act, and Ottawa should make it clear that it is ready to go in with the idea of cleaning up a situation that lends itself to one blunt expression—a mess.

Governments have very wide powers, as the Advertiser points out, if they want to use them.

The coal areas of a country are primarily the property o fthe people, and a Government, if it is anything, is the agent of the people to see that these great natural resources are developed in such a way as to build up communities where the people who work in these industries receive decent wages for good work.

No Government is called upon to sit idly at one side while these great resources become the cockpit for industrial disputes.

CONTRABAND.

It is conservatively estimated that 70 per cent. of Canadians who visit the United States bring back dutiable merchandise on which they make no declaration to the customs officials, says the Hamilton Spectator. They bring it back in club bags and suitcases, and even at the moment when the customs officer is delving into the baggage—when his hand is in contact with the wearing apparel bought but a few hours before—they are, with sanctimonious mien, telling him: "No, sir, I didn't buy a thing in the United States." They wear the dutiable merchandise back, they secret it in their pockets or in the bedding in the berths—they even sit upon it until the customs official has passed. And yet the same people who do these things consider themselves to be good Canadian citizens and would be shocked if considered dishonest. The smuggling of dutiable merchandise from the United States is confined to no particular class. We like to think of our women folk as the bulwark of our morals, and yet it is a notorious fact that women are the greatest offenders at the boundary lines. They go to Buffalo and Detroit regularly on shopping trips, and not only outfit themselves, but bring back apparel for their friends. So great has this traffic in dutiable goods become that it has been found necessary to engage women as customs inspectors, to make personal search when it is suspected that dutiable apparel has been secreted beneath milady's outer garments.

The Federal Government is reported to be seriously considering legislation that will automatically bring criminal prosecution of those who fail to declare dutiable articles. There is no doubt that the risk of a jail term would unpopularize shopping trips to the border cities of the United States, but the Government will not have completed its task until it creates conditions in Canada that will permit Canadian merchants to compete on a more equal footing with the storekeepers on the other side of the border line. Tobacco and cigarettes are among the easiest of articles to smuggle, and there is no doubt that hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of "smokes" are illegally brought into Canada each year—not because the American-made cigarette is superior to the Canadian brands, but because the Canadian Government imposes such an oppressive tax upon Canadian manufacturers that they are compelled to quote a price to the consumer more than twice that charged for a similar package in the United States. The Canadian tobacco manufacturers' contention is that if the Government will impose a reasonable tax—one that will enable a substantial price reduction to the consumer—the smuggling of tobacco from the United States will cease and that the increased output of Canadian tobaccos will result in no loss of revenue by the Government. When the Government attacks this question of smuggling from its proper angle—when it strives to correct the conditions that send Canadians to the United States to make purchases—then will the leak at the boundary line be plugged, and not before.

PAYING FOR ROADS.

Perhaps with a view to justifying the proposed tax on gasoline, Provincial Treasurer Price has given the Legislature some rather startling details about the costs of Ontario's roads. In the last six years the roads expenditure on capital account has amounted to $72,926,487, and the expenditure on maintenance has been $15,342,642, making the imposing total of $88,269,130. More than half the total went for the Provincial Highways, the figures being $47,669,613 on capital and $3,679,582 for maintenance. On country roads $14,509,755 was spent on capital and $5,362,515 for maintenance. In New Ontario, outside of colonization roads, $7,950,873 was spent on capital and $3,490,332 for maintenance. Mr. Price asserted that had he gone back fifteen years he would have had to add at least $25,000,000 to the $89,000,000 total for the last six years. In spite of the consequent heavier taxation, the public continues to demand good roads, and even last year $10,159,125 went to capital road account and $3,930,316 for maintenance.

Mr. Price has intimated tha the good roads bill for Ontario will be $10,000,000 a year, or more than $3 per capita. He divided this estimate as follows:

Interest on capital account	$ 4,000,000
Maintenance	4,000,000
Sinking fund	2,000,000
Total	$10,000,000

The tax of three cents a gallon on gasoline may produce $3,000,000 a year, while license fees from cars may provide $6,000,000 a year, all of which would still leave a million dollars to be accounted for from other sources than the motorists or the people who make the most use of the roads. Of all the money to be spent by the Province during the current fiscal year, a little more than one-fifth will go for highways.

Few people will argue that money spent on bettering communication is extravagance. The fact is that the friends of the good roads movement have increased by thousands during the last few years. Once a man owns a motor car, his transition to an improved highways enthusiast is practically assured. However, we do not believe that the people of Ontario, whether motorists or not, would like to do without good roads, now that they have them, and so large a part of the Province shares the benefits. We have accepted improved highways just as part of our higher standard of living, though paying the cost may impose rather onerous burdens. Despite the figures of Mr. Price, it is already manifest that there is going to be much objection to this gasoline tax. The exaction of an impost every time gasoline is purchased is too frequent a reminder to be readily overlooked and forgotten and forgiven. The Ferguson Administration will have difficult times ahead if it hopes to evade notoriety as "the Government that taxed the gas."—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Premier Ferguson has given civil servants who bet on the ponies via the handbook route a real tip, i. e., they'll have to give up the practice or lose their positions.

If the test of good citizenship is a stretch of pavement free from slush, it is to be feared a good many Peterboro people are failing to qualify.

The Dominion Budget is to be introduced shortly before Easter, coinciding with the bringing down of the domestic budget covering the purchase of new hats and other spring toggery.

Speaking of taking the tariff out of politics, the Globe points out that the real problem is to keep politics out of the tariff.

The Canadian Council of Agriculture advocates economy, and then petition the Government to complete the Hudson Bay Railway as early as possible.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 7. — Despite a spectacular downward slide of eight cents a bushel at one time to-day, the wheat market displayed notable power of rally. On to-day's temporary break in values, May delivery touched 177, just half a cent under the low record established in February. Big export business, however, acted as a tonic. Closing prices on wheat were nervous at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-1 cent off, May 108 1-4 to 181 and July 162 1-4 to 162 1-2, with corn unchanged to 3-8 cent up, oats at 1 1-4 to 1 7-8 cents decline, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents down.

The stimulating effect of export purchasing was apparent bot' at the outset and at the end of the day in wheat market. More than 3,000,000 bushels were said to have been taken for prompt shipment to Europe. Largely as a result, prices went up rapidly in early dealings, with an active general demand in which recent speculative sellers were forced to join as a measure of self-protection On the advance May wheat rose to 1.85, an overnight gain of 1 1-2 cents At this stage, however, demand dwindled and before aggressive support developed anew, the May collapsed to $1.77.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, March. 7. — The foreign demand for Canadian grain here on Saturday was of a very limited character and outside of sales of odd loads of low grade oat sfor March shipment to the United Kingdom business was dull.

Owing to the further weakness in Winnipeg for oats, weak feeling developed in the local market and prices were reduced three cents per bushel. Ontario No. 3 white being quoted at 61 cents and No. 4 grade at 59 cents per bushel, ex-store.

An active trade continues to be done in eggs owing to the lower prices ruling, however, Saturday's quotations were unchanged.

A fair trade was done in butter and prices were well maintained. The cheese market was inactive with fodder made No. 1 white and colored goods quoted at 20 1-4 to 20 1-2 cents per pound and No. 2 grade at 19 1-2 cents per pound.

Beans were steady at 2.70 per bushel.

A THOUGHT.

AS A RESULT.

A dozen times or more a day your attention is attracted to something that should be done then and there; but your mind, being more or less occupied with something else, excuses you and you naturally neglect to do the thing when it should be done.

As a result, many important things, many minor things, many details do not get done or, rather, are not attended to promptly.

It is a good practice to put your glasses, that lie on the desk, in your pocket when you think of them. Then you will have thing to see with when wanted. But if you get in the habit of saying to yourself, "I'll pick up my glasses when I want them or before I leave the office," you will probably leave the office as blind as a bat.

I have formed the practice of saying to myself that there are three things to remember, four things to remember, and by numbering the necessary things to do, I seldom slip.

The mind is too busy to brook delays, so do things as you come to them. Clean up as you go along. The value of this thought is more in the practice of the thought.—The Silent Partner.

IODINE AND GOITRE.

Haphazard Use Leads to Toxic Condition—Warning Issued.

ST. CATHARINES, March 7. — Dr. J. K. McGregor, of the Mowbray-McGregor Clinic, Hamilton, speaking last night to the members of the Lincoln County Medical Society, condemned the indiscriminate use of iodine by adults suffering from goitre and called attention to the fact that this drug had become a basic ingredient in all patent medicines sold for the treatment of goitre, and that recently the medical profession had been prescribing it more frequently.

Dr. McGregor said that he has been seeing an increasing number of toxic goitre due to the haphazard use of iodine.

ISSUE NEW GOLD COINS.

Hindus Concerned Over Design of Potential Jewelry.

CALCUTTA, March, 7(Canadian Press). — Reports from England that the Government has under consideration turning out golden sovereigns again has aroused much interest among the natives, who for many years have always been eager to pay a premium for certain of the gold pieces, which they used for personal adornment. What the Indians are principally concerned about, however, is whether the sovereigns are to have the same designs as formerly.

In pre-war times there were two kinds of sovereigns—one with King George's profile on the obverse and St. George killing the dragon on the reverse, and the other with the Royal Standard instead of St. George. The coins bearing the dragon were in in favor among the Indians who avoided them on every occasion and would not accept them on any account. The dragon coins were in disfavor also among the Chinese, and the prejudice was so great at one time in eastern trading circles that they were virtually barred from business in many parts of the Orient.

SPIRITUALISM WORLD'S HOPE.

(BY MILTON BRONNER).

LONDON, March 9.—"Spiritualism, and spiritualism only, supplies the way for the universal church of whic hmen have dreamed throughout the ages. It alone furnishes the means by which Jew and Gentile, Catholic and Protestant, and yes, Buddhist and Moslem, can come together and dwell in religious harmony."

The speaker was Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of the immortal Sherlock Holmes, who is at present devoting so much of his time and study to spiritualism. His latest venture is the most unique bookshop in the world—one devoted entirely to the collection and sale of often rare books on psychic subjects. We had been talking about America, which he knows so well and where he has delivered so many lectures on these matters.

"People tell me," said Sir Arthur, "that America, rich, busy and prosperous, is turning away from jazz and bootleg whisky and paying more attention to real religion and to true spiritual things.

"It was high time.

"Indeed, it is high time for all the civilized world to do so. Religion, as we know it today, has utterly failed in its effect. If the present religions of the world had sufficed, they would have prevented the World War. They would now be killing the seeds of future wars. But they are doing nothing of the kind.

"At this very hour, in their chemical laboratories, men of science are preparing new gases to poison thousands of men in the next war. The very talk of the next war, the very issuance of boks upholding the justice of using poison gases, is an indictment of religion as practiced today.

"What religion needs today is a freshening up.

"It needs reviving.

"It needs reinvigorating from the fountain head.

"Two thousands years ago there was a great impulse from Galalee. Now men need a new impulse. You start a railway locomotive off with its furnace full of coal and it will go a considerable distance with a full head of steam. But if you don't replenish the fuel, the engine will slow down and finally stop.

"It's the same way with religions. We are today seeing the slowing down process. The thing that divides men is creeds.

"What separates Jew from Gentile? Dogma.

"What separates Catholic from Protestant? Dogma.

"What separates Methodist from Presbyterian? Dogma.

"Now spiritualism, which means direct communion with the spirit world, is the greatest invigorator of religion. If you could make a church 100 per cent spiritualist you would have the ideal thing. But even if it adds only 50 per cent spiritualism to its own tenets, it is tremendously improved and freshened. But today you see the singular phenomenon of the church fighting spiritualism. The greatest enemy of religion is materialism. You would think the churches would turn to spiritualism for help, for support. Nothing of the kind. They are blind.

"The churches say to the materialist that they have faith in after-life.

"The materialist denies it, or is agnostic.

"The spiritualist says to the churches, as well as to the materialist, that he knows there is an after-life and can prove it.

"The churches present a dogma about it.

"The spiritualist presents facts about it.

"And it is these facts that, once accepted, will break down all barriers erected by dogmas and creeds. Suppose a Jewish mother and Catholic mother have both lost their only son, and suppose both got in touch with their lost ones and receive messages from over there? The messages will be very similar. They will relate to the same facts. And in those messages there will be no religious hate, or bias, or prejudice.

"And the same thing applies to the Catholic mother and the Methodist mother. Spiritualism can bring us all together because it alone can bring us into intimate touch with the loved ones we have lost from the present life that we know. And over there, beyond the barriers, there are no hates, no prejudices, but just men and women, who realise the errors of this world and who realize now the way to higher and better living.

"Cut out all dogma and get back to the simple fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. That is the message which we will get from beyond.

"Thus we excise the cause which has led in the past to wars and tortures and hatreds, and still in the present holds men apart. You can twist the letter this way or that, but the spirit of Christ's teachings lies in the advice which reaches us from beyond.

SERIES OF DISASTROUS FIRES DEVASTATE TOWN

Week-End Loss at Fort Smith, Ark., Exceeds Million.

FORT SMITH, Ark., March 9.—The entire city was threatened by fire for more than three hours on Sunday, when the Zenor Bottle Manufacturing plant burned with a $100,000 estimated loss and immediately afterward six houses in an old residential section of the city were destroyed. Causes of the fires were not determined.

With the destruction Saturday nigh of the Fort Smith Cotton Oil Company plant, the total loss probably will exceed one million dollars.

AGED 82, GETS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Charlotte Chiles, Havelock, Honored by Relatives and Intimate Friends.

HAPPY GATHERING

HAVELOCK, March 9.—An event of unusual interest took place on Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. J. Coon and Mrs. G. Chiles were the hostesses for a birthday party at the home of Mrs. G. Chiles, the occasion being the 82nd birthday of Mrs. Charlotte Chiles. Intimate friends and members of the family, to the number of twenty-five, were present, and congratulations and best wishes for many more happy birthdays were extended to the birthday guest, who was also the recipient of many gifts.

The gathering was a very happy one, and the bright spirits of the guest of honor added much to the enjoyment of the party, when she gave a recitation entitled "Hail once more my natal day." There was also a guessing contest, won by Mrs. B. Haig.

A dainty lunch was served, and the parlors were decorated with dahlias, roses and carnations. The tables displayed similar decorations.

With many expressions of pleasure and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," the gathering was brought to a close.

Among those present were: Mrs. A. C. Denike, Mrs. E. Fennell, Mrs. Archer, Mrs. (Dr.) Thompson, Miss Burfield, Mrs. F. Haig, Mrs. B. Haig, Mrs. S. Barlow, Mrs. John Barlow, Mrs. A. Matheson, Sr., Mrs. Jean Moore, Mrs. J. Armstrong, Mrs. J. Campney, Mrs. C. Coon, Mrs. O. Hubble, Mrs. Morrison, Miss Flossie Chiles of Peterboro.

EBERT APPEAL WILL GO ON.

German President's Death Does Not Halt Treason Case.

MAGDEBURG, Germany, March 9.—Although Friedrich Ebert no longer lives, the verdict in his famous libel suit will come up for appeal in the Landgericht here on Tuesday.

Judge Bewersdorf held, in his decision announced Dec. 23, that Herr Rothardt, an editor who had been accused of libeling President Ebert by calling him a traitor, was guilty of breaking the law by publishing matter calculated to throw contempt upon the person and office of the Federal President. The editor was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

At the same time Judge Bewersdorf held that President Ebert had technically committed treason in connection with the munitions strike of 1918. Both sides appealed from the decision. When the President was urged later by his physician to undergo a cure, he refused because he said he must first see the Bagdeburg case through and have his name cleared, as he regarded the Nationalist Judge's verdict as unjust. On Feb. 21 a court, headed by Judge Rudolf, should have come to Berlin to take President Ebert's testimony, but the latter was then already oto ill to be interrogated. The Executive's death removes him as a co-plaintiff and the appeal will now be pressed by the State's attorney alone.

MISS SWANSON GOES OUT.

Actress Quits Hospital and Will Recuperate in Versailles Hotel.

PARIS, March 9.— Miss Gloria Swanson, American film actress, late Friday left the clinic at Anteuil, where she underwent an operation for acute peritonitis two weeks ago.

With her husband, the Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudray, she went to a hotel in Versailles for a period of convalescence.

ANGORA CALLS EDDID PASHA.

Envoy to Berlin Will Head Army Operating Against the Kurds.

BERLIN, March 9.—Kemal Eddid Pasha, Turkish Ambassador here, has been summoned to Angora by the Turkish Government. The reason is said to be that he will command the Turkish troops operating against the Kurdistan rebels.

He is a veteran fighter who has had an adventurous career in the armies of Old and New Turkey.

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia). 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

NIGHT AIR MAIL PLANE MAKES SPEED IN TEST

Curtiss Machine Does 126 Miles an Hour With 1,000-Lb. Cargo.

GARDEN CITY, L.I., March 9.—The Carrier Pigeon, the Curtiss biplane designed for the night air mail service between New York and Chicago ,in a test flight at Curtiss Field on Saturday, made an average speed of 126 miles an hour with a cargo of 1,000 pounds carried four times over a kilometef course.

It made landings at the comparatively slow speed of 72 miles an hour and ascended to an altitude of 16,900 feet.

The Aerial Mercury, another biplane designed for the night service by Harvey C. Mummert and Joseph F. Mead, will make a test flight, and to-day both will be entered in a 200-mile cross-country race.

The judges of the tests are Professor E. H. Warner of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a consulting engineer of the Air Mail Service; E. C. Richards, Superintendent of the Chicago Repair Depot; and J. C. Whitbeck ,Superintendent of the Eastern Division of the Air Mail Service. They are seeking two planes of large-carrying capacity, fast travelling speed, and slow-landing speed.

The Carrier Pigeon has a Liberty Motor of 400 horse-power. It weighs 4,040 pounds, and has an upper wing 46 feet in length and a lower wing 42 feet long.

NEW COMMISSIONER.

United States' Immigration Department Puts New Officer at Montreal.

NEW YORK, March 9—(Canadian Press).—With a view to checking immigrant smuggling along the Canadian border, notable shifts in the personnel of the immigration service were announced from Washington yesterday. Harry R. Landis, assistant commissioner at Ellis Island, has been appointed commissioner for the Canadian post at Montreal. He will have charge of an intensive crusade against smugglers who are known to be passing undesirable and often diseased aliens into the United States.

EASTMAN TO ATTACK SOVIET

Quoted as Denouncing Zinovieff, Stalin, and Rykoff.

LONDON, March 9. — Max Eastman, who recently came out of Russia after spending two years there, is reported as being entirely disgusted with the Soviet regime. He is now living in Paris, and it is stated that he is preparing a pamphlet in which he flays the whole Russian Administration.

Mr. Eastman told friends that he found Russia far too expensive to live in. He is said to have described Zinovieff, President of the Third International, as a fraud and the evil genius of Russia.

Of two others of the leaders he is reported as saying, "Stalin is untrue to Russia and the Communist ideal, while Premier Rykoff is unworthy of trust and respect."

MARRY AT FIRST MEETING.

B. Lott, 80, Mrs. Lambert, 70, Went to Court House on Errands.

PARKERSBURG, W.Va., March 9.—Bartholomew Lott, 80, and Mrs. Carrie Lamber, 70, were married in the Wood County Court House on Saturday, a few minutes after they had first met.

Each went to the Court House on a different mission. Becoming acquainted, they were seen talking quietly together for a short time.

Then they stepped into the County Clerk's office ,and applied for a marriage license.

BERLIN RAIL STRIKE GROWS.

Administration and Union Heads Fail in Negotiations.

BERLIN, March 9. — (Associated Press). — After long negotiations, the Railway Administration and the heads of the labor unions Saturday failed to reach a compromise on the demands of the workers for higher wages.

The railwaymen's strike spread Saturday morning to the freight-handlers in the three principal freight stations of Berlin. Only about one-fourth of the workers reported for duty and freight consequently was badly tied up. The next group likely to join in the strike movement are the maintenance of way men.

DREAMS OF WORKERS' UTOPIA.

CHICAGO, March .—Up to this point the going has been rough.

There has been but little sunshine in his life.

The years have been filled with self-sacrifice "for ideals which the world has either failed to grasp or appreciate."

He would have been president and they put him in jail instead.

But Eugene V. Debs is decidedly anything but licked.

He spent three years behind the gray walls of the federal prison at Atlanta for obstructing the draft during the war.

Dreams of Utopia.

Now, faith alone in himself sustains his dream for a workingman's Utopia on earth.

His hair is thin and shot with silver. There is a slight quaking in his voice.

EUGENE V. DEBS

The end is not far off for Debs, idol of American Socialists and still the leader of his party.

But he regards the past as well spent—the years and weary months in jail and all.

"A failure?" he laughs. "And why do you ask that?

"Surely I have not failed, though I have not been a success in the popular sense of the word.

"I am only at the beginning. I shall not live to see the results of my work. They will come—when I have gone."

Then he smiles. It is the spirit of the man leaping to his eyes.

They are old eyes and peer at you roundly, unsuspectingly.

Suddenly they blaze with fire.

Then you understand why Debs is unconquered—why the fight remains unquenched within him.

The man has a grip on himself. The memories, the sacrifices, the empty years which only the world calls empty, they come surging back.

Memories of battlefields, rostrums, speeches for "the cause." The past supports him because he believes in the past.

It stands for what he still stands for—the fond hope and dream of an "industrial democracy."

Says Debs, whose seventieth birthday is just a little while off:

"When a man takes up a new work, when he strives toward an ideal he knows is right, he cannot fail. He cannot fail, though the whole world curse him and condemn him.

"I am called an anarchist, a traitor, an undesirable. My citizenship has been taken from me. I have been put in prison. Now I must die an alien."

"But I am not discouraged. Some day the world will awaken to the truths I am preaching.

"I may be wrong. But I am so sure I am right that I am willing to face the whole world alone.

"Had I not taken the course I took years ago, I might now be reaping the rewards of public office and financial success.

Had Political Opportunity.

"When I was a young man I had before me a wonderful political future.

"Back in Terre Haute, Ind., where I was born, I was elected city clerk when barely of age. At 28 I was offered a seat in Congress. Political leaders told me I might be president.

"I learned of the crookedness and corruption of politics. And so I quit the chance before me—left my party—for it was a hindrance to the purposes to which I had dedicated my life.

"Money means nothing to me. I do not seek glory. I want only justice for the worker.

"But the world is not yet ready to accept the theories and principles for which I stand. It is blinded by prosperity.

"This is the age of machinery, and the machine has come to displace the working man.

"Ignorance, however, prevents the working man from realizing that the machines have come to emancipate him, not to enslave him.

Education Solution.

"Education is the only solution. The laboring classes must understand that their salvation lies in unity based on intelligence. They must organize industrially and politically in order that the dream of "industrial democracy" may be fulfilled.

"Industrial autocracy will some day lead to its own destruction. Billions will be made by the few, and those who produce the wealth—the workers—will suffer.

"Then will come many changes. And with it will come realization of the dream for which I am now striving.

"That is why I have not failed. A man only fails in his own heart."

BOY RESCUES CHUM

Had Stuck in Mud Bed of Gravel Pit.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., March 9. — Harold Smith ,aged 8 years, narrowly escaped death by drowning Saturday afternoon and only the quick action of one of his playmates, Roland Goodeve, aged 12, saved his life. The Smith boy had fallen into a deep pond in the city's gravel pit on the west end of the city and becoming stuck in the mud at the bottom of the pit, failed to rise until Goodeve, diving into the icy water, brought him to the surface. Both lads were badly chilled and were rushed to their homes, where their condition was reported yesterday as favorable. A number of the boys had been playing in the gravel pit and the Smith lad had overbalanced and fell into the pond which at this time of the year is several feet deep.

KING UP DAILY

Prevented by Cold Sunday From Going Out.

LONDON, March 9.—It had been expected that King George would venture into the palace gardens on Sunday, but, owing to the wintry cold weather and snow flurries, he did not take the risk. The King, however, is now sufficiently recovered from his recent indisposition to get up daily and there seems to be no longer any fear of a relapse.

A Milkman Who Takes Water Out!

One of the favorite themes of the jokesmith is the milkman who waters his milk.

Though the joke has little basis in fact, yet you have heard it many times.

But have you ever thought of the milkman who does exactly the opposite—the milkman who takes water out?

That's what the Carnation milkman does—and here's why he does it:

Millions of people, all over the world, use Carnation Milk regularly; it comes to them from some of the finest dairying sections of Canada.

It seems foolish to pay transportation on all the natural water in this milk, so most of the water is removed.

Such removal serves to concentrate and enhance the food values in the milk, making it richer and smoother.

It also explains the satisfaction with which so many people use Carnation Milk undiluted in place of costly cream, in coffee or on cereals and fruits.

Remember, Carnation is simply pure milk, evaporated, sterilized; nothing is added, no sugar or preservative of any kind.

You can restore it to its original strength and consistency merely by putting back the water that has been taken away.

Order with the groceries—several tall (16 oz.) cans or by the case of 48 cans.

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

by James Oliver Curwood

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

CHAPTER IV.

When Baree ventured forth from under his rock at the beginning of the next day, he was a much older puppy than when he met Pa payuchisew, the young owl, in his path near the old windmill. If experience can be made to take the place of age, he had aged a great deal in the last forty-eight hours. In fact, he had passed almost out of puppyhood. He awoke with a new and much broader conception of the world. It was a big place. It was filled with many things, of which Kazan and Gray Wolf were not the most important. The monsters he had seen on the moonlit plot of sand had roused in him a new kind of caution, and the one greatest instinct of beasts—the primal understanding that it is the strong that prey upon the weak—was wakening swiftly in him.

If he could only find something to eat! That was the master thought that possessed Baree. Instinct had not yet impressed upon him that this which he saw all about him was starvation. He went on, seeking hopefully for food. But at last, as the hours passed, hope began to die out of him. The sun sank westward. The sky grew less blue; a low wind began to ride over the tops of the stubs, and now and then one of them fell with a startling crash.

Baree could go no farther. An hour before dusk he lay down in the open, weak and starved. The sun disappeared behind the forest. The moon rolled up from the east. The sky glittered with stars—and all through the night Baree lay as if dead. When morning came, he dragged himself to the stream for a drink. With his last strength he went on. It was the wolf urging him—compelling him to struggle to the last for his life. The dog in him wanted to lie down and die. But the wolf-spark in him burned stronger. In the end it won. Half a mile farther on he came again to the green timber.

In the forests as well as in the great cities fate plays its changing and whimsical hand. If Baree had dragged himself in the timber half an hour later he would have died. He was too far gone now to hunt for crayfish or kill the weakest bird. But he came just as Sekoosew, the ermine—the most bloodthirsty little pirate of all the wild—was making a kill.

As Baree lay under his tree, Sekoosew was creeping on his prey. His game was a big fat spruce-hen standing under a thicket of black currant bushes. The ear of no living thing could have heard Sekoosew's movement. He was like a shadow—a gray dot here, a flash there, now hidden behind a stick no larger than a man's wrist, appearing for a moment, the next instant gone as completely as if he had not existed. Thus he approached from fifty feet to within three feet of the spruce-hen. That was his favorite striking distance. Unerringly he launched himself at the drowsy partridge's throat, and his needle-like teeth sank through feathers into flesh.

Sekoosew was prepared for what happened then. It always happened when he attacked Napanao, the wood-partridge. Her wings were powerful, and her first instinct when he struck was always that of flight. She rose straight up now with a great thunder of wings. Sekoosew hung tight, his teeth buried deep in her throat, and his tiny, sharp claws clinging to her like hands. Through the air he whizzed with her, biting deeper and deeper, until a hundred yards from where that terrible death thing had fastened to her throat, Napanoa crashed again to earth.

"And Nepeese, aiming carefully at Baree, pressed steadily with her brown forefinger upon the trigger."

Where she fell was not ten feet from Baree. For a few moments he looked at the struggling mass of feathers in a daze, not quite comprehending that at last food was almost within his reach. Napanao was dying, but she still struggled convulsively with her wings. Baree rose stealthily, and after a moment, in which he gathered all his remaining strength, he made a rush for her. His teeth sank into her breast—and not until then did he see Sekoosew. The ermine had raised his head from the death grip at the partridge's throat, and his savage little red eyes glared a single instant into Baree's. Here was something too big to kill, and with an angry squeak the ermine was gone. Napanao's wings relaxed, and the throb went out of her body. She was dead. Baree hung on until he was sure. Then he began his feast.

Baree ate a third of the partridge, and the remaining two-thirds he cached very carefully at the foot of the big spruce. Then he hurried down to the creek for a drink. The world looked very different to him now. After all, one's capacity for happiness depends largely on how deeply one has suffered. One's hard luck and misfortune form the measuring stick for future good luck and fortune. So it was with Baree. Forty-eight hours ago a full stomach would not have made him a tenth part as happy as he was now. Then his greatest longing was for his mother. Since then a still greater yearning had come into his life—for food. In a way it was fortunate for him that he had almost died of exhaustion and starvation, for his experience had helped to make a man of him—or a wolf-dog, just as you are of a mind to put it. He would miss his mother for a long time. But he would never miss her again as he had missed her yesterday, and the day before.

For another day and night Baree remained in the vicinity of his cachet. When the last bone was picked, he moved on. He now entered a country where subsistence was no longer a perilous problem for him. It was a lynx country, and where there are lynx, there are also a great many rabbits. When the rabbits thin out, the lynx emigrate to better hunting grounds. As a snowshoe rabbit breeds all the summer through, Baree found himself in a land of plenty.

And this was straight into the trapping country of Pierrot, the half-breed.

Pierrot, until two years ago, had believed himself to be one of the most fortunate men in the big wilderness. That was before La Mort Rouge—the Red Death—came. He was half French, and he had married a Cree chief's daughter, and in their log cabin on the Gray Loon they had lived for many years in great prosperity and happiness. Pierrot was proud of three things in this wild world of his: he was proud of Wyola, his royal-blooded wife; he was proud of his daughter; and he was proud of his reputation as a hunter. Until the Red Death came, life was quite complete for him. It was then—two years ago—that the smallpox killed his princess-wife. He still lived in the little cabin on the Gray Loon, but he was a different Pierrot. The heart was sick in him. It would have died had it not been for Nepeese, his daughter. His wife had named her Nepeese, which means the Willow. Nepeese had grown up like the willow, slender as a reed, with all her mother's wild beauty, and with a little of the French thrown in. She was sixteen, with great, dark, wonderful eyes, and hair so beautiful that an agent from Montreal passing that way had once tried to buy it. It fell in two shining braids, each as big as a man's wrist, almost to her knees. "Non, M'sieu," Pierrot had said, a cold glitter in his eyes as he saw what was in the agent's face. "It is not for barter."

Two days after Baree had entered his trapping ground, Pierrot came in from the forests with a troubled look in his face.

"Something is killing off the young beavers," he explained to Nepeese, speaking to her in French. "It is a lynx or a wolf. To-morrow——" He shrugged his thin shoulders, and smiled at her.

"We will go on the hunt," laughed Nepeese, happily, in her soft Cree.

When Pierrot smiled at her like that, and began with "To-morrow," it always meant that she might go with him on the adventure he was contemplating.

* * *

Still another day later, at the end of the afternoon, Baree crossed the Gray Loon on a bridge of driftwood that had wedged between two trees. This was to the north. Just beyond the driftwood bridge there was a small open, and to the edge of this Baree pattsed to enjoy the last of the setting sun. As he stood motionless and listening, his tail drooping low, his ears alert, his sharp-pointed nose sniffing the new country to the north, there was not a pair of eyes in the forest that would not have taken him for a young wolf.

From behind a clump of young balsams, a hundred yards away, Pierrot and Nepeese had watched him come over the driftwood bridge. Now was the time, and Pierrot levelled his rifle. It was not until then that Nepeese touched his arm softly. Her breath came a little excitedly as she whispered:

"Nootawe, let me shoot. I can kill him!"

With a low chuckle Pierrot gave the gun to her. He counted the whelp as already dead. For Nepeese, at that distance, could send a bullet into an inch square nine times out of ten. And Nepeese, aiming carefully at Baree, pressed steadily with her brown forefinger upon the trigger.

CHAPTER V.

As the Willow pulled the trigger of her rifle, Baree sprang into the air. He felt the force of the bullet before he heard the report of the gun. It lifted him off his feet, and then sent him rolling over and over as if he had been struck a hideous blow with a club. For a flash he did not feel pain. Then it ran through him like a knife of fire, and with that pain the dog in him rose above the wolf, and he let out a wild outcry of puppyish yapping as he rolled and twisted on the ground.

Pierrot and Nepeese had stepped from behind the balsams, the Willow's beautiful eyes shining with pride at the accuracy of her shot. Instantly she caught her breath. Her brown fingers clutched at the barrel of her rifle. The chuckle of satisfaction died on Pierrot's lips as Baree's cries of pain filled the forest.

"Uchi Moosis!" gasped Nepeese, in her Cree.

Pierrot caught the rifle from her.

"Diable! A dog—a puppy!" he cried.

He started on a run for Baree. But in their amazement they had lost a few seconds and Baree's dazed senses were returning. He saw them clearly as they came across the open—a new kind of monster of the forests! With a final wail he darted back into the deep shadows of the trees. It was almost sunset, and he ran for the thick gloom of the heavy spruce near the creek. He had shivered at the sight of the bear and the moose, but for the first time he now sensed the real meaning of danger. And it was close after him. He could hear the crashing of the two-legged beasts in pursuit; strange cries were almost at his heels—and then suddenly he plunged without warning into a hole.

It was a shock to have the earth go out from under his feet like that, but Baree did not yelp. The wolf was dominant in him again. It urged him to remain where he was, making no move, no sound—scarcely breathing. The voices were over him; the strange feet almost stumbled in the hole where he lay. Looking out of his dark hiding-place, he could see one of his enemies. It was Nepeese, the Willow. She was standing so that a last glow of the day fell upon her face. Baree did not take his eyes from her. Above his pain there rose in him a strange and thrilling fascination. The girl put her two hands to her mouth, and in a voice that was soft and plaintive and amazingly comforting to his terrified little heart, cried:

"Uchimoo—Uchimoo—Uchimoo!"

And then he heard another voice; and this voice, too, was far less terrible than many sounds he had listened to in the forests.

"We cannot find him, Nepeese," the voice was saying. "He has crawled off to die. It is too bad. Come."

Where Baree had stood in the edge of the open, Pierrot paused and pointed to a birch sapling that had been cut clean off by the Willow's bullet. Nepeese understood. The sapling, no larger than her thumb, had turned her shot a trifle and had saved Baree from instant death.

She turned again and called:

"Uchimoo—Uchimoo—Uchimoo!"

Her eyes were no longer filled with the thrill of slaughter.

"He would not understand that," said Pierrot, leading the way across the open. "He is wild—born of the wolves. Perhaps he was of Koomo's lead-bitch, who ran away to hunt with the packs last winter."

"And he will die——"

"Ayetun—yes, he will die."

But Baree had no idea of dying. He was too tough a youngster to be shocked to death by a bullet passing through the soft flesh of his fore-leg. That was what had happened. His leg was torn to the bone, but the bone itself was untouched. He waited until the moon had risen before he crawled out of his hole.

In this humor Baree came, an hour later, out of the heavy timber of the creek-bottom into the more open spaces of a small plain that ran along the foot of a ridge. It was in this plain that Oohoomisew hunted. Oohoomisew was a huge snow-owl. He was the patriarch among all the owls of Pierrot's trapping domain. He was so old that he was almost blind, and therefore he never hunted as other owls hunted. He did not hide himself in the black cover of spruce and balsam tops, or float softly through the night, ready in an instant to swoop down upon his prey. His eyesight was so poor that from a spruce top he could not have seen a rabbit at all, and he might have mistaken a fox for a mouse.

Even if Baree could have seen under the dark brush, and had discovered Oohoomisew ready to dart from his ambush, it is not likely that he would have gone very far aside. His own fighting blood was up. He, too, was ready for war.

Very indistinctly Oohoomisew saw him at last, coming across the little open which he was watching. He squatted down. His feathers ruffled up until he was like a ball. His almost sightless eyes glowed like two bluish pools of fire. Ten feet away, Baree stopped for a moment and licked his wound. Oohoomisew waited cautiously. Again Baree advanced, passing within six feet of the bush. With a swift hop and a sudden thunder of his powerful wings the great owl was upon him.

In the stillness of night there rose a still greater thunder of wings, and for a few moments Baree closed his eyes to keep from being blinded by Oohoomisew's furious blows. But he hung on grimly, and as his teeth met through the flesh of the old night pirate's leg, his angry snarl carried defiance to Oohoomisew's ears. Rare good fortune had given him that grip on the leg, and Baree knew that triumph or defeat depended on his ability to hold it.

Suddenly Oohoomisew ceased his beating and launched himself upward. Like huge fans his powerful wings churned the air, and Baree felt himself lifted suddenly from the earth. Still he held on—and in a moment both bird and beast fell back with a thud.

Under those wings Baree's mind worked with the swift instinct of the killer. Suddenly he changed his hold, burying his fangs into the under part of Oohoomisew's body. They sank into three inches of feathers. Swift as Baree had been, Oohoomisew was equally swift to take advantage of his opportunity. In an instant he had swooped upward. There was a jerk, a rending of feathers from flesh—and Baree was alone on the field of battle.

Baree had not killed, but he had conquered.

CHAPTER VI.

Baree's fight with Oohoomisew was good medicine for him. It not only gave him great confidence in himself, but it also cleared the fever of ugliness from his blood. He no longer snapped and snarled at things, as he went on through the night.

He was still a wanderer—pupamootao, the Indians call it. It is this "wander spirit" that inspires for a time nearly every creature of the wild as soon as it is able to care for itself—Nature's scheme, perhaps, for doing away with too close family relations and possibly dangerous interbreeding. Baree, like the young wolf seeking new hunting grounds, or the young fox discovering a new world, had no reason or method in his wandering. He was simply "travelling"—going on. He wanted something which he could not find. The wolf-note brought it to him.

The stars and the moon filled Baree with a yearning for this something. The distant sounds impinged upon him his great aloneness. And instinct told him that only by questing could he find. It was not so much Kazan and Gray Wolf that he missed now—not so much motherhood and home as it was companionship.

Baree did not travel far that night. The fact that his wound had come with dusk, and his fight with Oohoomisew still later, filled him with caution. Experience had taught him that the dark shadows and the black pits in the forest were possible ambuscades of danger. He was no longer afraid, as he had once been, but he had had fighting enough for a time, and so he accepted circumspection as the better part of valor and held himself aloof from the perils of darkness. It was a strange instinct that made him seek his bed on the top of a huge rock up which he had some difficulty in climbing.

Baree's rock, instead of rising for a hundred feet or more straight up, was possibly as high as a man's head. It was in the edge of the creek-bottom, with the spruce forest close at its back. For many hours he did not sleep, but lay keenly alert, his ears tuned to catch every sound that came out of the dark world about him. There was more than curiosity in his alertness to-night. His education had broadened immensely in one way: he had learned that he was a very small part of this wonderful earth that lay under the stars and the moon, and he was keenly alive with the desire to become better acquainted with it without any more fighting or hurt. To-night he knew what it meant when he saw now and then gray shadows float silently out of the forest into the moonlight—the owls, monsters of the breed with which he had fought. He heard the crackling of hoofed feet and the smashing of heavy bodies in the underbrush. He heard again the mooing of the moose. Voices came to him that he had not heard before—the sharp yap-yap-yap of a fox, the unearthly laughing cry of a great Northern loon on a lake half a mile away, the scream of a lynx that came floating through miles of forest, the low, soft croaks of the nighthawks between himself and the stars.

All these sounds held their new meaning for Baree. Swiftly he was coming into his knowledge of the wilderness. His eyes gleamed; his blood thrilled. For many minutes at a time he scarcely moved. But of all the sounds that came to him, the wolf-cry thrilled him most. Again and again he listened to it. At times it was far away, so far that it was like a whisper, dying away almost before it reached him; and then again it would come to him full-throated hot with the breath of the chase, calling him to the red thrill of the hunt, to the wild orgy of torn flesh and running blood—calling, calling, calling.

Next morning Baree found many crawfish along the creek, and he feasted on their succulent flesh until he felt that he would never be hungry again. Nothing had tasted quite so good since he had eaten the partridge of which he had robbed Sekoosew, the ermine.

In the middle of the afternoon Baree came into a part of the forest that was very quiet and peaceful. The creek had deepened. In places its banks swept out until they formed small ponds. Twice he made considerable detours to get around these ponds. He travelled very quietly, listening and watching. Not since the ill-fated day he had left the old windfall had he felt quite so much at home as now. It seemed to him that at last he was treading country which he knew, and where he would find friends. Perhaps this was another miracle-mystery of instinct—of nature. For he was in old Beavertooth's domain. It was here that his father and mother had hunted in the days before he was born. It was not far from here that Kazan and Beaver-tooth had fought that mighty duel under the water, from which Kazan had escaped with his life without another breath to lose.

Baree would never know these things. He would never know that he was travelling over old trails. But something deep in him gripped at him strangely. He sniffed the air, as if in it he found the scent of familiar things. It was only a faint breath—an indefinable promise that brought him to the point of a mysterious anticipation.

There had been few changes in Beaver-tooth's colony since the days of his feud with Kazan and the otters. Old Beaver-tooth was still older. He was fatter. He slept a great deal, and perhaps he was less cautious. He was dozing on the great mud-and-brushwood dam, of which he had been engineer-in-chief when Baree came out softly on a high bank thirty or forty feet away. So noiseless had Baree been that none of the beavers had seen or heard him. He squatted himself flat on his belly, hidden behind a tuft of grass, and with eager interest watched every movement. Beaver-tooth was rousing himself. He stood on his short legs for a moment; then he tilted himself up on his broad, flat tail like a soldier at attention, and with a sudden whistle dived into the pond with a great splash.

In another moment it seemed to Baree that the pond was alive with beavers. Heads and bodies appeared and disappeared, rushing this way and that through the water in a manner that amazed and puzzled him.

The beavers lost no time in getting at their labor, and Baree watched and listened without so much as rustling a blade of the grass in which he was concealed. He was trying to understand. He was striving to place these curious and comfortable-looking creatures in his knowledge of things. They did not alarm him; he felt no uneasiness at their number or size. His stillness was not the quietness of discretion, but rather of a strange and growing desire to get better acquainted with this curious four-legged brotherhood of the pond. Already they had begun to make the big forest less lonely for him. And then, close under him—not more than ten feet from where he lay—he saw something that almost gave to the puppyish longing for companionship that was in him.

Down there, on a clean strip of the shore that rose out of the soft mud of the pond, waddled fat little Umisk and three of his playmates. Umisk was just about Baree's age, perhaps a week or two younger. But he was fully as heavy, and almost as wide as he was long.

And then, of a sudden, some one saw Baree. It was a big beaver swimming down the pond with a sapling timber for the new dam that was under way. Instantly he loosed his hold and faced the shore. And then, like the report of a rifle, there came the crack of his big flat tail on the water—the beaver's signal of danger that on a quiet night can be heard half a mile away.

"Danger," it warned. "Danger—danger—danger!"

Scarcely had the signal gone forth when tails were cracking in all directions—in the pond, in the hidden canals, in the thick willows and alders. To Umisk and his companions they said:

"Run for your lives!"

Baree stood rigid and motionless now. In amazement he watched the four little beavers plunge into the pond and disappear. He heard the sounds of other and heavier bodies striking the water. And then there followed a strange and disquieting silence. Softly Baree whined, and his whine was almost a sobbing cry. Why had Umisk and his little mates run away from him? What had he done that they didn't want to make friends with him? A great lonliness swept over him—a loneliness greater even than that of his first night away from his mother. The last of the sun had faded out of the sky as he stood there. Darker shadows crept over the pond. He looked into the forest, where night was gathering—and with another whining cry he slunk back into it. He had not found friendship. He had not found companionship. And his heart was very sad.

SEEKS PEACE.

General Michael W. Frunse, successor to Trotsky as Bolshevist war commissioner, says that Russia wants peace, and that its army is only for defense. His fords are believed to be the Bolsheviks' first move to be included in the general arms conference.

This photo was made just a few minutes after a Philadelphia local train crashed into the rear of the Atlantic Coast Line express at Manhattan Transfer, Newark, N.J. Joseph Petrick and George Huthzr, railroad inspectors, were killed and more than a score of passengers were seriously injured. The injured were in a diner on the rear of the express when the local engine plowed into it.

MUSK OX HOLDING ISLE FOR CANADA

QUEBEC, March 9 — How a young Musk Ox captured by Captain Bernier and his men at Melville Island when the navigator made a trip north in the year 1909 in the interests of the Dominion Government longs to Canada."

had been claimed for Canada, was the interesting statement made by the explorer Friday.

Captain Bernier, who was in a retrospective mood, was talking of the necessity of the Federal Government sending an exploration party north at stated intervals for the purpose of maintaining the land already claimed. If this were not done, he said, other interested parties could lay claim to the territory discovered if a period of five years were allowed to elapse without any further move being made by the original claimants to hold possession.

Realizing this, Captain Bernier stated that as he had no instructions to land any of his men to formally maintain this territory he took it upon himself to secure proof that this Dominion was entitled to Melville Lsland. He and his men captured the Musk Ox, took its picture, and then gave the animal its liberty.

"That picture," said the Captain, "is still in my possession, and represents undisputed proof that that portion of the Northern territory belongs to Canada."

OXFORD COUNTY RECORD FOR PAYMENT OF TAXES

WOODSTOCK, Ont., March 9. — The County of Oxford has a remarkable record for tax payment. County Treasurer McIntosh stated to-day that there were no taxes still outstanding for 1924, and further said that since he became treasurer 20 years ago onone of the taxes for the county had been left unpaid.

CANNA STARCH SOUGHT.

Newest Hawaiian Products in Great Demand For Mixing Purposes.

HONOLULU, March 9.—(Associated Press).—Hawaii's most recent industry—the production of starch from canna plants—came through the past year with a total output of 22,000 cases, according to announcement by Edouard R. Doty, secretary of the Hawaiian Starch Company.

The entire production will be absorbed on the mainland and is sought anxiously by mainland manufacturers of starch who mix it with their own product to raise the quality, Doty said.

The manufacture of starch from canna tubers was launched by the Hawaiian company about four and a half years ago with the company harvesting its first appreciable crop in 1924 The demand for the product, Doty said, is practically limitless and 100,000 cases of the starch could have been disposed of this year. Considerable new acreage is being planted to canna, which is refined at Hilo.

TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS BOTHERING YOU

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts to Get Rid of Toxic Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no sweets for awhile, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

Healthy Children

WHAT a joy there is in the laughter of children. How quickly that laughter dies when constipation—that great enemy of healthy bodies—coats the tongue and dulls the appetite of your boy or girl.

Mothers often fail to recognize in the bad breath, the coated tongue and fretfulness, the danger of disease that lurks like a shadow ready to throw its black mantle over the loved one.

DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN relieves the cause—constipation—and should be in every home. You will be astonished how quickly this great family remedy will put laughter back in the eyes of your child.

It is a safe, mild laxative especially suitable for children, pleasant to take, with no cramping after effects. It contains no narcotics or mercurials.

KELLY BROS., Prop.

MEN'S BANQUET AT MILLBROOK UNIQUE EVENT

R. F. Downey, of Peterborough, Was Chairman and Speaker.

BIG GATHERING.

R. S. Hosking Speaks on Case of Delinquent Children.

MILLBROOK, March 9. — The men's banquet, held in the Methodist Sunday School Hall on Friday evening ,under the auspices of the recently organised Brotherhood, was a somewhat unique event in this community, and proved an unqualified success from every standpoint.

About one hundred and forty guests sat down to the well-laden tables at 7 o'clock, and after grace was sung, were served by a committee of the Ladies 'Aid, which organisation was catering for the occasion.

The proximity of St. Patricks Day was evident in the decorations, a colour scheme of green and white greeting the eye most attractively as the guests entered the doors on either side of the large rooms.

Streamers of Paddy green, with shades on the lights, and table runners, of the same bright hue, boxes of tulips in the windows, and green candles burning on the tables, gave a springlike appearance which was most seasonable, while the trio of "Irish Cobblers" which centred the cross sections of the table runners, and the pots of shamrock placed at intervals down their length, doubtless made a special appeal to the Emterald Isle birth, or ancestry, of some of those present.

J. L. Byam was leader of the orchestra which furnished excellent music while the banquet was in progress, Misses Ella Elson and Estelle Hetherington presiding at the piano during the evening.

At the head table were seated the speakers of the evening, Messrs. R. F. Downey, P.S.I., of Peterborough, and R. S. Hosking, B.A., Chief Probation Officer, of Juvenile Court, Toronto, the pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, Rev. G. S. Gervan, Rev. Joseph Wilks, President M. McDowell, Vice-President L. W. Smith, Messrs. P. Stinson, G. E. Burnham, W. Tremaine, and B. J. Dawson.

Chairs were pushed back when the meal was completed, and community singing was enjoyed, after which Rev. J. Wilks led in prayer.

At the request of Vice-President L. W. Smith, Mr. R. F. Downey took the chair for the first half of the programme, his opening remark that "he had been a boys' man for twenty-five years' having special reference to the fact that one table at the banquet was reserved for the Tuxis Square members, and the boys of the Senior Trail Rangers groups.

Mr. Downey gave some interesting personal reminiscences of his work as a teacher, and also of encounters with men who have reached success and who attribute to their teachers the making of their lives. "It is such crumbs as these that give us heart to go on for tomorrow." One amusing instance of dislike on the part of a pupil was given, the lad saying, "I'd give the last cent I've got to send her to the fartherest place there is," a sentiment likely to be changed as the years brought new vision and understanding.

"If you are going to do anything for the average man, you must begin long before he is a man." Youth offers greater opportunities for expansion and growth, for its possibilities are unbounded, and we need men and women who will train for navigating the uncharted seas with their undiscovered shores, hidden in the mystery of the years that lie ahead. "The sin of the whole business is that some of us bury the talent God has biven us, instead of developing it."

"What is a boy? He's the person who is going to carry on what you have begun, sit where you are sitting, work with the tools you lay down, and possibly finish the task you have started." So it might be just as well if we took proper note of this boy for all your work will be appraised, or condemned by him. The fate of nations, and of humanity, is in his hands.

Three words were suggested as an ideal—"Jesus, Others, Yourself"—coming in that order of importance they spell "Joy," and will teach the lesson that this treasure is a "wayside flower, growing along along the highway of usefulness."

Mr. Downey's address was not given continuously, other items on the programme being interjected at intervals, including a quartette, "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginy," by Messrs. V. C. Lambert, W. H. Coombe, F. N. Alcorn, and Dr. C. A. Richards; a cornet solo by Ernest Burnham, and a duet, "'Tis the Battle's Eve," by Messrs. H. W. Johnston, and M. McDowell.

For the second half of the evening, President M. McDowell took charge, and on behalf of the Brotherhood welcomed the large gathering of men present—"a full hourse, but not 'full' of the celebrated 5 per cent. beer the government is sponsoring."

The aim of the Brotherhood was explained as "mutual enjoyment and improvement, where we discuss life and its problems, and if any man knows more on any subject under consideration than the rest of us, we expect him to pass his superior knowledge." Friday evening is the time of meeting, and a cordial invitation was given to all to co-operate by joining at the next regular gathering.

A solo, "British to the Core," by Mr. R. F. Downey, brought an insistent demand for an encore, "My Mary" being the response. Community singing, led by Rev. F. H. Howard, gave opportunity for relaxation before the final speaker, R. S. Hosking, B.A., was called upon.

The speaker stated this was not his initial visit to Millbrook, as he had spoken here three or four years ago on the work of the Juvenile Court of which he is the Chief Probation Officer. "I feel a little bit lonely up here with all these law-abiding ministers, and good citizens."

Delinquency and crime are always interesting ,else why are the details of murders, and thefts, in the daily press read with such avidity? "Do you ever stop to think of the two thousand men and women making our penitentiary population, and the fifty thousand shut up in the prisons and gaols?" And here is a tragic thing—sixty-two per cent. of the men sentenced to prison last year in this province had been committed before, and eighty-three per cent. of the women had also served previous terms.

One of the greatest problems we have to solve is how to deal wisely with our criminals. It does not cure crime to throw the perpetrator into prison. Four theories are advanced (a) The Mosaic law, "An eye for an eye," etc., in murder cases, "a life for a life." But this cannot logically be followed since the life which pays the penalty may not be of equal value with the one destroyed; (b) Deterrent—that is, punish as a warning to others lest a like fate overtake them. Neither will this always work. In the old days when there were over two hundred offences punishable by death, even public hangings did not stop crime. The idea of frightening people is not effective; (c) Reformative—which would provide "prison sanitariums," if one might use the term, for people who are morally and spiritually sick, restoring them to society when able to take their normal place again; (d) Social Utility theory which looks into the record of life and environment and on these grounds determines what should be done. It is along this line that the Juvenile Court does its work.

Remembering that every criminal was once an innocent babe in its mother's arms, the Court deals with boys and girls when they take their first step outside the law. How they are treated then largely determines whether they will come back into the path of law and virtue, or become an enemy to the social order and finally land behind prison bars. "Tomorrow is the result of to-day's action."

Ideally a Juvenile Court is a family circle, with the judge as father, the probation officers as big brother, big sister, and all combining to help the children out of trouble. 'We do not punish children but we sometimes make the parents punish them or we punish the parents for offences against their children. In this we are following the teaching of Jesus. In reality there are no child criminals."

Ninety per cent of the children dealt with come from homes broken down in one respect or another, and are handicapped in mind and training. "Our forefathers lived a better home life than we do; I sometimes fear we are becoming a child-bearing, rather than a child- training, people. If our little one are not instructed at home, they have a fine chance of learning evil some place else."

The court sometimes places a father under a bond of twenty-five dollars, paying within a year if the boy gets into trouble, and has found this method livens a parent up to a sense of his duty. "They are only children after all, and their rights must be protected, for some of them get a 'raw deal'."

Minor cases with which the Juvenile Court has to deal bring up such questions as: "What would you do with a boy who throws snowballs at a policeman? Or rides his bike on the sidewalk? Or throws stones at a moving train?" It is a normal movement of the throwing muscles that makes a boy do such things and if he is given a square deal when caught by the law he will "play up to it." But tyrannize over him (and appeal to fear is the weakest appeal you can make to these children) and he will go out with a spirit of revenge aroused and you've got a dangerous citizen.

Then there are the major cases. Boys and girls who are back for the ninth, or tenth, time are sent to the Observation Home on Jarvis Street, well supervised, and given medical examination. Twenty-five per cent. are found below the border line of normalcy. During the week's interval the case is adjourned, fully trained social workers investigate the home and community training received. Boys who are members of a "gang" in a bad neighbourhood are linked with the Y.M.C.A., the Boy Scouts, or a C.S.E.T. group, since to remove the cause of the delinquency is the only sane and fair method. "The boy's underground way of getting excitement is often the result of some physical defect.'

Out of 356 boys dealt with for major offences last year only ten were sent to the Industrial Schools, and but eleven came into Court again.

P. Stinson moved the vote of thanks to the speakers and all others who had assisted in making the evening a success, T. H. Aiken seconding the motion.

Rev. G. S. Garvan dismissed the gathering with the benediction.

WOULD CLAD MEN IN SILKS AND SATINS

Famous European Designer Says Nothing is Uglier Than a Man's Full Dress Suit.

(By Hortense Saunders.)

NEW YORK, March 9. — Clothes need reformation, but the reformation should begin with the man, not the woman, according to Romain de Tirtoff Erte, known as Erte, the famous artist and designer of women's costumes ,who is now in America for the first time.

"Women," he says, "may make many mistakes in dress, they may be exploited and imposed upon by unscrupulous dealers, but at least they make an attempt to express beauty in their clothes and to emerge from the commonplace and the deadly dull.

"Men don't even attempt to escape from the ugliness of line and material that characterises the garments they have adopted as their uniform. Apparently they are satisfied."

Nothing Uglier.

Nothing, he believes, could be uglier than men's evening clothes.

"Entirely out of keeping with everything beautiful," he asserts. "Picture the modern homes, clubs, and restaurants with artistic decorations, subdued colours, shaded lights and flowers. A woman enters in shimmering cloth of gold or silver, or delicate chiffon. With her is a man in stiff, black uniform that is an entirely discordant note and ruins the picture."

Erte himself, who is a Russian by birth, but Parisian by adoption, does not entirely subscribe to the dull customs he deplores. He has one evening suit of violet and another of brown. He admits he would like to go forth clad in silks and satins, but believes the time is not yet ripe for such radical departures.

As he spoke he wore a small bracelet of pearls and diamond rings on each little finger. His suit was of the faultless cut we asociate with the finest English tailors.

Off Beaten Path.

Though Erte has designed some thousand decorative covers for the magazines and at least five thousand gowns for women, he has never conformed to the prevailing modes. In his black and white studio he builds costumes purely with the idea of making them lovely. Practicability never enters his head. Pearls, silken draperies, dashing colour effects, and subtle lines engage his artistic interest. They are for the exotic, not the "average woman."

He scorns no artifice that adds to woman's attractiveness. He believes a lovely mouth is accentuated by the knowing manipulation of the right lip stick, but that rouge added to the cheeks detracts. He highly approves of the new Parisian fad of using colored powder in the hair to make the hair match the gown in color.

Skirts to Be Longer.

Skirts, he prophesies, will become longer, since they can't become shorter and are bound not to stand still. He expects them to go to ankle length for daytime and longer for evening.

Colors, particularly the vivid shades of yellow, orange and green, will be very fashionable, he thinks, but for his own creations he pins his faith to black and white.

"The greatest fault with the dressing of the women of Paris, and of this country to a less degree, is the lack of originality," he says. "Women have almost adopted a uniform for day wear. Either they are afraid to be original or have lost their inclination to be—either is to be deplored."

Erte expects to go to Hollywood to design costumes for the stars of Metro pictures. He is most enthusiastic about this, as he believes that since the screen most directly reaches the largest number of men and women, it is the logical place to start dress reform.

"American women," he concluded gallantly, "are the most beautiful in the world. They deserve the loveliest clothes."

MEN DANCE PARTNERS.

PARIS, March 9.—More than 30 young men are earning nearly $5,000 a year by acting as professional dancing partners for women in fashionable cabarets. One South American woman, desiring to display her wealth, is said to have paid more than $500 for one dance.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

LOSE WEIGHT.

One baked apple, 1 2-inch square of lean broiled ham, vegetable salad (1 cupful), 6 baked oysters, 1 small baked potato, 1 cup shredded cabbage, whole medium sized parsnip steamed or boiled, 2 tablespoons stewed rhubarb, 1 bran muffin, 1 gluten roll, 2 pieces crisp whole wheat toast, 1 pint skimmed milk.

The vegetable salad combines most vegetables with the exception of canned peas, potatoes or corn. One tablespoon each of string beans, asparagus, carrots, beets, cauliflower, diced celery and shredded green pepper combined with lemon juice and a dash of onion juice makes an appetizing mixture. Minced chives can take the place of the onion juice. The vegetables should be served on a bed of lettuce hearts or shredded leaf lettuce.

The rhubarb is suggested as a sort of dessert for dinner.

GAIN WEIGHT.

Two baked apples with 4 tablespoons maple syrup and ½ cup cream, 1 cup cooked wheat cereal, 1 4-inch square broiled ham, 4 tablespoons hot potato salad, ½ head lettuce with Thousand Island dressing, 1 cup cream of corn soup, 6 baked oysters with 6 tablespoons cream, 1 large twice baked potato, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 1 whole parsnip with 2 tablespoons butter, 2 halves candied sweet potato, 4 tablespoons maple puff pudding with 2 tablespoons whipped cream, 2 tablespoons stewed rhubarb, 1 large piece sponge cake, 2 bran muffins, 2 pieces whole wheat toast, 2 dinner rolls, 1 pint whole milk, 4 tablespoons butter.

The baked apples and cereal can be combined, making a delicious breakfast dish. Maple syrup instead of sugar will be a delightful change.

The oysters for both the menus are prepared practically the same. The cream is heated and poured over the toast for this menu after the oysters are removed from the oven. Plenty of butter is used on the toast.

LOSE WEIGHT.

One-half grapefruit, 1 shredded wheat biscuit, 1 cup diet tomato cream soup, ¼ pound fillet of haddock (broiled), 12 slices cucumber on 1½ ounces shredded lettuce, 10 stalks fresh asparagus, 1-6 lemon meringue pie, 2 tablespoons whole wheat croutons, 2 thin slices rye bread, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Total calories, 1161. Protein, 326; fat, 202; carbohydrate, 633. Iron, .0182 gram.

Diet Tomato Soup (Individual)

One-half cup canned tomatoes, 3 slices onion, 1½ teaspoons flour, 1 teaspoon butter, ¾ cup skimmed milk, 1-16 teaspoon soda, salt and pepper.

Melt butter in stew pan. Add onion and cook until a pale straw color. Add tomatoes and simmer 10 minutes. Stir in soda and rub through puree strainer. Moisten flour with a little cold milk. Heat milk. Add tomato juice and stir in flour. Cook, stirring constantly until the boiling point is reached, but do not let boil.

GAIN WEIGHT.

One-half grapefruit with 1 dessertspoon sugar, 1 shredded wheat biscuit, 1 hard boiled egg in ½ cup white sauce on toast, 1 cup cream of tomato soup with 1 tablespoon whipped cream, ½ cup potato salad, 2 slices cold boiled ham, ½ pound fillet of haddock with 2 tablespoons lemon butter, 3 new potatoes in parsley sauce, 10 stalks fresh asparagus with 2 tablespoons drawn butter, 12 slices cucumber on 1½ ounces shredded lettuce with 2 tablespoons French dressing, 1-6 lemon meringue pie, 1 chocolate eclair, 2 tablespoons whole wheat croutons, 2 thin slices rye bread, 2 slices graham bread, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 nut roll, 1 cup cocoa, ¼ cup cream, 1 banana, 1 cup whole milk.

If more sugar is wanted for the grapefruit and shredded wheat biscuit it should of course be used. These menus and calculations are for the average taste and form a working basis for you to reckon your own individual meals. No second helpings are provided and the amounts mentioned are as near the ordinary family serving as tablespoons and cups can be gauged.

The whipped cream used for all cream soups is seasoned lightly with salt and sometimes a few gratings of a spice that combines with a certain vegetable. A dash of paprika usually tops the cream.

The banana is suggested for the shredded wheat.

The nut roll and cup of cocoa can be served as the mid-morning lunch or afternoon tea.

OLD BIBLE CLAIMED.

Kept in Osgoode Hall Vaults Since 1858—Filed as Evidence.

TORONTO, March 9 (Canadian Press).—Having read in a Toronto paper of an old Family Bible which had been in the vaults at Osgoode Hall, the seat of Ontario legal appeals in Toronto, since February, 1858, when it was filed as an exhibit in a court case, George S. Barr, K.C., of Regina, Sask., has proved his claim to the ancient volume and it has been forwarded to him. The Bible had been put in as an exhibit, apparently, to prove the dates of the birth of children of Peter Barr at Paisley, Scotland, in 1829 and 1832. George H. Barr is a grandson of the Peter Barr referred to.

BOY LOST IN DESERT.

SYDNEY, Australia, March 9.—The cave experiences of Floyd Collins at Cave City, Ky., have caused old timers here to recall that in the early '90's a tiny boy, less than three years old, was lost in desert country for 70 hours without food and water. He suffered no ill effects from his experiences.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

By BERTRAM REINITZ.

There is nothing very distinctive about a checkered cap, a blue overcoat, a long nose and a loosely hanging jaw. Even the additional information that a man of such description had driven a canary-yellow taxicab would not make him conspicuous in a community where 33,000 persons are licensed to drive automobiles professionally, and where many take the liberty of driving without a permit.

The detective who was asked to bring in such a man told the bureau chief that it might be somewhat more difficult than finding a piano in a parlor. He said that he would need assistance and that it might take several days to complete the assignment. He didn't believe the description of his quarry's cap, coat and cab would be of great help to him. It had been his experience that when a man shot another and escaped, he usually changed his clothes and also his job.

There was but one witness. Her escort had been shot down in the street in front of her house. It was all so shocking, she could not be sure of some of the details. She and the young man had engaged a taxicab upon leaving a cabaret. She recalled that the cab was a yellow one—not a bright yellow, but a canary shade—and had a band of some kind painted around the body.

It had been quite a step up to the rear seat, she said. She was sure the machine was not a late model.

As well as she could remember, the mention of her address had puzzled the driver, and he had left his seat to make inquiry as to the best route to reach it.

Had she noticed how tall he was? Yes, she had. He was about 5 feet 6 inches. Still, it was quite dark. He might have been 5 feet 9.

She said that on the way he had turned around several times to consult his passengers regarding the direction he should take. She had glimpsed his profile at one or two of these moments. She was certain that the nose was large and the jaw drooping.

In front of her home there had been an altercation when the young man paid the driver. She had reached the steps, having hastened because the night was cold, when she heard three revolver shots. Her next clear recollection was of holding her escort's head in her lap and imploring him to speak.

The detective set to work on what might have seemed a hopeless task. The description of a taxicab driver whose distinguishing marks were a checkered cap, a bluish coat and a profile was so ample that it embraced more chauffeurs than it omitted.

The corner where the couple had hired the cab was in the heart of a restaurant district. It is the common custom of the frequenters of the neighborhood to go home by taxi. Hundreds of automotive arabs haunted the vicinity to serve such patrons.

The detective requisitioned ten colleagues and started a blanket interrogation. Every driver who sought customers in the district as a regular thing or slipped in occasionally for a passenger was asked if he knew anything concerning a chauffeur who had inquired about the route to a remote part of the city on a certain night. In three days 550 men were questioned thus.

All the taxicabs that "stood the line" in the neighborhood were accounted for except one. This cab, other drivers said, had been operated by a quiet young man who never mingled with them. They could not say if his nose was large or his jaw loose, although they were certain that he wore a cap, in common with 33,000 other city chauffeurs.

They added that the missing driver had impressed them as being one of those venturesome and harried souls who enter the hacking business without consulting the State.

Another highway hunting ground for taxicabs was subjected to scrutiny, then a third. Garage owners and employees were asked what they knew about chauffeurs who carried guns. Not the faintest glimmer of light showed as the police groped in the dark.

The detective took four of the men assigned to work with him and sought a part of the city where fourteen cabs were waiting patiently for patronage. A fifteenth cab added itself to the line as the detectives were crossing the street.

The drivers of the fourteen cabs talked freely to the officers about themselves and their activities. As the detectives moved away they passed the driver of the fifteenth cab and asked him how the taxi trade was coming along. He said that he didn't know, because he wasn't in it. He said he had never seen the cab the detectives asked him about.

When they told him that they had been present when he drove up, he replied he had just been joking in saying the cab was not his.

But three hours later the detective in charge of the case called up the girl and asked her to come to headquarters to inspect the profile that she remembered.

It is not left to the sleuth of fiction alone to run the criminal to earth on the merest wisp of a clue. First-Grade Detective Joseph Gilkinson, of New York, accomplished the feat. He and Detective Thomas Cavanaugh, aided by several other members of the plain-clothes force, arrested John Leventine, an unlicensed taxicab driver, who confessed to shooting Dennis J. Kenny in front of the home of Miss Annabelle Flower, Brooklyn, on the night of Jan. 9.

TRIBUTE TO PASTOR.

Former Peterborough Man Honored at Hamilton Presbytery.

Following is the resolution paseed by the Hamilton Presbytery to Rev. J. A. Wilson on Tuesday, March 7.

"The presbytery of Hamilton desires to give expression to and place on record the high esteem in which it holds Rev. J. A. Wilson, whose resignation of the pastorate of St. Andrew's Church, was regretfully accepted on January 20, 1925.

"Mr. Wilson was inducted in St. Andrew's Church on December 13, 1904, when the membership was 523. During his ministry the membership of the congregation has doubled, the congregational revenue trebled and the missionary givings were more than multiplied five times.

'Largely through his efforts the present commodious church was built in 1906, and the entire debt wiped out in 1920.

'Mr. Wilson has taken an active part in the general work of the Presbyterian Church, having served on the senate of Knox College and important assembly committees. He has also held high offices in the Lord's Day Alliance, Bible Society Ministerial Association, Christian Endeavor, etc. For several years he has been lecturer at the C. E. summer school at Elgin house, Muskoka.

Mr. Wilson is a man of genial personality and brotherly disposition; courageous and outspoken, a strong preacher of the gospel, and an indefatigable pastor, a man of strong convictions, broad vision intrepid courage, scrupulous honour, loved and trusted by all who stand for the best things in the community."

Rev. Mr. Wilson was formerly assistant at St. Paul's Church, Peterboro.

BETTER WAY OF HANDLING FISH

Expert Says Fish Will Leave Shore Ready for the Cook.

LOWER PRICES.

HALIFAX, N.S., March 9. (Canadian Press).—"Cheaper and better fish for the consumer, more money for the fishermen, and an industry trebled in size, are some of the advantages that must follow if the best methods now known are applied throughout the fishing industry in Canada," declared Dr. A. G. Huntsman, Director of the Atlantic Stations of the Biological Board of Canada, in an interview in which he outlined the development and aims of the board. "And on the other hand," he said, "unless changes are made in conducting the fisheries and handling the product, the fishing industry in Canada is bound to go down."

"While there has not been the same progress in our fisheries as in other lines of activity, due probably to the industry being a scattered one, and much of the work being done at sea, it must be remembered said Mr. Huntsman, "that France, Portugal and the United States are securing marked advantages over Canada in fishing areas, that, geographically speaking are decidedly Canadian. We have the wealth of fisheries, but in order to take proper advantages of our opportunities we most change our methods."

Changes advocated by the Biological Board include amongst other things, improved methods of curing and freezing, and improved canneries. As regards the handling of fish, Dr. Huntsman predicted that within a few years, the fish will leave the shore centres all ready for the cook. Scalding, boning and packing all under the most sanitary conditions, is something that is bound to be done in the near future in the larger fishing communities. This, he contends, will result in lower transportation costs, cheaper and better fish and, in consequence, a fish in greater demand and more money for those engaged in the industry.

Dr. Huntsman, while paying tribute to the sturdy Canadian fishermen of today and yesterday, declared that the hope for the development of the fisheries was in the younger generation, with whom the Biological Board plans to do its chief work.

The board, he stated, has two practical stations, one at Halifax for the Atlantic fishermen and one at Prince Rupert for the Pacific fishermen It also has two experimental stations for the use of university men and others engaged in scientific research These are located at St. Andrews, New Brunswick, and Nanaimo, British Columbia, and have been engaging for the past three years the attention of a number of eminent scientists including Dr. J. G. R. McLeod of Toronto, co-discoverer of insulin with Dr. F. G. Banting.

The Halifax and Prince Rupert stations, which have been more recently established, will offer lecture and laboratory courses to the men actively employed in the fisheries. Lecturers will be sent from these stations to the various fishing centres and in addition, the mails, the newspapers and the picture screen will be used to disseminate information of direct and special interest to the fishing industry. The work of the stations is largely educational. It is designed to instruct the fishermen and to instill in the public an appreciation of fish values.

The whole work of the Biological Board of Canada, said Dr. Huntsman, is the outgrowth of a resolution passed at the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, held in Toronto in 1898 ,to the effect that something be done to benefit the Canadian fisheries. This resolution was presented to the Dominion Government, with the result that in 1902 a federal grant was extended of $1,000 per year for five years. Subsequent increases were made until now the board enjoys an annual federal grant of $42,000 administered by a directorate representative of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, the leading Canadian Universities and those actively engaged in the fishing industry.

The Board as at present constituted includes: Professor A. P. Knight, Kingston chafrman; Prof. E. E. Prince, Ottawa, secretary-treasurer; Dr. A. H. MacKay, Dalhousie University; Dr. C. J. Conolly, St. Francis Xavier University; Dr. P. Cox, University of New Brunswick; Canon V. A. Huard, Laval University; Dd R. E. Ruttan, McGill University; Prof. W. A. McClement, Queen's University; Prof. J. P. McMurrich, Toronto University; Prof. C. H. Donoghue, University of Manitoba; Prof. A. H. Hutchinson, University of British Columbia; J. J. Cowie, Department of Marine and Fisheries; A. H. Whiteman, Halifax, representing the Atlantic Fisheries; John Dybhavn, Prince Rupert, representing the Pacific Fisheries.

WOMAN NOVELIST CANT AFFORD HUSBAND

Husband Most Expensive Luxury, Says Rheta Childe Dorr—Her Own Marriage Was a Failure.

BY MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, March 7.—"I can't afford a man."

This very modern utterance comes from Rheta Childe Dorr, feminist, lecturer, author and investigator.

"A husband," she says, "has always been the most expensive luxury in the world. For his love and protection woman pays with her career, her work, her individuality and most of her rights as a human being. The price is exorbitant. But I see ahead a relief from such inflated values. Men will come down in value."

Mrs. Dorr admits she could not and did not pay the market price for marriage and that her own marriage, contracted a quarter of a century ago, was a failure.

Co-respondent.

She names Herbert Spencer as co-respondent since it was really this author who made her a feminist.

Mrs. Dorr also admits that she is over the half century mark in age—her book, "A Woman of Fifty" is a record of her eventful career.

She was the first woman to crash the gates of newspaperdom and to investigate conditions for women in industry by actually going into shops and factories. She was a pioneer in the suffrage and feminist movement. In fact, since the twentieth century dawned she has had a graduated view of the pageant of women's progress.

The Flapper.

"The self-supporting, thinking woman is forcing down the marriage market and deflating masculine stock," she says. "The flapper, shocking her elders, painted like a fire engine, and living her own life, is carrying on the feminine torch as surely as did the women who braved the mob and talked suffrage from soapboxes.

"My generation fought for a place in the sun, fought to be members of the human family instead of adjuncts of men, fought for political recognition and the right to work side by side with men—for all the privileges we take for granted today.

"The flapper today, in her subconscious way, has a goal. She is trying to erase those unfair and unsocial differences between men and women that give men all the advantage in marriage.

Petting Parties.

"Petting parties are the flapper's way of trying to establish an equilibrium. After all, for generations men have been given a few years in which to sew wild oats. The flapper will have them, too, or will force men to give them up. The struggle now is not beautiful, but it is interesting. It is a step toward eradicating masculine privilege.

"The flapper will pass, but not until she has contributed her bit to the advancement of women. Not until she has forced a fair deal for wives and brought husbands down to their proper value."

Then, she concluded, "marriage will not ask al from a woman and little from the man. And a husband will not ask all from a woman and tion for the average inteligent woman."

KIWANIANS TO PUT ON MINSTREL SHOW

The Kiwanis Club feel as though they are doing a great service to the community by presenting this clean and out of the ordinary production ,and are assured the support of the general public for their efforts, in this line of endeavor. The play will be presented on April 24th and 25th.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Editor, The Examiner.

Sir,—The Council of Otonabee Township at its last monthly meeting, had the annual visit of the Block Road delegation asking that a special levy of one mill be raised, or approximately $2,700, to be expended on the Block Road. The delegation has been reorganized, the veteran leader has reverted to the ranks, and Mr. Henderson is in command.

Mr. Henderson, although appealing for aid in the house of his friends—for he claims all the Council except the Reeve, as Block Road supporters—got a kindly, though, it is said, a very cool reception, especially when he exhorted Council to publicly declare themselves for his project. Just what I urged in my last letter, and what Mr. Henderson said was unnecessary, as far as Mr. Anderson and Mr. Comrie were concerned. The Council hedged as was expected; they decided to see the road. The reason is apparent, in the meantime. It will be ascertained if the equivalent Government grant will be forthcoming, and it is practically certain it will not. Then they can boldly declare for the levy of $2,700, thereby making good fellows of themselves with the Block roaders.

But is it not time the farce was ended. Our taxes have reached the limit. Reduction should be the order of the day, and if a special levy be made, let it be for wiping out the huge overdraft which has been created.

And I am sure the Block roaders do not want the taxes increased. The officers of the organization all condemn any increase, the factotem, Mr. Fife being especially vociferous at the nominations in condemning them.

Now as Mr. Henderson's speeches and actions have been so dramatically different from the tone of his letter in reply to me, I will make this offer. I will sign my lot and concession if he will tell who wrote that letter for him. But I can assure him I am a ratepayer of Otonabee and I am what I sign myself.

WOMAN RADIOLOGIST.

Only Female Operator in the Far East Visits Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 9 (Canadian Press). — The only women in the Far East to hold a position of radiologist in a large general hospital is visiting here in the person of Miss E. K. Pape, graduate of King's College Hospital, London, and for the past four years in charge of the X-ray department of the Shanghai General Hospital.

Miss Pape, who wears the coveted Mons Star for service in France with the second unit which went out in 1914, is en route to London to attend the world's conference of radiologists to be held there in the spring.

She also saw service with a British hospital ship at Gallipoli, and was later decorated for her work in both theatres of war.

London Writer Known To Winnipeg People

WINNIPEG ,Man., March 9 (Canadian Press). — Recent isues of the London Daily Graphic have been featuring news concerning Mrs. Frank Collie, who writes a daily "Sketch" or prose poem in its columns, and whose book has just been published in London, "A Fragrant Minute Every Morning."

Mrs. Collie is known to many in the city as "Stiula Rand," and before her marriage last year was Mrs. E. A. Cohen, of St. John's.

Mrs. Collie recently read before the Poetry Circle of the Lyceum formance at the Pallidium "with an Club and appeared in a benefit per-all-star cast." She told her audience that she practically took her life in her hands by appearing, as one of her correspondents had written to her saying "My fingers itch to murder you, Miss Stitch."

She writes under the name of "Wilhelmine Stitch."

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH TAKES RESIGNATION

Rev. R. Pogue Leaves Pastorate With Sanction of Congregation.

The congregations attending St. Paul's Presbyterian Church yesterday were large and appreciative, the sermons delivered by Mr. H. Lennox, B.A., a graduate of Knox College, Toronto, being inspiring and timely.

The subjects were "A Fool for God" and "Why Be a Christian?" morning and evening respectively, and his treatment of these topics called forth many complimentary remarks from his listeners.

Next Sabbath, Rev. Alex. McGregor will conduct both services.

Congregational Meeting.

A congregational meeting was held at the close of last night's service ,when the matter of Rev. Mr. Pogue's resignation was dealt with.

William Madill was chairman, and called for some action to be taken with reference to to-morrow's meeting of Peterborough Presbytery in St. Paul's Church, a citation having been read the past two Sundays regarding the resignation of the pastor.

E. F. Mason moved, seconded by Mr. Woodcock, "That Mr. Pogue's resignation being now in the hands of Rev. Mr. Thompson, Clerk of the Presbytery, we, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, accept the resignation of Rev. Mr. Pogue."

This was carried unanimously.

Commissioners to the Presbytery were appointed as follows:

For the Session—William Madill and H. B. Cowan.

For the Managers—E. F. Mason and J. H. Connal.

For the Congregation—W. H. Hill and John Gillespie.

MORE LEGISLATION.

But Hope to Clear Up All Business Before Easter.

TORONTO, March 9. — (Canadian Prss).— Government in council to-day discussed further legislation for this session The Premier afterwards said that legislature would conclude its work before Easter, and that every effort would be made to get all business finished up. It is expected that the budget bebate will be brief. The main debate is liable to come up on the beer bill.

DIRECTORS ARE CHOSEN TO-DAY BY ROTARIANS

Mr. G. H. Roper Tells the Club of the Growth of the Y.M.C.A.

CANADA'S PART.

Dominion Has Made Notable Contribution to the Movement.

Robert Kingan, George A. Gillespie, John H. Seels, Andrew Brown and Thomas barrie constitute the new Board of Directors of the Peterboro Rotary Club for the ensuing year, the five having been elected by ballot at the weekly luncheon of the club at the Empress today. The directors will elect their own officers.

The speaker today was Mr. G. H. Roper, secretary of the local Y.M.C.A., who gave a most instructive and interesting address upon the history of the Young Men's Christian Association, from the time of its organization in London, England on June 6, 1844, by George Williams, up to the present.

Mr. Roper pointed out that the movement as we know it reached its present form and development in North America rather than in England, the first association on this continent having started in Montreal. The speaker referred to the great service of Robert McBurney, the first paid officer of the Association, under whose direction the present four-fold type of work was developed.

Mr. Roper traced the growth of the movement on this continent, the formation of the international committee with Richard A. Morse, as the first general secretary, and the organization in 1912 of the Canadian National Council to have jurisdiction over the work in Canada. He also dealt with the development of the physical department and the foreign work of the Association.

Canada, he explained, has always played a prominent part in the Y.M.C.A. work on this continent. Some of the outstanding teachers of the movement have been developed in local associations in this country, including C. K. Calhoun, a native of Montreal, and now associate general secrtary of the international committee. R. John Brown, formerly of Toronto West End "Y" is secretary of the physical department, and Edgar M. Robinson, native of the Maritime provinces, is secretary of the World's Committee for Boys' Work with headquarters in Geneva.

Canada too has made notable contributions to the work in developing fetaures, that have been afterwards adopted in the United States. The hexathlon athletic contest was one of these contributions; the organized national leaders' corps was another and perhaps the most outstanding was the Canadian standard efficiency programme, popularly known as the C.S.E.T. movement. This was developed in Toronto, under the direction of Taylor Statten and Wallace Forgie, and has been copied by the American association under the name of the Christian citizenship training programme.

President J. W. McDermid. In his retiring address, expressed his hearty thanks to the members and directors for their assistance and co-operation, and paid a warm tribute to Chairman J. M. Greene and the entertainment committee and to Rotarian W. Harold Young who has edited the Bulletin for the past two years.

CARPET BOWLING BY LOCAL SCOTS

Members of Clan Alpine Witness a Tourney Full of Pep.

The regular monthly meeting of Clan Alpine, Sons of Scotland, was held in the S. O. E. Hall, Hunter Street, on Thursday evening, March 5.

This was the most enthusastic meeting for some time, the members turning out in goodly numbers.

Tom Hendry, Worthy Chief, was in the chair, and after the business on hand was disposed of, the carpets were laid for a Bowling tournament. Bros. Tom McArthur and A. Jackson showed considerable judgment in selection of the various doubles which were played off amid great excitement. The finals were reached wit Alex Clark and Bob Hendry, against J. Richmond and J. Leiper.

Then followed an exciting time. Alec Clark had to be cautioned at various times for wild shooting, he later settled down to his old form and amazed his opponents again and again by his wonderful playing. His partner, Bob Hendry, played his usualy cautious game denoting much ability, gained on the green

Richmond and Leiper, their opponents did not take any chances, but played hard and careful and at times it looked as if Alec would succumb to the excitement. Both teams played the best game seen for some time, Alec Clark and Bob Hendry winning by a good margin.

Refreshments were served and prizes presented to the winners. The Camp was nearly out on full strength The next meeting in April will be an open one for members and their lady friends.

JEWELRY ROBBERY BY MASKED MEN

Break Into Apartment and Get Away With $50,000 in Gems.

NEW YORK, March 9. —(Canadian Press).—Three masked men broke into the studo apartment of Mrs. Fay Perkins in West 18th st., this morning and escaped with jewelry of an estimated value of $50,000, after beating Mrs. Perkins and binding and gagging her escort, Milton Abbott, described by police as a wealthy cotton broker.

The robbers chopped down the doors of the apartment in making their entrance. They are believed by police to have been members of the same gang that robbed the apartments of several women known as "Broadway Butterflies," including Louise Lawson and Dorothy Keenan, who was murdered.

WOMEN AND MEN IN A TUG-OF-WAR

But Time-Honored Game Ended in $25 Damage Suit.

TORONTO, March 9.— (Canadian Press)—Details given in court of a tug-of-war between the women and workmen employees of the Toronto Commission resulted in the plaintiffs, the Mrs. J. and K. Beckett, receiving $25 as damages. The workmen were stringing wire across the Beckett premises and the two women objected to the trespass and took hold of the rope. So did the men. At last after about half an hour the foreman directed his men to cut off the end of the wire which was attached to the rope and leave the rope with the ladies. The Judge in his finding said that the Hydro men had no right to pull the rope, the defendants were largely to blame for taking the law into their own hands, instead of complaining to the proper authorities.

ST GEORGE'S CHURCH SCENE OF BAPTISM

Infant Daughter of Rev. J. L. and Mrs. Hughes Baptized.

Yesterday morning at St. George's Church, the baptism took place of the infant daughter of Rev. J. L. and Mrs. Hughes, when the child received the names of Ida Dorothy Aileen. Immediately after the second lesson at Matins, the Rector proceeded to the font, for the ceremony. The hymns sung were, "Come, Holy Ghost, Descend from High," and "'Tis Done that New and Heavenly Birth."

A baptismal shell of polished pearl, surmounted by a silver cross was used at the baptism, the shell afterwards being presented to the church as a thankoffering by the Rector and Mrs. Hughes.

Closing Quotations on Principal Active Stocks.

CHICAGO.

A stage has been reached in the wheat market where a realisation of bullish expectations is regarded as immediately necessary to prevent a lowering of values. Various explanations are given for the break in wheat last week. They are, slow reduction in the visible supply, limited export buying until Saturday, when 3,000,000 were sold abroad owing to the big break in prices, a fair movement from the country, immense volume of profit-taking, and decrease in outside demand.

The oats situation is heavy, and the surprise is that values are holding up fairly well. The movement from the country has fallen off, but there are plenty of oats everywhere, and cash trade is limited. The season of crop scares in the winter wheat section is on.

A number of bad reports are being received from Kansas and Nebraska.

ONE MORE SUCCESS FOR BARACA CLASS

Young Men's Organization Which Is Adding New Members Every Meeting.

Another strongly attended meeting of the Baraca Young Men's Class was held at Murray Street Church yesterday, after the morning service. The membership of the class is growing stronger every meeting. There were five new members presented yesterday.

The member who has a friend at the class is asked to introduce him to the members, and a newcomer is at once made welcome, as all the older members knowing he is a stranger to the class, make a point of making him at home.

The lesson was taken by W. W. Richmond and dealt with the Crucifixtion The subject was handled as a young man likes to have it presented to him, and many were shown more clearly through it how much pain the Saviour had suffered for us on the Cross.

At the conclusion of the evening service, the Class held a sing-song, to which all the young people of the church were invited. Music was supplied by a five-piece orchestra from the class, and the singing was led by the versatile Graham Eastwood.

Two solos were rendered by Miss Teressa Pearson and Miss Constance Lewis, which were greatly appreciated. One or two novelties were introduced during the evening. For a few hymns the girls' classes would sing one line, and the boys would come in on the next one.

The ladies' organization of the church served refreshments after the singing. The evening went off very enjoyably ,and the Baracas class has one more success to look back on.

NAMES

YOU meet Mr. Howard and Mr. Walters in a gathering. Their names are to you but two of many you hear.

A few days later you meet Mr. Howard again. And again. He becomes a friend, perhaps an intimate in your social as well as business life.

Mr. Howard's name grows to mean a lot to you. Mr. Walters is rarely seen again and soon forgotten.

In this newspaper are other names—names of advertised products. Day after day you see them. They are like old friends — to be trusted. Their names mean economy, full value and integrity.

The unadvertised products—perhaps you see one in a store—or in a friend's home. Soon the name is forgotten—a stranger about whom you know little.

Fill your medicine closet, your pantry, your wardrobe with products whose names are guarantees of their integrity—advertised products. Like intimate friends—you know what they are and will do.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

SLAVES BOUGHT AND SOLD HERE A CENTURY AGO

Farmer Secured His Help by Inserting Advertisement to Purchase.

CAME IN DROVES

Even Indians Were Slaves, According to Old Records —Used on Farms.

COBOURG, March 9.—It has almost passed from the memory of present-day citizens that there was once a time when slaves were bought and sold in Ontario. In the Niagara Herald of 1802, it was stated that a negro man slave was for sale, eighteen years of age, stout and healthy, who had had the smallpox, and was capable either of service in the house or out of doors. Mrs. "Widow" Clement also offered for sale in the Herald a negro man and women, of whom she says —"They have been bred to the business of a farm," and it is further added, "will be sold on highly advantageous terms for either cash or land." It would appear from these advertisements that money and real estate were beginning to be regarded as safer sources to secure a competence than human chattels. But, if the farmers of those days required a hired man, provided he had the cash, he could go out and buy one.

Purchaser Advertises.

From 1790 to 1797 the advertisements in these first newspapers of Ontario show it was the prospective purchasers who were doing the advertising. The Canada Gazette and Oracle, the official organ of Upper Canada, contains the notice that a citizen wished to purchase "a negro girl of from seven to twelve years, of good disposition."

Slaves Sold For Life.

An Act of Parliament passed by the first Parliament of Canada in 1793 forbade the further introduction of slaves into Canada, but there were a number who were slaves for life, and in most cases owners were quite willing to sel these. Peter Russell, a well-known Toronto citizen in 1806 advertised in the Gazette and Oracle as follows: "To be sold, a black woman named Peggy, aged forty years, and a black boy, her son, named Jupiter, aged about fifteen years, both of them the property of the subscriber. The woman is a tolerable cook and washer-woman, and thoroughly understands making soap and candles. The boy is tall and strong for his age, and has been occupied in the country business and brought up mainly as a house servant. They are each of them servants for life. The price of the woman is $150, and for the boy, $200, payable in less than two years. But one-quarter less will be taken for cash payment."

On 1st of March, 1811, William Jarvis of Toronto informed the court there assembled that a negro boy and girl, his slaves, had the evening before been committed to prison for having stolen gold and silver out of his desk, in his dwelling-house, and for escaping from their master. "Coachley," a free negro, has aided them in the theft. The negro boy, whose name was Henry, but who was commonly known as Prince, was committed to jail to serve a term, and the girl was returned to her master.

The Journey of Two Slaves.

Sheriff Ruttan, who was one of the first presidents of the Upper Canada Provincial Exhibition, in speaking of the exodus of the United Empire Loyalists to Canada, says: "My uncle brought two negro servants with him who were very faithful, hard-working fellows. During the year of famine (1789 or 1790), they were sent from Adolphustown, Prince Edward County, to Albany, for four bushels of Indian corn, a dreadfully hazardous journey through the forest, with no road and the snow very deep. They executed this mission and returned in safety."

Stole The Oven.

These slaves were generally faithful and industrious, but were sometimes mischievous. It was the custom in the first years of settlement here to place ovens in the yard on stakes. Dr. Couniff, in his history of Upper Canada, states: "It is stated that the farm servants would sometimes carry off the ovens filled with good things."

Gave Surety For His Slave.

Rev. Mr. Stuart, in his memoirs in speaking of his removal to Canada, says: "My negroes, being my personal property, I take with me. One of them being a young man and capable of bearing arms. I had to give surety of one hundred pounds to send back a white prisoner in his stead."

Lived In Dutch Kitchen.

Major Vonalstine, the well-known pionees of the Bay of Quinte district, had slaves, whom he is stated to have treated with patriarchal kindness. They lived in great comfort in the old-fashioned cellar kitchen of his farm house in Prince Edward County.

Droves of Cattle, Sheep, Negroes.

Capt. Clerk, another early settler, tells that after the Declaration of Independence, "drovers used to come in to Upper Canada with droves of horses, cattle, sheep and negroes, for the use of the troops, forts and settlers in Canada, and my father purchased his four negroes, three males and one female, named Sue." He further states that upon the occasion of his mother's funeral, their negro, Joe, drove the favorite horses, "Jolly and Bunny," before the sleigh, which had been painted black.

"Caesar Congo."

Sheriff Sherwood relates his remembrance of one slave named Caesar Congo, who was owned by Capt. Jenis Sherwood, who came in with the family. When the fleet of batteaux, bearing the U.E.L. settlers, was making a portage, Caesar often took the boy, who later became Mr. Justice Sherwood, of Toronto, on his back to help him along.

Sal, a Methodist.

A negro slave named Sal, owned by Nicholas Logier of Prince Edward, was noted for her attachment to Methodism and would go a long way to attend meetings. As one of the first Methodists on Quinte Bay, she became quite generally known.

One of the Last Slaves.

Eli Kieler, of Haldimand Township, Northumberland County, sold a mulatto boy named Tom to William Bell of Thurlow. It was set forth in the agreement of sale that the said boy had time unexpired to serve as the child of a female slave, namely to the 29th of February, 1824, according to the laws of the Province for the sum of $75. Probably this was the last slave in Canada to close his service.

Indian Slave.

It would seem odd indeed at the present day to see the following advertisement in a Canadian paper, but it appeared on August 28, 1802, in the Gazette, published at Newark: "All persons are forbidden harboring, concealing or employing my Indian slave, called Sal, as I am determined to prosecute any offender to the utmost extent of the law; and persons who may suffer her to remain on their premises for the space of half an hour, without my written consent, will be taken as offending, and dealt with according to law. Charles Fields."

Loyal to British Flag.

The Ottawa Citizen in 1867 contained the following paragraph, which is only one instance among many, indicating the devotion of these bondsmen to the British flag:

"An old negro appeared at the Court of Assizes here yesterday in the case of Morris v. Hennerson. He is 101 years of age and was formerly slave in Upper Canada, before the abolition of slavery in the British possessions. He fought in the American War in 1812 on the side of the British, was at the battles of Chippewa and Lundy's Lane, and was wounded at Sackett's Harbor. He is in full possession of all of his faculties. He was born in New York State in 1766 and was the slave of a U.E.L., who brought him to Canada. He was brought to this place to prove the death of a person in 1803 and again in 1804."

The first Parliament of Canada has this to its credit, that at its first session held at the first capital of Upper Canada, Newark, legislation was passed, giving slaves their freedom.

Buttermilk Is Good To Fatten Poultry

The lactic acid organisms in Buttermilk make it a very valuable food. Not so much is it valued for the energy value that it contains, but for its ability in fighting and destroying the bacteria of decomposition in thee alimentary canal.

Poultry fatteners feed buttermilk with the purpose of getting quicker gains and more tender, juicy meat. They have also found that buttermilk fed chickens ship with less mortality and that the dressed poultry retains its high quality for a longer period after being placed on the market, indicating that the bacteria of decomposition had been eliminated or at least held in check.

DAIRYMEN SEEK HIGH STANDARD

Cows Must Have Dairy Temperament, Feed Capacity and Vigor.

IN SHORT-HEALTH

Dairy farmers producing milk for the city trade depend largely on the half and half type of farmer-breeder for their supply of cows. These specialists in milk production are the wideawake business type of men. They know feeds, cows and markets. When they go out to buy more cows up and down the country side roads, this is what they look for: Cows with dairy temperament, feed capacity, well developed milk organs, constitution, vigor, freedom from tuberculosis, mastitis and abortion.

Dairy temperament is indicated by a wedge-shaped conformation, freedom from marked coarseness, alertness, activity and bright eye.

Feed capacity is indicated by a long deep roomy middle, broad muzzle, strong jaw and well-developed salivary glands.

Well-developed milk organs are indicated by an udder of good size and quality, well attached forward and high up between the thighs, large well-placed teats, and large veins running forward on the abdomen.

Constitution and vigor are indicated by a good heart girth and a good width through the regions of the heart, a healthy condition of the skin and hair.

Freedom from disease is best indicated by the application of the tuberculin test and also the contagious abortion agglutination test.—I., Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College.

50,000 HENS AND NOT A SINGLE ROOSTER

They Are On What Claims To Be World's Largest Egg Farm.

30,000 Cackles a Day And Every Cackle Means An Egg!

PETALUMA, Calif., March 9.—Fifty thousand chickens— And you never hear a rooster crow on the place!

Never see a mother hen digging up worms for baby chicks.

It's a "hennery" pure and simple, is the Corliss Ranch here. It is said to be the greatest egg producing farm in the world.

At least 30,000 cackles are heard a day—and each cackle means an egg. Packed 30 dozen in a case, a truck is required to move 70 or more cases a day to the poultry exchange for shipment.

Just a Trader.

You'd expect the head of this farm to be a past master at "chickenology," specialist in poultry diseases, poultry breeding, cross-breeding, historic strains, trap nests and the rest of the things that bother the beginner in chicken raising.

But Frank W. Corliss, the proprietor, assures you that he doesn't pretend to know what it is all about.

"Getting chickens is just like trading horses with me," he says.

"Every spring, I'm in the market to sell about 8000 hens and to buy 10,000 pullets. I scout around to find where I can sell my hens for the highest price, and then I haggle around until I get my pullets at the lowest price.

"We're too busy feeding chickens and gathering and packing eggs to bother about trying to run setting hens or incubators. So it's easier to buy than worry.

70,000 Feed Bill.

"I thought I was a machinist before I thought I could get rich in the poultry game, and it's bad enough to worry about the $70,000 feed bill I must dig up every year, without worrying about little chickens. I'd rather count mine after someone else hatches 'em.

"Advice to other poultrymen? Say, advice durn near ruined me. Some figures, then? Gotcha pencil and paper ready?"

Here they are:

Four men and two women kept busy gathering eggs in 200-egg buckets and packing them for market. Forty-six acres in hens—approximately 1000 hens to an acre.

White Leghorn strain used entirely. Hens are kept three years, then sold. Each lot shows a loss of 20 per cent. during the three years due to pleurisy and loss of vitality due to the breeding to produce hens laying 200 eggs a year.

Big Eaters.

Truck load of kale bought every day, and ton of alfalfa and kale eaten daily. Twenty sacks of wet mash fed daily—maize, shredded wheat tips and rolled oats, mixed by electric machinery.

Ten sacks of onions daily fed occasionally as tonic. Many tons of barley and wheat fed weekly.

Over 330 chicken houses, 30 with electric lights to make working day longer. Over 48 different poultry yards. Three power pumps, connected to three wells, needed to supply water.

Twenty storage houses for chicken feed.

Pasteurization And Coolness Keep Milk

Milk is such a perishable food that measures should be taken to preserve it in good condition for at least 36 to 48 hours after it is drawn from the cow. Pasteurization, which includes cooling and holding at a reasonably low temperature, preferably below 50° F. are the two things necessary and practicable at reasonable cost. Where milk is held at 60° to 70° F., which in ordinary house temperature, the dealers' raw milk will not remain sweet for more than 12 hours, where as if pasteurized it will likely be quite fit for table use up to 24 or 30 hours holding. If kept at 50° F. the pasteurized milk will remain in good condition for 48 hours or longer.—Prof. H. H. Dean, Dairy Dept., O. A. College.

MOST EXPENSIVE OF PLANT FOOD

Nitro-Cultures And the Inoculation of Legume Seed Explained.

USEFUL BACTERIA

Although occurring to the extent of about 80 per cent. in the air, nitrogen is considered the most expensive of the elements of plant food. This is due to the fact that with the exception of members of the legume family, plants are unable to utilize this atmospheric nitrogen, but must depend upon the supply of that element in the soil. Leguminous plants, however,—alfalfa, clovers, vetches, peas, beans, etc.,—are enabled to use the nitrogen of the air through the action of bacteria which exist in the characteristic nodules found on the root system of well developed plants of this group.

These useful bacteria, if present in the soil, enter the root of the young plant, multiply and develop the swellings or nodules, assimilating nitrogen from the air and passing it on to the plant. The plant's development is stimulated, the nitrogen supply of the soil is conserved or even increased, and benefit is thus felt by a succeeding crop.

The Use of Bacteria.

For each kind of legume a special variety of bacteria is required, whose presence in the soil is necessary. If a particular crop has been growing successfully in a short rotation it may be assumed that nodule bacteria of the right kind are in the soil. Many soils, especially in the newer districts, are deficient in these bacteria, and in most cases where a legume is being grown for the first time, or after a long lapse of years, it will be of advantage to add bacteria, or in other words, to inoculate.

Incorporating Soil.

Inoculation may be effected by taking soil from a field where the same crop has grown successfully and incorporating it with the new land at the rate of 200 lbs. or more per acre. This practice is often expensive and is always subject to the danger of introducing weeds, insects and plant diseases.

Another method, much simpler to apply, is that of adding a pure culture of the nodule bacteria directly to the legume seed before sowing. This method has been tried for a number of years, and in cases where a scarcity of bacteria of the proper sort is suspected will give, in a large number of cases, beneficial results.

To Encourage Farmers.

The Dominion Experimental Farms wish to encourage the use of nitrocultures among the farmers of Canada, and the Division of Bacteriology will supply free to any farmer who applies directly, sufficient nitro-culture to inoculate 60 lbs. of seed for any legume he wishes to try out. In making application it is necessary to state the kind of seed used and give, if possible, the approximate date of seeding in order that cultures may be fresh. Furthermore, cultures are sent out only with the understanding that the applicant agrees to report the result of his inoculation trial, whether it be successful or not. Many phases of the question of inoculation are not understood, and it is only by accumulating information as to the results of such trials by farmers themselves that many problems not yet solved will be cleared up.

Application for culture should be made to the Division of Bacteriology, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Cultures are not sold, and the quantity supplied to any individual is limited to the amount specified above.

FEED ABUNDANT IN NEARLY ALL PARTS ONTARIO

High Grain Prices Force Marketing of Stock in Some Sections.

OFFICIAL REPORTS

The following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Live stock is reported to be wintering well in practically all parts of the Province. Relief from the water shortage experienced earlier in the winter has been greatly appreciated. There is an abundance of feed except as this is affected by high grain prices which is held responsible for the marketing of thin cattle in Lanark and South Simcoe and unfinished hogs in Frontenac and Lanark. Several central and eastern counties report fewer cattle being stall finished. A good demand for dairy cows is reported especially in the North. Breeding ewes of good type are in keen demand, having sold as high as $30 at a recent sale in South Simcoe. Carloads of Western horses have been sold recently in several counties. With the exception of the North, farmers are generally doubtful about the welfare of wheat and clovers. In the Southern peninsula fields have been entirely bare, while in the greater part of the Province there is a covering of ice which many fear will cause smothering injury. The recent fall of snow has been greatly appreciated.

Little grain is being marketed at the present time. Potatoes came out freely during the milder weather which depressed prices. Quotations range from $1.00 in Old Ontario to $1.50 in the North. Hay is in little demand, ranging in price from $6.00 to $12 in the South to as high as $21 for loose hay in some parts of the North. Home grown red clover seed is selling at $24 a bus. in Prescott. The farm labor market has become active, a keen demand is reported from the London office, while more applications for the same period have been received in the counties of Peterborough, South Simcoe and several others. Dufferin reports less inquiries than last year and attributes this to the fact that some of the men placed last season have been retained by the ye Algoma.—There is a good demand oats. Several cars have been sold lo at 80c per bus. Hay is moving slowly $12-$13 per ton.

Brant.—Very few of the winter fed cattle have been sold as yet. I have heard of a few being sold for Easter at 8c; this is higher than the average price at the present time. At farm sales cattle are going exceedingly well, dairy cows running from $60-$100. Good grade cows usually bring $70-$75. There is also a demand for brood sows. A local breeder stating during the past two weeks he never had a greater demand for same. The prevailing price for hogs of late has been $11.25.

Muskoka and Parry Sound. — The weather conditions during the past month have not been favorable for bush work, as there has been too much soft weather. Many men have not completed much more than half of their winter hauling, and prospects are that considerable material will be left in the bush, unless we get some steady weather.

Renfrew.—Small amounts of grain are being marketed, local mills paying wheat $1.75, oats 60c, peas $2.00. Hay quoted $10 to $12 a ton. Farmers are busy delivering wood, logs, and pulp wood. Dry hardwood is bringing $9 to $10 a cord.

South Simcoe.—At recent auction sales grade ewes are selling from $19 to $25 each. At one sale they sold for $30 each. Grade sows in pig are bringing from $45 to $50. While good grade cows are selling around $60. Good "farm chunk" horses are bringing from $100 to $150.

Temiskaming.—Probably the most interesting live stock feature to report at this time, is the success that two brothers (local farmers) have had with the car load of steers received from the West last fall. I believe I explained that these men were fattening these steers and killing them, themselves. I saw them a few days ago, and they are very enthusiastic the way things are going, and felt that they would make considerable profit out of the proposition. The steers have made good gains and have all given good account of themselves, in this respect. There is a keen demand for milk cows, but on a credit basis.

LIME PRODUCES 154 P.C. CROPS

ACTUAL PROOF

Lime and phosphate experiments were planned by the Chemistry Department of the Ontario Agricultural College to determine the effect of lime and acid phosphate on wheat and the succeeding crop of clover. Each experiment consisted of four one-half acre plots. The experiment was started in the autumn of 1922 when three experiments in each of the following counties were undertaken: Haldimand, Norfolk, Wentworth, Brant, Lincoln, Halton, Elgin and Welland. The fertilizers and lime were applied immediately before seeding the ground with wheat. It was not expected that lime would influence the crop of wheat but it was applied to see its influence on the clover following the wheat. When the wheat was harvested in 1923 it was found that on the plots receiving lime and acid phosphate the yield was 54 per cent. greater than on the check plots.

In the autumn of 1923, three experiments were laid down in each of eight counties, extending west and east of the original eight. When the plots in the sixteen counties were harvested in 1924, it was found that the plots where lime and acid phosphate had been applied yielded 45 per cent. more than the check plots. The clover was harvested from the plots started in the autumn of 1922, and gave a yield of clover on the limed plots forty per cent. greater than the yield on the check plots. The clover yield on the lime and phosphate plots was sixty per cent. greater than it was on the check plots.

The soil of the plots in these sixteen counties all showed a shortage of lime when taken over by the Department.

During the autumn of 1924 the work was extended to three other farms in each of eight additional counties.

The results to date on the lime phosphate experiments are very interesting and show that without doubt lime may be applied with profit for clover andthat acid phosphate may be used with profit on wheat.—Ontario Agricultural College.

RAW MILK WON'T KEEP.

Raw milk as delivered to dairies is not likely to remain sweet longer than 12 to 24 hours, whereas when pasteurized and cooled it will be good and sweet for two or three days. This is a decided advantage for the milk dealer and also for the housewife, who is frequently troubled with sour milk when the produce is handled in a raw condition.

Increased Price Of Farm Products Encouraging Finds C. P. R. Vice-President On Tour Of West

(Special to The Examiner.)

Montreal, Que., March 9.—Grant Hall, Vice-President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who, with C. R. Temple, Chief of Motive Power, and J. J. Scully, General Manager of Eastern Lines, has just concluded an inspection tour of the company's western lines, returned to Montreal confident that business is upon the up-trend and full of optimism for the future.

"I find general business conditions quiet, but improving throughout Canada, and undoubtedly the increase in the price of farm products will prove very encouraging to the west. A large special trainload of hardware and farm equipment, which left Fergus, Ontario, last week, for western points, indicates that the crop money is beginning to circulate more readily and when the farmers lay out in new equipment, it can be taken that they have confidence in the country and their confidence must inspire as it benefits the industrialist," he said.

SOME POINTS IN CARE OF COWS

Dairy Animals Do Double Duty and Must Be Fed Accordingly.

WILLING WORKERS

There is too much waste in many dairy stables through owners not giving the cow a chance to do her work. Tied up all winter long, any feed that she gets must be brought to her; it is the raw material with which she works. The cow can not create milk out of nothing, so if the feed supplied is not sufficient for production then she will be as an idle machine in the factory, no production. Cows that are underfed never made any money for their owners, and might better not exist.

The successful dairyman treats his cow in a way that will insure health, comfort and production. Some fail because they stop after providing just enough to give health and comfort. They should go all the way and provide for production. The overhead is the same. Work the cow machine to capacity that she may give you a production that will pay for feed, labor and also give a good profit.

A cow that yields 8,000 pounds of milk in a year produces within that period more food products than are contained in the entire body of a fat bullock weighing 1,200 pounds. While the cow is producing the 8,000 pounds of milk she maintains her own body and she also supplies the substances for the growth of her unborn calf. Quite a heavy task and all the energy used in the life processes comes from the feeds that are supplied to her, she cannot create anything, her function is to convert vegetable feeds to flesh and milk. When food is not supplied in sufficient quantity the cow is helpless. And so we see so many poor emaciated, starved cows during the winter. All of which would be willing workers if their owners could see the point, and supply feed in abundance that the animals could do the work of producing milk, butter fat and young.

The successful dairy farmer

1. Uses cows of dairy type, temperament and breeding.

2. Treats his cows gently, keeps them contented, in comfortable quarters and follows a regular daily round of feeding, cleaning and milking.

3. Weighs and records the production of each individual, discards those that fail after having a fair chance.

4. Feeds a clean, wholesome, well-balanced ration during the winter and good grass and clover with grain as needed during the summer.

5. Gives the cow a six weeks' vacation period with liberal feed allowances between lactations.

6. Provides comfort at time of calving, is prepared for milk fever, and mammitis. Feeds sparingly for first few days and gradually brings up to full feed in two weeks' time.

7. Provides light, ventilation, clean water and salt during period of stabling.

8. Protects his cows from the cold winds of winter, the excess heat and flies of summer. Provides a shelter of trees or sheds near at hand.

9. Uses the clovers, red, sweet and alfalfa with corn silage to form the bulk of the ration.

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD BREAKFAST

Don't Let Most Important Meal of Day Be a Blue One.

SOME HINTS

(By Barbara Brooks, Kellogg Company, London, Ontario.)

Breakfast should be looked upon as the most important meal of the day, for many times the blue sky becomes overcast and the yellow sunshine is dimmed all because the coffee is cold or the toast burned. There is probably no reason why many persons get up in the morning feeling at odds with their fellow-men, but they certainly do, and no wise woman will ever ask favors of even her nearest and dearest until after breakfast.

On account of this prevalent before-breakfast feeling, the meal ought to be a perfect one of its kind. No matter how simple your breakfast is, have the few dishes which are to be served, cooked and arranged in the most attractive manner possible. And there is a wealth of material from which to choose when planning breakfasts at this time of the year.

One fruit is distinctly springlike. The tart rhubarb is always enjoyed, and its flavor seems to start the day right. Strawberry rhubarb is the variety with the very pink stalks, and we must make the most of it because the season is short. Wash it and cut the stalks into one-inch pieces; add sugar and cook in a double boiler until tender. Serve in a thin glass dish.

The cereal is almost as important as the fruit and must be carefully chosen and served. This is the time of year when the ready-to-eat cereals are very popular. Crisp corn flakes make us feel that Spring has really come. Serve them with cream or rich milk, either with the fruit or as a separate course.

Eggs come next—delicately poached and served on rounds of toast. Don't forget the finishing touch that a sprig of parsley will give. With the eggs, bran muffins—if you would truly outwit the blues—and coffee, clear and aromatic. The secret of good coffee lies in cooking it "just enough." Too long cooking spoils the flavor.

WANT CANADIAN GOODS.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 9.—Increased demand in the Far East for Canadian beef and butter was evidenced in the heavy consignment of refrigerated cargo which left Vancouver for Oriental ports on the Canadian Pacific S. S. Empress of Russia.

More than 250 tons of these commodities was shown on the ship's manifest.

WATER COWS OFTEN.

Free access to water or watering cows three times a day will increase the profits from winter dairying.

BEST SOURCES OF SEED GRAIN

Information for Those Who Cannot Secure Their Seed at Home.

REPUTABLE DEALERS

This note is submitted for the benefit of those who are unable to obtain satisfactory grain in their own neighborhood and so must look elsewhere for their supply.

One is indeed fortunate who can secure his seed requirements locally since locally grown seed, taken from productive fields, is likely to be well adapted to the district. The introducing of seed from outside is associated with certain risks and farmers contemplating making such purchases would be well advised to consult non-interested officials such as the secretary of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, Ottawa, or those connected with our Experimental Farms or Agricultural Colleges.

Speaking generally, good seed may be secured from or through two main sources, viz.:

1. Reputable seed growers who are members of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, or

2. Direct from reputable seed dealers.

Since our leading seed dealers as well as our larger growers of seed operate in close touch with the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, the secretary of this association whose office is at 114 Vittoria Street, Ottawa, is the one official best able to advise re the reliability of a given lot of seed.

Buy Graded Seed.

Since it is now illegal in Canada for any one to offer for sale seed of any kind which is not accompanied by certificates of grade, buyers should see to it that such certificate is on hand. This regulation does not apply to farmers selling direct from their own premises to other farmers, a fact which may easily result in the delivery of seed which should not be sown. Wherever practicable, therefore, buyers should insist on knowing the grade to which the seed they are buying belongs and they should be thoroughly acquainted with the definition of each grade. To this end, a copy of the Seeds Act, 1923, should be available for ready reference. Copies of this Act may be had, free of charge, by writing to the Dominion Seed Commissioner, 117 Vittoria Street, Ottawa, Ont.

The superior producing ability of good quality seed of a variety which is well adapted to thrive on soil peculiar to a given field is recognized fully by hundreds of our best farmers. Unfortunately, this all-important truth has not yet penetrated the minds of all who attempt to grow crops, fact which is accountable in no small degree fro the relatively low yield which many of our farmers continue to reap each year.

TIME FOR FRESHENING.

Cows freshened in autumn yield a better return than those freshened in summer. Extreme heat, annoyance of flies and pasture shortage cause poor results in summer.

Lure Of The Garden Is Rushing On Wings Of Spring To Envelop Millions In The Annual Mystic Power

(By Jeanette Leader, for the Ontario Horticultural Association.)

Spring is coming! There are whisperings of it in the air. The days are longer and the sun warmer and stronger. Tiny green shoots have sprung up in a protected spot here and there. The gaily colored seed catalogues have been entertaining us for weeks. Wonderful pictures of flowers that are longing for a place in our gardens are there and we want them all. We can hardly wait to get out and at it with rake and spade and hoe. It is certain that if one cares enough for flowers to plant them, even though mistakes are made, there will be a great deal of pleasure in learning from experience their needs. We choose our plants as we choose our friends, selecting the reliable ones and rejecting the untried, fickle ones. What joy is to be found in the smallest of gardens if the heart of a flower lover is there!

Those who do not want to go to the expense of buying high priced nursery stock, may have gorgeous flowers all summer cheaply and without much work. A little stirring of the ground and watering in the evenings during the dry season will amply repay by a wealth of bloom all summer. We may be generous with cut flowers. The more they are picked the more they will bloom. Annuals are so easily grown that even a novice need not hesitate to try them. Even if space is limited and soil poor the showy nasturtium will flourish and blossom all summer. The records of seedsmen show that more nasturtium seeds are sold than all others combined, except sweet peas. For persistent bloom the single petunia is unsurpassed. Both of these need abundant sunshine. The peculiar magenta shade of the petunia makes it difficult to grow among other annuals. Red, orange and some shades of pink, are impossible near it. White, some blues and yellows combine fairly well, but they are at their best grown by themselves. However, colors which in millinery would put one's teeth on edge live amicably side by side in the garden, thanks to Nature's soft greens and browns for background.

Home Grounds May Be Improved By Proper Blending Of Flowers In Plan That Will Make Pleasing Harmony

(By Jeanette Leader, for the Ontario Horticultural Association.)

A garden should be planned just as a home is planned. The architect sees the house completed before he begins to build. It is well to make the garden on paper before setting out the plants. Especially is this true when setting out a perennial border. Sometimes one sees the flaming red Oriental poppy blooming behind a purplish red pæony, and the beauty of both is ruined. Know the colors and habits of plants before buying. Arrange tall blue delphiniums irregularly towards the back and the lower growing perennials towards the front of the border. Yellow flowers such as gallardia look well near blue ones. Pink would not harmonize well beside bright yellow or red but with white between and surrounded with plenty of green foliage the effect is good.

I always feel sorry for tulips or daffodils plants in single rows. They really look unhappy. They enjoy themselves much better in groups here and there among the other plants in the border. Do not have early and late tulips in the same group. Plan to have a whole clump of bulbs in bloom at the same time.

A small unbroken green sward makes a delightful foreground for a studied planting of shrubs. Keep flower beds and shrubs along the edge of the lawn, around the verandah and foundations of the house. Spruces are beautiful in a large yard or on a hillside but should never be used where space is limited. Tall growing shrubs that will obscure the light should not be planted near windows. Do not buy plants or shrubs whose habits you do not know. Fully as important as to know what to plant is to know what not to plant. Planting like marrying, if done in too much haste, often results in too much repenting at leisure.

SALT TESTS ON BUTTER

Experiment Shows Salting Has No Apparent Preservative Value.

There is some difference of opinion as to whether salt is, or is not, a butter preservative. Tests were made at the O.A.C. Dairy Department comparing butters made from the same cream, pasteurized, to one lot of which no salt was added, in other lots the salt content was .946, 1.69 and 2.9 per cent. The lots of butter were held in cold storage in 14-pound boxes for six months, at temperature of 12° F. It was scored by the Provincial Butter Grader at the end of 1, 3 and 6 month periods. The lots having no salt averaged higher in flavor score when fresh and were practically the same at the end of 1, 3 and 6 months, and a little higher with one exception than the salted lots throughout the holding period. In these tests salt apparently had no preservative effect on the butter. High salting no doubt injures the quality of butter when fresh and is no advantage when it is to be kept in cold storage. Most Canadian markets require some salt in butter, but the demand is for less salt than formerly. At no time should butter contain over 2.5 per cent. of salt.

Niagara Wins Grimsby Series by 1 Goal - Ottawa Cling To N.H.L. Race - English Cup Semi-Finalists

SENATORS DEFEAT ST. PATS 3 TO 0; STILL HAVE CHANCE FOR PLAY-OFF

Ottawa Dazzled the Toronto Team With Whirlwind Attack Before Big Capital Crowd—St. Pats Were Minus Dye.

INDIVIDUAL EFFORTS BRILLIANT

OTTAWA, Ont., March 9.—(Canadian Press).—Ottawa Senators concluded the home section of their National Hockey League schedule here Saturday night and celebrated the event by defeating Toronto St. Pats by a score of 3 goals to 0. Incidentally the red, white and black clad puck-chasers hung to their slender hope of figuring in the playoff series, by keeping in close pursuit of Canadiens.

A capacity house attended the affair. The home team played good enough hockey to deserve their win, but St. Pats did not turn in the dashing game that has featured previous appearances. Possibly it was the absence of Babe Dye from right wing; it might have been the indisposition of Bert Corbeau, or again it may have been the rearrangement of the forward line that threw the Harps out of gear. But whatever it was, the locals held a decided edge throughout and only splendid work by John Ross Roach kept the score down as low as it was.

There were times when Ottawas cut loose a whirlwind attack that literally left the Irish breathless. Once for a five-minute stretch in the second period, following Boucher's opening goal, they hemmed the green shirts in their own end and Roach handled at least eight shots without a return on Connell's cage. While this concentrated attack of the home team was only in evidence on three or four occasions, they maintained a steady presure throughout that left the Torontonians in an anxious mood all through the piece.

First Period Scoreless.

The first period went scoreless. Both teams had opportunities to score but failed when goals seemed certainties. Once Boucher skipped in alone, got his shot away, and then bounced the rebound off Roach's arm over the net. Again, Nighbor was through with only Roach to pass, when Holway, coming in fast from behind, saved a goal with a trip that earned him a penalty.

George Boucher opened the scoring five minutes and a half after the second period started. Hooley Smith went through the centre, and Roach blocked his effort. Gosman pounced on to the disc and let fly. The puck was deflected off McCaffreys leg, and dropped dead in front of the net. Boucher swept in and whipped it into the net.

Four minutes and fifteen seconds later Boucher scored again. Smith and Denneny worked a double pass that only failed because Denneny fell. Day returned the puck and Boucher stole a pass and broke in centre, flanked by Denneny, he passed the defence. Denneny was through alone, and at Roach started out to meet him, Cy crossed him and passed to Boucher who slammed it into the cage. It was a sparkling play.

The final goal of the night came in eight minutes from the commencement of the final session. Clancy stole a pass on Neville, when the latter and Day rushed. Meeting the defence, Clancy passed to Denneny ,and he coasted around McCaffrey to beat Roach at close range with a backhand shot from the crease.

Individual Features.

Splendid individual efforts featured the contest. Both sides were lax on combined efforts, but the solo efforts were of high order. McCaffrey was in rare fettle for the visitors and was their best man. Day was closely checked all through and found the business-like Smith a handful. Adams worked hard but seemed to be always playing with something in reserve. Corbeau was only on a short period, while Neville played a good, steady game in center. Roach was at his best.

Boucher and Clancy led the Senators in style. They both turned in great games with "King" going faster than at any previous time this winter. Nighbor showed his old time form in spots. Hooley Smith's fine work was marred by a touch of individualism that cost a couple of goals, while Denneny and Gorman, alternating on left wing, played splendidly. Denneny was the more polished, but Gorman showed a really fine effort. Connell's shut-out game in goals speaks for itself.

The teams:

St. Pats—Roal, goal; McCaffrey and Holway, defence; Neville, center; Adams ,right wing; Day, left wing; Reid, Corbeau and Smylie, subs.

Referee—Cooper Smeaton, Montreal.

FALCONS WIN FROM PRINTERS

Beat Examiner 1-0 in Game Featured by Individual Play.

ICE WAS SOFT.

Friday night spectators at Brock Street Rink witnessed a hectic hockey go, when the speedy Examiner six crossed sticks with the Firehall Falcons; the Firehall managing to win, 1 to 0.

Combination play was almost impossible on the soft ice, so both teams resorted to individual rushing, although the Falcons scored the million dollar goal, they never deserved it, and on the night's play should have gone home defeated.

The Newsmen came back strong after this setback, and missed some beautiful opportunities to tie it up. Collins overskated the puck twice with Warde at his mercy, and another time shot a bucketfull of slush at Warde instead of the disc. "Red" Franks was inside, with four minutes to go, but Smith held onto his stick until the danger was over. Smith received a penalty for this, besides the ride Franks handed him when he came back.

The Firemen were the recipients of one penalty, and The Examiner two, which was a small miracle considering the ice and teams.

Homer Lundy for the Falcons was more like a fish than a hockey player.

BOSTON BEAT HAMS.

League Leaders Shut Out by Tail-Enders 2-0 Right in Hamilton.

HAMILTON, March 9 (Canadian Press).Outplaying the Hams from the boal mouth out Boston Bruins furnished the unexpected here on Saturday night and defeated the league leaders two goals to nil. The Bruins played like "champs" instead of chumps and were entitled to a larger margin but bad shooting by Shay and smart net tending by Forbes held them to two counters. Every member of the Bruin team turned in a smart performance but what really beat Hamilton was the smart net tending of Dr. Charles Stewart.

PORT ARTHUR WINS MANITOBA LEAGUE

Defeated Selkirks by 6-4 in Senior Hockey Finals.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 9.—In a game which as a whole produced little spectacular ockey, Port Arthur, Saturday night, won the championship of the Manitoba Senior Hockey Association, when they defeated Selkirk, Western title holders of 1924, 3 to 2. The Ports won the round 6 to 4, and will meet the Foxwarren-Birtle combination, Intermediate champions, for the Provincial Championship tonight.

The visitors from the head of the lakes won on their merits in both contests, and many will look forward to them bringing back the Allan Cup to Western fields.

In Saturday night's game the Ports had the edge throughout the first period, and part of the second, and in the final session they were content to lay back in a defensive game.

The aggressive plugging tactics of the Ports more than offset the finer style of the Selkirks whose play was spotty.

Five thousand fans attended the match.

FORT PITT WIN ANOTHER

BOSTON, Mass., March 9. — (Canadian Press).—The Fort Pitt Hockey team of Pittsburgh, leader in the eastern wheel of the United States Amateur Hockey Association added another victory to its list here Saturday night by defeating the Boston Maples, 4 to 2.

WON BICYCLE RACE

New York Team Won on Points in 2,397-Mile Grind.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The United States team of Bobby Walthour, Jr., and Fred Spencer, won the 38th annual international six day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

Reggie McNamara of Australia and Harry Horan of Newark N.J., took second place. The Belgian team of Harry Stockelynch and Alphonse Goosens was third. Maurice Brocco of Italy and Oscar Egg of Switzerland finished fourth.

Walthour and Spencer won the race on points as they were tied in laps with the combinations of McNamara-Horan and Stockelynch-Goozens at the finish. The three teams had covered 2397 miles even during the six days.

The winners achieved their victory by sprinting ability in the wild dashes of the final hour. They pled uip 937 points. McNamara and Horan had 727 points and Stockelynch and Gooozens 499.

NURMI REGAINS MARK FOR MILE

Clipped 1 2-5 Seconds Off Record Made by Lloyd Hahn in February.

RAN IN BUFFALO

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 9. — (Canadian Press).—Paavo Nurmi, flying marvel of Figland, clipped one and two-fifths seconds of Lloyd Hahn's world record mile in a great race on the 174th Infantry Armory track Saturday night. Nurmi's time was 4:12 flat.

The winged Finn, scheduled to have run a special mile and a half, changed his mind a short time before entering the race and concentrated his efforts on regaining the world record which the Boston A.A. runner wrested from him at the New York Athletic games in Madison Square Garden on February 14. He led his only dangerous rival, Jimmy Connolly, of Washington, D.C., by sixty yards at the tape.

LADY BYNG OFFERS CUP TO THE N.H.L.

For Cleanest and Most Effective Hockey Player.

OTTAWA, March 9.—(Canadian Press).—Destring to raise the standard of professional hockey, Lady Byng of Vimy proposes to present a challenge cup to the National Hockey League to be held each year by the cleanest and most effective player in the League.

In a letter to Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, the wife of the Governor-General says:

"Feeling a great desire to help your effort to 'clean up hockey' and eliminate the needless rough play that at present is a threat to the national game, and also to leave a tangible record of the enjoyment I personally have had from the game during our sojourn in Canada, I am writing to ask if you will let me offer a challenge cup for the man on any team in the National Hockey League who, while being thoroughly effective, is also a thoroughly clean player.

"I am convinced that the public desires good sport, not the injuring of players, and if, by donating this challenge cup, I can in any way help towns this end, it will give me a great deal of pleasure.

"(Signed) Evelyn Byng of Vimy."

It is understood that the cup will be for annual competition among the players of the N.H.L. teams. The same jury of sporting editors which selects the winner of the Hart trophy will decide which player during the season has set the best example of clean and effective hockey in the N.H.L. scheduled matches. The trophy will be known as the Lady Byng of Vimy Cup.

As a result of an interview which Mr. Calder had with Her Excellency, on Saturday evening, Mr. William Foran and the Hon. H. B. McGiverin had been named trustees for the cup.

CROWD OF WELSHMEN ACCLAIMED HERO OF CARDIFF'S BIG VICTORY

Jumped the Barriers and Mobbed Davies, Who Kicked the Winning Goal Over Leicest er City—English Cup Semi-Finalist Decided Saturday With Only Seven Goals in Four Games.

LONDON, March 9. — (Canadian Press).— Southampton of the second division, Cardiff City, Sheffield United and Blackburn Rovers of the first will enter the semi-finals of the English Cup competition. The fourth round of the tournament played on Saturday saw these teams at home, and in every case the home teams won. Only seven goals were scored in the four games played and with the exception of Sheffield, who defeated West Bromwich Albion by a couple of counters, the others won by the narrowest possible margin. The battle for the semi-finals sees one Lancashire, one Yorkshire, one Welsh and one South of England and the draw will be awaited with keen interest.

The largest attendance at the cupties Saturday was that which graced the combat between Blackburn Rovers and Blackpool and which saw the Rovers carry off the game by one goal. Over sixty thousand fans crowded the Rovers ground and scenes of unparalleled enthusiasm greeted the deciding kick which spelled ruin to Blackpool's hopes. Puddefoot who was transferred from Falkirk of the Scottish league a few weeks ago for a tidy sum, was the star performer for Blackburn and his goal, five minutes after the resumption was the factor that sent the Rovers higher up. Blackpool had held the Rovers to a draw throughout the whole of the first game which was characterized by brilliant football on both sides. Curren proved an effective defence against Puddefoot while Meredith kept the Rovers backs in hot-water and gave Crompton plenty of work in goal. The second period saw all the breaks going against Blackpool and also saw the ex-Falkirk centre forward establish a command over Curran. The Rovers defence held firm against repeated attacks, McKinnell, Healles and Campbell playing magnificent games.

The "gates" amounted to £4,452.

Liverpool's Defeat.

The Southampton-Liverpool game, which attracted over 20,000 spectators from whom £1,963 was collected, was a ding-dong affair with Liverpool revealing much disorganization throughout the whole game until a few minutes before the final whistle when their rally came too late. Neither team had counted up to half time although Rawlings kept the Liverpool goalie, Scott, busy stopping some hot shots. Harkus was also prominent and it was unlucky for Southampton that his beautiful header should have topped the cross-bar. Liverpool retaliated for Southampton's early attack and both shone and Forshaw compelled Allen to use everything he had to ward them off. Southampton's victory came four minutes from the end when a free kick was awarded against the visitors. Rawlings shot in a singer which Scott failed to avert.

Sheffield's Victory.

Fifty-seven thousand saw Sheffield United blast the hopes of West Bromwich Albion. Not until Saturday did the "blades" decide who would represent them and at the last minute Sampy and Mercer were put in on the right wing. Despite a favoring wind, the Albion were unable to do anything in the first half. There were times when the United had a sure goal in front of them, particularly when Johnson lost sight of the ball at a moment when Ashmore was completely beaten in the Albion's goal. The "Blades" combined well, but suffered from overkeenness. Their true form was revealed in the second stanza when Sampy and Johnson worked like trojans. Mercer, inside right, was somewhat weak, however, it was twenty minutes after the opening of the second frame that Tunstall, the United outside left, banged in a beauty past Ashmore after a fine pass from Gillespie, while five minutes from the close Johnson rounded off a fine performance by heading in a shot from a well-placed free-kick taken by Green, the left half.

Wo.. Last Minute.

Two goals to one was the count that brought Cardiff City into the semi-finals against Leicester City at Cardiff.

As in the other games, the first half went scoreless and not until the last period was there any decision. Cardiff assumed the aggressive right at the start, but Leicester's defence was solid. A special eye was kept on Chandler Leicester's 'demon goal scorer" and both Wadsworth and Blair had been detailed to smother any attempt that looked like giving Chandler a chance. This they did effectively. The result was a general slowing up of the game, although the exchanges were rather to the benefit of Leicester. The second canto saw things opening up with a livelier tone imparted to the play. Cardiff continued to demonstrate that the best defence is offence and their attacks were frequent and sustained. They were rewarded early in the period by Beadles who connected with a nice centre from W. Davies and headed in past Godderidge. The reverse put more spirit into Leicester who at once gave a whirlwind demonstration that confused Farquarson in the We'shmen's goal. With the nets yawning in front of him Duncan tipped in the equalizer. The game assumed the fast and furious phase, the crowd were wrought up to true Celtic pitch and just as the referee was gathering his breath to sound the final whistle M. Davis defeated Godderidge for the victory. The enthusiasm that greeted Davies' kick was tremendous and amazing scenes were witnesed as the crowd jumped the barricades in their thousands and mobbed the hero.

Scottish Results.

GLASGOW, March 9 — (Canadian Press).—With one game undecided, that between St. Mirren and Celtic, the teams that will go into the semi-finals of the Scottish Football Association Cup and Hamilton Academicals, the Glasgow Rangers and Dundee. It was Hamilton was furnished Saturday's feature by defeating Aberdeen on the Northerners' own ground. Over-confidence was the cause of the Aberdonians defeat they had their chances but spoiled them. Few breaks came the Academicals' way, but all were acceptable and full advantage was taken of them. Two were presented to Hamilton in the last frame and in each one they scored, the counters coming from Dr. Bell and Brown.

Rangers did not have it all their own way at Kilmarnock, and they were a goal down at the turn of the game. Bird starred for the home team from an error by the Rangers net-tender. In the second stanza, however, the "Invincibles" struck their stride and settled down to some brilliant play. The brand of soccer they served up had the "Killies" boxed in and when both Henderson and Cunningham scored, the victory was well-deserved. Thirty- two thousand fans saw the game, a record for the Kilmarnock ground.

Paisley produced another capacity audience when Celtic were the visitors to St. Mirren and home team held the Irish to a draw. It was a gruelling contest from which Celtic were lucky to escape with their cup tie escutcheon unblemished. The next game will be at Celtic Park. Broxburn of the second division gave Dundee the game of their lives and the first string men were fortunate to come out on the long end of the score. Halliday starred for the Dundonians a few minutes before the wind-up.

CANADIENS WON FROM MONTREAL

Howie Morenz Was Star in 3-1 Victory — Canadiens Cling to Group Margin.

TWO MUNROS HURT

MONTREAL, March 9.—(Canadian Press).—Canadiens and Montreal staged their final intra-borough clash of the National Hockey League season here Saturday night, Canadiens winning 3 to 1 and thus holding their narrow one-point margin over the strong finishing Ottawa club for third place and the right to enter the league eliminations. The result leaves the outcome up to tonight's final league battle with Canadiens receiving Hamilton Tigers here and Ottawa playing at Boston.

Any doubts as to the fight that the Montreal team would put up against the local rivals in the important tussle Saturday night were settled early in the game when it was made apparent that the maroon-clad players were going to battle ever inch of the way in an effort to score at least one victory this season on Canadien ice.

But while the teams worked willingly the entire route they were not up to their task. Canadiens held a margin of play in all three periods. Play started out at a clip which suggested a fast, exciting battle, but as the game progressed the standard of hockey depreciated on both sides and when the players started to resort to playing the man, the tilt developed into a ragged, though still exciting contest.

Morenz Stood Out.

Canadiens showed some flashes of their championship form and at other times played loosely, passing being weak and shots on goals wide. But through it all, good, bad or indifferent hockey, Howie Morenz stood out as a brilliant figure on the ice. In keeping with the consistent brilliancy shown by the star centre all season, he flashed up and down the ice in sensational rushes and if his shooting had been as clever as his play he would have counted at least twice the number of goals he did bag. Morenz clinched the game for Canadiens by two tallies after Sprague Cleghorn had opened the scoring in the second period with a terrific drive from the boards, which found the corner of the net behind Benedict.

Montreal worked gallantly, but as in past games at the Arena, failed to get going together on the small ice surface. Their lone goal was scored by Reg. Noble after probably the most brilliant of his many splendid efforts of the contest. Noble carried the puck from in front of his own net and with his customary wide-sweeping swerves, worked his way with unusual speed through the Canadien defence, clevery tricked Vezina and scored the lone Montreal goal which kept the maroon team in close contention by bringing the count 2 to 1 when the third period had progressed but a short time. However, Morenz, on another of his flashing spurts, banged in a third counter for Canadiens and all the efforts of Montreal team could not cut the margin. They had many chances to score, but at the critical moment, especially in the final session, over-anxiousness robbed them of certain-looking goals.

Coutu Roughed It.

It was a rugged game, with plenty of feeling evident between the players. Bill Coutu used his powerful frame with damaging effect on the Montrealers. On one occasion he bumped into Dunc Munro just as the Montreal captain went to side step between Coutu and the boards. Munro struck the promenade front with his hip with such a crash that he buckled in four off the boards—and incidentaly laid himself out. Later in the game Coutu met Gerald Munro with body, stick and speed and crumpled the sturdy Montrealer to the ice from where he had to be assisted to the bench. Coutu drew minor penalties for both offences, much to the disgust of the Montreal management, who protested many of the officials' rulings as being too lenient.

Joliat did not start and it is stated that he may not be used again this year. It would take him some time to get back into shape and Headley has been playing fair hockey at the Canadien left wing. After the game Canadiens were guests of honor at a dance at a local hotel where Vezina was presented with a cup as the most popular player on Canadien's roster.

The line up:

Montreal— Goal, Benedict; defence, D. Munro and G. Munro; centre, Noble; wings, Broadbent and Dinsmore; subs, Berlinquette, Cain, Lomrey Rothschild Skinner, Parkes and Scott.

Canadiens—Goal Vezina; defence, S. Cleghorn and Coutu; centre, Morenz; wings, Boucher and Headley; subs., O. Cleghorn, Mantha, Matz, and Ritchie.

ANOTHER TORONTO GIRL IS CHAMPION

Lelia Brooks Captures Crown Relinquished by Gladys Robinson.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 9. — Joe Moore, of New York, successfully defended the international indoor speed skating title Saturday night by scoring a total of 150 points in the two-night international indoor ice skating meet at Duquesne Gardens.

Charles Gorman, St. John, N.B., and Leslie Boyd, of New York, had 75 points each when the meet was over.

Miss Lelia Brooks, of Toronto, was crowned the new women's indoor speed skating champion by her score of 30 points, which she gained in the 800 yard dash. Miss Brooks had a total of 880 points in the two night's meet. The women's championship throne was vacant this year due to Miss Gladys Robinson, of Toronto, the former champion, having entered the ranks of professionals during the year.

There were three ties for second place in the women's ranks. Miss Ruth White, Toronto; Miss Elsie Mueller, of New York, and Miss Virginia Young, of Pittsburgh, being credited with fifty points each.

Three world records were shattered. The two mile record for men was broken by Joe Moore when he sped over the ice for that distance in 5.58 25. The former record was held by Charles Fisher, who made the distance in 6.17 on the same rink on February 29, 1916.

The two other records were broken by women, Miss Lelia Brooks, the new champion, broke the 880 yard indoor record with her time of 1.27. The record formerly was held by Miss Gladys Robinson, whose time was 1.48 3-5. Miss Virgina Young, of Pittsburgh, broke the 440 yard record by crossing the line in 45 4-5 seconds. The former record was held by Miss Robinson, who made the distance in 47 4-5.

DEMPSEY DEMANDS DEPOSIT FOR BOUT

Suggest N. Y. Boxing Commission Give Cash Guarantee.

LOS ANGELES, March 9.—Jack Kearns, manager of the heavyweight champion, Jack Dempsey, in a statement to the New York State Athletic Commission, declares that the titleholder will meet Harry Wills or Tommy Gibbons, or both, if the Commission would guarantee to finance the match.

The statement, somewhat in the nature of a reply to the commission's demand to Dempsey to explain why Wills' challenge had not been recognized, declared that "Will's challenge had been accepted once and it was not necessary to repeat.

"Dempsey asks only that the commission give its financial guarantee in the form of a cash deposit," the statement said in part, "the custom in such cases and that it also gave its official assurance of its ability to carry out the match."

PEACH KINGS SATISFIED.

Go Home to Grimsby After Beating Falls—Niagara Plays Vics.

TORONTO, March 9 (Canadian Press).—The Peach Kings will not go to Winnipeg this year, neither will they go to Montreal.

But they are satisfied. They can go home to Grimsby with their chests out and their heads high even if they are through Allan Cup hunting until next season. The Peach Kings trounched the team from Niagara Falls on Saturday night, but the score of 4 to 3 was not good enough to overcome the two goal lead secured by the Senior O.H.A. champions in the first joust and the Fraser men qualify to enter the Allan Cup Eastern semi-finals. They play Victorias in Montreal tomorrow, with a return game back here on Thursday night. The winners meet, University of Toronto or Ottawa or Montagnards in home and home series.

COLLEGIATE TEAMS DEFEATED LINDSAY

Girls Won Basketball by 35-23 and Boys by 59-16.

The Peterboro Collegiate was successful in winning both basketball games played with teams representing the Lindsay Collegiate on the local "Y" gymnasium floor Saturday afternoon. The girls won their game 35 to 23, and the boys ran up a total score of 59 to 16.

The girls' team were evenly matched, and both played clever basketball. Lindsay scored 3 baskets for a 6-point lead before the P.C.I. girls had registered. However, P.C.I. led 7 to 6 at the close of the first period 14 to 7 at the end of the second, 35 to 17 at the finish; outscoring the visitors in each period.

Edith Cole and Helen Wickett made a good pair of forwards for the visitors and their whole team combined nicely. For P.C.I. "Pip" Killaly rang in a string of baskets showing real shooting skill Her partner, Jane MacDuffy "plugged" the basket at every opportunity. Under the rules of girls' basketball inly the forwards can secure baskets. The rest of the members of P.C.I. sextette were always on their toes, checking closely and passing th eball up to the "gunners."

Line-Ups.

Lindsay C. I.—E. Cole, rf; H. Wickett, lf; A. Cole, c; H. Adams, sc; M. Sanderson, rg; J. Campbell, lg; J. Laidlaw, M. McIntosh, N. Mills, spares.

Peterboro C. I.—J. MacDuffy, rf; Killaly, lf; I. Connolly, c; K. Roland, sc; F. Ackerman, rg; S. Couper, dg; F. Turner, spare.

Boys' Game.

The P.C.I. boys had it over the lads from the Scugog mud flats like a tent in every department of the game, checking, shooting and combination. Ken Goheen and Harry Ebbs clung closely to their man and it was very soldom the Lindsay boys could work the ball in or hold possession of it long. "Buster" Ecobichon, Gordie Pogue and "Scottie" McLeish uncovered some really brilliant basketball on the forward line. Their passing was fast and well placed, and their shooting was always on the basket. Their was keen competition among the forwards for highest scoring honors, but the rangy McLeish emerged in front with 20 points, but the others were not for behind him.

With the P.C.I. playing the class of basketball they were playing, the Lindsay quintette seemed nowhere. However, they put up a plucky game and never stopped trying. Sutton and Ferguson were their best men

The P.C.I. were up 29 to 9 when the whistle blew for the rest period.

Line-Ups.

Peterboro C. I.—W. Ecobichon, rf; G. Pogue, lf; C. McLeish, c; K. Goheen, dg; H. Ebbs, lg; R. Sturgeon, H. Dormer, C. Levine, spares.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL

UNIVERSAL'S NOTED WESTERN STAR, HOOT GIBSON, HAS BIG STORY.

Hoot Gibson's latest Universal production, "The Ridin' Kid From Powder River," which will be shown in the Royal Theatre commencing Thursday is a thrilling Western drama taken from certain historic conditions and Henry Herbert Knibbs' novel.

Edward Sedgwick directed and the cast includes such favorites as Tully Marshall, Gladys Hulette and Walter Long.

The time treated of in the picture, the law of might was the law of the land and it was enforced by the six shooter. In the period in question the cattleman was the lord of the country and his retainers were hard riding cowboys who did his bidding willingly.

For the great part these cattlemen were honest, conscientious citizens but also there was outlawry—the cattle rustler and the horse thief.

Then there came the nester, as the cattlemen termed those who entered the country with the purpose of taking up homesteads and creating farms out of the rich land on which the cattle fed at will. The cattlemen realized that the success of the purpose of the nester meant the end of the open rangy, and consequently, the end of his endeavors.

The nester was warned against fencing in the land and against taking possession of the waterholes but he persisted in what he considered his rights, and the cattleman did likewise — to the result that a bitter warfare was inaugurated.

Hoot's role in "The Ridin' Kid From Powder River," is that of a young man who, as a boy was an adopted nester's son. The old man refused to obey the commands of the cattlemen, and one night the old man was slain.

FREE BICYCLE CONTEST.

Two of the best bicycles that the White Cycle and Sport Co. can procure will be given as prizes in a contest starting to-day at the Royal. Girls from 12 to 15 and boys of the same age may enter. Particulars may be had at the theatre. The bicycles will be on view in the window of White's, Charlotte street, in a few days.

MYSTERY PLAY HAS A NOVEL PLOT

"The Girl on the Stairs" Adapted From Story by Wingston Bouve—Patsy Ruth Miller Starred — Splendid Cast Includes Niles Welch, Arline Pretty and Other Notables.

Mystery and romance are the keynotes of "The Girl on the Stairs," the latest Elmer Harris Production which comes to the Royal Theatre to-day with charming Patsy Ruth Miller as its star. The story is an original adaptation by Harris of Winston Bouve's magazine tale of the same name but it has been given such a new treatment by Harris that little of the original story but the title is said to remain.

"The Girl on the Stairs" centres around a young girl sleep-walker. In her school days she has written love letters to a married man who lives in the house adjoining hers. On the eve of the announcement of her engagement to a young attorney she is seen descending the stairs from the married man's bed-chamber. Later he is found dead.

The discovery of her love letters and her identification as "the girl on the stairs" leads to her arrest and subsequent indictment. The evidence that piles up against her is said to be absolutely bullet proof against "picture wise" audiences and it is not until the last reel that Harris gives his spectators an inkling of the solution of the mystery

The unusual situations in the story combined with the cast that surrounds Miss Miller give promise of a most delightful entertainment. In the cast are such well known players as Niles Welch, Freeman Wood, Bertram Grassby, Arline Pretty, Shannon Day and Michael Dark.

"The Girl On the Stairs" was directed by William Worthington, who will be remembered as the director of a number of Sessue Hayawkawa's most notable pictures, while Harris' personally supervised the entire production.

AT THE GRAND

The Winter Garden Vanities open a week's engagement at the Grand Theatre with a sparkling comedy, "The Girl with the Wink," in two big acts. There are twelve of the latest song hits of the season. The company comes here highly recommended, having played a stock engagement of 17 weeks in Toronto, and last week Kitchener to turn away business. The company includes such well-known artists as Bob Cook, a clever juvenile with a sweet voice; F. Huff, a smart dancer; Mae Perry, the lady with the big voice; Flo Marsh, a clever soubrette, late of George White's Scandals. The comedians, Jimmy Tailor and Moe Parker, have been identified with many Boadway productions, and are without doubt unbeatable laugh - producers. The chorus of ten dancing beauties are a pleasing lot of young ladies who can really sing and dance. There are five vaudeville features, including the Great Trunk Mystery, with a hundred dollar challenge. You will be more than pleased with an evening of laughter. Follow the crowd to-night.

AT THE CAPITOL

2 LEADING WOMEN OPPOSITE TOM IN "TONGUES OF FLAME"

Bessie Love and Eileen Percy share feminine honors in support of Thomas Meighan in his newest Paramount picture, "Tongues of Flame," at the Capitol to-day.

The story is an adaptation by Townsend Martin of the latest novel by Peter Clark Macfarlane. Cyril Ring, Burton Churchill, John Miltern, Nick Thompson and others appear in the cast.

Both girls are in love with Tom in the picture, Miss Love as Lahleet, a little half-breed Indian girl, Miss Percy playing Billie Boland, daughter of a wealthy manufacturer. The two girls were in Los Angeles at the time they were selected for parts in the picture. Inasmuch as the production was to be started within a week at the Paramount Long Island studio, some lively trans-continental traveling had to be effected to be on time for the first scenes.

In the picture Meighan has the role of a returned doughboy who takes up the practice of law in a small town. After Chateau Thierry and the Argonne, Tom, as "Hell Fire" Harrington, can't seem to get excited over the petty lawsuits of the little town of Edgewater.

Then matters take a sudden turn. A pretty little Indian girl school teacher (Bessie Love) somes to him with the news that the Indians need his aid The money men of the town are making inroads upon the Indian reservation and the red men suspect something underhanded.

The picture goes on to show how Meighan, first in the employ of the capitalists, then as the Indians' friend straightens the matter out.

"Tongues of Flame" is Meighan at his best. See it!

"BAGDAD" SURPASSES ALL OTHER FILMS

Douglas Fairbanks' glorious fantasy of The Arabian Nights, "The Trief of Bagdad," will be the attraction at the Capitol on Thursday. This photoplay, according to all accounts surpass anything heretofore seen on the screen. This extraordinary picture has upset the equilibrium of the critic in every city in which it has been presented It is the crescendo photoplay. It is a fantastical story of love and adventure, laid in an imaginary world of fancy, abounding with amazing happenings, and what critics generally have called unbelievable wonders. If you still believe in love if adventure still stirs you if you like your heart to miss beats in ecstatic moments of exciting suspense if you enjoy the surprise of seeing things that heretofore you thought were impossible—here in "The Thief of Bagdad" are all these things, in the background of beauty and splendor. In this picture, a Winged horse flies up to and through the clouds, A Magic Carpet soars over the housetops and into the sky; wonder after wonder, surprise after surprise, are here revealed in amazing abundance. To depict such happenings on the screen has never been considered within the bounds of possibility. This crowning achievement has been accomplished by Douglas Fairbanks. It has received the highest endorsements that any picture has ever received. In this particular it will be well to repeat what Robert L. Sherwood wrote in his department in "The Silent Drama" in "Life" April 3 1924. "After seeing 'The Thief of Bagdad' I am more competent to understand the motives which inspired the sturdy Britons who have been struggling for years to reach the peak of Mount Everest. I know now what it means to be able to say 'Well I've been to the top.' Standing at the point marked by this Arabian Nights entertainment which Douglas Fairbanks has fashioned I can look down to the lesser summits of 'Robin Hood,' 'Broken Blossoms,' 'Passion,' and the rest, several miles below, and barely discernible from this dizzy altitude. Ie 'Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight,' 'Rags to Riches,' and 'The Old Nest.' There may well be higher peaks than that achieved by 'The Thief of Bagdad'; but if there are, they have not as yet been chartered on any of the existent contour maps."

AT THE REGENT

$1,000,000 EXTRA PLAYERS SEEN IN "MARRIED FLIRTS."

Mae Murray, Aileen Pringle, May McAvoy and Others "Atmosphere."

ALL APPEAR IN ONE SCENE.

There never has been such a brilliant group of extras as those used in making the Metro-Goldwyn picture, "Married Flirts," which is now showing at Regent Theatre starting on Monday for three days.

All the available stars at the studio appeared in one scene, along with a producer and a director They represented a salary list of $1,000,000.

These brilliant players supported the regular cast consisting of Pauline Frederick; Conrad Nagel, Mae Busch, Huntly Gordon, Alice Hollister, Patterson Dial and Paul Nicholson.

Mae Murray, for the first time since joining a motion picture compan ybecame an extra. She played herself, and wore elaborate costumes and brilliant jewels, for which she is famous off screen as well as on. She worked with all earnestness and really enjoyed the novelty of it.

There was Norman Shearer, who joined pictures as an extra, but was soon promoted to leading roles asd who for the past eighteen months has been cast in big productions.

From Extra to Rome!

May McAvoy is well known for her numerous important screen interpretations. She was signed fro the leading woman role in 'Ben Hur" and went to Rome to begin work; but before leaving appeared in the $1,000,000 scene.

Aileen Pringle, remembered for her striking portrayal of the leading feminine roles in 'Three Weeks' and 'His Hour" and acclaimed by Elinor Glyn as the most ideal and beautiful screen heroine, is another extra.

Robert Leonard, who is really a producer-director and in private life is the husband of Mae Murray donned grease paint and make-up and played himself, a producer. Mr. Leonard was at one time a motion picture actor, but this is the first time he has acted before the Kleigs in more than ten years.

Hobart Henley, one of the chief Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer directors too experienced the thrill of returning to the acting ranks after an absence of several years.

"Married Flirts" is a screen version of Louis Joseph Vance's new novel, "Mrs. Paramor." It was adapted by Julia Crawford Ivers and photographed by Oliver Marsh. it is a Louis B. Mayer presentation.

GRIMES WANTS $15,000 A YEAR

Is Offered $28,000 for Two Years By Brooklyn Club.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 9.—President Ebbets of the Brooklyns displayed a telegram received Saturday from Burleigh Grimes, the Robins' pitcher who is the club's most obstinate holdout. In the wire Grimes informed Ebbets that he is willing to sign a twoyear contract for an increase of $1500 over the amount he said he would sign for last Fall, when efforts were made to get him in line for this year.

The message from Grimes came in response to an offer made by Manager Wilbert Robinson and backed up by Ebbets. Robbie offered Grimes a two-year contract calling for an annual salary of $14,000, which is a liberal offer, according to Ebbets, and the best one that will be made by the club.

Last Fall Ebbets said that Grimes wanted a one-year contract calling for a salary of $12,500 and an extra $1,000 for attaching his name to the document. Ebbets refused to give the pitcher any additional sum for signing. Grimes now wants $15,000 a season and a two-year contract. But as Ebbets has informed the pitcher that the offer he received from Robbie is final, it is expected that he will soon report and sign. Last season Grimes drew a salary of $11,500 and he was the highest paid Robin and one of the highest salaried pitchers in either major league. Ebbets considers that the increase of $2,500 is all the right-hander is worth.

GIANTS WILL MEET SENATORS TUESDAY

Two-Game Exhibition Series at Palm Beach.

NEW YORK, March 9.—After about two weeks of preliminary training at their camp at Sarasota, Fla., the Giants will open their Spring exhibition season this week. Their first contest of the year will be played tomorrow, when they clash with the Washington Senators for the first time since they went down to defeat before Walter Johnson in the final game of the 1924 World's Series in Washington. The game on Tuesday will be played at Palm Beach.

Following the contest at Palm Beach, the Giants and Senators will move to West Palm Beach for a game there on Wednesday. They will then return to their training camp for one more day of practice before playing their next exhibition game, which is scheduled for Friday with the Braves. Their fourth game of the Spring campaign will be played on Saturday at Sarasota with the Phillies as their opponents.

A week from Tupesday the Giants will meet the Athletics for the first time this year when the two teams clash at Sarasota. The Giants will play Connie Mack's team a return game a week from Thursday at Fort Myers, Fla. Another game with the Senators is scheduled for Sarasota on Saturday, March 21. Two days later the Giants will travel to Bradentown, Fla., for a return game with the Phillies. One game will be played with Columbus and one with Toledo, both American Association clubs, before the series with the Senators is resumed at Tampa on March 28.

The Yankees will also open their Spring schedule this week when they clash with the Braves at St. Petersburg on Thursday. This is their only game scheduled for this week, however. They are to meet the Braves at St. Petersburg again on March. 16 18, 20 and 23. They will play the Reds at St. Petersburg on March 19, the Phillies there on March 21 and the Robins there on March 24 before starting their journey toward home with the Brooklyn Club. After meeting the Rochester Club of the International League at Savannah, Ga., on March 27 they will play sixteen more games with the Robins including two at Ebbets Field on Saturday, April 11, and Sunday, April 12.

Woman Is In Hospital and It's Feared She Will Die.

TORONTO, March 9 (Canadian Press).—A charge of manslaughter may be laid against Bruce McKay, it was announced when he appeared in police court this morning, on the charge of injuring his wife by throwing a can of lye over her. The woman is in hospital in a serious condition.

McKay pleaded that he was drunk and did not remember what had happened. Bail was refused.

SHIPS COLLIDED.

Dutch Steamer Damaged, But Expected to Reach Port Safely.

BOSTON, March 9. — (Canadian Press).—The Holland steamship Aalsum, damaged by collision with the United States Shipping Board steamer Dunnedaike, 25 miles south of Nantucket last night, reported this morning that she was "quite safe," according to a message received by radio. The Aalsum gave her condition as follows: "Big hole in the port side, No. 2 hold full of water." She is heading for New York Harbor, and expects to arrive to-night.

MENTAL DAILY DOZEN.

Mayor J. J. Turner Talks to St. John's Church Boys.

Last Friday evening at the weekly meeting of the boys of St. John's Church, Mayor Turner addressed the assembly. His subject was "The Mental Daily Dozen," and was delivered in the manner that has made him a favorite with the boys.

It is hoped to have His Worship return at some future date.

Later in the evening a lecture on musketry was given by Mr. Hake, an ex-army instructor. Mr. Hake proved to be very interesting and was greatly appreciated by the boys.

JEWELS PRESENTED MEMBERS I.O.O.F.

Interesting Ceremony When Grand Master Visited Lodge at Cobourg.

COBOURG, March 9.—(Special). —The visit of J. E. Anderson, Lindsay, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, I.O.O.F., to Cobourg, was signalized by the presentation of jewels to Dr. Geo. H. Ferris, Messrs. Nelson Tait and Fred Bentley, who have each completed twenty-five years of membership in the Lodge.

Dr. Daley Improving.

The many friends throughout Northumberland County of Rev. Dr. Daley, Port Hope, will be pleased to know that he is getting along nicely. Dr. Daley, who now holds the position of inspector and secretary of the Children's Aid Society for Northumberland and Durham, is a former pastor of Cobourg and Coldsprings Congregational Churches. Dr. Daley went up to Port Hope from Cobourg Tuesday night, and when leaving the C.P.R. depot there, was knocked down by an automobile and his collar bone was broken. He was taken to the hospital. The fracture has been reduced, and he is stated to be resting quite comfortably.

A "SHOE RACE" DANCE.

Women Take Unique Method of Showing Bachelors Their Need.

QUESNEL, B.C., March 9 (Canadian Press). — In aid of the Quesnel Hospital, a dance was given which had a novel feature. The event of the evening was the "bachelor's handicap," the ladies picking their partners by finding the owners of shoes thrown into the centre of the room by the male members of the party.

The bachelors claimed that this was most unfair; they had not been notified of this innovation, and not having done any mending were forced to abstain.

When bandits accosted Lulu B. Harrison, 17, of Kansas City and two young men who were accompanying her to a party, she couldn't say a word because she had hurriedly concealed her diamonds in her mouth. After taking her escorts' clothes and automobile, the bandits obligingly drove her to the party.

Synthetic Noses Seen As Beauty's First Aid; Expert Would Make Glorified Girls To Order

NEW YORK, March 9th. — The prediction that before long there will be no more plain looking women was made at the opening of the seventh annual convention of the American Master Hairdressers Association at the Waldorf-Astoria by Dr. J. Paul Fernel, plastic surgeon from Chicago.

"There is no longer any excuse for not being beautiful," said Dr Fernel. "Women and men, too, can have perfect features and thereby change the whole tenor of their careers. This will happen just as soon as the prejudice and fear of such delicate operations as must be made on the face to correct bad features is overcome. The time will even come when there will be beauty choruses made to order. Ziefigld, Earl Carroll and Gorge White, in order to live up to the More exacting standards of beauty will have the features of their choruses changed to achieve greater perfection. There will be no excuse for a crooked nose or a weak chin. The girl will be turned over to the plastic surgeon and all will be well.

"Time and again I have discovered that a womans success in life has been determined by her nose. It is the most predominant feature she has, and it should be perfect."

Synthetic noses, then, are recommended by Dr. Fernel who condemns the use of paraffin as a means of improving features. He declared, though, that plastic surgery a beauty culture go hand in hand. He says that a surgeon can make a woman beautiful and a beauty expert can keep her so.

Joseph Byrne, manager of the convention, denied emphatically that short hair is becoming passe. It is too commfortable he said, for women to give up, and they will continue with the bob, even though men disapprove. In fact, he said, the style has decreed that hair will be worn even shorter. There is a compromise however. Women he said, are using transformations and wigs for formal occasions.

These accessories are fast becoming complicated and one of the features of the show is the booth displaying the spun glass wigs in all colors and styles to match the gown.

The interest of men in beauty culture it was said, appears to be growing and many of the exhibits are designed to interest the masculine visitors as well as the women. There is quite a collection of toupees, hair tonics and lotions to keep the hair neatly in place.

GERMANS CONTROL ITALIAN INDUSTRY

Textile Mills in Hands of German Capital As Before War.

MILAN, Italy, March 9.—Germany, which exercised a decisive economic influence in northern Italy before the war, is rapidly regaining its ground in at least the textile industry. It is understood that the numerous spinning mills in the neighborhood of Milan are again mostly in the hands of German capital, and that a system of cheap Italian and skilled German labor on the product has been worked out by which cotton and imitation silk goods yield handsome profits.

The forms about Milan import their cotton from America and the yarn is spun by cheap Italian labor. The partly-finished product is then sent to the textile concerns of middle Germany, chiefly in the neighborhood of Chemnitz, where certain processes requiring skilled labor, such as dyeing, are applied. Then the almost-finished product wanders back once more to Italy, from where it is sold. The combination of cheap Italian and skilled German labour enables the manufacturers to set up prices that can compete successfully with those of other countries.

A large part of the product goes to Jugoslavia. The fact that the exporting country is Italy is an especially favorable circumstance for the German owners, since Italy has a treaty with Jugoslavia by which her textiles enjoy advantages which are not extended to Germany.

CHURCH SERVICES COBOURG DISTRICT

Pastor of Orono Methodist Church Invited to Remain Another Year.

COBOURG, March 9. — Rev. Dr. T. S. Boyle began his ministry as rector of St. Peter's Church here yesterday. He is receiving a very cordial welcome to Cobourg by the citizens generally.

Rev. W. A. Bremner Supplied.

Owing to illness in the family of Rev. R. F. Stillman, the services at the United Church here on Sunday were taken by Rev. W. A. Bremner, associate pastor, and formerly pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here. One feature of the United Church that is much appreciated is the very large attendance at Sunday School. A number of extra chairs have been purchased, and capacity of the Sunday School Hall is taxed to the utmost each Sunday. Mr. A. J. Gould is superintendent, with Col. J. W. Odell associate.

Rev. T. W. Goodwill Here.

Rev. T. W. Goodwill, whose services in supplying the pulpit of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here are very much appreciated, was the preacher on Sunday at both services. He is an excellent speaker, and his discourses are very greatly enjoyed.

At Newcastle.

Rev. Manson Doyle, Toronto, preached at both services at Newcastle Methodist Church yesterday, of which Rev. E. B. Cooke is pastor. In the evening he held a young people's evangelistic service.

Pastor Invited to Remain.

The Official Board of the Orono Methodist Church, at its last meeting, extended a unanimous invitation to Rev. S. T. Tucker, pastor, to remain for another year.

Dawn of the day set for the initial practice finds just a dozen of Dan Howley's collection of ball players on hand, but the entire squad has been ordered to report today, and it is expected that by to-night the management of the Toronto club will be paying board and lodging for thirty odd players at the Richmond Hotel here.

Society

Mr. R. A. Brown, manager of the Canadian Nashua Paper Company, is on a business trip to Nashua, N.H., the home office of the company.

Mr. B. T. Houston, of the McLean Publishing Co., was in Peterboro attending the funeral of the late W. H. Waram, who was also a member of the staff of the McLean Publishing Company, Toronto, for some years.

The home of Alderman and Mrs. R. N. Jones was the scene of a very happy gathering last Friday evening when a number of their friends gathered in honor of Mrs. Jones' birthday and to wish her many happy returns of the day. Mrs. Jones was presented with an address, accompanied by a beautiful cut-glass fruit bowl and a bouquet of daffodils. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were taken completely by surprise, and Mr. Jones, on behalf of Mrs. Jones and himself, thanked their friends for the beautiful gifts and good wishes. The evening was spent in games. Dainty refreshments were served, and dancing was indulged in till the wee small hours of the morning. The party circled around Mr. and Mrs. Jones and sang "For they are jolly good fellows," which brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

Often it is because the person does not know he has an error of vision. Not knowing that it exists, it is naturally not given attention. PLEBISCITE ON SENATE REFORM OR ABOLITION PROPOSED DURING DEBATE ON THE UPPER CHAMBER Discussion to Indicate Desire of Parliament as Guide to Projected Conference.

CHECKS DEMOCRACY

Two Amendments to W. T. Shaw's Resolution Calling for Opinion of Commons.

OTTAWA, March 10.—(Canadian Press)—"Public opinion has pressed this long-standing question to the very gates of Parliament itself," stated J. T. Shaw (Independent, Calgary West), in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, in support of his proposed resolution that, in the opinion of the House, the Senate as at present appointed and constituted is not of the greatest advantage to Canada.

Mr. Shaw declared that if, from a discussion of this resolution, the subject of Senate reform was pushed a little closer to a satisfactory solution, he would be amply compensated for his efforts. The Prime Minister had intimated that a conference was being called with representatives of the Provincial Government in the matter; but, as such a conference would no doubt like to know what was the expressed desire of Parliament in the matter, he had decided to proceed with his motion, in order that the opinion of the House of Commons might be obtained.

Two bodies were constituted under the British North America Act, in the House of Commons and the Senate, Mr. Shaw proceeded. Their powers were "co-equal and co-extensive" with one exception, namely, that a money bill could not be introduced in the Senate. The fathers of Confederation had, doubtlessly, been animated with the constitution, which had worked so satisfactorily in the United States; but, while the House of Commons was made an elective body, appointments to the Senate, unlike that in the country to the south of us, were made for life, without election. The adoption of the principle of life appointments to the Canadian Senate was largely the result of a compromise, however.

Check on Democracy.

The chief purpose of the Senate as it was created, was to put a check on "democratic intensity," but that principle was 100 years old, and to-day it was better to devote attention to the curtailment of re-action, said Mr. Shaw.

There were two principal defects in the Senate as it was constituted. In the first place, appointment to the Senate by the Governor-General-in-Council was "absolutely inconsistent with the Federal system of government." The provinces had nothing to say in the appointment of those who were supposed to protect their special interests. In the second place, the Senate was "altogether too large."

The Senate was partisan and not independent in constitution. Mr. Shaw quoted Viscount Bryce, who referred to Senators as frequently being persons who, "becoming weary of supporting constituencies, sink into an arm chair." Mr. Shaw said that "this pernicious patronage system" had taken its full toll in appointments to the Senate. "It does not reflect the varied national life of this country," he added.

A Revising Body.

On its lowest possible basis, said Mr. Shaw, the Senate was a revising body and did not avail itself of the opportunity given it for studying economic and social problems, and contributing to their solution. And even as a revising body, it failed because it was showered in the closing hours of session with legislation from the House of Commons, legislation which it must either throw out, or adopt unconsidered. The member for Calgary West quoted the late Viscount Bryce in his "modern democracy" as saying that of all the second chambers in the legislatures of the world, the strongest was the French Senate, and the Canadian Senate was among the weakest.

Mr. Shaw reviewed the various pronosals for Senate reform. Its abolition was becoming increasingly popular, but he thought that the Senate had a function to perform in the preservation of Provincial and minority rights. It had been argued that to make the Senate elective, would strengthen it because it would make it answerable to the people. Another way to deal with the Senate would be to weaken it, and there was something to be said for the proposal that one-half the Senators should be nominated by the Government, and one-half by the various Provincial legislatures.

Restrict Veto Power.

The veto power, which resided in the Senate, remarked Mr. Shaw, could be restricted, in the same manner as was done in England with the House of Lords, in 1911. That scheme would reduce the Senate to comparative impotence. The

"Crossworditis" Aid To Health Says Bulletin

CHICAGO, March 10.—The Chicago Department of Health's weekly health bulletin, emphasized the benefit of crossword puzzles to general health and happiness. It was discussed under the title of "Crossworditis."

The causes and effects of "the savage little crossword puzzle microbe," the bulletin said, "may be largely explained by the fact that part of our lives and much energy must be put into amusement, to satisfy the play instinct within us. Therefore any play or game that has a mental 'kick' in it is quickly accepted and eagerly pursued.

United family circles and happiness to convalescents and chronic invalids were listed in the report as among the good purposes served by the crossword puzzles.

SUSPENSION TO BE RESCINDED

Premier Baldwin and Ramsay MacDonald Smooth Kirkwood Affair.

LONDON, March 10.— The incident of David Kirkwood's suspension in the house of commons last Thursday has been amicably smoothed over, and the suspension vote will be rescinded. Mr. Kirkwood, who is labor member for Dumbarton Burghs, persistently interrupted Austen Chamberlain, secretary for foreign affairs, during his speech in the house on that occasion, was named by the speaker and suspended by a vote of the house. Ramsay MacDonald, the Labor leader and all the Laborites walked out.

When the incident came up in the House Monday, Premier Baldwin read a letter which he had received from James F Hope, who was acting as speaker at the time explaining the reasons for his action which he still considered justifiable. He admitted, however, that there was no premeditation on Mr. Kirkwood's part.

The upshot of the reading of this letter was the virtual agreement of Mr. MacDonald to withtdraw his resolution of censure and a promise by the Prime Minister to recommend that the House rescind the suspension resolution. These steps are expected to be taken in the course of the week.

QUAKE EXAGGERATED.

Requests in House for Official Statement.

OTTAWA, March 10 (Canadian Press). — The recent earthquake shock was brought up in the House of Commons yesterday by the Hon. Charles Marcil (Liberal, Bonaventure) who asked if the Government could not issue an official statement of what really happened in that earthquake to offset newspaper reports "which, as usual, were greatly exaggerated."

Hon. Charles Stewart ,Minister of the Interior, did not commit the Government to issuing such a report. He said that Dominion Seismologist Hodgson was now in Quebec investigating in the centre of disturbance, in the interests of science. Mr. Hodgson had not, however, been instructed to report the extent of the damage done.

CHURCH UNION BILL.

May Be Debated in Quebec House This Week.

QUEBEC, March 10.—It is not known whether the Church Union Bill will be taken up during the present week. The Bill is on the Order Paper for third reading, and it is largely a matter of when W. S. Bullock, M.L.A. for Shefford, wishes to go ahead with it.

In any event there will be plenty of opportunity given for a complete debate. The situation here will be much cleared u pin Ontario speeds up the matter.

GOLD NEAR KINGSTON.

RELIGIOUS ISSUE ENTERS ELECTION

Protestants May Boost 'Hundred Day Chancellor' For German President.

A PROHIBITIONIST.

BERLIN, March 10. — (United Press). — Protestant organizations are considering George Michaelis, known as the "Hundred Day Chancellor," as a Presidential candidate, and while he has not consented to enter the race, his potentialities are causing considerable uneasiness in political circles, where it is feared his name will engender a serious religious issue in the campaign.

The fact that Michaelis, a former college professor, is more than mildly interested in prohibition, is also causing a stir among those of opposing political beliefs.

The campaign in behalf of former Chancellor Simons is also developing strength. Simons has the support of the Democrats and, while he has been flatly rejected by the Folks party, the Nationalists admit he must be considered. The Nationalists, however, intimate they would prefer some one else.

CROWN PRESSES TRAFFIC CHARGE

Car Under Speed Limit on Icy Road Was Out of Control.

CHILD KILLED

LINDSAY, March 10.—An interesting case was up for hearing in the county court here Monday when Harry Jackson, a well-known resident of Coboconk, was accused of being in charge of a motor vehicle Dec. 4, 1924, in the village of Fenelon Falls, and by wanton driving or wilful negligence, did bodily harm to James Redford Brandon, the child dying as a result of injuries.

The coroner's jury at the time acquitted Mr. Jackson, but the Crown brought on action in order to clear up all doubt as to the cause of the accident.

Considerable evidence was heard in the case, and His Honor Judge Swayze said he believed that the young man did everything possible at the time to avoid an accident. He did not think he could have done anything more. The child was the prime cause of the accident. Under the circumstances he could not find criminal negligence.

County Crown Attorney Anderson asked for a stated case, claiming that there was wanton or reckless driving, and that the car was not under control at the time of the tragedy; that the driver of the car should have known what the car would do under the conditions as reported, namely slippery pavements, and that he was driving at too high a rate of speed, considering the condition of the road. His point was whether or not a driver of a motor could travel under the speed limit, (as was the fact in the Jackson case) and still not be able to penalty when accidents are caused by means of the car not being under control. Judgment was reserved for one week.

EXCISE STAMP REVENUE.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 10 (Canadian Press).—Total revenue derived from the sale of excise tax stamps during 1924 was $9,300,714, it was stated in the House of Commons Monday in answer to a question.

POPULAR PRINCE TAKES PLACE OF KING AT LEVEE

Men Ranking High in World Make Obeisance to Heir Apparent.

MASCULINE AFFAIR.

Costs Participants Staggering Sums For Toggery Suitable to the Occasion.

LONDON, March 10 (Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales, acting in place of King George, today is presiding for the first time at a Levee, one of those pageants featured by sword and silk, gold braid and flaming epaulettes, staged by British royalty in accordance with long standing custom.

The Ambassadors, in all the finery of their dress costumes, join richly uniformed military men of high rank in making obeisance to the Prince; their gorgeous attire, bespangled with medals and decorations, brightening the courtyards and reception rooms of St. James Palace with an ensemble of color hardly to be equalled elsewhere these days.

For Men Only.

These Levees are exclusively masculine affairs, and to men of social ambition they mean quite as much as court presentations do to matrons and their daughters.

Slow and Formal.

The levees are by no means sprightly affairs, such as the Prince usually enjoys. For the most part they are slow and formal functions, centering around presentations of members of the diplomatic corps and those of the army, navy and air service who have attained field rank or held certain appointments.

Costly Uniforms.

Full dress is usually worn, but since the war it has been permissible to appear in service dress. For those not of military station, the cost of attending these levees is considerable. Sometimes the gold braided coat of a diplomatic uniform costs 100 pounds, and all the rest of the costume must harmonize with this splendid garment.

In holding this levee the Prince is renewing the custom which his grandfather, as Prince of Wales, established after the death of Albert, Prince Consort.

CAN MAKE MAN SMALL OF SOUL

Says Religion of To-day Makes People Worse Instead of Better.

EX-MINISTER'S VIEW.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 10.—(United Press)—"Present-day religion does not make people better; it makes them worse," Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdyek, famous Modernist minister, told a large audience at the monthly meeting of the New Haven Congregational Club here. Dr. Fosdyek denounced modern religion as the cause of much petty smugness and "tiny, ignorant creeds."

"Although religion can raise a man to the heights, it can also make him unspeakably small of soul and of outlook," he said.

This was the first sermon Dr. Fosdyek, who is a Baptist minister, had preached since he left the pulpit of the First Presbyterian Church of New York recently after a long conflict over his beliefs.

MARX RE-ELECTED GERMAN PREMIER

Former Chancellor, Who Resigned Last Month, Again Enjoys Diet's Confidence.

BERLIN, March 10. — (Canadian Press).—Dr. Wilhelm Marx, former German Chancellor, and last month chosen Premier of Prussia, was re-elected to the Premiership to-day, receiving 232 out of 443 votes cast in the Diet.

Dr. Marx resigned late last month after failing to obtain a vote of confidence.

Advance Guard Of 18,000 Scotch Settlers Coming

CALGARY, March 10 (Canadian Press).—One hundred families from Scotland and England, the advance guard of five thousand families, eighteen thousand people in all, who are being brought to Canada by the Immigration Department and Soldiers' Land Settlement Board, to be settled on Alberta farms, will arrive in Calgary around March 31st.

MINES FLOODED IF NOT PUMPED SAYS OFFICIAL

Dewatering Would be Long and Costly Process—Belong to Province.

MINERS' ATTITUDE

Say They Offered to Maintain Mines During Suspension of Work.

SYDNEY, N.S., March 10.—(Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—"Getting better every day they stay out" was the comment made by J. E. McLurg, vice-president of the British Empire Steel Corporation, when asked last night to express his opinion on the state of the tie-up throughout the coal fields of Nova Scotia precipitated last Friday by the refusal of the company to meet the demands of the United Mine Workers of America for the restoration of credit at the company's stores and the operation on a four days per week schedule of three idle mines.

Asked for the reasons upon which he based this statement, the vice-present replied: "They can't stand the gaff."

"Meaning by gaff?" he was asked. "The distress prevalent throughout the colliery districts?"

"No. I mean that if the United Mine Workers of America will not supply the maintenance men for the mines, the Government of Nova Scotia will be compelled to do so or else provide us with protection. Either that or the mines belonging to the province will drown."

"And if they drown can they be pumped out again?"

"Yes, but the process is long and costly. We have been pumping out the Allan shaft at Pictou since last August, following the fire in that colliery, and at that we have not yet succeeded in dewatering the 1,500-foot slope at the bottom of the shaft."

"Should Sweat Blood."

"Somebody should be sweating blood," added Mr. McLurg. "and that somebody is not us. We are doing our level best to maintain the collieries and intend to do so to the limit of our endurance. But we cannot go on forever. If other people are going to sit about and fiddle while Rome burns, we certainly are not. The situation now is up to the U.M.W. or the Provincial Government."

Reference to the telegram received by the Hon. E. H. Armstrong from John L. Lewis, president of the U.M.W., with headquarters at Indianapolis, brought an equally vigorous statement from Mr. McLurg.

"Things have come to a pretty pass," said he, "when the Premier of a Canadian province is compelled to do business with a Labor official, having his residence in the United States."

"On the whole, then, you are not unhappy over the situation, Mr. McLurg?"

"I am certainly not happy," was the reply, "but at least I am not worrying. Let them stay out two months, it matters not. Eventually they will have to come to us."

Miners' Telegram.

Last night the Mine Workers' Executive gave out a copy of a telegram they have addressed to Premier Armstrong, as follows:

"Regret you should feel our messages to you are indignities. We have attempted to give you accurate statements of fact whether pleasant or not. Vast difference between unpleasant truths and gratuitous lies and insults such as are heaped upon us by your press in Cape Breton, assuming you desire to be kept advised of the situation from our point will continue despatching messages until you request discontinuance. Therefore, following additional points since last communication.

"Mr. McLurg states corporation will not consider mining coal under 1924 rates. This fulfills proprecies of corporation's intention to effect cut by starvation; means also that they expect protective men to work at any cut rate they offer. They don't play fair with you any more than with us.

"(2) Regarding introduction of scabs, have received several warnings from outside persons of corporation's attempt to import scab labor. Feel sure you will not countenance this move any more than we will and are inclined to think transportation employees will not carry scabs.

"Attempt therefore likely tie-up transportation lines, or at least produce disorders throughout the districts. Enough starving people in Nova Scotia now without introducing more.

Men Offer to Help.

"(3) Your serious attention directed to situation No. 10 mine. For two days have offered supply men to replace motor in pump and to provide power for pump which corporation still fails to accept. Again warn you corporation proposes to wreck collieries 10, 15, 4, 21, 22, and blame us.

"(4) As interim measure we offer-

PIGS BURNED TO EXPEL SPIRITS

Holocaust on Farm Near Kitchener at Direction of Toronto Nurse.

TEN "SACRIFICED"

KITCHENER, Ont., March 10. — Provincial Constable Whitesides, of Hensall, Ont., whose headquarters are located here, reported a remarkable story of religious fanaticism after he had arrested Anna Reynolds at the home of Earl Underwood, a farmer near Bluevale, Ont., Sunday night at ten o'clock on a charge that she is insane and dangerous to be at large.

As reported by the constable, the story reads like the doing of some exotic cult and relates of the burning of ten hogs on a sacrificial altar erected in the field on Underwood's farm as a burnt offering to drive away devils. Anna Reynolds, a nurse, who is said to be a leader of a sect in Toronto known as the "Faith of the Holy Light, according to information given P. C. Whitesides by Underwood, has been acting as a nurse at his home where his wife was confined several weeks ago. Last Thursday, the police were informed, Anna Reynolds instructed the farmer to shoot ten pigs and this was done. They were then drawn into a field and piled on a huge pyre. The fire was lighted and the large space banked in with earth. Burning for three days, it is said the odor of roasting meat could be detected a mile away.

Underwood is said to have told the police that the pigs were burned in sight of the Reynolds woman. He said he would do anything she told him.

NOT SO NUTTY.

WILMINGTON, Del., March 10.—William Krause, grocer, coaxed a squirrel down a telegraph pole by offering it nuts. The squirrel came back daily for its meal. Curious, Krause followed it one day and found that its nest was in a woods a mile away and that it crawled all the distance along the wires.

An Increased Indemnity Protested By Council

Besides rearranging the city offices on what is hoped will be a more economical and efficient system, and arranging to mark the hundredth anniversay of Peterborough in a fitting manner, the City Council last night entered the Provincial political arena in what it hoped will be a popular manner by protesting against the increase in sessional indemnities.

Alderman Crowe fathered the motion, declaring "I'm just as much Conservative as anyone, but I don't agree with their taxing gasoline and soda water and everything they can reach to put the money in their own pockets."

The resolution, which will be forwarded to the Legislature, was passed by a large majority. Alderman Fife was the only one of the seven present who did not vote.

TAX DEPARTMENT IS WIPED OUT; TREASURER HEADS NEW OFFICE IN CITY EFFICIENCY MEASURE

City Council Celebrates a Hundredth Anniversary

Peterborough City Council will celebrate the one hundreth anniversary of the founding of the city in a democratic spirit by throwing open the picture gallery in the Hall of Fame to all employees of city offices. Hitherto the annual photographs have included only the Mayor, Aldermen, and City Clerk.

This decision was made at a special meeting called last night to consider economies to be effected in the city offices and a general scheme of increased efficiency prepared by the new superintendent, City Clerk S. R. Armstrong.

The plan was introduced by Mayor Turner as a way to mark the one hundredth anniversary of Peterborough.

Recommendations of Superintendent S. R. Armstrong Adopted Without Change.

POLICE CHANGE

General Change in System is Hoped to Prove More Economical.

That the City Treasurer be the head of the financial department of the Corporation, and that it shall be a part of his duty to use all diligence in enforcing prompt collection of all rates, taxes, interest, rentals or other moneys due the Corporation."

This is the text of a recommendation introduced at the special meeting of the City Council last night by the newly appointed superintendent of city offices City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, and adopted and ratified in a by-law. In effect it absorbs the Tax Collectors department in the City Treasurer's.

Four other clauses provided for the moving of the City Treasurer's office to the premises now occupied by the Tax Collector, where structural alterations will be made to give added accomodation. It is recommended to the City Trust that a corner of the City Engineer's office be incorporated in the new office to provide room for a vault which it is suggested the City Trust instal for the use of the Finance Department. This will necessitate the removal of certain parts of the Engineer's work to the cellar.

The paragraph providing for the removal of the Treasurer's office to its new location defines the Tax Collector's position under the new system as follows:

"... that the City Treasurer's office be moved to the office now occupied by the Collector of Taxes, which the Collector of Taxes shall also continue to use as an official of the Finance Department."

The office vacated by the Treasurer will then be taken over by the City Assessor, who now occupies two rooms on the second floor.

Not much discussion was provoked by the proposals, Alderman Stocker being the only member of Council who differed strongly. He attacked the City Engineer's department and was taken to task by Mayor Turner for what His Worship termed "misstatements" regarding the Engineer's business.

The Police Department.

The last clause in Mr. Armstrong's recommendations, also adopted by the Council, provides:

"That the Board of Commissioners of Police be asked to have the work of Clerk of the Police Court done in the Police Department and that for this purpose that the Chief Constable be appointed Clerk of the Police Court."

Alderman Stocker remarked that if the Chief Constable is made clerk of the Police Court at least four Aldermen will no longer have access to the records without danger of insult. Mayor Turner took issue with him on this point also, and warmly defended the police against allegations by Alderman Stocker that the new car was on a joy ride when smashed a few days after its purchase. It was on the city's business, His Worship said, and the repairs were paid for by the man who, while in the wrong, drove into it.

Replying to Alderman Greene, Mr. Armstrong explained that the object of the change asked for in this department is the relieving of his staff for other work. One of the Constables had a course in business college, and if he could do the clerical work this would leave Mr. Armstrongs' staff free, perhaps, to assist in other departments during rush seasons. The minutes of the Police Commission would be kept by him as formerly, in his capacity as Secretary of the Commission.

All the recommendations were adopted.

Protests Oil Tanks.

Monsignor McColl was a delegation of one to protest the erection of oil tanks in East City, but appeared too late since the permit was given some weeks ago.

Mayor Turner remarked that perhaps the oil company sought the location in that spot because they wanted the protection of the Church.

Monsignor McColl, who had referred to the danger of an explosion, replied "They don't need our protection when they go up; it's when they go down."

Another Accident.

The Council sat pretty last night when another of the now common claims for damages through slippery sidewalks was read. A copy of the notice of claim from Gordon and O'Brien was sent to the Insurance Company which now protects the city, along with a copy of the City Engineer's report, and the matter is out of the hands of the Council.

'FLYING SHUNT' WRECKED AUTO

Occupants Escaped With Minor Injuries in Mishap at Romaine Street.

THREE OCCUPANTS

Albert Geard, 245 Lake Street, his father Joseph Geard, and his son Henry, had a remarkable escape when the Ford touring car in which they were riding was hit by a freight car at the C.N.R. crossing on Romaine Street, just west of Park Street, at 5.35 last night. The car was proceding east on Romaine Street when struck by the freight car moving south and was carried about fifty feet and jammed up against a switch. The Ford was a total wreck and the passengers received superficial injuries. They were rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital in Belleghem's ambulance and were attended to by Dr. McCullough.

It is said by eyewitnesses that the shunting engine crew was making a flying shunt and that the freight car was not attached to the engine at the time of the accident. Police Sergent Arthur Thomas and Police Constable Gordon Puffer were on the scene shortly after the accident. The crew of the shunter were Brakemen Meagher, Staunton and Elliot.

During the evening Albert and Henry Geard were removed to their home, but Joseph Geard was kept in the hospital for observation.

COLDER IN WEST.

Spring Retreats From Prairie Provinces.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 10 (Canadian Press). — After a protracted spell of mild, springlike weather, wintry conditions again hold sway throughout the Prairie Provinces.

A pronounced drop in temperature has been reported from all Western points, and snow storms, of blizzard proportions in some districts, are almost general.

Railway traffic has been delayed due to the heavy drifts, while Prairie cities have encountered great difficulty in maintaining street car service.

Snow and sleet has been falling throughout Alberta steadily since Sunday, while Southern Saskatchewan and Manitoba are now in the grip of the storm.

Weather officials give no hope of an immediate let-up.

ROAD INTEREST CUT.

QUEBEC, March 10.—Hon. J. E. Pierrault, Minister of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries, has given notice of a measure to amend the Roads Act. This is to provide for a reduction in the rate of interest on loans to municipalities under the Act from three to two per cent.

Hon. Athanase David, Provincial Secretary, has given notice of a Bill providing for scholarships for the children of workmen killed in accidents.

TWO BOYS KILLED.

MONTREAL, March 10 (Canadian Press). — William McMath, 11 years of age, and Samuel Milligan, 12 years, both of St. Lambert, lost their lives on Monday when they were struck by the locomotive of a south-bound local train to Rouses' Point.

McMath was instantly killed and Milligan died on his way to the hospital in Montreal.

WORLD OF PAPER IN MOVIE REELS

Interesting Lecture on the Making of Newsprint and Paper.

On Thursday March 12, at 8.15 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce, the Peterboro Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada will hold another regular meeting. The speaker of the evening will be A. D. Ross of the head office staff of the Canadian General Electric Company, who will give an address on "Modern Equipment in the Pulp and Paper Industry."

Mr. Ross, who is a graduate of Boston Tech., has specialized in the study of paper mill equipment, both with the General Electric Co. and with the Canadian Company, and in the last few years has visited a large number of the big Canadian paper mills and has, therefore, a first-hand and up-to-date knowledge of this most important Canadian industry.

The address will be illustrated with lantern slides and there will also be shown, a two-reel film entitled "The World of Paper." This film which has been obtained through the courtesy of the General Electric Co. briefly covers the field of paper making from early times to the most up-to-date present day methods, and it is worthy of note that the greater part of the film was photographed in Canada.

The subject is one which should interest not only the engineers, but also the "man in the street," therefore it is hoped that anyone reading this item and having any interest in the subject will accept it as a cordial invitation to be present at this meeting.

TRENT RIVER SOCIAL

Proceeds Were $72 From Entertainment in Methodist Church.

TRENT RIVER, Mrach 10. — The meat pie supper and entertainment held at th Methodist Church, Friday night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid came off successful.

Tables were served in the dining hall with abundance of everything good to eat.

Although the crowd was not as large as on a previous occasion but excellent order was preserved throughout the evening.

After the serving of the tables, all repaired to the auditorium of the church where a short programme was rendered.

There was a good representation from Havelock and the quartette gave as usaul pleasing numbers. Rev Mr. Seymour was chairman and gave a short address. Rev. Mr .Hinton of Hastings was present and called upon for an adrress, choosing the theme, "Playing the Game of Life."

The other numbers were as follows:

Two numbers by the Havelock quartette which called for two encores.

Reading— Miss Leita Saunders, (Havelock).

Tria—Messrs I. Lawson, (violin), Wesley Redden (mouth organ); Rufus Redden (accompaniment).

Reading—Mrs. Henderson (Havelock) gave two numbers of her own writing.

Solo—Victor Brooks.

Address—Mr. Fletcher (Principal of Havelock Continuation School).

The proceeds from the door receipts amounted to $72.

The L. O. B. A. No 179 are holding an evening of progressive euchre at the home of Mrs A. Wright's, Wednesday, March 11.

A quiet marriage took place on February 26th at the Havelock parsonage by Rev. Mr .Seymour of Mrs. John Hutchinson and Mr. Preston. The best wishes from their many friends follow Mr. and Mrs. Preston to their future home, near Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. E Wilkinson and Miss Margaret visited relatives at Cordova, over the week-end..

Miss L. Engisch was at her home at Norwood for the week-end.

FOUND ANCIENT TOMB.

CAIRO, March 10.—Reisner's Boston-Harvard expedition, which has been working several years in the vicinity of the Giza pyramids, has discovered what it is hoped is the tomb of Seneferu, first sovereign of the Fourth Dynasty (2900 B.C.). The tomb was located near the giant pyramids.

EMBARGO ON POTATOES RAISED OPPOSITION

Government Protests to Britain Are Unanswered.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 10 (Canadian Press).—In answer to a series of questions in the House of Commons Monday, Hon. W. B. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, explained that when the possibility of a potato embargo in Great Britain was first reported, he cabled London suggesting that the embargo should be stayed until the whole situation was carefully surveyed from all angles.

"Another ill-advised cattle embargo incident would be unfortunate," said a cable to the Canadian High Commissioner in London, urging a stay of the potato embargo.

"The Colorado beetle has been in Canada for half a century and to take exception to it now would be unfortunate and untimely in view of the recent action of the United Kingdom looking to the promotion of inter-Empire trade."

The Canadian High Commissioner followed up this protest with a written explanation of the way Canadian export potatoes are handled. It would be impossible for United States grown tubers to find their way to England via Canada, because of the high duty and the lower price in Canada.

More recently the Canadian Department of Agriculture has since cabled the British Ministry of Agriculture suggesting that Canadian potatoes be accepted if they are accompanied by a certificate of freedom from beetle after adequate grading and inspection. No reply has been received from London yet.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE PRACTITIONER TRIED

Charged With Manslaughter In Girl's Death.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 10.—William Elder, Christian Science practitioner ,was placed on trial Monday, charged with manslaughter arising out of the death of 12-year-old Doreen Watson here last November. Elder is charged with aiding and abetting Robert Watson, father of the child, in neglecting to provide the necessary medical treatment for the girl, and an alternative count charges Elder with incompetency in treating the patient.

Robert Watson, the father, and David S. Robb, who also are facing manslaughter charges, will be tried separately after the conclusion of the Elder case.

Doreen Watson died on November 22 last, from what doctors diagnosed as diptheria. She had been "treated" by the Christian Science practitioners, but when the child's condition became serious, a qualified physician was summoned. Doreen failed to respond to toxin treatment.

OCTOGENARIAN HAD A STROKE

Mrs. Fitz Martin, of Campbellford, Is Seriously Ill —Society News.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10.—Mrs. Fitz-Martin, mother of Mrs. T. McAvoy, Front Street, an old lady in her eighties, is very ill at the home of Mrs. McAvoy with whom she lives.

She had a stroke on Sunday, and is now in a serious condition.

The Methodist Young Peoples meeting on Monday night was well attended. Rev. W. Elliott had charge of the opening exercises, as the president was unable to be present at the beginning of the meeting.

The programme for the evening was in charge of Miss Keir, missionary vice-president. The Bible lesson and devotional leaflet were given by Miss Rose Hollenby. A cornet solo, with an encore, by Mr. Walter Lowe. These received very hearty aplause. A splendid topic was then given by Mrs. G. A. Kingston. The subject chosen was "Why should the young people take an interest in missions, and why should missions be one of the departments of the Young People's Society?

It was decided, on the motion of Mr. Howard Fairman and Miss Alma Simpson, that the social evening be next Monday night instead of two weeks.

The four colour groups then spent a few minutes in a cherry contest and apple contest. After the marks were all counted, the Whites are still in the lead.

Mrs. R. Chambers, of Peterborough, spent Friday of last week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. W Dickey, Inkerman Street.

Miss Beatrice Collard, who has been visiting friends in Uxbridge for a few weeks, returned to her home on Palliser Street on Saturday night.

Born—In Campbelford ,on Sunday, 8th March, 1925, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dalglish, Front Street, to Mr. and Mrs. Clinton McComb—a daughter.

BROADWAY THUGS GET GEM FORTUNE IN BRUTAL ATTACK

Strip Woman and Apartment of $50,000 in Jewellery.

BITE OFF RINGS.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Three masked men broke into the studio apartment of Mrs. Fay Perkins, in West 58th Street yesterday morning and escaped with jewellery of an estimated value of $50,000, after beating Mrs. Perkins and binding and gagging her escort, Milton Abbott, described by the police as a wealthy cotton broker.

The robbers chopped down the doors of the apartment in making their entrance. They were believed by the police to have been members of the same gang that robbed the apartments of several women known as "Broadway butterflies," including Louise Lawson and Dorothy Keenan, who were murdered.

After choking Mrs. Perkins and biting rings from her fingers and taking bracelets and necklaces from her, the robbers beat her with revolver butts until she revealed the location of the rest of her jewellery.

Mrs. Perkins was a frequenter of Broadway cabarets, as were the victims in the other apartment robberies. She is separated from her husband, Benjamin Perkins, who is the wealthy proprietor of a West 53rd Street cafe.

Mrs. Perkins and her companion had just returned to her apartment after dining in one of Broadway's fashionable supper clubs and making the round of other night resorts.

In breaking into the apartment, the robbers used a crowbar and other tools, which were left at the scene.

Abbott was seized by the robbers, gagged with a pillow and bound to a bed with ripped-up lengths of sheets. The robbers then attacked Mrs. Perkins and stripped her jewellery from her. The three men wore silk handkerchiefs across their faces, the victims told the police.

With Abbott securely bound to the bed, the intruders took a small amount of money from his pockets. Mrs. Perkins screamed and one of the men struck her in the face and then grasped her by the throat. Another robber then came to his confederate's aid, grasped her by an arm and threw her to her knees. The first bandit tried to remove one of her rings with his hands, but failed. He then put her finger in his mouth and forced off the ring.

The jewellery taken by the robbers included several diamonds which were collected by her husband from famous lapidaries of the world, Mrs. Perkins told the police.

The last robbery of a similar nature was that in the apartment of Edith Bebe, fashionable modiste, who was waylaid and robbed of $50,000 in jewellery by four robbers, last September, as she was entering her apartment in the fashionable East Sixties, accompanied by Robert Hague, marine superintendent of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Of all the robberies of a similar nature, only one was ever cleared up. That was the robbery of jewels valued at approximately $300,000 from Mrs. Charles P. Hugo Schoelkopf, wife of a wealthy Buffalo broker, following a New Year party in 1923. Two men are now serving Sing Sing sentences for that robbery. The jewellery was recovered.

St. Patrick a Scotchman Says Rev. W. F. McConnell

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10.—The feature of the programme at the meeting of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Church last night was an address by Rev. W. F. McConnell, of Toronto, former organizer for the Presbyterian Association, and who preached at both services on Sunday. Mr. McConnell's subject was "The Presbyterian Church in Ireland." He has no doubt as to the nationality of St. Patrick. The patron saint of the Green Isle, the speaker believes, was a Scotchman, born in or near Dumferline, and he is just as certain that he was a Presbyterian. St. Patrick, when a boy, was captured by Irish raiders and taken to Ireland, in which country he grew up and planting 365 churches altogether from which beacons the light of Presbyterianism spread over the world.

Mr. McConnell believes that the church government of the Presbyterian is in accord with the teachings of the New Testament, and that the future will record greater triumphs than those which have been achieved in the past. One significant statement by the preacher, in view of the present agitation in church circles, was that the greatest despots in the past had been ecclesiatics, self-constituted leaders who attempted to coerce the common people into their way of thinking. The same danger, he said, still exists and the people if they would preserve their liberty must always be on guard of it.

The Sunday School room was crowded and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. McConnell, on motion of Dr. Hay and William Anderson. J. D. McEachren occupied the chairand the solist of the evening was Miss Hazel Atkinson.

OBITUARY.

MARTIN FREDERICK.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10. — The funeral of the late Martin Frederick was held on Saturday afternoon under the True Blue Order No. 35, as Mr. Frederick was one of its members. The pall-bearers were members of the Lodge, as follows: Messrs. John Ibey, Albert Mills, Isaac Boyd, Joe Douglas, Geo. Webber and Wm. Ayrhart. Captain Fisher of the Salvation Army was in charge of the house service, as Mr. and Mrs. Frederick attended the Army.

The late Martin Frederick was born at Huff's Island, in Prince Edward County, near the Carrying place at Murray Canal, seventy-six years ago last January. His family moved to Trent River when he was a young man. He has been living in Campbellford fifty-eight years. About forty-eight years ago he married Miss Elizabeth Thompson, of Campbellford. To them were born five children, three boys and two girls, four of whom are living: Almon, of Fort Erie; George, of Campbellford; Mrs. Ralph Bennett, of Healey Falls, and Mrs. Joseph Cayley, of Detroit, Mich. The other son, Sam., who was overseas, died from the effects of the war about three years ago. Four brothers are living: Edward and J. W. Frederick, of Campbellford; Barney, of Peterboro, and Ben, of Syracuse.

The following relatives from a distance attended the funeral: Mrs. Almon Frederick, of Fort Erie; Mr. Barney Frederick, of Peterboro; Mr. Ben Frederick, of Syracuse; Mr. Wm. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Innes, of Hastings.

Some beautiful flowers were sent by Linton Bros., Dr. Watson, Ladies Duchess of Clarence Lodge, Duke of Clarence Lodge, spray and wreath from brothers and family.

The late Mr. Frederick was one of the workmen when the Trent Valley Woollen Mills, now the Campbellford Cloth Company, was being built.

Much sympathy is felt for the lonely widow, as she is also up in years, and suffers from blindness.

Scrambled Eggs Disagree With Victim Of Accident

That is, judging from what he said.

While Mr. Thompson was driving into town with five dozen eggs his automobile skidded or caught in a rut on Park Street and brought up with a crash against a pole.

The eggs were scrambled.

The car was badly bent.

And Mr. Thompson told a sympathetic ring of spectators he wished the snow was all where it would melt.

GERMANY PLANS TO BUY GOLD IN U. S.

Poverty-Stricken Last Year, She Can Now Purchase $50,000,000 Worth.

NEW YORK, March 10. (United Press).— The Germany that was considered poverty-stricken a year ago is now planning to purchase $50,000,000 of American Gold. Arrangements for the transaction have been virtually completed.

These purchases will be mdae without recourse whatever to the recent gold credit established for the German government through the flotation of $110,000,000 German government reparation bonds.

HANGED HIMSELF

STELLARTON, N.S., March 10. —The lifeless body of Arthur Coleman, 60, a crippled ex-coal miner, was found hanging from a beam in the hallway of his boarding house when Mr. and Mrs. Roy, with whom he lived, returned from church on Sunday evening. Coleman had been in ill health for some years.

CONFERENCE TO AMEND SENATE

Federal Government Will Ask Provinces to Attend Meeting.

ISSUE SUMMONS.

OTTAWA, March 10.—(Canadian Press).—By a vote of 120 to 32, the House of Commons last night approved of the summoning of a conference between the Federal and Provincial Governments to consider a constitutional amendment looking to the reform of the Canadian Senate. The MacKenzie King government has already indicated its intention to summon such a conference and the motion in approval came from the Liberal ranks as a sub-amendment to a motion declaring that the Senate as at present appointed "is not of the greatest advantage to Canada." The motion approving the summoning of the conference, as adopted by the House, incorporates these words.

It is planned to hold the conference following the close of the present session of Parliament.

BOB HAIR FOR TEMPLE.

TOKYO, March 10.—Ninety girls bobbed their hair and placed their shorn tresses in the cornerstone of a new temple. The superstition is that this would save the temple from ever being destroyed by fire. One maiden offered herself as human sacrifice to be buried in the cornerstone. She believed another temple near escaped the earthquake because a young woman had been buried alive in it hundreds of years ago.

Ireland Prepares To Dam Heavy Flow Of Liquor

DUBLIN, March 10 (Associated Press).—The Free state government has appointed a commission of nine persons to inquire into the excess in the number of drink shops. There are more than 15,000 in the 26 counties. Some small towns have as 70 shops where drink is sold. It is agreed that at least half the number should be abolished, and the work of the commission is to find out what scale of reduction should be adopted.

As in England, which has seen a large reduction in the number of drink shops, the problem of compensating the dispossessed has to be faced. The report of the commission is intended to form the basis of future legislation.

EMPLOYMENT REPORT.

Last week there were 44 new applicants and 24 placements at the local Employment office. The demand for farm labor is increasing as the Spring opens up.

Lowest Grain Rates in the World

CANADA possesses the greatest railway mileage per capita of any country in the world.

Operating and construction costs are as high or higher in Canada than in any other country.

Costs of materials and supplies of all kinds are as high or higher in Canada than in any other country.

Railway wages in Canada are practically on a level with those of the United States.

Canadian Pacific rates on grain are the lowest in the world. And 55 per cent of its western traffic is grain.

Compare these rates on grain with those in the United States:

Calgary to Vancouver	641.7 miles	22½	cents per cwt.
Nyack to Seattle	643 "	32	" " "
Edmonton to Vancouver	765.4 "	22½	" " "
Shelby, Mont., to Seattle	765.8 "	32	" " "
Viking, Alta., to Vancouver	844.2 "	25	" " "
Vaughan, Mont., to Seattle	852.9 "	32	" " "

These rates, applying on the Canadian Pacific, have been adopted by the Railway Commission as the standard rates for all roads from the prairies to the coast.

The rates quoted above are for west-bound grain traffic. A comparison of rates on east-bound traffic shows even greater disparity between Canadian and United States rates, in favor of the Canadian shipper, as the following shows:—

Winnipeg to Fort William	420 miles	14	cents per cwt.
Leeds, N. Dakota, to Duluth	417 "	19½	" " "
Maple Creek, Sask., to Fort William	1013 "	23	" " "
Galata, Mont., to Duluth	1014 "	43	" " "
Calgary, Alta., to Fort William	1243 "	25	" " "
Rexford to Duluth	1254 "	51½	" " "

In 1923, with a huge grain crop, Canadian Pacific earnings per ton per mile on its western lines were .89 of a cent, while its eastern lines earned 1.11 cents.

Tons per mile handled on western lines in 1923 amounted to 1,788 as against 3,636 on eastern lines.

Advocates of "equalized" rates take into consideration only one factor—grades.

Cost of construction, return on investment, increased operating expenses due to longer mileage, density and character of traffic—all these are left out of the reckoning.

If these items must be left out of consideration in fixing grain rates from the prairies to the coast, how are they to be provided for?

Is the loss on grain traffic to be made up by higher rates on other commodities? Is it to be charged on traffic in some other part of the country or is the government to collect it in taxes from all the people?

The Canadian Pacific cannot avoid paying its capital obligations. It must earn those charges out of its business of transporting traffic.

It asks only a fair consideration of the situation by the people of Canada. There is no mystery about railroading. It is a business of cost and profit just as is any other business, grain growing or manufacturing. There is only one way to meet operating expenses and capital charges—by earnings from traffic.

MISGUIDED ECONOMY.

As an example of misguided economy the slashing of the library estimates by the Toronto City Council stands out prominently.

The pruning resulted in the saving of a fraction of a mill in taxation—an amount so small that it affords the average citizen no noticeable relief.

Yet it leaves the public library situation in such a position that several libraries will have to be closed, or if the present list is kept open, an overdraft will ensue.

Considering the benefit in education and recreation that is obtained from free libraries, Toronto would be much better off in retaining the full service and paying the three-twentieth of a mill that has been saved.

The incident illustrates what the Examiner has often maintained, that a mill or two either way makes little difference in the long run.

The real test is whether or not value is being received for the taxes that are paid.

If people are receiving 100 cents on the dollar for the money they pay into the civic coffers they are not likely to seriously complain.

It is the feeling that they are paying more than they get back in the form of service that cause most of the fault-finding.

ST. VINCENT'S ORPHANAGE.

In reminding the people of Peterboro that on Saturday the annual tag day in aid of St. Vincent's Orphanage will be held, the Examiner feels that it is scarcely necessary to enlarge upon the splendid work on behalf of neglected and dependent children that has for many years been carried on by this institution.

Were it not for such organizations as the Children's Aid Society and St. Vincent's Orphanage the fate of many waifs in this district would be gloomy indeed.

They have rescued hundreds of children from surroundings that offered nothing in life, and have seen to it that the little ones were comfortably housed, clad and fed, given an education and a start toward independency under most favourable conditions.

It is generally recognized that the richest asset possessed by any community is its children.

Viewed from that angle, St. Vincent's Orphanage has a real claim upon the consideration of the citizens of Peterboro, because it has for years been devoting itself to the reclamation and reconstruction of dependent children and converting them into good and useful citizens.

The response to Saturday's appeal should leave no doubt as to Peterboro's appreciation of a splendid institution doing a real community work.

A NECESSARY MEASURE.

The Examiner has not on all occasions been able to see eye to eye with Hon. F. C. Biggs, but in his fresh attempt to have a law passed making it compulsory for all vehicles travelling the highways at night to carry lights, this paper has no hesitation in lining up with the ex-Minister of Highways.

This measure would be such a large contribution to the general safety of all who use the highways that it is difficult to understand why it has not long since been put on the statute books.

The opposition of rural members killed it, of course, during the Drury regime—the farmer representatives apparently believing that their constituents preferred to run the nightly risk of serious accident rather than to go to the trouble of illuminating their horse-drawn vehicles.

More and more farmers are car-owners each year, and surely their experience with unlighted vehicles is changing the rural viewpoint in regard to the simple precaution proposed by Mr. Biggs.

The wagon or buggy on the road without lights is a menace to the safety of its own occupants and of all other vehicles it meets, and this fact is so generally appreciated by all motorists that the reluctance of the Legislature to meet the situation by a necessary legislation is hard to explain.

Under the most favourable conditions the loss of life from traffic accidents is far too large.

It should be the duty of the Provincial law-makers to see that so far as they are concerned every possible protection for the safety of the public will be adopted.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

The annual debate on the Civil Service has been under way at Ottawa, with the usual charges of inefficiency on the part of some of the staffs and of an overloaded service, and with the usual failure to get anywhere so far as improving conditions are concerned.

The only practical suggestion came from the Progressive Leader, Mr. Robert Forke, who advised the House to drop politics for the moment to allow all parties to get together in a genuine attempt to solve the problem.

Needless to say, the suggestion received no support, politics being considered by the average politician as of much greater importance than the efficient transaction of the country's business.

The man who has to go down into his pocket and pay the tax bills has the impression that there is too much overhead, that the departments are overmanned and that the efficiency of the service would be greatly increased if the staffs were relieved of their deadwood.

It is difficult to avoid that opinion.

Private firms manage to transact a large amount of business with much smaller staffs proportionately than are considered necessary for the carrying on of Government services, and knowing this the man on the street wonders why Governments cannot apply the principles of private business to the carrying on of the country's affairs.

It is not so much that the civil servants are overpaid—hundreds of them are giving honest, efficient service at a yearly wage that cannot be considered as large—but rather that there are too many of them.

SCIENTIFIC TARIFF.

Mr. Tom Moore, President of the Dominion Trades Congress, is of the opinion that the tariff question should be taken out of politics and revised on a scientific basis, as a means of relieving the unemployment situation, says the Hamilton Spectator. If a scientific tariff, removed from the disturbances of political expediency, is good for the workers, it is equally good for employers. Suggestions along the lines of Mr. Moore's proposals have, indeed, frequently been made by manufacturers and traders, and there is practical unanimity as to the advisability of the reform. A Government does not function for the benefit of politicians, but for the welfare of the community. While a tariff is a very convenient thing about which the "ins" and "outs" can wrangle and dispute to their hearts' content, it is not created for their special benefit, and they must be prepared to give up their prize bone of contention, if such renunciation is advisable.

The advantage of having a body of tariff experts, non-political in character, to devise and amend as occasion demands, should be obvious to all. A "scientific" tariff implies special knowledge and aptitude for its successful operation; an unscientific tariff, entrusted to the vote-catchers whose personal interest is involved, cannot be a satisfactory fiscal instrument under any circumstances. The demand for a non-political tariff board grows, and the agitation should be kept up till the demand is conceded. Politics and tariff are a dangerous mixture, the administration of which is not good for Government or business.

A MUSSOLINI NEEDED?

Is a further crime against efficiency and economy to be perpetrated by the politicians in Queen's Park? Discussing the Provincial redistribution bill, Premier Ferguson is quoted as telling Mr. Pinard, in reply to a question, that it was the desire of the Government not to increase the number of members, if at all possible, but it was barely possible that an increase might be necessary. Is this a gentle way of breaking the news that more of the people's money is going to be squandered in the ever-mounting cost of surplus government?

Premier Ferguson, in referring to redistribution, points to population increases in the urban centres and yet is unwilling to make any "undue" reduction in rural representation. Consequently the Province is faced with the "possibility" of an increase in the size of an already overmanned Legislature. The Border Cities, it is said, will have another member in the next House, and so will London. Neither community needs additional representation, but with population as the basis, both are no doubt entitled to it. If it is necessary to increase the size of the Legislature, however, in order to give the Border Cities, London and other urban centres additional representation, most persons will agree that we can get along very nicely as we are. Parliamentary representation, of course, should be based chiefly on population, but with some consideration for geographical features. It should be possible for the Government to arrive at a redistribution that would arrange the whole Province equitably without adding a single member or another dollar of expense.

But more than that. It should be, it is, possible for the Government to lay out the Province in such a way that the membership of the Legislature could be decreased instead of increased. There is no possible reason why Ontario should support 111 members in her Legislature. There was no reason before and there is less now since the Provincial House, a few days ago, decided that its members should be given a substantial increase in indemnity. If memory serves aright, the "raise" the "boys" voted themselves will cost the Province $85,000 or thereabouts, but what is $85,000 in a great, big, wealthy Province like this! "Another little tax won't do us any harm," seems to be a popular song with our representatives in Toronto. They've been singing it for a long time, but the electoral audience is becoming somewhat restive under the strain. In the proposed redistribution, as stated, Essex County will have four members, instead of three, in the Legislature. Of course, if everything is to be continued on the present basis we are no doubt entitled to that many representatives and should insist on having them. But there is no good reason why any territory this size and with our population should have four members in the Assembly. Some months ago the Border Cities Star suggested that there should not be more than 60 seats in the Ontario House instead of the present membership of 111. The Border Chamber of Commerce would make the cut even more drastic. In a communication sent to the Premier the other day the Chamber asked that the membership be cut in half. A large amount of money would be saved by such a change and undoubtedly there would be a notable increase in efficiency.

Down at Ottawa and throughout the other Provinces we gaze on the same spectacle of too much government, too much governmental expense. With barely nine millions of people we have nine Provincial administrations, in addition to the Federal authority. This means nine Lieutenants-Governor, nine Cabinets, more than nine groups of Provincial legislators—since some of the Provinces have upper and lower chambers—nine civil services, nine expensive parliament buildings and so on—all exclusive of the vast spending machine at Ottawa. As for the cost of Federal government it is appalling. There are 235 members and 96 Senators at Ottawa and the representation in the Commons will be materially increased in the next Parliament. Overburdening of the House is reflected in the membership of the Cabinet. It is practically twice the size of the American Cabinet which guides the destinies of more than a hundred millions of people. Why this is so nobody seems to know.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Maritimes surely have enough trouble without a complete tie-up of the coal industry.

Prohibitionists will not escape the beverage tax after all. It is to be imposed on "soft" drinks as well as upon the new beer, according to the latest announcement.

Nurmi may be able to run faster, but it is doubtful if he has run any more often than Tommy Church.

Incidentally, Toronto's well-known ex-Mayor is opposed to the tax on "gas." He would be.

The Legislature is expected to be through the session before Easter. The new beer is likely to be the only subject upon which there will be a prolonged debate.

The Peterboro Chamber of Commerce has the Senior Hockey Club as its guests at the annual dinner tonight. It is a tribute to the record of the team this season and has been well earned.

A THOUGHT.

TRIM DOWN YOUR VOICE.

Harsh words spoken in soft tones is next to impossible. Try it.

If you care to curb your temper, just learn to govern your tones. When the voice is high and harsh, the mercury in your temper-thermometer will be above summer heat, even in the shade.

The surest indication of a man's real meaning can be told by the inflection of his voice.

Tone down your voice and you will trim down your temper.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 9.—With a moderate run of cattle offering the market was again quite active and strong. For the past week or two cattle receipts have been fairly well distributed through the week, instead of, as too often happens, crowding heavy shipments all into Monday's market. The more even distribution, having due regard to the requirements for the usual Monday's requirements, has contributed in no small degree to the steadier and generally stronger markets which have of late prevailed.

In today's trading there was a moderately active export demand, prices in this section averaging ten to fifteen cents higher.

In the butcher section the demand for choice quality was quite strong, and for the best selections buyers had 40 advance their bids from 15c to 25c higher. Other butcher grades were proportionately firm.

Calves were not more than steady with last week.

Sheep and lambs were steady.

Hogs were 25c higher at $12 f.o.b.

Prices in the various sections are as follows:

Export cattle, choice and heavy steers, $7.75 to $8.60; bulls $4.50 to $5.25; heifers, $6.50 to $7.25; stores, $6.60 to $7.

Choice butchers, $7.25 to $7.75; medium, $6.50 to $7; common, $5.25 to $5.75; baby beeves, $8.50 to $9.

Choice fat cows $4.75 to $5.50.

Stockers and feders, choice short-keeps feders, 1,000 to 1,200 lbs., $6.75 to $7.25; choice stockers, 850 to 950 lbs., $5.50 to $6; light western stock, $4.25 to $4.50; choice western, $6.25 to $6.75.

Calves steady.

Sheep and lambs steady.

Hogs, higher at $12 f.o.b.; $13 off cars; selects, off cars, $2.47 per head premium.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, March 9.— Local receipts continue to increase and these are beginning to displace the United States imported eggs. During the past week prices have gone down steadily but many consider they are still high for storing purposes. Trading in poultry is chiefly in frozen stocks receipts of live and fresh dressed poultry in the east being very light and nil in the West.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 9. — Sharp advances in the price of wheat resulted to-day from big export buying and from correct belief that government figures on farm stocks of wheat would prove to be lower than the average of private estimates. The wheat market closed nervous, half to 3 5-8 cents net higher, with May 183 3-4 to 183 7-8 and July 163 to 163 1-4 with corn varying from 1-4 decline to half cent gain, oats 3-4 to 1 1-4 cents off, and provisions showing 12 to 50 cents gain.

An unexpected upturn in Liverpool quotations helped to bring about active general buying as soon as the wheat market here opened. The fact that new export business was estimated as much as 3,000,000 bushels however, was the principal early source of strength, and was sufficient to keep values pointing upward most of the day despite numerous brief setbacks and not withstanding that a decrease in the United States visible supply total turned out to be less than many traders had looked for.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, March 9. —Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-day as follows:

Sterling demand $4.77.

Sterling cables $4.77 3-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, March 9. — There was a good demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for Canadian grain here to-day and as the prices bid were in line with exporters' views the volume of business was the largest transacted here in some weeks. Total sales were estimated at 500,000 to 600,000 bushels. There was also an increase demand from New York exporters for grain and a good trade was done in this direction on C. I. F. basis. Local exporters were asking for oats and sales of some round lots were made. It was reported that all the stocks of No. 2 Canadian Western and No. 2 feed grades were cleaned up at Bay ports and No 3 Canadian Western sold here at four cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, and No. 1 feed at one cent per bushel over C. I. F., Montreal and No. 2 feed at six cents per bushel under the same option, C. I. F., May ports. New York exporters were bidding 5 1-2 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, C. I. F., Bay ports for No. 3 barley. The demand for ocean space in room was also better.

The feature of the domestic market for coarse grains was the further weakness in oats and prices scored another decline of one cent per bushel. Ontario No. 3 white was quoted at 60 cents and No. 4 grade at 58 cents per bushel ex-store.

The egg market was without any special feature to note. A stronger feeling developed in butter and prices were advanced 1-2 to 1 cent per pound which was attributed to the stronger cables advices. The cheese market was extremely dull but the trend was steady.

Beans were steady at $2.70 per bushel.

RUDDER JAMMED

760 Tea Cups Broken and Piano Left Trail of Wreckage in Wake.

MONTREAL, March 10.—(Canadian Press).—A harrowing story of four sleepless nights and days when the Canadian Pacific steamship liner "Mont Laurier," with steering gear out of commission, was pitched about off the Irish Coast in the teeth of a gale of 85 miles an hour, and at one time was said to list 43 degrees was told here by arrivals in Montreal who were transferred to the Montclare.

The passengers were obliged to cling to any support and make their way from one part of the vessel to another on their hands and knees, while efforts to entrench themselves in pillows in order that they might be spared bumps, proved useless, and they could not sleep without being pitched out of their berths. However, there was little hysteria, and among the cabin passengers only two were injured. They suffered broken noses.

Carbolic acid got mixed up with the bread, and there were seven hundred and sixty teacups broken, reported Percy Sills of Vancouver. The Mont Laurier left England on February 23rd, he said, and after a day and a night at sea passengers were informed that submerged wreckage had misplaced the rudder and jammed the cogs of the wheels. With the steering gear out of commision and the machinery jammed all that could be done was to drift. The ship listed when a hurricane began. The wind raged at about 85 miles an hour, and the boat drifted at the rate of 60 miles a day.

Piano On Rampage.

"All the furnishings were lashed in place, but broke away from their bonds as the vessel heaved and tumbled. The piano made a dash for liberty and careened into the magazine and curio booth, wrecking it entirely. It then began cavorting again and again until what was finally left of it was carried off in a blanket.

"Passengers gave up trying to walk. They propelled themselves on their hands and knees," said Mr. Sills. "The first day of the tempest no attempt was made to serve meals, every one helped themselves. Things got so bad that the passengers forgot to be seasick, and those who went to bed had to entrench themselves in pillows or take some terrific bumps. The worst sufferers were the women with small children.

"The gale lasted for three days. The Melita attempted to come to the rescue, but also was badly damaged. Other boats started out to aid but nothing could be done in the terrific gale. Only a few cablegrams were sent out and these were censored."

Insurance Harvest.

Mr. Sills paid a tribute to the untiring efforts of the captain and the crew. "Captain Turnbull, Owen Stanton, the purser, the staff and the crew were wonderful throughout the storm and worked unceasingly to relieve the situation. The morale of the passengers was high. An insurance agent appeared on the scene when calls were made for one, and wrote up application for prodigious amounts. People were congratulating one another on the quick and easy deaths they would have. There was an odd corner where a lady and her husband were hysterical, but for the most part the passengers kept up their courage," he said. "The fact that the lights did not go out proved a great boon, and through most of the storm the sun shone. No one was reported seriously injured, though some of the passengers suffered severely from frayed nerves after their perilous experience."

The captain remained on the bridge without relief for a week and the crew toiled ceaselessly to repair the rudder which was causing the trouble.

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

CHAPTER VII.

For two or three days Baree's excursions after food took him farther and farther away from the pond. But each afternoon he returned to it—until the third day, when he discovered a new creek, and Wakayoo. The creek was fully two miles back in the forest. This was a different sort of stream. It sang merrily over a gravelly bed and between chasm walls of split rock. It formed deep pools and foaming eddies, and where Baree first struck it, the air trembled with the distant thunder of a waterfall. It was much pleasanter than the dark and silent beaver stream. It seemed possessed of life, and the rush and tumult of it—the song and thunder of the water—gave to Baree entirely new sensations. He made his way along it slowly and cautiously, and it was because of his slowness and caution that he came suddenly and unobserved upon Wakayoo, the big black bear, hard at work fishing.

For a quarter of an hour Baree watched him while he knocked fish out of the pool. When at last he stopped, there were twenty or thirty fish among the stones, some of them dead and others still flopping. From where he lay flattened out between two rocks, Baree could hear the crunching of flesh and bones as the bear devoured his dinner. It sounded good, and the fresh smell of fish filled him with a craving that had never been roused by crawfish or even partridge.

Twenty seconds after the last of Wakayoo had disappeared in a turn of the creek, Baree was under the broken balsam. He dragged out a fish that was still alive. He ate the whole of it, and it was delicious.

Baree now found that Wakayoo had solved the food problem for him, and this day he did not return to the beaver pond, nor the next. The big bear was incessently fishing up and down the creek, and day after day Baree continued his feasts.

For a week life continued to be exceedingly pleasant. And then came the break—the change that was destined to mean as much for Baree as that other day, long ago, had meant for Kazan, his father, when he killed the man-brute in the edge of the wilderness.

This change came on the day when, in trotting around a great rock near the waterfall, Baree found himself face to face with Pierrot the hunter and Nepeese, the star-eyed girl who had shot him in the edge of the clearing.

"Nepeese was not more than twenty feet from him."

It was Nepeese whom he saw first. If it had been Pierrot he would have turned back quickly. But again the blood of his forebear was rousing strange tremblings within him. Was it like this that the first woman had looked to Kazan?

Baree stood still. Nepeese was not more than twenty feet from him. She sat on a rock, full in the early morning sun, and was brushing out her wonderful hair. Her lips parted. Her eyes shone in an instant like stars. One hand remained poised, weighted with the jet tresses. She recognized him. She saw the white star on his breast and the white tip on his ear, and under her breath she whispered, "Uchi moosis!"—"The dog-pup!" It was the wild dog she had shot—and thought had died

The evening before Pierrot and Nepeese had built a shelter of balsams behind the big rock, and on a small white plot of sand Pierrot was kneeling over a fire preparing breakfast while the Willow arranged her hair. He raised his head to speak to her, and saw Baree. In that instant the spell was broken. Baree saw the man-beast as he rose to his feet. Like a shot he was gone.

Scarcely swifter was he than Nepeese.

"Depechez vous, mon pere!" she cried. "It is the dog-pup! Quick!"

In the floating cloud of her hair she sped after Baree like the wind. Pierrot followed, and in going he caught up his rifle. It was difficult for him to catch up with the Willow. She was like a wild spirit, her little moccasined feet scarcely touching the sand as she ran up the long bar. It was wonderful to see the lithe swiftness of her, and that wonderful hair streaming out in the sun. Even now, in this moment's excitement, it made Perriot think of McTaggart, the Hudson's Bay Company's factor over at Lac Bain, and what he had said yesterday. Half the night Pierrot had lain awake, gritting his teeth at the thought of it; and this morning, before Baree ran upon them, he had looked at Nepeese more closely than ever before in his life. She was beautiful. She was lovlier even than Wyola, her princess mother, who was dead.

Floating back to him there came an excited cry.

"Hurry, Nootawe! He has turned into the blind canyon. He cannot escape us now."

She was panting when he came up to her. The French blood in her glowed a vivid crimson in her cheeks and lips. Her white teeth gleamed like milk.

"In there!" And she pointed.

They went in.

Ahead of them Baree was running for his life. He sensed instinctively the fact that these wonderful two-legged beings he had looked upon were all-powerful. And they were after him! He could hear them. Nepeese was following almost as swiftly as he could run. Suddenly he turned into a cleft between two great rocks. Twenty feet in, his way was barred, and he ran back. When he darted out, straight up the canyon, Nepeese was not a dozen yards behind him, and he saw Pierrot almost at her side. The Willow gave a cry.

"Mana—mana—there he is!"

She caught her breath, and darted into a copse of young balsams where Baree had disappeared. Like a great entangling web her loose hair impeded her in the brush, and with an encouraging cry to Pierrot she stopped to gather it over her shoulder as he ran past her. She lost only a moment or two, and was after him. Fifty yards ahead of her Pierrot gave a warning shout. Baree had turned. Almost in the same breath he was tearing over his back-trail, directly toward the Willow. He did not see her in time to stop or swerve aside, and Nepeese flung herself down in his path. For an instant or two they were together. Baree felt the smother of her hair, and the clutch of her hands. Then he squirmed away and darted again toward the blind end of the canyon.

Nepeese sprang to her feet. She was panting—and laughing. Pierrot

"She drew herself out and stood once more in the sunshine."

came back wildly, and the Willow pointed beyond him.

"I had him—and he didn't bite!" she said, breathing swiftly. She still pointed to the end of the canyon, and she said again: "I had him—and he didn't bite me, Nootawe!"

That was the wonder of it. She had been reckless—and Baree had not bitten her! It was then, with her eyes shining at Pierrot, and the smile fading from her lips, that she spoke softly the word "Baree," which in her tongue meant "the wild dog"—a little brother of the wolf.

In and out among the rock Baree sought swiftly for a way of escape. In a moment more he had come to the "box," or cup of the canyon. This was a break in the wall, fifty or sixty feet wide, which opened into a natural prison about an acre in extent. It was a beautiful spot. On all sides but that leading into the coulee it was shut in by walls of rock. At the far end a waterfall broke down in a series of rippling cascades. The grass was thick underfoot, and strewn with flowers. In this trap Pierrot had got more than one fine haunch of venison. From it there was no escape, except in the face of his rifle. He called to Nepeese as he saw Baree entering it, and together they climbed the slope.

Baree had almost reached the edge of the little prison-meadow when suddenly he stopped himself so quickly that he fell back on his haunches, and his heart jumped up into his throat.

Full in his path stood Wakayoo, the huge black bear!

Baree darted to one side and ran for the open meadow. Wakayoo did not stir as Baree sped past him—no more than if he had been a bird or rabbit. Then came another breath of air, heavy with the scent of man. This, at last, put life into him. He turned and began lumbering after Baree into the meadow trap. Baree, looking back, saw him coming—and thought it was pursuit. Nepeese and Pierrot came over the slope, and at the same instant they saw both Wakayoo and Baree.

Where they entered into the grassy dip under the rock walls, Baree turned sharply to the right. Here was a great boulder, one end of it tilted up off the earth.... It looked like a splendid hiding-place, and Baree crawled under it.

But Wakayoo kept straight ahead into the meadow.

From where he lay Baree could see what happened. Scarcely had he crawled under the rock when Nepeese and Pierrot appeared through the break in the dip, and stopped. The fact that they stopped thrilled Baree. They were afraid of Wakayoo! The big bear was two-thirds of the way across the meadow. The sun fell on him, so that his coat shone like black satin. Pierrot stared at him for a moment. Pierrot did not kill for the love of killing. Necessity made him a conservationist. But he saw that in spite of the lateness of the season, Wakayoo's coat was splendid—and he raised his rifle.

Baree saw this action. He saw, a moment later, something spit from the end of the gun, and then he heard that deafening crash that had come with his own hurt, when the Willow's bullet had burned through his flesh. He turned his eyes swiftly to Wakayoo. The big bear had stumbled; he was on his knees; and then he struggled up and lumbered on.

The roar of the rifle came again, and a second time Wakayoo went down. Pierrot could not miss at that distance. Wakayoo made a splendid mark. It was slaughter; yet for Pierrot and Nepeese it was business—the business of life.

Baree was shivering. It was more from excitement than fear, for he had lost his own fear in the tragedy of these moments. A low whine rose in his throat as he looked at Wakayoo, who had risen again and faced his enemies—his jaws gaping, his head swinging slowly, his legs weakening under him as the blood poured through his torn lungs. Baree whined—because Wakayoo had fished for him, because he had come to look on him as a friend, and because he knew it was death that Wakayoo was facing now. There was a third shot—the last. Wakayoo sank down in his tracks. His big head dropped between his forepaws. A racking cough or two came to Baree. And then there was silence.

CHAPTER VIII.

As Nepeese gazed about the rock-walled end of the canyon, the prison into which they had driven Wakayoo and Baree, Pierrot looked up again from his skinning of the big black bear, and he muttered something that no one but himself could have heard. "Non, it is not possible," he had said a moment before; but to Nepeese it was possible—the thought that was in her mind. It was a wonderful thought. It thrilled her to the depth of her wild, beautiful soul. It sent a glow into her eyes and a deeper flush of excitement into her cheeks and lips.

As she quested the ragged edges of the little meadow for signs of the dog-pup, her thoughts flashed back swiftly. Two years ago they had buried her princess mother under the tall spruce near their cabin. That day Pierrot's sun had set for all time, and her own life was filled with a vast loneliness. There had been three at the graveside that afternoon as the sun went down—Pierrot, herself, and a dog, a great, powerful husky with a white star on his breast and a white-tipped ear. He had been her dead mother's pet from puppyhood—her bodyguard, with her always, even with his head resting on the side of her bed as she died. And that night, the night of the day they buried her, the dog had disappeared. He had gone as quietly and as completely as her spirit. No one ever saw him after that. It was strange and to Pierrot it was a miracle. Deep in his heart he was filled with the wonderful conviction that the dog had gone with his beloved Wyola into heaven.

But Nepeese had spent three winters at the Missioner's school at Nelson House. She had learned a great deal about white people and the real God, and she knew that Pierrot's thought was impossible. She believed that her mother's husky was either dead or had joined the wolves. Probably he had gone to the wolves. So—was it not possible that this youngster she and her father had pursued was of the flesh and blood of her mother's pet? It was more than possible.

Baree had not moved an inch from under his rock. He lay like a thing stunned, his eyes fixed steadily on the scene of the tragedy out in the meadow.

Baree wanted to approach. It was was like an invisible string tugging at his very heart. It was Kazan, and not Gray Wolf, calling to him back through the centuries, a "call" that was as old as the Egyptian pyramids and perhaps ten thousand years older. But against that desire Gray Wolf was pulling from out the black ages of the forests. The wolf held him quiet and motionless. Nepeese was looking about her. She was smiling. For a moment her face was turned toward him, and he saw the white shine of her teeth, and her beautiful eyes seemed glowing straight at him.

And then, suddenly, she dropped on her knees and peered under the rock.

Their eyes met. For at least half a minute there was not a sound. Nepeese did not move, and her breath came so softly that Baree could not hear it.

Then she said, almost in a whisper: "Baree! Baree! Upi Baree!"

It was the first time Baree had heard his name, and there was something so soft and assuring in the sound of it that in spite of himself the dog in him responded to it in a whimper that just reached the Willow's ears. Slowly she stretched in an arm. It was bare and round and soft. He might have darted forward the length of his body and buried his fangs in it easily. But something held him back. He knew that it was not an enemy: he knew that the dark eyes shining at him so wonderfully were not filled with the desire to harm—and the voice that came to him softly was like a strange and thrilling music.

"Baree! Baree! Upi Baree!"

Over and over again the Willow called to him like that, while on her face she tried to draw herself a few inches farther under the rock. She could not reach him. There was still a foot between her hand and Baree, and she could not wedge herself in an inch more. And then she saw where, on the other side of the rock, there was a hollow, shut in by a stone. If she had removed the stone, and come in that way——

She drew herself out and stood once more in the sunshine. Her heart thrilled. Pierrot was busy over his bear—and she would not call him. She made an effort to move the stone which closed in the hollow under the big boulder, but it was wedged in tightly. Then she began digging with a stick.

Five minutes—and Nepeese could move the stone. She tugged at it. Inch by inch she dragged it out until at last it lay at her feet and the opening was ready for her body. She looked again toward Pierrot. He was still busy, and she laughed softly as she untied a big red-and-white Bay handkerchief from about her shoulders. With this she would secure Baree. She dropped on her hands and knees and then lowered herself flat on the ground and began crawling into the hollow under the boulder.

Baree had moved. With the back of his head flattened against the rock he heard something which Nepeese had not heard; he had felt a slow and growing pressure, and from this pressure he had dragged himself slowly—and the pressure still followed. The mass of rock was settling! Nepeese did not see or hear or understand. She was calling to him more and more pleadingly:

"Baree—Baree—Baree——"

Her head and shoulders and both arms were under the rock now. The glow of her eyes were very close to Baree. He whined. The thrill of a great and impending danger stirred in his blood. And then——

In that moment Nepeese felt the pressure of the rock on her shoulder, and into the eyes that had been glowing softly at Baree there shot a sudden wild look of horror. And then there came from her lips a cry that was not like any other sound Baree had ever heard in the wilderness—wild, piercing, filled with agonized fear. Pierrot did not hear that first cry. But he heard the second and the third—and then scream after scream as the Willow's tender body was slowly crushed under the settling mass. He ran toward it with the speed of the wind. The cries were weaker—dying away. He saw Baree as he came out from under the rock and ran into the chasm, and in the same instant he saw a part of the Willow's dress and her moccasined feet. The rest of her was hidden under the death trap. Like a madman, Pierrot began digging. When a few moments later he drew Nepeese out from under the boulder she was white and deathly still. Her eyes were closed. His hand could not feel that she was living, and a great moan of anguish rose out of his soul. But he knew how to fight for a life. He tore open her dress and found that she was not crushed as he had feared. Then he ran for water. When he returned, the Willow's eyes were open and she was gasping for breath.

Winnipeg Mother Finds Ideal Remedy for Colds of Children

A Vaporizing Salve which Relieves Colds Over Night and Croup in Fifteen Minutes. Nothing to Take—Just Rub It Over Throat and Chest.

Mothers everywhere will be interested in the experience of Mrs. W. Butterfield, 627 Carydon Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Mrs. Butterfield tried the new external remedy for colds, Vicks VapoRub, when it was first introduced in Winnipeg and writes:

"My three-year-old boy, William, became very sick with what seemed to me like a pneumonia cold accompanied with indigestion He was a very sick boy for two weeks. One night I grew alarmed—he breathed so quickly and was so restless. I rubbed him with Vicks VapoRub and the result was gratifying. He breathed more easily and I was able to get a little sleep myself. The next two nights I again rubbed him with Vicks with still better results and he became as bonny as ever. I surely appreciate Vicks VapoRub and shall use and recommend it at all times."

Vicks is just as good for adults. It is the direct treatment for sore throat, tonsilitis, bronchitis, catarrh, head or chest colds. When rubbed over throat or chest, Vicks has a two-fold action. Internally it is inhaled as a vapor and at the same time, externally, absorbed like a liniment. This double action seldom fails to give immediate relief.

TONG WAR DRIVES AWAY SIGHTSEERS

Incense Urns In China Are Cold—Oriental Customs Dangerous.

NEW YORK, March 10. — The incense urns in Chinatown's joss house are cold and even clammy. No ribbons of pungent smoke have curled up from them for weeks. The high priest looks down upon Pell Street and murmurs bitter words, a few in the ancient monosyllables of Confucious, but most of them in the more virile vernacular of Chuck Connors.

He deplores the Western ways of his people. He bewails their wielding of lethal hardware in the course of their controversies. He wants them to bury the hatchet, not in each other's heads, but in the ground. He also wants his complete and unswerving neutrality known as widely as posible.

No metal has touched him, but he has, nevertheless, been a casualty. His heart is so heavy because his receipts are so light. The stream of tourists that flowed through his temple has almost gone dry. Some days his only visitors are salesmen offering the latest Oriental novelties at merely-to-advertise prices.

These calls are brief. He avers that he is not going to write orders while the dust is gathering upon the merchandise that has been in the showcase for so long that it pains him to look upon it.

As far as sightseers are concerned there are imaginary but respected detour signs at the ends of the three slim streets that constitute the metropolitan branch of the celestial republic.

Our country cousins apparently lean to the belief that the time to visit a battleground is some years after the battle. They understand full well that Chinatown's war is somewhat of a fraternal affair, open only to members of the Hip Sing and On Leong tongs.

But they feel that the quaint Oriental custof of firing a revolver in one direction while facing in another may broaden the scope of the conflict in the matter of killed and wounded.

BERNIER HONORED.

Arctice Explorer Receives a Medal From Geographical Society.

QUEBEC, March 10 (Canadian Press). — A signal tribute was paid Captain J. E. Bernier, Arctic explorer, at a luncheon held in his honour yesterday by the officers and members of the Quebec Geographical Society, when he was made the recipient of a beautiful gold medal in recognition of his services to the Dominion of Canada.

It was the first time such a presentation has been made since the founding of the society in 1877.

Upwards of a hundred prominent citizens of Quebec attended the function.

The presiding officer was the president of the Quebec Geographical Society, Hon. Cyrille Delage, and seated at the head table at his right were the guest of honour, Captain Bernier and the Hon. J. E. Caron, Minister of Agriculture, while at his left were His Worship Mayor Samson, Rev. Abbe Camille Roy, rector of Laval University, and Hon. Judge Choquette.

MUCH HUMOR IN LATE EARTHQUAKE

Many Funny Situations Recorded as Result of the Shock.

TORONTO, March 10.—(Canadian Press).—Earthquakes are such unheard of things in this vicinity that when one occurred the humorous side of reaction to it was very noticeable. There was the lady doctor with a girl patient under treatment on a sofa who reproved her for kicking the lounge. Look at your curtains and the electric light," the patient retorted, justly agrieved.

Two ladies were in a grocery store, one carrying parcels and the earthquake made them collide. Each was furiously demanding of the other why she was so "clumsy." "You knocked my parcels right out of my hand" In the theatres the men who were "getting funny by shaking the seats" were glared at by women sitting near them.

But no one was perhaps more disturbed than the young lady who happened to be sitting on her trunk when the unfamiliar movement came. Never experienced an earthquake and having never heard of one, she found another explanation for the commotion. "There's a man in my trunk—a man in my trunk," she screamed as she sprang to the middle of the floor.

And the "Star" is authority for this last story. Two elderly ladies who may as well remain anonymous gave rise to the best earthquake joke of the evening. It has been their custom for some time to bid each other good night every evening by phone. On Saturday night the first one called the second and asked her if she had felt the earthquake. "Oh was it an earthquake," was the answer. "I though it was a bilious attack and took a pill for it."

FODDER PACKING EDICT STARTS ROW

Order of Agricultural Dept. Resented by Contractors and Others.

OTTAWA, March 10.—Insistence of the Agriculture Department in refusing entry to Canada of any shipments packed in fodder, originating in a country where the foot and mouth disease obtains is causing a lot of trouble.

The recent embargo on importations of electrical equipment for the Esquimault Dry Dock to-day brought forth a protest from the Wallace Engineering Company, the contractors and others who insist that their contract will be held up and prejudiced and unemployment will result.

The question is going to be brought up in the House by H. H. Stevens, M.P., who objects to the proposal that the shipment should be sent back and suggests instead that it be taken ashore at some remote place, the packing burned, and the machinery then landed at destination. So far, the Department will not concede this on the ground that the disease is loathsome, that no chance be taken with it while it is claimed the steamship companies were duly warned long in advance.

Famous Eater Of London Aged Ninety-Two Years

LONDON, March 10.—(Canadian Press).—Francis Bourn is a candidate for the Hall of Fame, for he just completed a run of 72 annual helpings of the famous but heavy meat puddings, the product of the "Olde Cheshire Cheese" of Fleet Street. The pudding is served free at the hostelry to all customers at the opening of the season each year. Mr. Bourn is 92 years old and still healthy. He has been a constant customer at the Cheshire Cheese, he says, since 1851.

The inaugural ceremony is usually presided over by some noted figure, such as the premier, a cabinet minister or an ambassador, and a place of honor is always reserved for the person who can claim to be the oldest customer of the inn. Mr. Bourn has received the first helping in this seat of honor for the last 19 years and has had his pudding served by the late American Ambassador, Walter Hines Page; and Ambassadors Davis and George Harvey.

The famous pudding is known to contain rump steak, kidney, lark and oysters.

Her Headaches Were So Bad She Couldn't Do Anything

Once the head starts to ache and pain you may rest assured that the cause comes from the stomach, liver or bowels, and the cause must be removed before permanent relief may be had.

There is no better remedy for headaches of every description than

as it removes the cause of the headaches in a way that no other remedy will do.

Mrs. Wm. Helpard, Lower Stewiacke, N. S., writes: "I suffered for a long time with my head. It would ache and ache until it made me so sick I could not do anything, but after taking four bottles of B.B.B. I feel that I cannot recommend it too highly to all those suffering from headaches of any kind."

B.B.B. has been on the market for the past 46 years and is recognized by all who have used it to be without an equal as a remedy for headaches; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CHILDREN ASSET OF CHURCH AND NATION

Sermon at Warkworth on "Teen Age Boy and Girl."

WARKWORTH, March 9.— On Sunday, March 8th, Mr. Donald, a special student from Knox college, preached at both services in St. Andrew's church. Two strong sermons were preached and there was a good attendance.

In the morning his sermon dealt with the "Teen Age Boy and Girl." His experience in Y.M C.A. and other branches of boys' work has given him a deep insight into boy nature. He showed that in the past little stress had been put on this phase of child life. Now the child is considered the church's and the nation's greatest asset and many are awake to the necessity of stressing it still more. Many parents are shirking their responsibility and blame the boy who has drifted away from home to the street corner, the pool room or the cigar shop when the trouble was that the was really "homeless." Parents gladly give material things such as food, clothing, etc., but withhold the greatest things which are real sympathy and understanding. Just as, to quote the text, "Jesus grew in stature and wisdom," so the churches and parents of today must see that the "teen age" boy and girl are given their opportunity to do the same.

In the evening the preacher drew lessons from the life of Daniel. From the lives of great men who have gone before we can find something to help us in our own lives. Four great characterstics of Daniel which are needed to-day are his great conviction, his ambition, his standing firm in testing times and the fact that he looked to God for all his strength.

No decrees of kings, no influences of the mob swayed him. Like Abraham Lincoln and David Livingstone, he had a vision and fulfilled it.

Daniel's viewpoint is needed in our lives to-day and the successful man should say, "I am God-made," not "self-made." A more detailed study of this man's life was strongly advised.

'QUAKE A WARNING

Miss Pankhurst Sees in It Signs for the Wicked World.

NEW YORK, March 10.—(Canadian Press).—Give Heed, O, Israel. Recent earth rumblings were but the premontory warning to the wicked city, according to Christable Pankhurst, former British Militant Suffragette. For weeks she has rapped the pulpit with frail, white hands and informed an unheeding world that natural forces were bringing the words of Revelation to pass. She had rushed to the newspaper day after day and has read the message of prophecy in the world.

Her blue feather shook and her small hand pounded with renewed vigor in Calvary Baptist Church, as she said the Lord had been merciful to New York this time but He would not always be so, in spite of "hush-hushing" geologists.

The earthquake to her was simply a sign and a warning to America but by no means the last in store for this country. It was a message to the church and to the world that she begged would not be ignored.

But even if the skyscrapers fall about her, Miss Pankhurst has no personal fear of earthquakes or any other phenomena for she felt the spirit of Christian love in her heart.

Early in January she predicted an earthquake for New York in an interview. Disturbances along the New England Coast seemed portentous to her in the light of Revelation.

COLLECTION IN AID OF CHINESE

Following Address at Lakefield by Rev. J. S. Harrington—Collectors Appointed.

LAKEFIELD, March 10. — On Wednesday evening Rev. J. S. Harrington gave an illustrated lecture in the Queen Street Theatre on "China, Its People and Customs." The lecture was very interesting and instructive, and was enjoyed by a fair audience.

Rev. P. L. Jull occupied the chair, and Rev. W. H. Howard opened the meeting with prayer. Officers were elected as follows:

President, A. E. Higgins; vice-presidents, the local clergy; secretary-treasurer, F. J .Burgess.

Collectors were appointed for the various districts.

Rev. J. S. Harrington, who is a priest of the Church of England, was chaplain of the British garrison at Hong Kong during the war, was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Cox at the rectory while he was in the village.

Lenten Sermons.

At the Sunday morning services through Lent, Rev. W. Cox is preaching a series of sermons on "The Lord's Prayer," and in the evenings on "Some Characters in Our Lords Passion." On Sunday, 1st March, he dealt with Judas Iscariot and on Sunday, 8th March with St. Peter. On Friday afternoon he reads from a devotional book on "The Preparation of the Guest Chamber" and at the evensong on Friday evening the address is on some familiar hymn. Each Tuesday afternoon he reads for an hour to the W.A. on "Woman Helpers of the Nation," and on Thursday afternoon at the Guild on "The Church, Her Books and Sacraments."

MORE REVELATIONS ELECTION INQUIRY

Evidence Conflicts and Witness Told His Story is Improbable.

ST. CATHARINES, March 10 (Canadian Press).—Interesting revelations were made at the enquiry into the last municipal elctions continued before Judge Campbell here yesterday. Harry Pearcey, deputy returning officer at No. 6 "A", St. George's Ward, told the commissioner that a man named Walters had brought a considerable number of voters to the booth between four and six o'clock, and later was given admittance to the booth when the ballots were counted At Pearcey's booth a number of people were marked as having voted who did not vote, and who appeared before the commission to swear to that effect. Commissioner Campbell told Pearcey that he was telling an improbable story, and it was much to be doubted if the man Walters ever existed. Pearcey's poll clerk, John Hendry, will be called today.

At No. 5, St. George's Ward, there were six voters marked as having voted who appeared and swore they had not. Poll clerk Cobley could offer no explanation

The deputy returning officer, Walter Legg, died last week by his own hand.

SKYSCRAPERS WILL BEAR EARTHQUAKES

High Buildings of New York Only Registered Slight Sway From Shock.

NEW YORK, March 10 (Canadian Press).—New York will go right on putting up sykscrapers and adding to its array of tallest buildings in the world despite the earthquake.

The exact effect of the shock has not been definitely established and is now the subject of investigation by architects during the next few days.

Thomas Hasting, of the firm of Carrere & Hastings was one of those who declared that the earth tremors would in no way effect the building plans and who stood out strongly for the modern skyscraper as the safest type of building known. It was Mr. Hastings belief that there was little likelihood of the collapse of such structures.

The experience of the few persons who were in the big office buildings in lower Manhattan on Saturday evening when the tremors were felt bears out this view. Some reported experiencing a slight swaying and others told of the electric lights suspended overhead swaying for a few minutes.

There were many more however who were ignorant of the fact that there had been a earthquake. A watchman in the Woolworth building wanted to know what it was all about when inquiry was made about him over the phone and then dismissedl the whole thing with a peremptory, "Quit your kidding."

In the ever-so-light pendulum-like motion which constituted the extreme movement reported lies what Mr. Hastings and other architects believe to be the greatest strength and safety of the modern steel-skelton type of structure. Some pointed out that buildings of this type were the only ones which withstood the earth tremors in the Tokio disaster of September 1923.

COMMONS NOW FORGING AHEAD WITH EXPEDITION

Ocean Rates Control Most Controversial Measure in Session So Far.

TALK OF ELECTION.

Appeal to Country This Fall Favored by Quite a Few Members.

OTTAWA, March 10.—Parliament is forging ahead this year with an expedition that is unusual. If the spirit is not apathetic it lacks ginger, but, nevertheless the progress and quiescence so far are not necessarily an assurance that this condition will be sustained. In no previous session has the legislative program been brought down more quickly. Where it has not been produced already indication has been given of what to expect and the consignment is not heavy. Apart from embarking upon one ambitious scheme, the legislative labors of the Government are not extensive.

The ocean rates control measure is easily the most controversial thing of the session so far and may prove to be more contentious than the equalization of the freight rates There is common consent as to the necessity of the latter, there is not like consent as to the need or urgency of the former. Apparently the scheme fails to awaken any enthusiastic response but rather the general attitude towards it is suggestive of caution and a desire to wait and see. If the proposal were designed to meet the demands of any district more than another, it was the West, and yet the farmer publication directed a broadside against it and last week the executive of the Council of Agriculture when presenting their usual raft of resolutions for reform included which was not very favorble to the Petersen scheme.

It is denied that the organization is determined in its opposition, but at least it has serious misgivings about it, and as a matter of principle is opposed firmly to the subsidy factor. The Progressive caucus did not consider the question, although it was supposed to be taken up. The attitude is to hear the rest of the argument and particularly to await the evidence before the special committee.

Just what will happen to the Bill cannot be forecast. Certainly the Conservatives will strongly oppose the arrangement and about it they find many vulnerable points stressing the probable inefficacy of such a line against a combination so virile as the North Atlantic conference. Although the magnitude of the undertaking is not minimized, the Government maintains that a start must be made not only to secure lower rates but towards the development of Canadian ports alleged to be hampered by existing rates. The hearing before the Special Committe promises to take the form of a general inquiry not only into the Bill itself but into the conditions which it is supposedly designed to relieve. Th fate of the measure will depend very largely on the case made out by the author of the Preston report and other supporting the proposal contrasted with what is eastablished by the North Atlantic Conference.

Out of the rumpus something seems bound to issue, although it is not clear that the Bill is of such popularity that any adversity it might encounter would be seized upon as an excuse for a premature appeal to the country.

Dissolution Talk.

Far from there being any tentative decision for dissolution this year, there is still great uncertainty whether or not an election will be held. Counsels are divided and in more or less jarring conflict. It would seem that the Ontario and Quebec members are more favorably disposed to an election next fall or earlier, than are Government supporters from the Maritime Provinces where there appears to be an agitative unrest that in spots is acute. Things previously outlined, which will not be determined for some months yet, will be factors of very great influence in the ultimate decision of the Government. On the whole, nevetheless, the chances are considered to favor an election before the year ends. That any situation will arise in Parliament which would precipitate a peremptory appeal no sympton is yet presented.

The everlasting trouble which is manifest in the industrial centres of Cape Breton attracts much more attention here this year than formerly. So far as Parliament has expressed its view, it is one that suggests suspicion that something is fundamentally wrong when strikes, lock-outs, riots, and signs of distress occur in such unerring succession. While the position is taken that the situation is one that concerns the Provincial Government in that they own the mines and lease them to the British Empire Steel Company, much is said in favor of a thorough investigation such as was suggested when a commission headed by Dr. J. W. Robertson, gave the situation the once-over. The failure of the Nova Scotia Government to accomplish agreement between the two sides as to the scope of such a commission was one of the factors in the latest outbreak. The Federal Government is being importuned to take a hand in the matter on National grounds, both in the direction of inquiry and relief for those who are suffering from the prevailing conditions. Although the Government here is disinclined to invade the Provincial field, especially under the circumstances as to ownership, it is conceivable that if the situation is not adjusted immediately some action will be taken and it would enlist apparently the support of the majority in Parliament.

Hudson Bay Railway.

The agitation about the Hudson Bay Railways is being renewed this year with greater force than ever. Members for Manitoba and Saskatchewan are unanimously pressing for it, and they have a certain amount of support from Alberta. The argument is that, many millions having already been spent, it is desirable to complet the road if for no other reason than to protect the investment already made, and if the only purpose served is that of developing that Northern country. If an appropriation is made this session for the purpose it will be reluctantly and there is no certainty tha under the financial conditions anything will be done.

If, however, the agitation should accomplish something it will be more in the line of completing a colonization road than embarking on the scheme of the new ocean outlet for the products of the prairies.

Rumors are going around about Hon. Jacques Bureau and the possibility of his early retirement from the Government. Tha Minister of Customs has been in poor health for some months and though improved is still far from well. If he goes out, his successor would come from the district of Montreal, which apart from Senator Dandurand, who does not have a portfolio, has no Minister in the Cabinet. Joseph Archambault, member for Chambly-Vercheres, and Fernand Rinfret, member for St. James Division, Montreal, are the more prominently mentioned. It is not known that Mr. Bureau has any pronounced ambition for the Senate, but if so there are two openings from that province. The fact that of the six Senatorial vacancies, four have been long-standing, is generally taken as an indication that the eventual appointments will be Members of Parliament, who are always urging the priority of their claims when such plums drop from the tree. It is believed the Government may wait until the eve of dissolution of Parliament to fill any vacancies to which Members of Parliament will be drafted. In pursuing that course, they have considerable precedent to go by.

CROWS HERALDING AN EARLY SPRING

Other Signs of Winter's Passing Also Reported From Douro.

DOURO, March 10—The auction sale on the farm of Mr. Daniel Kennedy on Thursday drew a very large attendance, and high prices prevailed. The weather was ideal. Horses brough as high as $100, cows sold from $47 to $70, brood sows brought upwards of $60, hens fetched $1.10 apiece, store hogs $11.50. Machinery also sold well.

Mr. John Grady of Cobourg visited his daughter Mrs. William Hayes, recently.

Miss Catherine Garvey, R.N., is visiting her brother, Rev. J. J. Garvey at Lakefield.

A quilting-bee was held at the home of Mrs. Edward Leahy one afternoon recently. Several ladies were present and a good afternoon's work was accomplished.

Mr. Wm. Welsh has sold his farm to Mr. Chas. Bolton.

Mr. Daniel Kennedy sold fifty acres to Mr. Jeremiah Mahoney lately.

Sleighing is gone again and many signs of spring are with us. Crows are quite plentiful recently.

SPEED DETECTIVES.

TOKYO, March 10.—To prevent the speeding and racing of the city auto busses with other motor cars, which caused many accidents lately, the police have decided to place a pianclothes detective on each bus.

PLEBISCITE ON SENATE REFORM

British Act of 1911 had provided that where a money bill had passed the House of Commons on three consecutive occasions within two years, it became law.

Mr. Shaw suggested that the Senate should be elected, or appointments could be made to that body by the various Provincial legislatures. He suggested the reduction in the number of Senators from 96 to 36, four representatives to sit in the Senate from each Province. He considered this would be as fair a representation insofar as the provinces were concerned, as the present system at least. Under the American constitution, New York State elected two members to the Senate, and 35 or 40 to the House of Representatives; while Rhode Island also elected 2 Senators, but only 2 representatives.

If an electoral system were decided upon, Alberta, for instance, should be divided into two constituencies, with similar constituencies throughout Canada. Matters of national policy and those covering a long period of time, could be referred to the Senate. The election of Senators could take place at the same time as the general elections, and their terms of office could cover 4 years, or possibly longer.

Proposes Plebiscite.

J. W. Findlay (Progressive, South Bruce) said there was a general agreement that Senate reform was necessary. Although the question had been discussed for years, no progress had been made so far. The best procedure would be to consult the people on the question. Mr. Findlay had reason to believe that the Province of Ontario was strongly in favor of the abolition of the Senate. He believed that the House was prepared to go further than Mr. Shaw's resolution, and moved an amendment to that resolution.

The amendment was to the effect that an address should be presented to His Majesty the King, praying that the British North America Act be amended so as to provide that the Dominion of Canada should either have the power to make the Senate an elective body, or to abolish it, as might be decidd by the people in a plebiscite vote to be taken at the next Dominion general election.

J. J. Denis (Liberal, Joliette) declared that he shared entirely the views of Mr. Shaw in regard to the question of the reform of the Senate. He thought, however, that his resolution should be in the positive form. The amendment, moved by Mr. Findlay, to the resolution, provided that the Dominion of Canada should either have the power to make the Senate of Canada an elective body, or to abolish it. He could not vote for such an amendment as he did not favor the abolition of the Senate; and therefore proposed to move an amendment to the amendment.

Mr. Denis then moved as an amendment to the amendment, "That the House approves of the convening at an early date of a conference between the Government of the Dominion of Canada and the Governments of the various provinces to consider the advisability of amending the British North America Act with respect to the constitution and powers of the Senate."

H. A. Fortier (Liberal, Labelle) said he was in favor of the Senate as a body that was removed from dependence upon the electorate. He thought the Canadian constitution superior to the American because of the position in which the Senate was placed in Canada. The conference of the provinces, however, should be held as a means of ascertaining the views of the parties which constituted confederation.

Confusing the Issue.

J. L. Brown (Progressive, Lisgar) regretted that Mr. Shaw's original resolution had been obscured by an amendment and a sub-amendment, which confused the issue. It was better that the opinion of the House of Commons should be expressed as satisfied or dissatisfied with the present position of the Senate.

Mr. Brown believed that the House was unanimous on the resolution as originally presented. The Government had committed itself on the matter of Senate reform in the Speech from the Throne, and the leader of the Opposition, said Mr. Brown, was on record as endorsing the abolition of the Senate. In support of this statement, Mr. Brown quoted from Hansard for the year 1909, in which a resolution for the abolition of the Senate was discussed and Mr. Meighen's name was among those who voted for it.

NASHWAAKSIS HALL IN FREDERICTON WILL PASS OUT OF ROBINSON FAMILY

First Canadian Home of Beverley Robinson, a Forbear of Hon. Peter Robinson, Who Founded the City of Peterborough With Irish Settlers in 1824—Local Interest.

In view of the fact that Hon. Peter Robinson founded the city of Peterborough with settlers from Ireland in 1824, and that the Peter Robinson Chapter of Daughters of the Empire is named after him, the following story of the Robinson family will be found of peculiar local interest:

By KATE MILES.

On a secluded peninsula, formed by the River St. John and its narrow winding tributary, the Nashwaaksis, or "little Nachouac" which empties into the main river at a point opposite the old Government House in Fredericton, stands a venerable deserted mansion.

Escaped From Huns.

To the present generation of the Ontario branch of the Robinson family, still living in Toronto, the old square Colonial House, Nashwaaksis Hall, in Fredericton, is unknown, so remote have the two branches of the Robinson family become to each other, but of Beverley House, on the Hudson, burnt down in 1892, they were aware.

Houses and estates in time pass away, but the same traits of the Robinson family of soldiers are more unmistakably constant as compared in the lives of the present J. Beverly Robinson of Toronto, and the brother of his great, great grandfather, the Colonel Beverley Robinson, of the King's Loyal Americans, who did not hesitate to come to the wilderness of Canada when the American colonies broke away from England.

One of the most adventurous escapes from a German prison camp during the war was that of Lieut. J. Beverley Robinson. Blown down with his aeroplane within the enemy lines by a heavy snow gale, he made ten distinct attempts to escape and was twice imprisoned for his persistent efforts. He was many times shot at while making his dashes for freedom, and was in six different German prison camps before he finally made his way across the Dutch frontier in April, 1918, almost three years after his capture. Solitary confinement did not discourage him, and, even though he was carefully watched as "a bad man," he outwitted the Germans.

Family in Ontario.

It was on the way up the St. Lawrence River that the first man to bear the name of Beverley Robinson in Ontario was born. This was the future Sir John Beverley Robinson, the future Chief Justice of Upper Canada. It was at the little French-Canadian town of Berthier that his father, Christopher Robinson, and his wife, the former Miss Sayre, stopped for this event on July 26, 1791. They then proceeded to Kingston, the seat of government at that time, where Governor Simcoe had invited them. A year or so later they proceeded to Toronto, known at this period as "Muddy York."

Christopher Robinson had two other distinguished sons, besides the future Sir John Beverley Robinson. One was the Hon. Peter Robinson, who founded the present city of Peterborough with Irish settlers, in 1824. And the third, William Robinson, who was member for Simcoe from 1830 to 1857.

The Chief Justice, in his turn, had four sons, Sir James Lukin Robinson, Christopher Robinson, the well known leader of the Canadian bar, Hon. John Beverley Robinson, a Lieut.-Governor of the Province, and Gen. Sir Chas. Robinson, who died a few days ago.

From the second son, Christopher Robinson, are descended the three brothers, Christopher Robinson, K.C., and Lieut J. Beverley Robinson and Duncan Robinson, of the Canada Life Assurance Company, all of Toronto.

Refused Washington.

Also to the new colony in Nova Scotia in 1788 came, with her husband and family, Mrs. Roger Morris, the sister of Mrs. Beverley Robinson, and who, as Mary Philipse, had refused the hand of George Washington. Not of the usual class of immigrants indeed were those who sought sanctuary in a beautiful but forbidding country, under the British flag, in that year 1783.

The short-lived but ardent courtship between George Washington and Mary Philipse took place at Beverley House, the home of Beverley Robinson, then a wealthy merchant of New York. Now the estates were confiscated, and the former intimate friend of the Robinsons and of Roger Morris, and the one-time suitor of Mary Philipse, had become the leader of the new nation. The memories and romance of earlier days at Beverley House were transplanted to a harsher atmosphere, and life began anew on a very different scale.

The families came first to Annapolis, second oldest settlement in British North America, and the Morrises remained in Nova Scotia, but the Beverley Robinsons proceeded up the River St. John to the land that had been granted them in what soon became the separate Province of New Brunswick.

Built in 1788.

Nashwaaksis Hall was erected on its lonely site, and here the younger Colonel Beverley Robinson was established to fasten the roots of a strong and upright family tree in a new and virgin soil. The members of the family scattered, some to return to the United States, the nephew to Upper Canada, while two sons accompanied their aged father to England, where he went to end his days, and where they were both later knighted.

Christopher Robinson was the only member of his branch of the family who had been a Royalist. He had served for a time in his uncle's Loyal Americans and later under Colonel John Graves Simcoe in his Legion It was no doubt the presence of his old colonel in Upper Canada which decided the young man to take the long and difficult journey. In a short quarter of a century his son was an arresting figure in Upper Canada's Family Compact.

The old square colonial house, Nashwaaksis Hall, its basement kitchen proclaiming another order of living from the present, built at the close of the eighteenth century, stands silent and unfurnished, but no one could think of it as empty when there are hewn into its timbers and encased in its walls associations which linked the modest dwelling in a wilderness with so many outstanding people and places in the new world and the old.

Monument to Fonder.

It was only to a younger generation that Nashwaaksis Hall could come to be regarded as home, but now after it has ceased to be a home and bears a sadly neglected appearance, with a shutter sagging here and a window boarded there, and the bridge leading to the highway gone, it is still a lasting monument to the Beverley Robinson who had presided with dignity and grace over vast estates, and Beverley House, and under whose roof the romance of Washington and Mary Philipse had run its quick and impetuous course. The house itself may vanish in time and the property may pass to a strange name, for the present holder of it, Frederick Philipse Robinson, a great-grandson of the original owner, has no children and it will become the property of two daughters of the wife of the second bishop of Fredericton. One lives in England, the other in the United States, so the place is bound to change hands. But memories will always haunt the secluded peninsula on the back of the changeless river which Champlain named St. Jean.

Chase the Gloom

By H. J. de FOREST, Meadow Creek, Alta.

I read that there was a total eclipse on January twenty-fourth,
Though I understood the guy to state, "not exactly this far north."
I saw the thing a month before right through our kitchen pane,
And every time the sun was due, I saw the thing again.
I thought that he an error made and got his dates askew,
So out I went into the yard, the darkened sun to view.
But to my consternation, when I looked up in the sky
I beheld Old Sol was hitting it on "six" and locked in "high."
Upon investigation, which I hurriedly did make,
I discovered that said window pane was more or less opaque.
With smoke from many fires and with splashes from the sink
Much mud there was and flies had helped to put it on the blink.
I then got out the cleanser, soon I saw the light of day;
It's the stuff that gets in "Dutch" with dirt and chases it away.
I've cleared the darkened window, on the outside and the in',
And now you see I'm going to "let the blessed sun shine in."

How very like the shadows that cross our paths each day;
Why not get out the cleanser and chase the gloom away?

New Building Will Replace Old Laundry on Charlotte Street.

The old building which has sheltered a Chinese laundry on the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets for a number of years will soon be replaced by an up-to-date gasoline service station. A permit was issued a few days ago calling for a one-story structure to be completed about July 1, at a cost of $4000.

Will Take Off All Excess Fat

Do you know that there is a simple, efective remedy for overfatness, one that may be used safely and secretly by any man or woman who is losing the slenderness of youth? It is the tablet form of the now famous Marmola Prescription. Thousands of men and women each year regain slender, healthful figures by using Marmola Tablets. You, too, can expect to reduce steadily and easily without going through long siege of tiresome exercise and starvation diet. Mr. Alfred Gagnon recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills to all who suffer.

MOULIN BERSIMIS, Que., March 9.—(Special).—"A few words about your Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have done me much good," states Mr. Gagnon, a well known and highly respected resident of this place.

"For pains in the back and kidneys, I have taken Dodd's Kidney Pills and they have done me good immediately. I always keep a box in the house. Today, thanks to your pills I am quite relieved of my trouble and recommend them to all who suffer. Kindly send me one of your almanacs."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a kidney remedy. They act directly on the kidneys, strengthening them and putting them in condition to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills have been in use in Canada for more than thirty years. They demonstrated their worth in the most serious forms of kidney disease, such as rheumatism, dropsy, diabetes, neuralgia and sciatica.

LONDON, March 10 (Canadian Press).—There was no change in Lord Curzon's condition this morning. It is now reported that the operation which he underwent yesterday was for bladder trouble.

A bulletin issued at noon today said he had passed a good night.

RAIL INSPECTION TRIP ROUND WORLD

Heads of Government Owned New Zealand Railroads at Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 10. — (Special). —Two representatives of the government-owned railways of New Zealand, J. Pickard, asst traffic manager and W. R. Davidson, asst. engineer have arrived in Vancouver to study methods of railway operation and general conditions in this country.

Yesterday they inspected the C. P. R. terminals and shops in Vancouver and expect to leave to-day to make their survey of Canadian conditions over the Canadian Pacific Railway.

A tour of the United States, Europe, Indian and Australia will follow in the course of their round—the world trip, which is being made in the interests of a broad programme of development and extension now being planned by the New Zealand government for the railways of that country.

RESCUERS DROWNED.

Eight Members of Tugboat Crew Lose Lives in Attempted Rescue.

AMSTERDAM, March 10 (Canadian Press).—Eight members of the crew of the tug boat sent to the aid of the Dutch steamer Soerakarta, which went ashore yesterday near the north pier, were drowned when the tug, also stranded in the heavy sea. Lifeboats have landed 48 of the Soerakartas crew, but the officers are still aboard the crippled vessel.

SPEND MONEY ON DRINK.

Clydebank Tenants Spend More on Luxuries Than on Rent.

LONDON, March 10 (Canadian Press).—That most Clydebank families spent twice the amount they owed for rent roughly £40 annually, on drink, betting, moving pictures and various other diversions, was the evidence given before the Glasgow rent commission, appointed to investigate the whole question of the nortorious Clydebank rentals by a merchant of that district today.

FRANCE AND BELGIUM WILL INSIST THAT GUARANTEES OF SECURITY MUST BE REAL

Assent to Admitting Germany to League, But Without Privileges.

MUST CO-OPERATE

PARIS, March 10.—The position of France and Belgium when the time comes to talk of security will be that the guarantees must be real and that all the European allies must be satisfied. This is the substance of a virtual agreement reached by Paul Hymans, the Belgian foreign minister, and Premier Herriot in their long conversation on Monday at which the various angles of the security problems were gone over.

As to German membership in the league of nations it will be favored by both France and Belgium on condition that no exceptional favors are demanded by the Reich government. They are willing that the Germans shall have a place on the council if Germany takes her place in the league on the same terms as the other members. This means that if the Berlin government insists on Germany being relieved of the responsibility of co-operating with the other members against any nation which violates the eventual security pact her admission will be opposed.

The foreign ministers also discussed the commercial negotiations going on between the two countries and both were confident that an early and satisfactory settlement would be reached in spite of the difficulties of conciliating all details of the divergent interests in economic affairs.

CONSTABLE MAKER ON A STILL HUNT

Captures Moonshine, Beer, Still and Men in Early Morning.

Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker was successful in still hunting and liquor raiding in the early hours of Sunday morning, his bag consisting of 20 Gallons moonshine,

54 One-quart bottles of beer,

and the accompanying appurtenances to the manufacture of the liquor.

As a result of his still hunt, Harry Wheeler, of Otonabee; Jack Wyatt, of 490 Driscoll Terrace; and Bert Lee, of Otonabee, will face Magistrate O. A. Langley in city court on Friday to answer to various charges having to do with manufacturing, keeping for sale and selling. Then on Tuesday next Mr. Lee will explain the presence of a still in his possession, and Constable Maker will lay charges of manufacturing against the other two.

According to the officer who made the capture, 11 gallons of moonshine and all the beer were in possession of Harry Wheeler; Jack Wyatt had 9 gallons of moonshine, and Bert Lee had a still.

FIVE RESIGNATIONS ACCEPTED BY PRESBYTERY OF PETERBORO'

Warkworth, Campbellford, Cobourg and Port Hope Ministers Leave Churches.

EFFECTIVE SATURDAY.

Rev. J. S. Ferguson, of Baltimore, is Moderator—Committees Appointed.

Consideration of resignations was the feature of this morning's session of the Presbytery in St. Paul's Church.

The following resignations, to take effect on March 14, were accepted: Rev. G. S. Hammond of Warkworth, Rev. C. F. McIntosh of Campbellford, Rev. W. A. Bremner of Cobourg, Rev. T. M. Wesley of Norwood, Rev. F. W. Anderson of Port Hope. In all these cases the Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings was appointed Interim Moderator.

All those whose resignations were accepted are to have their names retained on the constituent roll of the Presbytery in recognition of their ministry to the Unionist group.

The Moderator of the Presbytery for the ensuing six months is the Rev. J. S. Ferguson of Baltimore and the clerk is the Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings, re-elected.

The Moderator, the Clerk, and Messrs. Bremner, Anderson, McIntosh, Evans and Hunter were appointed a committee for the re-organization of the Presbytery, and Messrs. McLeod, Pogue and Buttars are a committee to strike the standing committees.

RE-ELECTED CLERK.

REV. D. A. THOMSON, of Hastings,

Clerk of the Peterborough Presbytery of Peterborough, re-elected to-day.

CROYDEN, March 10. — When about 1,000 feet in air in his baby run-about plane Hubert Broad's soft hat flew off. Thinking he might catch cold without it, Hubert followed and picked it up without stopping the engine. He then took off again and flew to his North London airdrome.

CHURCH UNION NOT A POLITICAL AFFAIR

And Should Not Be Treated as Such, Says W. S. Haney.

TORONT, March 10 (Canadian Press).—Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General and Chairman of the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature, announced this morning that the Church Union Bill would come before the committee next Tuesday morning at 9.30 o'clock. He said that G. W. Mason, counsel for Unionists, and D. L. McCarthy, counsel for the non-concurring Presbyterians, had agreed on this day.

W. S. Haney (Conservative, West Lambton) asked if the two opposing factions were making any effort at all to get together. Mr. Nickle replied that they seemed to be running up and down instead of forward. Mr. Haney said that he did not think the committee should allow the question to be hung around its neck as a political affair and, he added, the two factions should be asked to come to the committee with a reasonable mind and an agreement among themselves which would simply require ratification by the committee.

Mr. Haney gave notice of motion to this effect. He will move the motion Thursday, and it will be forwarded to the two factions before they come to the committee.

NO NEW DIOCESE FOR PETERBORO'

Toronto Must Control District Until Finances Are Arranged.

MISSIONS HERE.

In speaking with The Examiner today, Rev. Dr. Blagrave of St. John's Church said that nothing had been done towards the establishment of an Anglican Diocese of Peterborough. He said that the chief difficulty in the way was one of finances, as all the missions would be in Peterborough, and most of the supporting churches in Toronto. Until there was an endowment fund raised for the diocesan revenue the only course he could see would be the appointment of a Co-adjutor Bishop to have jurisdiction over this section of the diocese without splitting it into two separate dirceses.

WINNIPEG CITY IS SNOWBOUND TO-DAY

Drop in Temperature Followed by a Raging Blizzard, Which Sweeps Province.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 10 (Canadian Press). — Winnipeg in common with other Prairie cities today is completely snow-bound, following the heaviest and most general storm that has swept the Province in many years.

For nearly twenty-four hours the snowfall continued without a moment's let up.

A drop in the temperature and increased wind velocity late yesterday afternoon brought about a raging blizzard, drifts being piled up along all the principal thoroughfares.

The street car service was practically paralysed last night and this morning.

PUPILS ENTERTAIN UNDER M. H. PARK

Queen Alexandra Home and School Association Highly Pleased.

The large kindergarten room at Queen Alexandra School, was filled on Monday evening for the splendid entertainment arranged for the Home and School Assocation by M. H. Park and the teachers.

The president, Mrs. H. G. Walker, assisted by the honorary president, Mrs. A. Mowat, and honorary vice president, Mrs. S. F. M. Touchburn, received the guests.

The programmes, in the school colors—black and gold—were painted by pupils of the third and fourth forms. Mr. Park was master of ceremonies.

The programme included: choruses by Junior and Senior Fourth Pupils; "April Showers," "Snow White Sails," "Home, Sweet Home," and "Ye Banks and Braes," Cornet Solo Eric Westbye; Piano Duet, Margaret and Mary Vance; Violin Solo, Moir Park.

The serious business of the evening was the oratorical contest by pupils of Junior and Senior Fourth: "The Fox Industry," Gladys Ash; "Nurse Edith Cavell," Margaret Reid; "Montcalm," Max Parnall; "Madeleine de Vercheres," Bella Hamilton; "Sir Wilfred Laurier," Agnes Fife, and "David Lloyd George," Vera Stephens. Miss Ross, P. P. Westbye and R. C. Flitton were the judges. All the pupils did remarkably well and were almost perfect. Mr. Westbye in a few well chosen remarks, presented the prizes, books, to Max Parnall, first; Bella Hamilton, second, and Margaret Reid, third. Margaret Reid won third last year.

Mr. Park explained to the assembly the plan for the paper collection.

The advertisement contest, in the hall, allowed the guests to move about, and prizes were won by Mrs. E. Telford and Miss M. E. Moore, first; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Flitten, second.

Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. George Lee, assisted by fifteen lady members. The table was decorated in the school colors. Miss M. Morrow and Miss F. D. Walker cut the ices.

SURE TO INUNDATE ONTARIO WITH BEER

The Worst Kind of Booze There is, Says Rev. Ben Spence.

OTTAWA, March 10. —(Canadian Press).—Members of the Executive Council of the Dominion Alliance met here to-day and discussed the relation of the Dominion Alliance and Prohibition Federation of Canada.

Rev. Ben Spence of Toronto, secretary of the Alliance, commenting on the situation in Ontario, said the Ontario government's proposed 4.4 per cent beer would open the flood gates and inundate Ontario with one "most degrading kinds of booze for the beer boozer, is worst kind of boozer there is," he declared.

STEEL COMPANY WITHDRAWS OFFER

Agreement Proposed to Miners Was to Effect Settlement Without Strike.

SYDNEY, N.S., March 10.—(Canadian Press).—J. E. McLurg, vice-president of the British Empire Steel Corporation, to-day formally withdrew the company's offer of a ten per cent. decrease in the wage scale paid Nova Scotia miners. In withdrawing his offer, Mr. McLurg states that it was made to secure a settlement without a strike, but since this effort was unsuccessful the concession would be concelled.

Glace Bay branch of the Great War Veterans' Association had offered to place the services of one thousand ex-service men at the disposal of Attorney-General Ohearn for preservation of law and order in the strike district.

Seek Premier's Offices.

Representatives of the union have sent a telegram to Premier Armstrong, asking him to use his offices to bring about the resumption of work on the basis of a four-day a week minimum with restoration of credit at the stores.

Citizens from the strike district have also wired the Premier, alleging deliberate attempts on the part of the Steel Corporation to let the collieries flood. They urge Government intervention.

GIVE AWAY $300,000.

LONDON, March 10.—The will of George MacBain, a lonely rich Scotchman, left nearly $300,000 to given away in the discretion of the executors. Comparatively small bequests were left to two nephews.

"The Cup of Health"

Yes, that is really what FRY'S should be called—the cup of Health! Its delicious, chocolaty flavour—so enticing to the appetite—is only the outward sign of its inward goodness. "FRY'S Cocoa is the richest in flesh forming and energy-producing constituents," says Dr. Andrew Wilson, F.R.S.E., "and is without an equal in respect of its purity and for all round excellence. There is no better food."

Whose resignations were accepted by the Presbytery of Peterborough to-day. They resigned because their churches voted anti-union, while they are Unionists.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

CANADA'S PULPWOOD

Hamilton, Ont., March 9, 1925.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir.—Mr. Ralph T. Bell's criticism of my figures, that the number of cords of pulpwood exported last year was too small, and my estimate of the resultant pulp or paper product too large, sufficient allowance not being made for wastage, shrinkage, evaporation of moisture, etc., however dealing in generalities for convenience of calculation, they were sufficiently close to show the serious disadvantage to Canada of exporting pulpwood in its raw stage. In fact, his own figures are enough to shock Canadians at Canada's loss of from 200 per cent to 600 per cent.

Just fancy the Fox River Pulp and Paper Company of Wisconsin bringing over United States capital and building a pulp mill in Canada, trying to comply in advance with the embargo desired of the people of Canada, and the Algonquin Paper Mills using Canadian money in the erection of a mill in Ogdensburg, N.Y., supplying it with pulpwood from Canadian land, taking Canadian power developed at Valleyfield, Que., at half the price it is sold for on the Canadian side.

Can it be that the Ogdensburg Mills are relying on the big interests influence to perpetuate exporting raw pulpwood in opposition to general Canadian feeling. If they do, they are likely to meet with a great surprise, for it does not seem as though the government can much longer resist the placing of an embargo on pulpwood anyway. Some seem to think 1,200,000 cords of raw pulpwood exported is nothing, but it is more than one-third of our total annual cut.

Why should we let over $60,000,00 in labor and profit on our raw pulpwood be distributed outside of Canada. There is nothing sound in the settlers' bogey.

According to our forest experts, the wind, fire, insects and decay are fast sweeping over our natural forests, so nothing but strict precaution, re-forestry and embargo, will save the situation.

Fancy Toronto being in the throes of a power famine for any extension of use, except light, and Canadian power going to Ogdensburg in abundance at half price.

An embargo on the export of power at Niagara Falls, Valleyfield, or farther east in Quebec, or anywhere else in Canada, should be positively enacted and enforced at once. Can it be true that considerably over one-third of the hydro-electric energy developed in Canada last year, was exported to the United States?

Yours truly,
W. O. SEALEY,
61 Hunter St., W.

SLAPPED BY SOAP SELLER.

BERLIN, March 10.—A soap peddler was arrested here because his temper was not proof against business reverses.

Having tried vainly to sell soap at various houses on a prominent Berlin street, he offered some to a youth sitting alone in an office. The youth politely refused to buy.

"What! No soap?" queried the peddler, and he promptly slapped the non-buyer's face.

Then he ran away, with the youth close behind him. The youth finally caught the peddler and delivered him to the police.

DROPPED DEAD DOING CHORES

Orland Man Suddenly Stricken While at Work This Morning.

IN GOOD HEALTH.

ORLAND, March 10 (Special to The Examiner).—While doing his chores this morning, Donald Seguyre was taken suddenly ill and died before help could be obtained. He had been in apparent good health while eating his breakfast a few minutes before. A doctor was summoned from Campbellford, but the stricken man was dead when he arrived.

The deceased was about 40 years old and unmarried. He resided with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Seguyre near Salt Creek on the Campbellford - Brighton provincial highway.

ST. ANDREW'S MEN'S ASS'N HAD SPLENDID MEETING

New Officers Elected—Good Programme—Large Attendance.

The regular and annual meeting of St. Andrew's Men's Association was held in St. Andrew's Lecture Room last evening, with an exceptionally large attendance. The president, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, was in the chair. A number of the clergymen of the district who are attending the Presbytery meetings this week were present, as well as some fifteen new members. Dinner was served, after which a fine musical programme was rendered. Mr. C. D. Cook, president of the Kiwanis Club, was the speaker of the evening, and his address on "Fellowship" was most impressive. The president is Mr. G. D. Carlisle, who has been very active in affairs of the Association, and Mr. G. H. Roper is secretary.

DOG LURES WOLVES.

Three Animals Brought Within Range of Rifle—None Escaped.

FORT WILLIAM, Mar 10—Lured to their death by a dog which Pierre Dijon, French Canadian trapper, kept in his cabin on the Ogaki river Nipigon, three large timber wolves kept coming nearer to the place where the dog was, until one day they got too close, and were, one by one, killed with a bullet from Dijon's unerring rifle. The wolf pelts were brought in this morning for bounty application, and Magistrate Palling says they are the largest he ever saw.

SAYS GERMAN PRINCES MISS FREE TRAVELING

Taxpayers' Money Has Other Uses Now.

BERLIN, March 10.—When Germany became a republic German ruling Princes lost not only their thrones but their wanderlust.

When royal blood ruled the land the petty sovereigns and the numerous members of their families had a regular passion for going somewhere. When they were not paying formal calls, at the taxpayers' expense, or sisters, cousins or aunts living in more or less distant parts, they could not resist the temptation of travelling for the sheer joy of it—also at the taxpayers' expense.

Now, however, that is all over, according to a lady-in-waiting at the court of a Bavarian Prince who has just published her memoirs. Germany's dethroned Kings, Princes, Grand Dukes, Dukes and whatnots now stay "put," she says. Their taste for travel may be unimpaired, but the taxpayers' money is otherwise engaged.

NIAGARA MEETS QUEBEC CHAMPS

First Interprovincial Allan Cup Elimination Game in Montreal To-night.

MONTREAL, March 10. — New high attendance figures for amateur hockey in Montreal and in the Dominion are anticipated for To-night when Niagara Falls and Victorias clash here in the first game of a home- and- home series between the O. H. A. and Quebec champions in the Allan cup eliminations.

Hockey history will be made when the teams face one another in what will be first Allen Sup elimination game played here, local champions in past seasons having competed in the amateur play-down either at Toronto or Ottawa.

The Niagara Falls team arrived here this morning, though two of the players, one of them Kelterbourne, will not make their apeearance until to-morrow morning, Kelterbourne is a former team-mate of Howie Morenz, flash Canadien centre, when the pair were members of the Stratford intermediate O. H. A. team three seasons ago. Kelterbourne's showing on the Niagara Falls wing will be closely watched by local fans.

Victorias are resting for the tussle, a light workout Saturday being their one practice since defeating Sons of Ireland for the provincial title last Thursday night. The team is in fine fettle and students of amateur hockey are predicting a close contest.

The probable line-ups:

Niagara Falls—Goal, Mayo, defence Fraser and Kitchen; Centre, Rice. Wings, Herrington and Kelterbourne subs. Siebert and Molson.

Victorias— Goal, Scott; defence, Mallinson and Shirley; Centre, Anderson; Wings, Valois, and Slater; subs., King, Bowles and Dunne.

Referee: Dr. E. O'Leary, Ottawa.

SOCCER AGREEMENT ACCEPTED BY BOTH

Committee Will Meet Next Monday Evening to Form New Rules.

Both soccer associations meet last night in Chamber of Commerce Rooms, before a very large and enthusiasic assembly when various discussions brought many arguments pro and con.

Junior Report.

Mr. Lloyd gave an amicable report from the junior association that they were agreeable in every detail and stated that the juniors saw no difficulty for a prosperous season, also all things were working in harmony for both associations.

Another point is that the Referees associated in soccer co-operate with one another so as to make a splendid 'Knight of the Whistle" body that will be to the satisfaction of the adjucator of the game.

The junior association aslo recommend that "only one transfer" be given during the season but a new clause between the two bodies would not stop any player transferring vice versa, if not fit for that company.

"Kay Cup."

The junior president, also, spoke to effect that he had interviewed Alex Kay, donor of Kay cup, who sanctioned them to obtain the cup foran injured player fund. The seniors will hold the Kay Cup as their property to be played for between juniors and seniors.

"Rules and Regulations.

The transfer question brought before the board many views that resulted in W. Anderson, V. Stewart J. Cridland for the seniors, being appointed along with a committee from the junior executive who shall appoint their own representatives to meet the "Rules and Regulation Committee" next Monday evening, in the Chamber of Commerce at 7.30 p.m, to formulate the rules.

W. Davis was appointed to the Executive Board in place of Joseph Gaskill who is now a regisered player of the Woollens.

SOCCER NOTES.

Will all C. P. C. Footbal players and those interested please attend the meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Rooms, Thursday evening, March 12 inst., at 7 p.m., for the purpose of electing officers for the year, 1925.

YALE PLANS RINK.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 9.—Following a trip to Canaad in which they inspected hockey arenas at Toronto and Stratford, Ontario, Prof. C. W. Mendell chairman of the Yale Athletic Association and H. F. Wood cock, its general manager, announced that if a finanical plan be arranged a fine skating structure would be erected at Yale Field. Yale has been without a home for its hockey team since last summer when the erena here was burned.

FIGHT WILLS FIRST.

CHICAGO, March 9. —If Jack Dempsey chooses to box Tommy Gibbons instead of Harry Wills, negro heavy-weight challenger, in the first bout of his summer campaign Gibbons stands ready to box Wills before meeting the heavy-weight champion, Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, said last night on his return from New York.

The NUT CRACKER

BY JOE WILLIAMS

AT HOME WITH THE DEMPSEYS

(As a lot of prizefight followers probably imagine it to be.

JACK: Well, little woman, slip on the mittens and we'll step through three fast rounds before breakfast.

ESTELLE: Looks to me like you're slipping a little bit. You dont' seem to get your head away from a left hook as you used to.

JACK: Well, I dont have to be so good to slap over guys like Gibbons and Wills, you know.

ESTELLE: Say, isn't that rich, this Gibbons stepping out and claiming your title. I ask you, isn't that wealthy?

JACK: It don't cost anything to claim a title. I remember the kaiser claimed Paris for a Christmas dinner once, too.

ESTELLE (excitedly): Oh, is that so! Tell me more about it, big boy.

JACK (turning a light pink): Aw, let's talk about something else. Now this Wills egg, he'd be a push-over for Jackie Coogan.

ESTELLE: Speaking of Jackie, don't you think he's just the dearest kid you ever did see!

JACK: Dearest! Say, hes got Jack Kearns stopped. Imagine a kid five years old demanding $500,00 for six pictures.

ESTELLE: Say, how long are you going to keep that filthy old red sweater around the house?

JACK: That ain't no filthy red sweater and besides I'm sentimental about it. I wore it the day I hung Willard on the ropes.

ESTELLE: I don't car to hear about your washing, that sweater is terrible.

JACK: All right, you win. What does the paper say this morning about me retiring?

ESTELLE: Not a line. Our press agent will have to do better than that if we are to get that contract from Shamless Players.

JACK: I think we ought to go in for some heavy stuff in the films and do something really worth while.

ESTELLE: I agree with you, big boy. Something classical. Say, the Merchant of Venice, for instance.

JACK: I don't know about these business plays. Doug Fairbanks tells me the fans like romance better.

ESTELLE (turning to answer the phone): It's Tex Rickard, and he wants to talk to you.

JACK: Tell him I think Wills and Gibbons are a couple of hams and what I said about retiring still goes, I think.

DUNSFORD CURLING

Schedule Wound Up — School Hockey Match.

DUNSFORD, March 10. — On Friday night last the winding up of the curling schedule was played.

P. H. Skitch's team played H. Thurston's team, the score being 14 to 6 in favour of P. H. Skitch.

Mr. Milburn's team being head of the schedule, played Mr. Charlie Laidley's team, winning by a score of 13 to 10 in favour of Mr. Thurston.

On Saturday afternoon a hockey team from Lindsay ,composed of Lindsay school boys, played on the Dunsford Rink. Dunsford won, the score being 5 to 4.

Although the ice was flooded with water, it was a very exciting game. A number of Dunsford spectators who witnessed the game, said they had as much fun watching it as they had watching the senior teams.

Skating on Saturday night was not good, although a few persevered.

Mrs. C. Thurston, of Lindsay, is visiting her son ,Mr. W. J. Thurston.

Rev. Mr. Carmichael's home is all stricken with the flu, Mr. Carmichael not being able to attend his different appointments on Sunday.

Mrs. W. Kennedy ,of Omemee, is visiting friends here.

MACK HAS RUTH –FOR ONE GAME

Athletics Use Ruth in Outfield Against Phillies at Fort Myers.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10. — Reports yesterday from the baseball training camps of the Philadelphia Nationals and Americans in Florida indicate that both squads are in for a strenuous week.

Manager Fletcher of the Phillies is working hard to get his men in condition for the exhibition games with the Athletics at Fort Meyers, on Thursday and Friday. With two workouts a day Fletcher hopes the team will be in fine shape for their American League opponents.

Babe Ruth, Sultan of Swat, will be in the Athletics' outfield against the Phillies on Friday. Ruth has been borrowed by Manager Mack from the camp of the New York Yankees at St. Petersburg for the day, and reservations have been made for the game by fans for miles around

ROUSH APPOINTED CAPTAIN OF REDS.

CINCINNATI, March 10.—Eddie Roush, star player of the Cincinnati Reds, has accepted the appointment of field captain of the team.

Roush reported at the Orlando training camp yesterday, having been delayed a few days because his brother-in-law was injured in a mine accident.

"Acceptance of the captaincy by Roush," said Hendricks "means that in my absence he will be in full charge of the club. He will be my assistant and advisor, along with Grover Land and Bill Clymer, and will deal with umpires on the field, as Jake Daubert did for the last six years."

PIRATES PLAY THEIR FIRST GAME.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 10. — Manager Bill McKechnies Pirates staged their first regular outdoor baseball embroglio of the 1925 season at their training camp at Paso Robles, Calif., on Sunday.

The regulars crossed bats with the second string team.

According to battie reports reaching here, the rookies got an even break, the score being 8-8.

Emil Yde and Babe Adams divided mound duty for the recruits, and Feeley and Lorbeer did the twirling for the veterans. "Pie" Traynor was the hitting premier, annexing one homer and a three-base hit

BOSTON HOPES RISE AS RED SOX WIN.

BOSTON, March 10.— Supporters of the Red Sox found a happy portent for the season in the club's victory over the New Orleans Pelicans in New Orleans yesterday by 11 to 2.

Gross at shortstop and Connolly at second base were the stars among the club's new players. Connolly had a perfect day at bat with three singles and two bases on balls.

Fred Mitchell had arrived from Boston to help coach the Braves at St. Petersburg, Fla.

SPORT ODDITIES

Rookie Took Manager Literally and Wintered on Farm.

It was the fall of 1915. The baseball season was nearing its close. It was the time of the year when teams not in the pennant fight usually take the opportunity of trying out recruits.

And that's what a certain major league club was doing just at this period. Among several youngsters was one who gave more than ordinary promise. He seemed possessed of much natural ability. The manager liked the way the tot stepped into the ball; his stance at the plate and his easy sort of way afield. Said boss was enthusiastically impressed.

But the lad was frail-looking. He appeared underfed. He was thin and pale. In a word he seemed far from strong. But the manager liked his work. So, one day he called the recruit aside and said:

"You look pretty good, son. But of coubrse you lack experience. Furthermore, you seem a bit frail for the majors. Guess a year on one of our farms won't do you any harm. When you report in the spring we'll farm you out some place."

The kid took the manager literally. No siree, if he was going to be sent to a farm he wouldn't wait until next spring. He'd go right after the end of the season. And what was more he'd go to whatever farm he wanted to. And so he did. There he remained all winter, building himself up considerably.

In the spring he reported back to the manager at the southern training camp. "Well, Mr. ——, I did what you told me to do. I've been down on the farm all winter."

Obviously the boss was surprised —surprised to think that the youngster would take him at his word. For, of course, he hadn't meant that kind of a farm. And surprised, yea, fairly startled at the change the country life had done for the lad. He didn't hardly look like the same boy he had watched a few months before.

Yes—the kid stuck in the big show. He made the grade. For with the start of that season—1916—he won a regular berth. And has held it ever since.

Who—. Oh! Yes—

The club was the St. Louis Cardinals.

The manager was Miller Huggins.

And the frail-appearing chap was Rogers Hornsby, who today—nine years later—ranks as one of the greatest batters in all baseball history.

That's the early major league story of Rogers Hornsby.

CANADIENS DEFEAT HAMILTON TERRORS

Qualified Now For Position in Eliminations For Championship.

MONTREAL, March 10. — Canadian Press).—The Canadiens qualified for position in the National Hockey League elimin ions for the championship when they won their final scheduled game here last night, defeating the leagues' leaders. Hamilton terrors by 4 to 1.

Howie Morenz and Odie Cleghorn were responsible for the Canadiens goals after scintillating effo ts, Morenz in particular being brilliant as he flashed about the ice to bring his tally for the evening up to three goals.

OTTAWA SENATORS WON FINAL GAME

Boston Bruins Hard Losers and Game Ended in Near Riot.

BOSTON, March 10. — (Canadian Press).—Ottawa Senators outclassed Boston Bruins in the final game of the National Hockey League season here last night, trimming the locals by 4 to 1 with plenty to spare. It was an uninteresting contest for the most part, but there were possibilies of trouble throughout.

In the last minutes of the game bad blood that had been apparent from the outset resulted in a near riot. Hitchman and Hooley Smith dropped their sticks after a collision near the Bruins' goal and went at it with their fists. Two teams joined in, and Referee La Flamme was surrounded by a seething mob of players. It looked for a time as if the spectators would take a hand, but peace was restored without serious trouble.

TERSE TIPS ON SPORT

Since the termination of the World War every boxing title has changed hands at least once with the single exception of that of the lightweight division. And the 133-pound class is due for a new king, following the retirement of Benny Leonard.

The bantam section has seen the most number of changes—six. Then come the light heavyweight and featherweight with three apiece. The middleweight and welterweight have had two new crown-wearers and the heavyweight and flyweight sections one each.

Jack Dempsey now rates as the longest champion, having held the honors since his sensational defeat of Jess Willard in 1919.

Ottawa and Hull Are Agog Over Announcement—to Produce Newsprint.

OTTAWA, March 10 (Canadian Press).—The Capital and Hull are all agog over the announcement by the International Paper Company of its plans for the acquisition and development of the Riordon and Gatineau properties, and for the building of a large newsprint mill at Chelsea, about 12 miles from here, on the Quebec side of the river.

CAMPBELLFORD TO ENTER TEAM

Trent Town Will Have Baseball Nine in Northumberland League.

OTHERS EXPECTED.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10.—Campbellford will have a team in the Northumberland Baseball League again this season, with a number of veterans of the past two seasons and some promising young players in the line-up. C. H. Davidson will be the manager again. A meeting for organization will be held in a short time. The other teams expected to enter the league are Rosencath, winners of the championship cup last year; Hastings, second in the race; Colborne, Brighton and Warkworth. Last year the players of Warkworth and Orland amalgamated, with headquarters in the latter place, but it is expected that the games will be played in Warkworth.

HOBBS SENTENCED.

Gets Two Years in Prison With Hard Labour.

LONDON, March 10. — William Hobbs, lawyer's clerk, accused of attempted fraud in connection with the famous "Mr. A." case, yesterday was found guilty by a jury here.

He was sentenced to two years' imprisonment at hard labour.

He had been on trial for two weeks, charged with having cashed a cheque alleged to have been received from Hari Singh, who was "Mr. A." secured in the extortion scheme of which the Indian potentate was the centre.

Wolf's Love Of Radio Led To Its Being Shot

HUNTSVILLE, Ont., March 10 (Canadian Press).—Thomas Hungerford, of Fox Point, shot a large timber wolf on Saturday last. The animal had wandered into the yard of Joseph Tapley, supposedly attracted by music from Mr Tapley's radio. It stood for some time near the radio aerial pole listening to the music.

Mr. Hungerford was notified by telephone from the Tapley house and followed the animal into a nearby thicket, where he dispatched it.

ENDED HIS LIFE WITH RIFLE BULLET

Business Failed and Game of Solitaire Decided His Fate.

DETROIT, March 10 (Canadian Press).—Turn of cards in a melancholy game of solitaire decided James H. Walker to end his life, it was believed yesterday by police who found his body in the Roosevelt Hotel.

Walker was a member of an old Virginia family.

Walker who had received a letter stating his automobile accessory business had failed at St. Joseph, Missouri, was found sprawled across the table littered with cards, whose arrangement indicated that he had lost a solitaire game. He was dead from the bullet of a .22 calibre rifle.

FIRST FUNERAL HE SAW COST HIM $4

Regina Man Crossed Procession—Fined in Court.

REGINA, Sask., March 10.—Solmon Koblinsky saw a funeral for the first time in his life last Wednesday, though he has lived in Canada twenty-five years, and the first view cost him more than four dollars—two dollars as a court fine and the remainder in costs.

Koblinsky yesterday asked the court's forgiveness for driving his horse and sleigh through the centre of the procession. He explained that he had lived on a farm near Tribune, Sask., for the past fourteen years and had never seen a funeral procession before.

"There seems to be such an awful lot of cars in Regina; it all looks like a procession to me—and I though I had waited long enough for that one, and dodged through the opening," he said.

The court believed him.

RICE LAKE TRAFFIC BUSIEST OF WINTER

Cars and Sleighs Travel Over Ice to the Highway.

BALLIEBORO, March 9. — Although the weather continues mild, still the ice on Rice Lake is exceptionally good. During the past week there has been more traffic on the lake that there has been all the rest of the winter.

Farmer have been hauling huge loads of logs to Smith's saw mill at Bewdley, and besides there has been a great deal of other traffic. On Thursday Mr. Norman Thompson took his summer's ice out.

The motor cars still continue to travel the lake in numbers. It is a splendid outlet for the farmers at the lower end of the township, who cannot get their cars through the snow banks out to the highway, as they can get to the lake and drive to Bewdley, where they can get on the Provincial highway and get to either Port Hope or Peterboro, or wherever their destination may be.

Personal Mention.

Mr. Jos. Lang received word on Sunday last that his mother, Mrs. Wm. Lang, of Oxbow, Saskatchewan, was seriously ill. Mr. Long left at once for the west. His mother lived until Thursday of last week, when she passed away after a lingering illness. The late Mrs. Lang's body will be brought east to be buried. Interment will take place from the residence of her son to the Baptist burial ground here on Monday, March 9th.

Miss Viola White has been the guest of her uncle, Mr. Robt. Johnston, of Peterborough, during the past couple of weeks.

Miss Mildred White has been a guest of her cousin, Miss Verna Fell of Peterborough, during the past week.

Mrs. W. H. Hibbard has been visiting friends in Peterboro for the past week.

Mr and Mrs. Jno. Kerr, formerly of Ballieboro, are the guests of friends in Peterborough, on their way back to the west after having spent the winter in the old country. Many of their relatives from here went to the city to see them on Saturday.

The U.F.O. Club of South Monaghan shipped two carloads of cattle and hogs from Fraserville on Monday last and on Friday they unloaded a huge car of salt. The car was quickly unloaded, and the secretary found that there was not sufficient salt to supply the people of the community.

The members of the Anglican church are preparing to stage a splendid play some time in the near future.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Dont' bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

CANADIAN ACTRESS CALLED SECOND SARAH BERNHARDT

Mlle. Antoinette Giroux of Montreal Finds Important Place in Famous French Theatre L'Odeon—Has Extraordinary Capacity for Portraying Emotional Roles.

COUSIN IN PETERBORO

MONTREAL, March 10.—Mlle. Antoinette Giroux, who is perhaps the only French-Canadian actress who has found an important place in the famous French theatre, L'Odeon, was born in Montreal 24 years ago and is considered by eminent connoisseurs to be one of the rising Canadian artists of today.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Giroux, of 1471 St. Denis street, Montreal, Mlle. Antoinette started her stage career at the age of seven, when she played children's parts at the old Canadian Francaise, Nationale Francais and the Academy of Music. Later on, after she had completed her education, she appeared at the Orpheum and St. Denis theatres, and her historic skill soon won for her leading roles in French stock companies of that city. She is a cousin of G. H. Giroux of Peterborough.

Slim, slightly below medium height, a brunet, spiritual in type, Miss Giroux bears a striking resemblance to Bernhardt, in her youth, in some of the roles she has essayed. From an early age she manifested an extraordinary capacity for mastering and portraying very involved emotional roles, and many recall with amazement her wonderful portrayal of a role in L'Aiglon, which expert critics declared to be the equal of that of several actresses with established reputations.

She has appeared in quite a number of the roles made famous by Bernhardt, for her strong point is emotional acting and tragic roles. She did not, however, confine her work to this class of play, for in 1920, while associated with M. Beckman, she played the chief role in Maurice Donnay's subtle comedy 'Eux." In a critique of her work at the time S. Morgan Powell wrote that this was a play that required a keen sense of comedy values, and a histrionic skill to understand, also the supreme significance of restraint rightly exercised at the psychological moment. Mlle. Antoinette shows exceptional comedy skill.

A year and a half ago Mlle. Giroux was awarded the first scholarship given by the Quebec provincial government for the study of dramatic art in Paris, and left Montreal at the end of October, 1923 for a three year's course under Professor Denis Dines, of the Comedie Francaise. Last November she played two or three roles in Brussels with Dines and her progress in her studies was so good that she was evamined by M. Janier of L'Odeon Theatre and made her debut last evening at the second largest threatre in the world in the character of Aline in Jean Richipin's "Le Chemineau.' Later she will take the leading role in "L'Arlesienne," and follow this with "Sapho.'

Neither of her parents have been connected with the theatrical profession, but her sister, Germaine, had been with the French-Canadian stock company at the Canadienne Francaise for several years. Mlle. Giroux was in Montreal at Christmas on a visit to her parents.

CORBETT TO BE LECTURER.

Fighter, Actor and Author, Now 59, Predicts 20-Year Career.

NEW YORK, March 10.—James J. Corbett, once heavyweight champion of the world, then an actor, and recently the writer of an autobiography which won considerable attention, is going on the lecture platform. "Gentleman Jim" announced that his first appearance would be before the Union League Club of Detroit, March 11. Engagements in other cities will follow. He will tell of his ring experiences and counsel men on how to keep fit. He is 59 years old.

MILLBROOK 'SPIEL STOPPED BY THAW

Three Games Are Still to be Played in Consolation Series.

MILLBROOK, March 10. — The soft weather has interrupted the bonspiel in progress on the local ice during the past week.

The results so far are:

G. Raper	G. Reynolds
R. Hutchison	W. E. Ball
J. Lancashire	W. E. Ball
R. H. Edmunds	J. Steele
Skip 10	Skip 8
C. Thorndyke	F. Russell
W. Whyte	G. E. Burnham
A. McCorry	E. C. Richards
A. A. Smith	H. B. Allen
Skip 8	Skip 11

The winners in this round, Edmunds and Allen, played off, the resulting score being 13 to 8 in favour of Edmunds.

W. Thorne	P. Stinson
J. A. Vance	H. Collins
H. J. Grassett	Ross Edmunds
John Allen	W. T. Wood
Skip 12	Skip 10

R. H. Edmunds and John Allen played off, the former winning by a score of 12 to 8, his rink becoming winners of the first prize.

In the Consolation, the results to date are:

A. A. Smith and J. Steele 12 and 8 respectively; H. B. Allen and W. T. Wood 10 and 6, in the order named.

V. C. Lambert	J. R. Eakins
T. H. Bradley	Russell Smith
W. G. Hetherington	L. C. Russell
J. N. McGill	G. W. Sayles
Skip 11	Skip 8

Three games in this class are yet to be played if the weather turns cold enough to furnish ice to complete the bonspiel. The prizes will be presented the same evening the Allen Cup is given into the keeping of Skip G. W. Sayles, whose rink has won it for the current year.

INDIAN RIVER WINS.

Beat North Douro 3-2 in a Close Game on Soft Ice.

North Douro hockey team invaded Indian River on March 6, and took home the short end of a 3-2 score in a fast game with the Indian River team. George Heffernan was the star of the visitors, but the home team watched him so closely that he was unable to get away. William Hayes in goal played a great game, saving a great many hard shots. Frank O'Brien was the marksman for the Indian River team, scoring all three goals. The teams:

North Douro—Goal, W. Hayes; defence, Heffernan and W. Whibbs; forwards, L. Allen, J. Allen and E. Allen; subs., Condon, T. Whibbs and R. Whibbs.

Indian River—Goal, Tighe; defence, Fitzgerald and F. Bolton; forwards, O'Brien, A. Carlow and Tedford; subs., E. Carlow and H. Bolton.

Referee—R. Darling.

RALEIGH UP TO DATE.

Sir Walter Laid His Coat Over Mud—Different Nowadays.

The gutter was running full of melted snow. The flood at the corner was too wide for the girl of the pair to jump. Would she, shod with silk and daintiness, wade boldly in? She would not. She didn't have to.

As they came to the brink of the flood the young man planted his foot in middle of it. She, using his shoe as a stepping stone, made the curbstone dry-foot in two flying leaps, and the pair went swinging on.

Army Reservations May Be Turned Into Parks

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 10 (Associated Press).—Data on state parks in the south and plans of various states for development and maintenance of systems of state recreations grounds are being gathered for the National Conference on State Parks by Raymond H. Torrey, field secretary of the organization. This information is to be used in advising other states of the ways and means used in establishing, maintaining and administering state park systems.

Mr. Torrey, speaking of his labors, declared that one of the objects of the survey wes to induce states in which are located military reservation which the Unitel States war department wishes to dispose of, to take over these tracts of outdoor recreation purposes. There are many such tracts, he said.

The National Conference on State Parks is composed of executives, technical experts and supporters of state park systems from states which already have public outdoor recreation spots.

GIRLS' COATS LIKE MEN'S.

PARIS, March 10.—It is becoming hard to distinguish between yong men and young women who play the races at the Parisian race track, because the new spring coat worn by girls who set out to lead in fashionable attire might have been made for men.

The coats are cut on even more severe lines than the classic tailor-mades. Usually in light materials, these coats have the regulation slit up the back and capacious side pockets. Some of them are reported to have tail pockets. They are made to hang loosely so as to permit perfect fredom of movement. The coats, nevertheless, have a certain smartness, depending on the art of the tailor who made them.

Beauty

A Gleamy Mass of Hair

35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through the hair. The effect is startling! You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears Get a bottle of delightful, refreshing "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair becomes.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

WINTER GARDEN VANITIES.

The Grand is offering its patrons a diversified and entertaining programme this week in the appearance here of the Winter Garden Vanities, a revue company headed by a pair of very amusing comedians in Mac Parker and Jimmy Taylor, assisted by a caste of capable principals and a lively chorus. "The Girl With the Wink" was the title of last night's revue and it will be repeated to-night and to-morrow night, while on Thursday there will be a complete change of programme. The Vanities production is for fun purposes only. There are no problems to worry over— just one hundred and fifty minutes of comedy, music, dancing and vaudeville. Messrs. Parker and Taylor proved themselves to be a pair of hard-working comedians with a line of chatter that drew many a laugh from last night's large audience, in fact the "customers," as Raymond Hitchcock used to delight to call them, had a field night. The plot of course, was attentuated, but it served its purpose of providing plenty of opportunity for comedy, while musical numbers and specialties were lavishly introduced. Bob Cook, the juvenile, sang well and was a big help to the comedians.

Miss Flo Marsh did nicely in the soubrette part and Miss Hamilton also scored. Clever acrobatic and contortionist specialties were introduced by P. Huff, while another big feature was the great trunk mystery, in which a young lady is tied in a sack with her hands tied behind her back, placed in a trunk that is securely fastened and in a few seconds re-appears before the audience, while the trunk is found to contain the magician himself. The transformation was accomplished at mystifying speed.

There was a wealth of musical numbers, the most popular being "The Pal That I Loved" and the inevitable "I Wonder What Has Become of Sally."

The chorus, eight in number, did some sprightly dancing and their singing was above the average.

All in all the Winter Garden Vanities offer a lively and entertaining programme and should attract big crowds to the Grand for the balance of the week.

AT THE REGENT

"MARRIED FLIRTS" PROVES FINE FILM

New Robert Vignola Production Provides Great Entertainment.

Have you ever seen a picture and felt every minute that you were living it, Has a production ever carried you away with its realism and even tempo and left you with an impression as vivid as though it were chapter out of your own life?

'Married Flirts," the Metro-Goldlwyn-Mayer Production which opened at the Regent Theatre, Tuesday, and Wednesday, is such a screen drama.

As someone said, it is not the eternal triangle, but the unending quadrangle.

There are four principals. A husband and wife, Nelly and Pen Wayne. They are happily married comfortably so at least, and she loses sight of the fact that she is growing fat and slovenly and he all unconsciously has fallen under the spell of a girl many years his junior.

The Love Poacher.

This girl, fearful of showing too soon her regard for a gay young bachelor, turns to poaching on an other woman's preserves.

Nelly comes to an awakening, pleads with the girl, Jill Wetherell, for the return of her husband and receives only an insolent reply.

A divorce, follows, after yhich Pen discovers he doesn't care to marry Jill and she realizes she never has loved him and so elopes with the real man of her choice, Perley Rex.

To tell the story makes it sound trite. To see it presents a living picture of realness and for sets and beauty it stands in a class by itself.

Pauline Frederick Splendid

Pouline Frederick as Nelly Wayne gives a vital performance. Conrad Nagel as Perley Rex is handsome fascinating and real. Huntly Gordon is perfectly cast as Pen Wayne and brings another character to the screen similar to those he presented in "The Famous Mrs. Fair," and "The Dangerous Age." And Mae Busch as Jill Wetherell gives a tremendous performance.

Direction credit goes to Robert G. Vignola and it should mean real feather in his cap to have produced such a human picture. Oliver Marsh as chief cinematographer got some effects.

AT THE CAPITOL

THOMAS MEIGHEN STAR IN LAST MACFARLANE NOVEL.

The Paramount picture, 'Tongues of Flame," starring Thomas Meighen, is the feature at the Capitol Theatre to-day.

"Tongues of Flame" is the last novel by the late Peter Clark Macfarlane. It's a full-sized thriller with the star in his finest role in months. The picture more than proves that Meighen's name outside of any theatre is a guarantee of money's worth entertainment within.

Tom is sure there when it comes to virile, two-fisted 'he-man" characters. And 'Tongues of Flame" is Meighen at his best.

Joseph Henabery who made Valentino's "A Sainted Devil,' directed the picture which tells of a grasping capitalist who uses every underhanded means imaginable to swindle a group of Indians out of their valuable reservations. Meighen, playing "Hell Fire" Harrington, veteran of the Great War, in the employ of the swindler is used as a tool in the transaction until he is brought to a realizaiton of what is going on.

The Indians, many of whom had served in Harrington's company in the World War, come to him with their troubles. Their spokesman, Lahleet, a little Indian girl school teacher who worships Harrington from afar, tells the young lawyer that her people have need of his services. It is then that 'Hell Fire" shows how he got his name.

Action? Tons of it!

Heart-appeal, Heaps of it!

Gripping drama? You said it!

HEART AND SOUL IN DOUG'S NEW FILM

In "The Thief of Bagdad" there has ben realized the most extraordinary happenings, so amazing that the thought of picturing them had not heretofore been thought possible In this picture, founded upon the Arabian Nights, Douglas Fairbanks seems pretty nearly to have covered the universe, both of fact and fancy. There will be discovered in it scenes under the sea, on the earth, and in the air—including many imaginary places that exist only in fantastic dreams. It has been said that when Mr. Fairbanks, as the Thief of Bagdad, sails the Magic Carpet, you shout; that when he rides the Winged Horse in the clouds, you laugh; that when he kills a dragon, you applaud; that when he wears the Invisible Cloak, you cheer; that when he raises the Magic Army, you gasp; that when he wins the Princess, you sigh—as well might be expected under the circumstances.

There have been such wild and prevaricating statements as to the cost of the making of pictures—a few millions more or less, not being thought worthy of consideration—that Mr. Fairbanks has refrained from disclosing any figures as to "The Thief of Bagdad." Were they known, however, the cost of this picture would seem beyond belief. With "The Thief of Bagdad,' or indeed with any picture, it is not a question, however, of how much it cost, but what intelligence was put in it; what has been achieved! Flaunting the cost of a picture is very often a mere ruse to cover up an absence of imagination in the making of it. The cost, after all, is nothing; the heart and soul that went into the picture is everything. "The Thief of Bagdad" has a heart and a soul! Therein lies its greatness.

The more important members of the cast are Julanne Johnston, formerly a member of the famous Morgan Dancers, who impersonates the Princess; So-Jin Kamayama, imported from Japan, where he has been the leading Shakespearean actor, who impersonates the Mongol Prince. Anna May Wong, a charming little Chinese flapper, is seen in the part of the slave. Snitz Edwards, is the Thief's evil associate; Brandon Hurst is the Caliph.

AT THE ROYAL

A REAL MYSTERY FOUND AT LAST.

"Girl on the Stairs," Starring Patsy Ruth Miller, Has Lots of Thrills.

Mystery that mystifies throughout, dramatic situations that hold the spectator's unwavering attention, interspersed with delightful comedy bits combine to make "The Girl On the Stairs," which opened at the Royal Theatre yesterday, a thoroughly worth while motion picture. The play is an Elmer Harris production with pretty Patsy Ruth Miller starred and the story is an original treatment by Harris of Winston Bouve's magazine story.

The story has for its heroine a young girl somnambulist who is accused of a murder committed during one of her sleep walking strolls.

To tell the outcome of the story would be to deprive future spectators of the thrill that was accorded the writer on witnessing the picture last evening. But suffice it to say that the story is told in a thoroughly logical manner and brought to a satisfactory and logical close.

The cast that surrounds Miss Miller is a good one. Niles Welch makes a good-looking and convincing character of the defence attorney, the girl's sweetheart. Freeman Wood is at his best as the villainous Wakefield. Arline Pretty appears to advantage as Wakefield's wife while two other important roles are capably handled by Bertram Grassby and Freeman Wood.

Technically, "The Girl on the Stairs" is without fault. Great care is revealed in the manner in which the court room and prison scenes were handled.

The shorter subjects are unusually interesting. The "Sport Review" shows us a day in the life of a West Point Cadet. The Hodge Podge takes us around the world in fifteen minutes. Two comedies, one a travesty on Benjamin Franklin discovering electric, the other the troubles of a man forced to eat all his meals in an automatic restaurant.

FREE BICYCLE CONTEST AT ROYAL.

Two bicycles will be given away free at the Royal in the near future. Boys and girls from 12 to 15 who desire to enter the contest are advised to call at the Royal for particulars after school.

ACTRESSES MUST BE HARDY IN WESTERNS.

Gladys Hulette and Gertrude Astor Play in Gibson Film.

Selecting actresses for a location trip with a western company involves something more than adaptability for the part, and more than one director of Westerns has found his filming work greatly handicapped by the inability of the leading woman to adapt herself to rough conditions.

Frequently western companies are on location for two months, and sometimes more, and in consequence the casting director uses extreme care in selecting the women members of the company to play this Henry Herbert Knibbs' story.

However, Gladys Hulette and Gertrude Astor, the feminine part of "The Ridin' Kid From Powder River," Universal - Hoot Gibson production to be shown in the Royal Theatre commencing Thursday, are seasoned campaigners so far as wild environment is concerned for both have been on many a location trip in the mountains or on the desert and each says that she finds much enjoyment on such trips, to say nothing of the relief that comes from not having to work all day in evening gowns or other habiliments of an ultra civilization screen story.

"The Ridin' Kid From Powder River" is one of the most typical Western vehicles in which Hoot has been starred for a long time. The story is based on certain historical episodes of the South-West at a time when the first of those hardy men who saw a future in the agricultural possibilities of the country came in contact against the violent opposition of the cattlemen who realized that the invader constituted a threat against the privileges of the open range.

The story is replete with thrilling adventure, wild riding, and also carries a charming love interest. Others in the supporting cast are Tully Marshall, Walter Long, William A. Steele, Sydney Jordan, Howard Truesdell, Frank Rice, Bowditch Turner and Newton House; under Edward Sedgwick's direction.

TAX RATE DOWN TO FIFTY MILLS

Meaford Thinks Itself Lucky —Fishing Cup is Part of Expense.

DEVELOP RESORT.

MEAFORD, March 10.—Meaford's tax rate for 1925 was struck by the Town Council last night at 50 mills on the dollar, a reduction of three mills from last year. The rate included 18.5 for public and high schools and 31.5 for general and debenture purposes. Included in the school rates is 1.5 mills for debentures on the $35,000 addition to the high school put up last fall, which is returnable from the county in January next.

Another important matter discussed was brought up by the Board of Trade's application for a grant of $300 for the current year. The board has a silver cup open for competition each year for the tourist catching the largest salmon trout on a troll in Meaford Bay. This cup has been won by tourists from Hamilton, London, Peterboro and Owen Sound.

Through the activities of the board the sale has been made recently of 32 summer resort lots here at Sunnyside Beach to tourists from Detroit. Indications are that the shores of Meaford Bay will be more than ever a summer resort this year.

"Orphans of the Storm" Applies to Union Antis

TORONTO, March 10. — On frequent occasions the present Church Union controversy has been referred to as "a storm."

Last Sunday many Kew Beach "Antis" must have smiled at a certain coincidence.

Since the vote went against them, they have been worshipping in the Family Theatre and they were somewhat amused when, on Sunday, they found it announced, both outside and inside the theatre, that the picture to be shown there next week would be "Orphans of the Storm."

They disclaim any responsibility for inspiring the showing of this film.

FARMER BURNED.

Injuries So Severe He Cannot Be Moved to Hospital.

WOODSTOCK, March 10.—Earl W. Ross, West Zorra farmer, who was severely burned at his home near Embro on Saturday when his stove exploded after he had placed coal oil on it, was reported to be at the home of a neighbour in a very serious condition, with terrible burns on his face and neck and one leg.

His condition is too serious to permit him to be moved to a hospital.

In the fire, his house was entirely destroyed.

DOMINION FACES BRIGHT FUTURE

Sir George Paish, World's Greatest Economist, Sees Bright Omen.

PRICE OF WHEAT.

'When wheat and hides are high, business is good'— such was the homely maxim of tradesmen in the days of Canada's infancy.

In Toronto yesterday was a man of great repute, who expressed in different words, almost that very sentiment. Sir George Paish, probably the world's greatest economist, referred more than once, in addresses and interviews, to the 'high price of wheat." Not only did he proclaim it as a fact of the moment he saw in its probable permanence a bright omen for Canada.

This Dominion, said Sir George already produced much wheat; it could produce more. The world, slowly returning to sanity, was crying for food. Were reasonable credit provided, the market for wheat was illimitable—and highly profitable. The opportunity about to dawn for producing nations was epochal— and Canada was bound to share therein.

BURGLAR GOT AWAY.

Hard Luck Story Fooled Victim Into Letting Him Escape.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Mar. 10. —Sympathy predominating over his better judgment, Jack Keith, son of Dr. J. P. Keith, 172 Spring st., who discovered a burglar in his bedroom, allowed the intruder to escape the grasp of the police.

Keith found the door of the house open, and suspected that some one had entered. A quick search revealed the uninvited guest behind the door in his own room.

The burglar put up a hard-luck story, begged for leniency, and he was allowed to go. Since then a number of articles have been found missing.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR
A sailor, returning from abroad had a parrot for sale. A prospective buyer enquired if it could talk; he answered, "No," but it was a devil to think. Some years ago, I saw a theatrical poster, on it the picture of a man and underneath were the words, "Agitate you devil, agitate."

It is all right to think, but if we do not make known the result of our thinking, by word of mouth or pen, our thinking will not have much effect upon our fellow man. And merely repeating, words, phrases, sayings, and ideas of others, without regard to their value is of little good. A repetition of certain truth is oftimes necessary, in agitating for truth. We call the reader's attention to Satan's colossal lie, "thou shalt not surely die." All normal people desire life. No doubt it is pleasing to many to try and make themselves believe that when they die, they do not die, but are more alive than ever. The Apostle Paul said. "If there was no resurrection, that those who had fallen asleep (died) had perished. To perish is to come to nothing, as far as life is concerned. Nothing has no properties. To those who love life, to all bereaved ones, to all who mourn from any cause, I bring this glad message. "As in Adam all die, so in Christ shall all be made alive." Jesus the great "life giver" will deliver all, who through fear of death were all their life time subject to bondage.

City Council Asks Installation on Elcome Crescent and East City.

ADD TO STAFF.

The regular meeting of the Utilities Commission was held yesterday afternoon. They returned the lease of their offices submitted by the City Trust for more information as to what was covered by the lease. The report of the chairman and the accountant that the permanent staff was not large enough was adopted and Miss Cumming, who had been temporarily employed was added to the permanent list.

A letter was read from the City Clerk expressing the satisfaction of the Council with the new lights installed north of Smith Street and requesting installation of similar lights on Water Street and Elcome Crescent, and in East City.

The waterworks superintendant, R. L. Dobbin was authorized to obtain prices on a water meter tester.

TOMB OF PHARAOH 4,000 YEARS B.C.

Thought to Have Been Discovered by the Boston Harvard Expedition.

LONDON, March 10. —(Canadian Press).—Egyptologists here agreed that if the tomb found by the Boston Harvard Expedition deep down in the rocks near the Great Pyramid at Gisa proves to be that of the Pharaoh, who immediately preceded the renowned pyramid builder, Cheops, its importance is greater than that of Tut-Ankh-Amen, because it is some thousands of years older, and its contents may throw light upon that remote period, about which very little is known.

Pharaoh Seneferu, whose name is variously spelled by English Egyptologists, was the first king of the fourth dynasty, about 4,000 B. C. While Tut-Ankh-Amen reigned as late as 13 dynasty. History of which is fairly familiar. Moreover Tut-Ankh-Amen was relatively an unimportant King, while Seneferu was remarked as one of the founders of the Egyptian Empire, and a man of great enterprise and energy.

Cairo dispatches yesterday, telling of the discovery said the Sarcophague had been unearthed intact, with much funeral furniture inside. Near the Sarcophagus, which was a large one of marble, with gold decorated columns and resting upon what seemed to be its plate, was the seal of Seneferu.

PETERSON CONTRACT CONDEMNED BY CONSERVATIVES' AMENDMENT PROPOSING EMPIRE CONFERENCE

Debate on Agreement by Government Based on the W.T.R. Preston Report.

EMPIRE CONTROL.

Gen. J. A. Clark Says Pacific Ports Discriminated Against —Rates Burdensome.

OTTAWA, March 11 (Canadian Press). — In resuming the adjourned debate on the agreement between the Government and Sir William Petersen, providing for the annual payment of a subsidy, in the House of Commons yesterday, Brig.-Gen. J. A. Clark (Conservative, Burrard) criticised the terms of the contract entered into.

General Clark ventured the opinion that Sir William Petersen had already escaped any liability in the matter as there was nothing in the contract to prevent him from making any assignment so as to protect himself. The Government, he considered, should have had inserted a provision whereby it would have close scrutiny over any company to which this subsidy might be assigned.

General Clark prophesied that any company to which this contract might be assigned would not succeed. Why, he asked, should any company build ships when according to Lloyd's, six million tons of shipping were already idle? Why should the Government permit taxpayers' money to go to the building of ships outside this country—the Petersen Company could build them in Germany if they wanted to—said Gen. Clark.

The Prime Minister said the Government was not giving Sir William Petersen money to build ships. In return for the right to fix rates, money would be paid to Sir William Petersen only after service was performed.

Government's 60 Ships.

The Canadian Government Merchant Marine had 60 ships totalling 360,00 tons ,said Mr. Clark.

"They are no good," said the Prime Minister.

"I have been assured by shipping men that these ships are good," said Mr. Clark. On the Pacific Coast the Merchant Marine ships were coming and going with full cargoes. The Pacific Coast was not mentioned in the contract, and it was discrimination against the Western route and the Pacific Coast for which the Prime Minister must be held responsible.

Premier King pointed out that the Government was free to make a similar contract with any other country.

If the contract was good, why was it not made with the Government Merchant Marine also, asked Mr. Clark.

"We will wait and see how this works out," said the Prime Minister.

Flaws in Report.

General Clark quoted seven statements from the Preston report which showed, he said, that it might just as well be thrown in the scrap-basket. If there was rate discrimination against Canadian ports, why did American wheat go through the ports of Canada, he asked. He observed that the Government had made no provision for saving Vancouver from the alleged rate discrimination, and remarked that it was another case of the West being "given the go-by" by this Government In regard to the charge that Canada's cattle trade was being killed by high ocean freight rates, he stated that the tragedy of the Alberta cattle trade was largely due to the Fordney Tariff. He paid a tribute to the British mercantile marine, declaring that it had made it possible for Canada to become the fifth or sixth exporting country.

Proposes Empire Control.

If rates were to be controlled, they should be controlled after conference between all parts of the Empire, said General Clark. There was no use in "shooting with a pea-shooter," as this Government proposed to do. The only control worth while was Empire control.

He concluded by moving the following amendment:

"That effective control of ocean rates can be exercised only with the co-operation of all portions of the Empire, and by a body on which all are presented ,and that the contract made by the Government with Sir William Petersen,

STUDENTS OF LATIN QUARTER IN UPROAR

Resented Promotion of Professor—Routed by Police.

PARIS, March 11.—Paris' Latin quarter is in a state of effervescence following a demonstration organized by students of the university's faculty of law, against Professor Georges Scelle. The latter, who is the Minister of Labor's principal secretary, has just been named to the chair of international law, an appointment which the students resent, claiming it was made over the head of another professor and that the appointee was chosen by the faculty for political reasons.

Professor Scelle was to have delivered his first lecture Monday afternoon, but as soon as he appeared in the door of the lecture hall, he was greeted with such a storm of howls from the assembled 700 students, male and female, that he beat a hasty retreat and informed Dean Barthelemy, who sent for the police. One hundred and fifty policemen responded to the call and their appearance on the scene so exasperated the students that they proceeded systematically to wreck the hall. They were dislodged by the police after a short tussle. The students charge that several of the policemen used unnecessary violence and that they burst into they hall carrying revolvers..

FAMILIES FOR WEST.

Several Hundred For Alberta Farms.

EDMONTON, Alta., March 11. — (Canadian Press).—At least two hundred of the three thousand families to be brought out under the British Empire settlement scheme this year will be placed on Central and Northern Alberta farms.

Just when the new settlers will arrive is not yet definitely known, but it probably will be in the course of the next few weeks.

Already farms have been secured for every family in the quota mentioned, and arrangements are being made to look after the immigrants immediately upon their arrival.

ALLIED MILITARY MISSIONS REPORT WOULD ENDANGER GERMAN PACIFISTS

Would Be Exposed to Prosecution By German Government—To Remain Secret — Await German Decision on Entering League.

PARIS, March 11. — (Canadian Press).—The report of the Allied Military Control Mission on its findings in Germany would, if published, expose German Pacifists to prosecution by the Government of the Reich, it is thought in Allied circles, and the opinion was expressed Tuesday that it would be kept secret.

The British viewpoint ,as expressed by the British Foreign Secretary, Austen Chamberlain, to Premier Herriot while on his way to Geneva, is that nothing more could ever be done in the way of ferreting out illicit manufacture of arms in Germany if the present report were published.

The whole matter of the Cologne evacuation, it is now anticipated in diplomatic circles, will await the decision of Germany whether or not she wants to go into the League of Nations.

The question involves two points namely, the evacuation of the Cologne Bridgehead and transfer of the military control in Germany from the Allied mission to a league organization. France and Belgium are not inclined to favor this transfer in view of the late discoveries by the control mission unless Germany becomes a member of the League, and is thus immediately amenable to League discipline.

ELDER PRAYED BUT GIRL DIED

Christian Scientist Practitioner Had Been Invited by Family of Child.

FATHER'S FAITH.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 11.—Sharp verbal exchanges between Defence and Crown Counsel, featured the second day of the trial of William Elder, Christian Science practitioner, charged with manslaughter, in connection with the death of Doreen Watson, 12 years old, last November.

Reference to the teaching of Christian Science as a faith drew strong objection from John Allan, Deputy Attorney-General, who is prosecuting. He held it was not right to enter into the merits of religious teaching as accepted by this sect.

Mrs. R. Watson, mother of the girl, testified that Elder had been asked to pray for the child during her illness. Her conditions had become aggravated and Mrs. Watson said she suggested a medical doctor be consulted. Up to that time she had not known what ailed her daughter. She had never seen a case of diphtheria and she had faith in Mr. Elder, who she declared, had previously attended her son and brought about his recovery.

Robert Watson, under cross-examination by A. J. Andrews, K.C. counsel for the defence, said that at no time did Elder claim that he possessed medical or surgical knowledge, nor did he ever undertake to administer such treatment

"I believe," said the witness, "that the power of God is all sufficient and there is no bound to his power to heal, when properly entreated."

MADE $35,000 IN JAIL.

But State Board Terminates Prisoner's Profits.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 11. — (Canadian Press).—Burton M. Morgan, under sentence of five years in the State Penitentiary for passing worthless cheques, has netted himself $35,000, through the operation of a mail list agency, which he worked under the approval of the prison warden. Tuesday his business was closed, the State Welfare Board having ordered that he must cease his operations.

The Board expressed its disapproval of any prisoner having outside business connections.

PRISONER ESCAPES.

Asked Leave to Visit the Doctor and Then Disappears.

TORONTO, March 11 (Canadian Press).—Asking leave to visit the doctor in the institution, Joseph Cruso, doing three months' sentence at Toronto Jail Farm at Langstaff, made his escape yesterday evening, and has not yet been recaptured.

Cruso, who has a wife and five children living at Richmond Hill, was convicteld a month ago on the charge of stealing silverware from a Toronto residence.

BANDIT TURNED CROWN WITNESS

EXPECTED MILLION.

MONTREAL, March 11.—The hold up of the mail van and theft of money and securities worth $5,000 on August 5 on St. James Street, was described in the Court of King's Bench yesterday by George Barck, one of the hold up men who has turned King's evidence, and is testifying against N. Goldberg, T. Sandford, G. Rifkin, N. Sylvestre, L. Benson and J. Cittleson, who are charged with the attack. Three other men have already admitted their guilt and will be sentenced later. Barck and another have been granted immunity by the Crown.

The witness told of how the field had been surveyed and arrangement made to "pull the job" on the night of August 4, but a trip to New York by two of the gang had forced its postponement. "Anything up to $1,000,000" was what the plotters expected to get. Barck swore, as he told of the plans being talked over several times. Some of the gang had selected the mail job from a list of prospective holdups and thefts that Barck had listed. On August 5 the robbery was successful. The mail van had been attacked, registered packages stolen, the bags rifled and the cash divided.

COLONEL SURRENDERED.

Charged With Coal Fraud Against Government.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 11. — (Canadian Press).—Lieut.-Col. G. F. C. Poussette, in charge of transport and supplies in Military District No. 10, who, together with George Edwards, chief fireman of Tuxedo Barracks, and Sergeant L. Simpson, who checked the coal received at the barracks, is charged with conspiring with Gerald B. Aldous and Fred. De Sieyes, officials of the Canadian Coal Sales Company, to defraud the Dominion Government, in connection with coal contracts, was surrendered by the military authorities Tuesday after counsel for the Crown had threatened habeas corpus proceedings.

The five accused appeared before Magistrate R. M. Noble in Provincial Police Court yesterday afternoon and the case was remanded for a week.

Bail for Lieut.-Col. Poussette was fixed at $30,000 and he was released.

CREW ESCAPED CRASH.

C.P.R. Freight Wrecked Caboose in Rear End Collision.

REGINA, Sask., March 11.—While a blizzard was raging at Strasbourg, members of a Canadian Pacific Railway freight traiq had a narrow escape from death. They leaped from the caboose as another freight train crashed into the rear of their own. The cabosse was crushed to splinters and two box cars were derailed.

The Regina-Lanigan freight was standing on the main line, when the Regina-Neudorf crashed into it, the crew not knowing the rain in front blocked the line. The second train was to have passed through Strasbourg without stopping.

EULER AGAIN CHAIRMAN.

OTTAWA, March 11. — W. D. Euler (Liberal, North Waterloo) was again elected chairman of the special committee of the House which will consider estimates for the Canadian National Railway in session.

ROAD TO ROUYN TO BE FINISHED NEXT DECEMBER

Estimated Cost of T. N. O. Extension to Quebec Gold Field $1,750000.

WILL RUSH WORK.

Premier Ferguson Expects New Line to be Profitable From Outset.

TORONTO, March 11—(Canadian Press). — Announcement by the Premier that the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railroad would immediately be started, and that the Government, apart from the bill amending the Ontario Temperance Act and the redistribution measure, would introduce all its legislation this week was made in the Legislature Tuesday. The Prime Minister also introdruced a bill which was put through all three readings to protect Wm. Ireland, Chief Conservative whip, and F. C. Biggs, Progressive member for North Wentworth, against the loss of their seats in the Chamber as each had inadvertently accepted money from the Ontario Treasury. H. A. Fisher (Liberal, West Ottawa) continued the budget debate, referring to the price budget as "a liquid budget as all it proposes was a tax on gasoline and beer."

Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer, introduced bills to allow Ontario to enter into an arrangement with Quebec regarding succession duty taxes and fixing the pay to be allowed the auditors working in the departments.

Legitimate Items.

The Premier, introducing his measure for the protection of certain members of the Legislature, said that since Friday Mr. Biggs had informed him that he was in the same position as Mr. Ireland, as he had sold a couple of acres off the front of his farm to the Government for a provincial highway. The sum involved was $300. The Premier reviewed the history of the legislation "making for the independence of the Legislature." He pointed out that limited companies, with a member of the Legislature as a member, could do business with the Government, and that therefore members should not be led astray when they saw the names of Geo. Eccleston (Con., Muskoka), Hon. Jas. Lyons, Minister of Lands and Fores, and Z. Mageau (Lib., Sturgeon Falls) in the public accounts as these actions had been legitimate.

Mr. Raney said he did not doubt the legal right, but thought there might be questions of propriety. Mr. Sinclair, Liberal leader, agreed with this. Mr. Sinclair complained that there were rumors that the Government redistribution bill was ready in detail and that the Government simply proposed to hand it on to the committee as a matter of form but shove it through. The Premier denied this, stating that there had been representations made to the Government from outside and that the House Committee would dea with the bill.

T. and N. O. Extension.

In announcing the extension of the T. and N. O into the Rouyn district in Quebec, the Premier said that the road now had 557 miles of tracks and a total investment of $30,000,000. It was not carrying all its charges but had not been expected to, as it was opening up a country of great wealth. In building the road he said the province was showing no rivalry toward Quebec. The extension, he said, was on the Swastika branch and would be 37 miles long. He pointed out that 90 per cent. of the development work done in the Rouyn had been done by Ontario men.

"The road, it is estimated, will cost $1,750,000, and we hope to make it pay just as soon as it starts operating," said the Premier. "It will be finished by December next."

He informed the House that the contractor would be ordered to put on the maximum number of men in order to get the road built quickly. He understood that a private company had a charter to build from the transcontinental into the Rouyn region but their road could not be completed for a year and a half. He had no objection to any railway building in the district because the more transportation the better.

Budget Debate.

H. A. Fisher, resuming the debate on the budget, said that the present Government did not show itself as friendly to the savings banks. He went over every department showing how the increased revenue had been scured. In the Premier's department it was because the Hydro paid more interest; in the Department of Education, because the Federal Government increased the grants; in Highways, because the normal growth of auto license fees; and in Labor because of the increased payments by municipalities to the mothers' allowances. He thought that nature had helped out the Lands and Forests Department.

FIGURES IN LONDON SCANDAL

LONDON, March 11.—(Canadian Press)—Miss Ian Onslow Dennistoun through her counsel, rested her case against her former husband, Lieut. Col. Dennistoun, shortly after the opening of court to-day in the continuation of the trial of her claim for money she alleges she loaned him prior to their divorce.

A few minutes previous, Sir Edward Hall, counsel for Col. Dennistoun admitted, the validity of the divorce obtained by Mrs Dennistoun in Paris in 1921, after the presiding judge had pointed out that to declare this divorce invalid would open up the question of the subsequent marriage of Col. Dennistoun to the widow of the late Earl of Carnarvon, discoverer of the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen. Col.. Dennistoun's counsel during yesterday's proceedings had maintained that the divorce was not valid.

UNIONISTS NOW CHALLENGED TO CLEAR THE AIR

Make Adequate Provision For Those Who Do Not Agree With Them.

MINORITY RIGHTS.

Should Be Protected Declares R. W. Craig, Attorney-General of Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, March 11 (Canadian Press).—A challenge to Unionist leaders to clear the air with reference to one of the most vital aspects of Church Union legislation was issued last night, when Hon. R. W. Craig, K.C., attorney-general, continued the debate on the second reading of a bill to amend the United Church of Canada Act passed by the House last year. It had been suggested, said Mr. Craig, that when the dust of conflict had blown over Unionists would make some proper and adequate provision for those who did not see eye to eye with them in this matter. If that were the intention, and it was certainly the desire of at least 95 per cent. of those in favor of Union. Then he wanted some responsible leaders of the Union movement to make some authoritative pronouncement to that effect, if not in their representative capacity, then in their personal capacity.

The Marriage Rite.

In connection with the marriage rite and responsibility of ministers in negotiating churches, etc. Mr. Craig said he favored sections of the Bill before the House being changed to provide for the adoption of the principle of legislation enacted in British Columbia, and in the Bill before the Ontario Legislature

It should be made absolutely clear that the rights of minorities would be adequately protected, he declared.

GERMAN EMPRESS NOW.

BERLIN, March 11.—For the first time since she married the exiled kaiser, the former Princess Hermine is signing her letters "Her Majesty, the Kaiserin." The signature was first noticed on a letter of condolence in connection with the mine disaster at Dortmund, which took a toll of 137 lives.

BLAME DEATH OF NORTHCLIFFE ON BUDDHIST CURSE

Third of Party That Outraged Fakir at Sacred Temple Dies.

GIVEN FIVE YEARS.

Mysterious Malady Responsible—Hidden Forces of Orient All Powerful.

PARIS, March 11. — (United Press).—A Buddhist curse resulted in the death of Lord Northcliffe, according to a letter from Saignon, Indo-China, giving the details of the death there in January of Le Journal's globe-trotting correspondent, Andre Tudesq.

"I accompanied Northcliffe and Governor-General Maurice Long on an expedition to the interior," Tudesq wrote to the editor of a Saignon newspaper just before his death. "There we found a sacred temple. A Fakir forbade us to enter, but Northcliffe brushed him aside and we entered and examined a bronze idol.

"A torrent of curses greeted us as we left. The Fakir, praying solemnly, warned us that we should all die within five years.

"Northcliffe toured the world, arrived in England and died in 1922.

"Long started for home in 1924, was stricken on board his steamer, and died in Colombo. My turn has come now. Kipling was right — European science is powerless in the face of the hidden forces of the Orient."

Tudesq, like the two others mentioned, died of a mysterious malady while still in the prime of life.

BLOCK DESTROYED.

Winnipeg Buildings Burned With Loss of $175,000 This Morning.

WINNIPEG, March 11 Canadian Press).—The block occupied by Richard Beliveau Wine Company and Richardson Galleries, 330 Main Street, was destroyed by fire this morning. The loss is estimated at $175,000. The cause of the fire is unknown. The building is owned by Senator Mulholland of Port Hope, Ont.

HOG "SACRIFICE" CASE DEFERRED UNTIL MARCH 17

Whole Countryside Around Wingham Eager to Testify In Nurse's Trial.

UNIQUE CHARGE.

Says God Called Her and Gave Her Directions—Pigs Burned.

STRATFORD, March 11—(Canadian Press).—To be tried on the unique charge, "dangerous to be at large," the case of Mrs. Annie Reynolds (Wallace), who instigated the burning of ten hogs on the farm of Earl Underwood as a burnt offering was adjourned until March 17, when it will be tried in the Town Hall at Wingham, before Magistrate Reed, of Goderich. She appeared yesterday at Wingham but no evidence was taken. She had no attorney, while Charles Seagers, K.C., of Goderich, acted for the Crown. She is out on $1,000 bail until the time of the trial. There is a possibility that charges will be laid against other persons implicated.

There is great interest aroused in the case in the vicinity of Wingham, and the whole countryside is willing and anxious to testify.

The case revolves about a peculiar rite which took place on the Underwood farm. The latter's wife lay at death's door from hemorrhage for 36 hours after the birth of a child. Underwood and Mrs. Anderson, who had attended the woman in child-birth, prayed at the side of her bed until she began to show signs of improvement. So impressed and grateful were Underwood and his wife that they agreed that some sacrifice of gratitude should be made and the hogs were decided upon. The ten animals were shot, a pyre built and the offering burned. Neighbors smelled the burning flesh for some three days, and as a result an investigation was made.

Woman Came From Toronto.

It was three weeks ago that Underwood, expecting his wife's confinement, got in touch, he said, with Pastor O. Crockford, of Faith Tabernacle on Cedarvale Avenue, just off the Danforth, asking him for a nurse. It was in this way that Anna Reynolds arrived at his farm. Last summer Underwood had come under the influence of this sect of faith-healers known as the Faith of the Holy Light. It was through them, he said, that his brother-in-law had been healed of his broken ribs and his mother of cancer, although she died two months after she began her faith cure. He himself had been cured of asthma in the same way and he did not believe in doctors any more. Without a physician these two people attended Mrs. Underwood.

It was the extremely dangerous nature of Mrs. Underwood's condition after the baby had been born that inspired the sacrifice of the pigs according to the story of Anna Reynolds. It was the nurse who suggested the remedy. She talked with Mr. Underwood. "Mr. Underwood said he would never keep another pig," she said. "He told me he could see the devil right in their eye."

As Mr. Underwood described the preliminaries Anna Reynolds had said: "Let me stick the pigs," but he had thought of a more humane way. He suggested shooting them. The nurse had said she would buy them from him and the price decided upon had been $140.

It was on Thursday morning that he had followed her instructions, killing the ten swine which averaged 120 pounds each. They were then drawn out to a field about 200 yards from the barn where an altar was erected according to some descriptions Anna Reynolds had remembered in the Bible. A hole was dug in the ground. A sort of stone oven was built. On fence rails which were across it the animals were piled for the sacrificial blaze. For three days the fires were kept going while the odor of roast pork tantalized the whole neighborhood for more than a mile around the weird pyre.

Arrested and Granted Bail.

The matter was reported to the Crown. After an investigation by a Provincial officer, Anna Reynolds was placed under arrest on a charge of being insane and dangerous to be at large. Both the woman and Underwood appeared before Mayor W. H. Willis of Wingham, on Sunday evening. The young farmer bonded himself for $1,000, that the nurse would appear before court.

Sent to Asylum.

Anna Reynolds said that she was using her maiden name. She has been separated for several years from her husband. For some years

NATIONAL DEBT IS WORRYING ENGLAND

Highest It Has Ever Been Since the Year 1920-21.

(By C. T. Hallinan.)

LONDON, March 11 (United Great Britain's deadweight national debt now stands at roughly $38,860,000,000.

This is the highest it has ever been except for the year 1920-21, when Englishmen saw with horror that it stood at $39,158,750,000. In other words, since then by the heaviest taxation of any civilized country England has been able to reduce its debt by only a paltry $298,000,000, which is nothing at all when one realizes that the interest alone this year will amount to more than six times that.

There was much talk two years ago of a capital levy to lower this debt, but the British Labor party was only half-convinced as to the wisdom of the scheme and made no real attempt to educate the country as to its merits, real or alleged. With the capital levy abandoned, the debt can only be reduced by the old tedious methods of keeping down government expenditures and increasing within certain limits the government revenue, until a surplus is created which can be applied to the reduction of the debt.

Churchill's budget will carry an unseen load of great weight. That unseen item will be the extra load due to the increased value of the pound sterling. Unlike Germany, France and Russia, this country has met its obligations in a slowly rising currency, and Churchill's regime will be marked out probably as the one in which the country found the pound sterling back at par and—ironically enough—the deadweight load of debt that much heavier.

Hats will be thrown in the air when the pound reaches par and sticks there, but the chancellor of the exchequer will not throw his headgear in the air. Others may rejoice, but he knows that his load so to speak, is heavier rather than lighter.

However, he and all the rest of them accept the unseen load with resignation because they know that the country on the whole will benefit from a sound sterling.

Well, there is the debt; what's to be done about it? Some months ago the Labor government then in existence appointed a very able commission to study the national debt and suggest a policy in regard to it.

That commission includes some of the ablest minds in England. It represents all politizal parties and its report should be as free from political bias a sit is humanly possible. In fact, a partisan report or that vexatious combination of a majority and minority report, would cause widespread disappointment because all classes here want the problem solved They want a solution, something which will start them back toward the good old days when the British national debt was a comfortable institution affording unadventurous souls, a safe form of investment. Believing, as all classes here do believe, in a something called "British grit," the public wants to have the road pointed out towards debt reduction and that road will be straightway trod, no matter how rocky and painful!

To get a birdseye glimpse of the present situation, note the main outline of Churchills budget.

For payment of interest on national debt $1,750,000,000
For the maintenance of civil service 1,340,000,000
For naval, military and air service 575,000,000
For pensions, (both war and old age 550,000,000
For all other demands.. 175,000,000

In short, the most crushing item in the whole budget is the upkeep of the national debt.

That's why the forthcoming report of that commission will be a front page affair for many days.

WHITE GLOVES FOR THE JUDGE

Cobourg Assizes Open With Only Civil Cases Set Down For Hearing.

TWO GO ON.

(By a Staff Reoprter.)

COBOURG, March 11. — When Hon. Justice Rose received from Sheriff Nesbitt a present of a pair of white gloves as a token of the fact that there were no criminal cases on the docket of the spring session of the Supreme Court, which opened here on Tuesday afternoon, he found himself confronted with a list of nine important civil suits, five of which called for a trial by jury.

All of the jury cases were actions for damages against the C.N.R., the total amount involved being $55,000. This list, however, was soon reduced to one jury trial and three non-jury hearings, either by the process of elimination or postponement.

Material Witness Sick.

As soon as the Court was ready for business shortly after one o'clock J. P. Pratt of Toronto, who appeared for the railway company, asked that the case of Benn vs. the C.N.R. be put over to the Fall Assizes, stating that the attorneys on both sides had joined in the request. Mr. Pratt produced a medical certificate to the effect that a material witness for the defence was in quarantine for the mumps.

The order asked for was granted.

Clerk Was Injured.

There was the case in which H. Benn, brought suit against the C.N.R. claiming $5,000 damages for personal injuries. Benn, who is a clerk, his home being in Napanee, while on a visit to Cobourg about a year ago, was run down and injured by a C.N.R. train at a crossing in town, and as a result was in hospital for several months. At the time of the accident, plaintiff was riding in a motor bus belonging to Joseph Angin.

Two Cases Settled.

Mr. Pratt, who appeared for the defence in all the actions against the government-owned railway, announced that the cases of Stewart against the C.N.R., and Cambridge against the same company, had been settled out of court for lump sums. As there were more than one plaintiff in each case, the parties interested will divide the amount of damages received by mutual agreement. The cases were accordingly stricken from the docket.

Wellington George Cambridge, Georgina Cambridge, and James Alfred Cambridge, the latter an infant whose interests were guarded by the first-mentioned plaintiff, the boy's father and next friend joined in an action against the C.N.R. for $15,000, claiming damages for injuries received by them and for the death of Morris Wellington Cambridge. An auto in which the persons mentioned was struck by an engine at the village of Newcastle last July, when Morris Wellington lost his life.

Mrs. Sebastian Carruthers Stewart, who was riding in the Cambridge car also lost her life in the same accident, and her husband, who resides in Toronto, sued the railway for $15,000.

Non-Jury Case Settled.

F. D. Boggs K.C., ex-Mayor of Cobourg, who appeared for the plaintiff, announced that the case of Parker vs. McKague had been settled out of court. Kerr and Cochrane also of Cobourg, were for the defendant.

John McKague worked on shares a farm belonging to John Parker. The produce to be divided between owner and tenant on a 50-50 basis. The entire crop including some stock and machinery, was destroyed by fire a few months ago, and Parker brought suit against McKague alleging carelessness on the part of the latter. The parties to the suit reside near Baltimore. The amount sued for was $1,000.

Two Issues Joined.

The cases of Hodges and Alyea against the C.N.R. were tried together by agreement between counsel, so that this left only one matter to be disposed of by jury. After twelve men had been selected, only two being challenged by the defence, the rest of the panel were discharged by Justice Rose.

Frank L. Webb, of Toronto, with whom was associated A. B. Hall of Colborne, appeared for the plaintiffs and outlined the case to the jury.

Melville Hodges and Clifford Alyea, the latter a youth of 17, were trucking ice to a storehouse in January, 1924, when their car was struck by the Toronto-Ottawa express on a crossing at Colborne. Hodges was almost instantly killed, and Alyea, who was driving the truck, was seriously injured. Mrs. Jessie Hodges, the dead man's mother, sued the company for $10,000 because of the death of her son, and Dr. Alyea, a veterinary surgeon and butcher of Colborne, asks for the same amount, on acount of the injuries to his son.

In his opening address to the jury, Mr. Webb alleged negligence on the part of the railway company, stating that he would show the witnesses that the crossing was unsafe, as it was difficult to see an approaching train on account of a large building, trees and a snow fence along the right of way. He also asserted that the train which caused the damage had sounded neither bell nor whistle when it approached the crossing. The express, he said, left Cobourg nine minutes behind time, and was travelling at a high arte of speed to catch up with its schedule.

To Be Finished To-Day.

The entire afternoon was taken up with the hearing of this case, and when court adjourned at 6.15 there was still a number of witnesses to be heard on behalf of the plaintiffs.

Nearly all the evidence submitted dealt with the case of young Aylea. Dr. Brown of Colborne, who was called to attend the injured boy and who, after rendering first aid, had him removed to the Cobourg Hospital, where he lay unconscious for five days, was the first and, perhaps, the most important witnesses. Alyea, he said, had received an injury to his head, from the effects of which he was still suffering. Before the accident the boy, according to the witness, had been a great help to his father, but seemed to have lost all his "pep" as a result of the injury to his head. The doctor said that the only hope for complete recovery was for the boy to lead a quiet life, to keep away from school and to avoid all severe mental exercise and excitement. A life in the open, free from care and worry, was what the boy needed for some time to come.

This drew from Mr. Pratt the remark that such a life was the ideal one for everybody, whether injured or not, in an auto accident.

On cross-examination, Mr. Pratt brought out the fact that the boy had passed the entrance examination at the age of 15 and had not attended school since.

Other witnesses called were Dr. McGlennon, of Colborne, who had been summoned to the scene of the accident, only to find Hodge dead; Dr. Ivey of the Cobourg Hospital, Charles Allan, John Kelly, R. Clark, Peter Jamieson, Frank Wilson, Leslie Goheen, Frank Matthews, Walter Howard and Fred. Marr, all of Colborne, and all acquainted with young Alyet, who, they seemed to agree, had lost vitality and suffered as to his memory since his so nearly fatal accident.

Other witnesses for the plaintiffs are to be heard to-day, and Mr. Pratt has a large amount of evidence, including expert medical testimony, to put in one behalf of the defence.

There are still three non-jury cases to be heard.

Roy Bell and William Bland, of Campbellford, were summoned as jurors, but neither was called on the above case. They returned home last night.

"K.K.K." Threat For Veteran's Widow Interested in Pirie.

OTTAWA, March 11.—(Canadian Press). — Warned that unless she ceases her active interest in the fate of John B. Firie, sentenced to death on March 24 for the murder of his wife and two daughters, she will "feel the weight of a black snake whip across her bare neck," Mrs. D. J. McKinney, Ottawa war widow, who with others is endeavoring to obtain Pirie's reprieve, received a letter yesterday signed "K.K.K., Council No. 1, Montreal." It was post-marked Ottawa. She stated she did not take the letter seriously.

FIRE DAMAGED NORWOOD HOUSE

Home of Reeve Robb Struck by Lightning in Last Night's Storm.

OWNER ABSENT.

NORWOOD, March 11.]—During the absence of Reeve John Robb of Norwood, at the annual banquet of the Peterboro Chamber of Commerce, his home was struck by lightning and badly damaged. The bolt knocked the top off the chimney and followed the electric wiring through the building. Fuses were blown and small fires started in a number of places. The new chemical fire engine of the village received its first real test, and the firemen were on duty for a considerable time watching for fires. A great deal of damage was done to the roof, walls and ceilings. Most of the furnture was carried out, but what remained was badly damaged.

In the village the transformers and fuses were burnt out, and the lights were all out. The street lights came on again about 10 o'clock, but the domestic service was not on till morning. The storm lasted from about 8.20 to 9 p.m.

LIGHTNING STRUCK POLE.

Campbellford Houses Rocked in Thunder Clap—Windows Rattled.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 11. — The electric storm about nine o'clock on Tuesday night was very severe, and one of the bolts struck the telegraph instrument at the Canadian National Railway Station and set fire to it, but it was extinguished by chemicals in a short time. Two of the thunder claps shook the houses and windows and lasted for some seconds in one continuous roll.

AT HASTINGS.

HASTINGS, March 11.—The first real electric storm passed over the village on Tuesday evening. Some very vivid flashes of lightning were visible, and the thunder reports were loud and vibrating, and considerable rain fell during the storm.

GUILTY OF MURDER.

MONTREAL, March 11. —(Canadian Press).— Hermengilde Dufoul and Henri Messier were last evening found guilty of the murder of Emil Pelletier, a Sorel butcher, on Ste. Victore Road, November 22nd last. Judge Demers sentenced them both to hang on June 19th. The third accused, David Millette, was acquitted An appeal will be entered. Pelletier was returning from Sorel to Ste. Victore when he was attacked by two men, beaten and robbed of $149, which was on his person. He died December 14th.

PETERBORO'S DEATH RATE.

The report of the registration of births, marriages and deaths in the Province in 1923, the last year for which the complete figures are available, shows that from a health standpoint, as indicated by the death rate, Peterboro's position was not so favourable as might be desired.

The statistics indicate that Peterboro had a death rate of 15.4 per 1,000, as compared with the Provincial rate of 11.8.

In fact, only four cities in the Province showed a higher percentage of deaths, Chatham with 18.8 deaths per thousand, Kingston with 17.4, Belleville with 16.3 and London with 16.0.

Ottawa's rate was the same as Peterboro's, and every one of the remaining eighteen cities in the Province was able to show a lower percentage of deaths, Fort William having the place of honour with only 9.5 deaths per thousand.

In that year Peterboro lost 50 children under the age of one year, a higher percentage than other municipalities around the same population.

The figures should be of interest.

Is there anything that could be done to lower the death rate; is there any reason for the high percentage here that could be removed?

These are questions that naturally suggest themselves.

"PRINTED-IN-CANADA."

The Toronto Typographical Union has protested the proposed amendment to the Criminal Code making it illegal to publish racing entries results and odds, because the passing of such legislation would throw seventy Toronto printers out of employment.

That unfortunate result probably will not carry any more weight than did the complaints that the passing of the O. T .A. would leave hundreds of bartenders out of a job, but the action of the Toronto union is important nevertheless because of the attention it draws to the fact that far too much printing for Canadian firms is done outside of this country.

The President of the Toronto union tells of one nationally known firm that sends all its printing to a Chicago house, of a church that orders its Sunday School leaflets from a town in Illinois.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of work that could be done in Canada is being ordered from firms across the line.

If these orders were given to Canadian firms the seventy printers whose jobs are jeopardized by the racing news amendment, as well as the scores of fellow-craftsmen who are without positions at all, could be at once absorbed.

The made-in-Canada movement should not overlook the printed-in-Canada idea.

Manufacturers who are co-operating in impressing the people of this country with the desirability of buying Canadian-made articles should be sure that their printing is being done in Canadian establishments.

THE INDEMNITY INCREASE.

While passing resolutions in regard to Provincial matters may not be one of the duties for which Aldermen are elected, no one is likely to find fault with the Peterboro City Council for condemning the proposed increase in sessional indemnities for members of the Legislature.

Indeed the fact that a municipal body should consider it desirable to pass such a motion is a very important demonstration of the strength of public disapproval of the raid on the Treasury.

The local Aldermen were merely making vocal the feeling of ninety-nine out of every one hundred citizens in regard to this matter.

Newspapers of all shades of politics have condemned the suggested increases, and the action of the Peterboro Council indicates how firmly opposed to the addition of some $66,000 to the cost of government overhead are the people of the Province generally.

The introduction of such a proposal could scarcely have been made at a more unpropitious time.

Had the Provincial Treasurer been able to announce a balanced Budget the situation might have been different.

But when the indemnity increase is broadcasted almost simultaneously with the statement that the imposition of two new taxes totalling over $4,500,000 will not avert a deficit of $3,000,000 on the year's operations, the resentment of the taxpayers is not difficult to realize—or to justify.

SENATE REFORM.

It is evident that for the present at least the members of the Senate need have no worry about their status.

The Lower House debated the reform of the Higher Chamber on Monday, dealt with a number of proposals, and the net result of the whole affair was the passing of a resolution suggesting the convening of a conference between the Federal Government and the Governments of the various Provinces to consider the advisability of amending the British North America Act with respect to the constitution and powers of the Senate.

The Senators will not be greatly alarmed at this gesture, which means nothing in particular, and will get nowhere at least until there is a much greater pressure of public opinion behind Senate reform than appears to exist at present.

The average Canadian cares little or nothing about the Senate, especially at a time when other problems such as unemployment bulk much more largely in the public eye.

He cannot see that a change in the constitution or powers of the Upper Chamber is going to contribute much to a solution of the problem of where the workless are to find positions, and when trade conditions will be such as to cause a demand for workers.

Correct some of the other conditions and Canada will be able to worry along a few years more with the Upper House as it is.

With the advent of spring and its concommitants of slush, rain and mud, it may not be inopportune to draw attention briefly to a matter that certainly concerns the great majority of the public who walk instead of ride or drive to and from their daily labours, says the Montreal Star. It is merely a question of courtesy, but it means a great deal to many people. It is the courtesy the driver of an automobile ought to show the pedestrian, most particularly at street corners.

Few people will deny that it is a common-place feature at all points where traffic intersects to see, in the dirty spring weather, automobiles driven heedlessly close to the kerb through pools and piles of slush or mud, with the inevitable result that the clothing of the people who happen to be standing on the kerb, waiting to cross or for a street car, is often splashed heavily. In many instances the delicate fabric of ladies' attire is ruined by showers of muddy water thus sprayed upon it.

This is absolutely unjustifiable, because it is almost always avoidable. There is never the slightest necessity for any vehicle to be driven quickly past a traffic post, nor is there any necessity for an automobile to be piloted within two inches of the kerb. Even when occasionally forced close to the sidewalk, the driver should always remember that it is in the gutters that most of the dirt and slush and mud collect, and that unless he moves slowly it is inevitable that somebody will be seriously splashed. A little thought, a little courtesy, and the result is a world of difference for a large number of people, particularly those who cannot afford to buy new suits or dresses or costumes every other week.

GOLF AND SUSAN.

Two men got into the headlines of a leading New York daily the other day. Both were somewhat oracular; for both were far past the Biblical three score years and ten, and therefore felt free to exercise the unchallenged prerogatives of old age. No one has a right to be reminiscent until he has passed the half century mark, and the privilege of broadcasting advice is denied to all who are under eighty—or should be.

The first oracle was John D. Rockefeller, the world's richest man. His preachment was, strange to say, not how to make a few hundred million dollars, but how to play golf. He has long been a recognized authority on finance; but, at 85, he feels qualified to tell the world how to get the largest dividends out of a game of golf. That brings his advice within the reach of almost everybody, whereas anything he might have had to say about making money would have been mere wasted words.

"I've learned," said this philosophical founder of the world's biggest fortune, "to approach the ball in a passive state." This must mean that whatever may be your intentions, it should be a confidential matter between yourself and the ball. He may be right. Mood may count for more than we suspect. Then "you must go back slowly with your club and describe a perfect circle in the swing." Good again. All authorities are agreed up to that point. But this octogenarian exponent of his own special system has fallen short of giving real help to the average golfer. What the latter wants to know is how, after having taken all these precautions, and then sliced the ball into the rough forty yards to the right, the fairway may still be kept a safe and proper place for a minister's son.

Mr. Rockefeller found time, however, to swing his philosophy "in a perfect circle" away from the game of golf. Just how he did it, is not clear; but his reason was obvious. "A pessimist," he said, "is one who sees disaster in every opportunity. An optimist is one who sees opportunity in every disaster." This may be just a little subtle for the ordinary mind, and yet the true philosopher could scarcely avoid saying something about both pessimism and optimism while discoursing on golf. The game from the cradle to the grave is an even mixture of these emotions. That's what gives it its terrible grip on the souls of men.

The other headliner got there because of several distinctions having nothing whatever to do with either making money or playing golf. Down at Hackensack, New Jersey, he is known to everybody as "Uncle Johnny" Demarest, and what the interviewer wanted to learn from him was his philosophy of life after being married for 75 years. He was bubblingly communicative and optimistic. "Susan and I have lived in peace and happiness for 75 years. Today, we are mentally sound, able to get about, and every bit as happy as we were on the day, so many years ago, when we rode on horseback to Preakness to be married."

Of course, this ninety-seven-year-old boaster has a code. It was this: "Go to bed early ;arise early; never neglect business for pleasure; mind your own business; forgive mutual faults; cook your own meals; go to church." One strives in vain to discern anything distinctly original in this plan of life. It is undoubtedly good as far as it goes; but it scarcely reveals anything in the nature of a safe and sure key to marital concord. Unconsciously, and as if it were of little consequence, "Uncle Johnny" lets in on his secret right at the very end of the interview. "We use a coal range," he explained, "and the coal shed is a little distance from the house; but I have been carrying coal for Susan for 75 years, and will continue to do so until God says my work is done." Brave, faithful and willing old servitor! The man who has been doing that for Susan for three-quarters of a century deserved to be happy. "Go thou and do likewise" ye searchers for the secret of wedded bliss.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Evidently Senate reform is not just around the corner—but several blocks at least away.

No matter where the blame for the Nova Scotia strike is to be placed there is no dispute as to the distress among the families of the mine workers.

Controller Treleaven of Hamilton warns motorists to be particularly careful during the next few weeks when the marble season is at its height, many youngsters being so engrossed in the game that they forget traffic risks. The advice is good for Peterboro, too.

The declaration of Sir George Paish, noted British economist, that Canada's hour of prosperity has come, is a welcome spring message.

Great Britain is permanently adopting daylight saving, the season each year to be from the beginning of April to the end of October. Evidently the drawbacks pictured by Canadian objectors to the scheme disappear when the plan is given a fair trial.

ROAD TO ROUYN TO BE FINISHED

ment by providing a wet summer. There had been a real reduction in public institutions; but if repairs were kept back they would simply come heavier next year.

No Struggle For Economy.

"There is no real evidence of a reduction in the general expenditure and no sign of any real struggle for economy," said Mr. Fisher. "We do nothing with the deficit except pay it out of borrowed money and leave it to posterity. We on this side of the House are prepared to take the position that we should have a balanced budget. If we can't get it by reduction then we must get it by increased revenue."

Mr. Fisher said that it was time that the whole tax question — Federal, Provincial and municipal—was receiving some attention. If the Federal taxes could not be considered in conference then it was time the Provincial and municipal authorities got together. It was impossible to say that Ontario had a system of taxation because it could not be called a system. The only test of taxes was availability. He said that the business tax was driving manufacturers to Quebec and that income tax as collected by municipalities often put a premium on dishonesty.

"We are now to tax gasoline and soft drinks as revised lately by the Attorney-General," said Mr. Fisher. "It is a question how far we should tax the motorists. The roads are not built exclusively for the motor. I am not prepared to say that roads should be kept up by those who travel over them. They have other uses. Then in the beverage tax the Government proposes that the people shall drink the Province into solvency. How many gallons of 4.4 beer they will have to drink to produce a revenue of $2,300,000 we have not been told."

Book-keeping Speech.

Mr. Biggs thought the Government members in speaking of idle industries had been more anxious to hit at the Ottawa Government than they had real sympathy with the manufacturers. He said that the manufacturers could not sell because the farmer could not buy. He declared he was in favor of protection against the flood of farm products from the United States.

Mr. Biggs also wanted a butter-fat standard set for ice cream, as ice cream was now recognized as a food and should be pure. He praised the development of rural Hydro, stating that the average farm could get all the power and light it required for $74 a year. This figure was challenged by several members who said their districts paid more.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 10.—Trade was a little on the quieter side today, following yesterday's active market. Prices are unchanged, all recent advances being firmly held, except for an easier feeling in the calf section.

Export trade will probably be quiet for the balance of the week, requirements for this week's shipments east being already filled, Rogers and Maybee took about 600 fat cattle for export yesterday, and about 150 heifers, cows, bulls and light store cattle.

There is an active enquiry for good stocker cattle, but supplies are short, the present active demand for butcher cattle practically absorbing all offerings of everything fit or near fit for killing.

Calves were easier and about 50c lower.

Sheep and lambs steady.

Hogs steady.

Export cattle, choice and heavy steers $7.75 to $8.50; bulls $4.50 to $5.25; heifers, $6.50 to $7.25; stores, $6.60 to $7.

Choice butchers, $7.25 to $7.75; medium, $6.50 to $7; common, $5.25 to $7.25; choice stockers, 830 to 950 Choice fat cows, $4.75 to $5.50.

Stockers and feeders, choice short-keen feeders, 1,000 to 1,200 lbs. $6.75 to $7.25; choice stockers, 830 to 950 lbs., $5.50 to $6; light western stock, $4.25 to $4.50; choice western, $6.25 to $6.75.

Calves easier.

Sheep and lambs steady.

Hogs, steady, at $12 f.o.b.; $13 off cars; selects, off cars, $2.47 per head premium.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, March 10. — The export business in Canadian grain here to-day was not very active. There were very few firm bids from foreign buyers. A stronger feeling developed in the local coarse grain market for oats and prices were advanced one cent per bushel. Ontario No. 3 white was quoted at 61 cents and No. 4 grade at 59 cents, per bushel, exstore.

While the tone of the millfeed market yas steady, the trade volume was not large A weeaker feeling developed in standard grades of rolled oats and prices were reduced fifteen cents per bag.

The feature of the local egg situation was the further weakness in the market and prices scored another decline of one to two cents per dozen. The trade in butter was active and prices were firm at the recent changes noted. The cheese market was quiet but the tendency was steady.

Beans were unchanged at $2.70 per bushel.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 10. —Imports of United States fresh eggs last week amounted to 16,876 cases which were apportioned as follows: Montreal, 7,993; Ottawa, 675; Toronto, 6,036; Winnipeg, 1,467, Windsor and Walkerville, 275 and miscellaneous points, 430. Receipts show a heavy increase and already Ontario country shippers report enquiries for car load lots but no sales are at present reported.

Toronto extras jobbing 37, firsts 35, seconds 31.

Montreal unchanged, tendency to lower levels. Poultry market dull.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 10. — Sudden broadening of demands for wheat to day led to a lively advance of 5 1-2 cents a bushel May delivery surprise over government figures disclosing scarcity of wheat in country mills and elevators acted asa decided stimulus to buyers. As a result of profittaking however top prices failed to hold. The wheat market closed unsettled, 1 to 4 cents net higher with May 187 1-2 to 187 3-4, and July 164 1-4 to 164 1-2 with corn 1 5-8 to 1 7-8 cents up, oats showing 1-8 to 1 cent gain, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to a rise of 15 cents.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, March 10.—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand $4.77 3-8.

Sterling cables $4.77 3-4.

A THOUGHT.

THAT'S WHY

Money has the wings of a flying machine, and fame is a vapor that frequently vanishes. Health is the greatest gift on earth, and so uncertain.

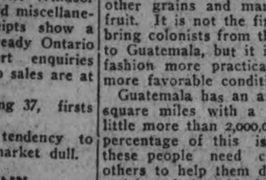
Then comes what we are all striving for—success. When a man has done his noblest, worked his hardest, his inward satisfaction will prove a solace even though his outward success seems small.

Better to satisfy your own conscience than to try to prove to the world that you have "wings," that you life is "vapor" or your efforts have not been of the "noblest."

Each and every person must live with his own conscience, and there is no wealth or fame on earth that can compare with the respect you hold for yourself.

Let a man lose this self-respect, and the evidence of his loss will be written like raised letters right on his face where the whole world can read with both eyes closed.

Why do some men struggle so hard to make a success—why are they always so hard pressed for funds? Answer: People have no confidence in them. That's why.



WEDNESDAY, March 11.—Persons born this day will have a brilliant all-round mind and will be interested in a variety of subjects. They will have a magnetic and attractive personality that will appeal greatly to members of the opposite sex. You will be shrewd in business matters and at the same time have a pronounced literary talent.

Always Tired in the Mornings

MISS M. BECKER, 113 David St., Kitchener, Ont., writes:—"My system became generally run down. I was nervous, tired and subject to headaches. After using nine boxes of DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD I felt like a new person, could sleep and eat well and was relieved of all the old symptoms".

"NERVOUS bankruptcy is being courted by the young women of today," says Dr. Mosher, widely known authority on women's health.

"In her desire to not miss anything she burns the candle at both ends, cutting short her sleep, hurrying or omitting meals.

"This disregard of periods of rest and sleep must necessarily lead to a breakdown of the nervous system, a condition which is the despair of the physician".

Among the early indications of trouble are irritability, restlessness, indigestion, headaches and sleeplessness.

The rational treatment is DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD to revitalize the wasted nerve cells. This medicine is so natural and gentle in action and so wonderfully potent as a restorative that you will soon see the benefits derived from its use.

Checo-Slavs Sign Pact To Colonize Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY, March 11. —(United Press).— Dr. Salvador Herrera, minister of agriculture in the Guatemala cabinet, and a French corporation have just signed a contract to bring to this country several hundred Checo-Slavs to colonize important agricultural districts in this republic.

The land is similar in many respects to the soil they are accustomed to working and is particularly adapted to the cultivation of wheat, other grains and many kinds of fruit. It is not the first attempt to bring colonists from the Old World to Guatemala, but it is made in a fashion more practical and under more favorable conditions.

Guatemala has an area of 500,000 square miles with a population of little more than 2,000,000. A large percentage of this is Indian and these people need contacts with others to help them develop. It is anticipated that this is but the first of a longe series of colonization attempts in Guatemala.

STRANGE DEATH PACT

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, March 11.—A strange death pact of lovers was revealed at a coroner's inquiry here. A nurse was found stabbed with a pair of scissors. Before she died, the coroner said, she stabbed her lover with a hatpin, which penetrated his heart.

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

by James Oliver Curwood

CHAPTER IX.

Impelled by the wild alarm of the Willow's terrible cries and the sight of Pierrot dashing madly toward him from the dead body of Wakayoo, Baree did not stop running until it seemed as though his lungs could not draw another breath. When he stopped, he was well out of the canyon and headed for the beaver pond.

Exactly wherein lay Baree's fears it would be difficult to say—but surely it was not because of Nepeese. The Willow had chased him hard. She had flung herself upon him. He had felt the clutch of her hands and the smother of her soft hair, and yet of her he was not afraid! If he stopped now and then in his flight and looked back, it was to see if Nepeese was following. He would not have run hard from her—alone. Her eyes and voice and hands had set something stirring in him; he was filled with a greater yearning and a greater loneliness now—and that night he dreamed troubled dreams.

Baree was glad when the dawn came. He did not seek for food, but went down to the pond. There was little hope and anticipation in his manner now. He remembered that, as plainly as animal ways could talk, Umisk and his playmates had told him they wanted nothing to do with him. And yet the fact that they were there took away from his loneliness. It was more than loneliness. The wolf in him was submerged. The dog was master.

In one of the larger canals Baree surprised a big beaver towing a four-foot cutting of birch as thick through as a man's leg—half a dozen breakfasts and dinners and suppers in that one cargo. The four or five inner bark of the birch are what might be called the bread and butter and potatoes of the beaver menu, while the more highly prized barks of the willow and young alder take the place of meat and pie.

Baree smelled curiously of the birch cutting after the old beaver had abandoned it in flight, and then went on. He did not try to hide himself now, and at least half a dozen beavers had a good look at him before he came to the point where the pond narrowed down to the width of the stream, almost half a mile from the dam. Then he wandered back. All that morning he hovered about the pond, showing himself openly.

In their big mud-and-stick strongholds the beaver held a council of war. They were distinctly puzzled.

It may be that the beavers discussed the matter fully among themselves. It is possible that Umisk and his playmates told their parents of their adventures, and of how Baree made no move to harm them when he could quite easily have caught them. It is also more than likely that the old beavers who had fled from Baree that morning gave an account of their adventures, again emphasizing the fact that the stranger, while frightening them, had shown no disposition to attack them. All this is quite possible, for if beavers can make a large part of a continent's history, and can perform engineering feats that nothing less than dynamite can destroy, it is only reasonable to suppose that they have some way of making one another understand.

However this may be, courageous old Beaver-tooth took it upon himself to end the suspense.

It was early in the afternoon that for the third or fourth time Baree walked out on the dam. This dam was fully two hundred feet in length, but at no point did the water run over it, the overflow finding its way through narrow sluices. A week or two ago Baree could have crossed to the opposite side of the pond on this dam, but now—at the far end—Beaver-tooth and his engineers were adding a new section of dam, and in order to accomplish their work more easily, they had flooded fully fifty yards of the low ground on which they were working. The main dam held a fascination for Baree. It was strong with the smell of beaver. The top of it was high and dry, and there were dozens of smoothly worn little hollows in which the beavers had taken their sun-baths. In one of these hollows Baree stretched himself out, with his eyes on the pond. Not a ripple stirred its velvety smoothness. Not a sound broke the drowsy stillness of the afternoon. The beavers might have been dead or asleep, for all the stir they made. And yet they knew that Baree was on the dam. Where he lay, the sun fell in a warm flood, and it was so comfortable that after a time he had difficulty in keeping his eyes open to watch the pond. Then he fell asleep.

Just how Beaver-tooth sensed this fact is a mystery. Five minutes later he came up quietly, without a splash or a sound, within fifty yards of Baree. For a few moments he scarcely moved in the water. Then he swam very slowly parallel with the dam across the pond. At the other side he drew himself ashore, and for another minute sat as motionless as a stone, with his eyes on that part of the dam where Baree was lying.

A few yards away Baree was almost hidden in his hollow, only the top of his shiny black body appearing to Beaver-tooth's scrutiny. To get a better look, the old beaver spread his flat tail out beyond him and rose to a sitting posture on his hind-quarters, his two front paws held squirrel-like over his breast. In this pose he was fully three feet high. He probably weighed forty pounds, and in some ways he resembled one of those fat, good-natured, silly-looking dogs that go largely to stomach. But his brain was working with amazing celerity. Suddenly he gave the hard mud of the dam a single slap with his tail—and Baree sat up. Instantly he saw Beaver-tooth, and stared. Beaver-tooth stared. For a full half-minute neither moved the thousandth part of an inch. Then Baree stood up and wagged his tail.

That was enough. Dropping to his fore-feet, Beaver-tooth waddled leisurely to the edge of the dam and dived over. He was neither cautious nor in very great haste now. He made a great commotion in the water and swam boldly back and forth under Baree. When he had done this several times, he cut straight up the pond to the largest of the three houses and disappeared. Five minutes after Beaver-tooth's exploit word was passing quickly among the colony. The stranger—Baree—was not a lynx. He was not a fox. He was not a wolf. Moveover, he was very young—and harmless.

CHAPTER X.

Just as in the life of every man there is one big, controlling influence, either for good or bad, so in the life of Baree the beaver-pond was largely an arbiter of destiny. Where he might have gone if he had not discovered it, and what might have happened to him, are matters of conjecture. But it held him. It began to take the place of the old windfall, and in the beavers themselves he found a companionship which made up, in a way, for his loss of the protection and friendship of Kazan and Gray Wolf.

During this fortnight that followed Beaver-tooth's exploit on the dam, Baree ate his meals a mile up the creek, where there were plenty of crawfish. But the pond was home. Night always found him there, and a large part of his day. He slept at the end of the dam, or on top of it on particularly clear nights, and the beavers accepted him as a permanent guest. They worked in his presence as if he did not exist.

One afternoon, when the toboggan was particularly wet and slippery from recent use, Baree went up the beaver-path to the top of the bank, and began investigating. Nowhere had he found the beaver-smell so strong as on the slide. He began sniffing and incautiously went too far. In an instant his feet shot out from under him, and with a single wild yelp he went shooting down the toboggan. For the second time in his life he found himself struggling under water, and when a minute or two later he dragged himself up through the soft mud to the firmer footing of the shore, he had at last a very well-defined opinion of beaver play.

"After all, was not his power sufficient?"

It may be that Umisk saw him. It may be that very soon the story of his adventure was known by all the inhabitants of Beaver Town. For when Baree came upon Umisk eating his supper of alder-bark that evening, Umisk stood his ground to the last inch, and for the first time they smelled noses. At least Baree sniffed audibly, and pluckily little Umisk sat like a rolled-up Sphinx. That was the final cementing of their friendship—on Baree's part.

Fear Need Of U. S. Trip To Study European Art

LONDON, March 10 (Associated Press).—The time appears to be rapidly approaching when it will be necessary for Englishmen to make a tour of the United States in order to study European art, says the Sunday Pictorial, commenting on "our lost art treasures" which have been purchased in England and other European countries by Americans 000,000. "Our own artistic treasures are pouring across the Atlantic at a portentous rate," says the article. "Two million pounds' worth of pictures and antique furnitnre alone were sold in London for America last year, and the total since the war has been estimated at nearly $55,000,00. Soon there may be no "old masters" in England outside the public galleries. All the private collections will have been transferred to American millionaires and transported to the other side."

FITTING FAREWELL TO SMITH COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McIvor Get Valuable Buffet and Address.

A very pleasant evening was recently spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McIvor of Smith Township, where a large number of their friends and acquaintances gathered to give them a farewell prior to their removal from the locality.

The couple were presented with a beautiful buffet, and the following address was read:

Parting of the Ways.

"Dear Mr and Mrs. McIvor,—

"The wheels of time roll on and again we come to the parting of the ways. It was with much regret that your many associates of the past seventeen years in this neighborhood learned of your departure. Although your removal will not place you so far from us, yet you will leave vacant a little corner whom no one can fill in the same manner as you have.

"The upward trend of society today aims to develop the socially efficient character of whoever would be rated as a good citizen. Your citizenship has been all that one's heart could desire. Your helping hand in time of adversity, your faithful attendance to duty, your cheerful manner and thoughtful ways have been greatly appreciated by your many friends in this district.

"We will miss your welcome doorway, your cheery greeting and bounteous table, spread on so many occasions when we have gathered to partake of its delicacies.

"The Sunday School wish to thank you for your generous, outstretched hand at those times when services such as yours were required. No call for needful patronage of any kind has been received by you with a deaf ear. For such as this we owe you a debt of gratitude insufficiently expressed with words.

"We are proud to be able to say 'Friends' to you, because that name carries with it the illumination of lives lived so as not to tarnish that God-created form, and whose influence has made this community a little better.

"Our dearest wish is that you may continue along the highway of life as you have done in the past, that your new home will be one in the fullest sense of the word, and that this change from your present activities may only mean a greater and fuller development of our social ties.

"As a slight emblem of the great feeling of good-will we hold for you both, we take much pleasure in asking you to accept this gift.

"May you see imaged there as the years advance the faces of those who extend to you tonight their best wishes for a long future full of contentment, ease and comfort, blessed with the rewards of Him, who says: 'Thou hast been faithful in a few things, I will make thee master over many things; enter thou into th ejoy of thy Lord.'

"Signed on behalf of your friends and acquaintances—Mr. and Mrs. F. Cann, Mr and Mrs. Wm. Steinkrauss."

A Social Time.

The address was replied to by Mr. McIvor and Mrs. McIvor in a very fitting manner.

Mr. J. A. Middleton, superintendent of the Sunday School in the district, also gave a short address. Mr. Wm. Steinkrauss and Mr. F. Cann honored the occasion by appropriate remarks, after which a bounteous lunch was served.

TWO CHICKS FROM EGG.

SYDNEY, Australia, March 11.—"Twin chickens" were born from one egg here recently, a poultry raiser claims. The "twins" were discovered when one egg was found with a small chip in it, but with the shell too dry for the cheeks to force their way through it. After being pliaced in warm water, two healthy twins fell out.

Many Divorced Persons Long Way From Normal

MONTREAL, March 10.— (Canadian Press).—"I do not believe it is possible to generalize concerning the cause of divorce,' 'said Judge Hoffman, of the Juvenile Court and Marital Relations Court of Cincinnati, in an address before the School for social workers.

'Most persons who get along so poorly together that their private affairs have to be brought into court are not normal persons." The judge told of a special court in Cincinnati for the regulation of domestic matters and problems of delinquency which did away with the old mechanical, impersonal way of dealing with difficulties of the sort under discussion, and which, by co-operation with Protestant, Catholic and Jewish Big Brothers Clubs luncheon clubs like Rotary, and social serial service organizations and schools made it possible to adjust many marital proulems and nearly all cases of juvenile delinquency, without recourse to process of law.

'We were unable in any one case to find one definite cause of hte trouble. The difficultie are I think largely due to lack of normal conditions in the youth of the persons disagreeing or to pathological causes."

GREAT CROWDS CHEER PRINCE

More Than 900 Presentations at First Levee of the Season.

KING'S DEPUTY.

LONDON, March 11.—The first levee of the season was held at St. James Palace Tuesday by the Prince of Wales, the event attracting great crowds which lined The Mall eager to get a glimpse of the Prince as he passed from York House to St. James Palace where, for the first time, he represented the King on such an occasion.

The Prince usually walks across to the Palace, which is only a few steps, but as the King's representative, he went in the state of similar processions characterizing His Majesty's presence at levees. There were two state carriages, resplendent in scarlet and gold. The first was occupied by the Prince and the Earl of Granard, Master of Horse, and the second contained a groom in waiting and an equery. A cavalry escort in scarlet and white added a touch of brilliant color as the highly burnished accoutrements shone in the sun of one of London's brightest days for months.

There were more than 900 presentations.

The Prince wore a uniform of the Welsh Guards with the Order of the Garter. Among those present were Premier Baldwin, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Sir Eyre Crowe, the Earl of Haig, and the French, Japanese, United States and German ambassadors. The crowds outside, which were among the largest since before the war, cheered the Prince as he entered St. James, where he was received by the Lord Chamberlain and other officers of state, and conducted to the levee rooms

LEAGUE TRYING TO WIN BERLIN

Cautious Reply Designed to Secure Entry of Germany —No Privileges.

ALL ARE EQUAL.

GENEVA, March 11.—Lloyd George's epigrammatic warning at the Genoa conference, that an angry Germany should not be driven into the arms of a hungry Russia had a sequence at Geneva Tuesday afternoon, when the council of the League of Nations, under the presidency of Austen Chamberlain, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, spent hours at a secret meeting in discussing how to handle the German notes concerning German admission to the league.

The meeting, which was attended only by members of the council and Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general, started from the fundamental idea that German membership in the league is a necessity to true political rehabilitation of Europe. Hence the desire of all, but especially Britain, to adopt no attitude toward the German demands for a privileged position under the covenant which would have the effect of driving Germany further away from the league, rather than toward it, and thereby increasing the chances that Germany would turn definitely toward Bolshevik Russia and remain coldly indifferent to continental Europe.

It is learned that after an hour's discussion, which was enlivened by the frankest kind of comment on the German armaments situation, the council reached an agreement to draft a reply to the German notes expressing the council's earnest desire that Germany join the league, at the same time laying the greatest stress on the need of universality in its membership if the league is to attain its high purpose.

Simultaneously however, Germany will be informed in effect and in diplomatic terms that no privilege can be accorded her as a preliminary condition to her application for membership, because this would destroy the principle of equality of treatment, which is one of the fundamental features of the league.

EDITOR FINED $100.

MONTREAL, March 11. —Roger Maillet, editor of Le Matin, a local weekly, was sentenced on Tuesday, by Judge Perrault in the court of sessions to pay a fine of $10. serve one month in jail, upon conviction of assault. The case will be appealed.

The case is an aftermath of the Provincial bye-election in St. Ann's Division of Montreal, last November provincial police officers, a deputy-high constable and a canvasser for the Liberal candidate in his car to Westmount, and there, under threat of a revolver, putting them out of the machine.

CHAPLIN'S MOTHER MUST LEAVE UNITED STATES

Suffers From Nervous Trouble Due to German Air Raids.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Mrs. Hannah Chaplin, mother of Charlie Chaplin, the motion picture star, must leave the country by March 26, under a ruling by immigration officials.

Attorneys for Chaplin were informed yesterday that the extension granted Mrs. Chaplin a year ago, to remain here until March 26, will not be renewed. She came to this country several years ago from England to undergo medical treatment, and has been held inadmissable as an alien, under the requirements of the immigration law.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 11. —A statement from the studio of Charles Spencer Chaplin, screen comedian, whose mother, Mrs. Hannah Chaplin, must leave the United States by March 26 under a ruling by immigration authorities, said here yesterday that she would probably make her home in Vancouver, B.C.

Mrs. Chaplin came to this country three years ago suffering from nervous shock, due to the German air raids over London during the war. She has been living at a beach home provided by her actor son.

MILLBROOK SEES SIGNS OF SPRING

But Water Invading Cellars of Business Houses is Not Welcome.

MILLBROOK, March 11.—Signs of spring are not wanting in this community. Mr Henry Lord gathered four pails of sap from the maple trees in front of his home on Main street on Monday.

The school girls are wearing pussywillows pinned on their coat lapels, and the boys are playing marbles, while one little girl was enjoying her swing out of doors on Monday afternoon, undaunted by the mud under the trees, from one of which the rope was suspended.

A less welcome sign of melting snow and ice is the quantity of water in the cellars of stores and houses in the business section of the town.

The many friends of Mrs. V. Mulligan will be glad to learn that there is considerable improvement in her condition since Saturday. An attack of pleuro-pneumonia following "flu" caused grave anxiety as to her recovery. Her sister, Mrs. G. Hetherington, has been staying with Mrs. Mulligan, and Mrs. B. J. Doak, with her neice, Mrs. Dignam, arrived from Toronto Saturday evening. Miss G. Clarry is the nurse in attendance

Miss Ella Elson presided at the organ in Grace Presbyterian Church on Sunday, Miss Clarry, who has been supplying for some weeks, being unavoidably absent because of her duties as nurse in charge at Mrs. Mulligan's.

Mrs. (Dr.) Brand, who has been in town for the past two weeks, returned to her home in Toronto on Monday, her aunt, Miss Mary Kells, accompanying her for an extended visit.

Councillor G. W. Sayles goes to Cobourg on Tuesday to serve on the jury.

Mrs. J. T. V. Preston of Orangeville, is staying with her mother, Mrs. John Deyell, who had the misfortune to fall recently, fracturing her right hip.

AGED RESIDENT OF HAVELOCK PASSES

Mrs. Eliza Presley Came to Canada From England—Havelock News.

HAVELOCK, March 11.—The death occurred on Friday of Mrs. Eliza Presley at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. George Waymark, George street, Havelock. Deceased was in her 84th year and had been ill for some time prior to her demise. The late Mrs. Presley was born in England, and when an infant came to Canada with her parents, who settled in the township of Rawdon, where she had resided ever since. Her husband predeceased her twenty years ago. Two daughters survive, namely, Mrs. George Waymark of Havelock and Mrs. Calvert, Buckhorn. The funeral took place on Sunday at twelve o'clock noon, and proceeded by motor to the 12th line of Rawdon, Hastings County, where service was held at St. Mark's Church at 2 p.m. Interment in the 12th Line Cemetery, Rawdon.

Mr. George Hitchins of Peterboro is visiting his brother, Mr. Wm. Hitchins.

Mrs. James Ellis and Mrs. Frank Parcels were in Peterboro on Saturday.

Mr. Robt. Wright of Port Hope spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Pincombe are in Montreal, attending the funeral of Mr. Pincombe's uncle, Mr. P. Myers.

Mr and Mrs. George Brownsell of Trent River visited Mrs. J. Harrison on Saturday.

Mr. James Dutton of Peterboro conducted the services in Knox Church on Sunday.

Mrs. O. Parcels and Mrs. H. Hubble were in Peterboro on Saturday.

Mr. Charles Burton and children of Toronto are visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Wood.

Mrs. Julian Carter of Smith Falls was the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. Vandervoort, over the week-end

In the Methodist Church on Sunday Rev. J. D. Richardson of St. James' Church, Peterboro, preached very interesting missionary sermons at both services.

REGULAR SESSION MARMORA COUNCIL

Routine Business Cleared Up—Bylaw to Authorize Borrowing Money.

MARMORA, March 11. — The council of Marmora met on March 2, in regular session. The following motions carried:

That the minutes of the former meetings be confirmed.

That the auditor's report for the year 1924 be published in the Marmora Herald.

That the collector's roll of 1923 be accepted and that an order be brought on treasurer for rebates amounting to $33.20.

That treasurer be supplied with inventory books and bills receivable

That the chairman of each department arrange for inventory of all public utilities and report the same to the treasurer. That treasurer have, in the bills receiptable book, a statement of all bills and renewals.

That the clerk procure dog tags and advertise and dispose of the same as he did last year.

A by-law authorizing the borrowing of certain sums of money from the Dominion Bank to meet ordinary current expenses for Marmora village and for schools situated therein was adopted.

The following bills were ordered to be paid:

J. Shannon, $7.50; Storey Pump and Equipment Co., $13.13; E. C. Prentice, $12.27; Arthur Eggleton, $30; Bell Telephone, $2.05; Irwin McCoy, $70.85.

The rental price of the hall for "Tramps' Convention," was rebated to the Booster Club owing to the distribution of the receipts.

It was moved that the Medical Health Officer be paid for inspection of schools. Carried.

Whites of Eyes Tinged With Yellow? Muddy Complexion? Your Liver is Out of Order!

Mrs. Wm. Bourque, Fox Creek, N. B., writes: "I have been troubled with my liver for a long time, and was so bad I could not do any work. I had severe pains in my stomach that were so bad, at times, I could hardly stand them. My tongue became coated; I had a bad taste in my mouth, especially in the morning; the whites of my eyes were tinged with yellow, and I had a muddy complexion.

I had read a great deal about MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS, so decided I would try a vial, and after taking three of them I was greatly improved and felt more like living, and I can now do my own work without any trouble."

For sale at all druggists and dealers; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Perfecting Control Of Airplanes By Wireless

LONDON, March 11 (Associated Press).—Certain residents of the south coast of England were much astonished recently when an air force machine fell into the ocean and the authorities showed no undue anxiety about the fate of the pilot who, it was assumed, was aboard. After a while the air force men calmly put out in a skiff and towed the fallen plane to shore. The secret then leaked out that the machine had been without a pilot and that the accident was brought about by the plane passing beyond the radius of the wireless controlling force.

It was then learned for the first time that the planes seen for many weeks past circling in the air over this territory had all been without pilots; the control was by radio from a shore station.

MONTREAL GRAIN PORT.

MONTREAL, P. Q., March 11.—(United Press).—Montreal was North America's greatest grain shipping point in 1924, with a new record of 165,139,396 bushels handled in that year, according to a shipping report of the Canadian Pacific Railway. In the first eleven months of last year Montreal handled 94,366,508 bushels more than New York, its nearest competitor, and 17,332,709 bushels more than New York, Galveston, New Orleans, Philadelphia, Boston and Norfolk, Va., combined.

CHICKEN "EXCHANGE."

LEWISBURG, Pa., March 11. — A chicken-thief with half a conscience recently visited the pen of Rev. R. M. Hunsucker. He stole three of the preacher's fat leghorn hens and in their places left three scrawny chickens.

This Jury of Pen Owners Gives the Reasons
Why Duofold Outsells any Other
Though Hosts of Pens are Lower-Priced

Says a hotel keeper
"My Duofold was used by 31,000 hotel guests and their different styles of writing didn't alter the point one iota."

Four train dispatchers declare
"It's the only pen that stands our gruelling pace, 8 hours a day, 6 days a week. It's worth twice as much in the hand as it costs in the show-case."

States an author
"Its 25-year point makes writing luxurious because it's so beautifully smooth and quiet-going. And its full-handed grip doesn't try to elude the fingers or tire the hand."

A travelling says
"I laid down a black pen in a post office and walked off and forgot it. Then I bought a Parker Duofold, and its black-tipped lacquer-red color always flashes my eye this friendly caution: 'Don't leave your pen behind!'"

Two women speak thus
"Its color makes it easy to find on my desk," says a young business woman. And a fashion writer declares, "it adds a gay touch to any costume."

Says an artist
"It has classic lines." "And balanced symmetry," adds a golf expert.

An executive writes us
"I signed 1067 checks in 1 hr., 20 min. without once refilling its Over-size barrel."

$7 is all it costs to own this speedy sure-fire writer with the Over-size Ink Capacity and 25-year point. Step at the first pen counter and try it—don't lag behind a world that now writes via Duofold.

VALUABLE GIFTS FOR NEWLYWEDS

Roseneath Couple Get Happy Reception—Car Mishap Driving Across Lake.

ROSENEATH, March 11.—On Friday evening about seventy-five guests assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nixon Timlin in honor of their son, Mr. James Timlin and his bride. The newly weds were recipients of many valuable and useful presents. The company was entertained by dancing and cards.

Many Sore Throats.

Quite a number of the school children are sick with colds and sore throats. Mr. M. Davey, teacher of the senior room, was unable to be at school on Thursday.

Shaken Up In Car.

While on their way to the home of Mr. Timlin on Friday evening, the occupants of Mr. Bruce Parker's car were shaken up considerably. Theye were driving up the lake and ran into an ice crack. The result was a broken wind shield and several face cuts from the flying glass. One of the party found it necessary to have the doctor dress his injuries.

Flu and Pneumonia.

Mrs. Charles Sherwin is confined to her home with an attack of the 'flu.

Miss Bessie Turner, youngest daughter of Mrs. Lily Turner, is ill with pneumonia.

Women's Institute.

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute for the month of March was held at the home of Mrs. Andrew Brown, with president Mrs. J. A. Brown, in the chair. There were twenty-five members and eight visitors present.

The meeting opened by singing "The Maple Leaf" and after the minutes of the previous meeting had been read by the secretary, Mrs. C. Varcoe, their adoption was moved by Mrs. Mary Brown and Mrs. Ingham.

The light question was then discussed at some length. It has been a hard problem with the ladies to secure a caretaker for the lights. The Sherwin Bros. have offered to wire the Presbyterian church shed and supply the power from their electric plant to illuminate the shed and one street light for $2.50 a month. Mrs. Turner and Mrs. O. Varcoe made a motion that "we accept the Sherwin Bros. offer." This carried.

The topic of a play to be given the 24th of May was next discussed. Mrs. Halstead and Mrs. D. Brisbin made a motion that the name of the play and choosing of characters be left to the officers. Carried.

The next matter of business was the purchasing of a piano. Some of the members are anxious to have an instrument for the institute concerts, etc., instead of hiring one for every occasion. It was moved by Mrs. Andrew Brown and seconded by Mrs. Turner, that Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. C. W. Varcoe and the other officers be a committee to see about buying a piano. Carried.

A communication was read from the Blind Institution regarding their products. Mrs. A. Campbell and Mrs. F. Nichol made a motion that "we send an order for brooms to this institution, ordering six each of the different kinds." Carried. A letter of appreciation was read from Miss E. J. Brown for the letter of sympathy she received during her recent illness.

This concluded the business part of the meeting.

Mrs. O. E. Varcoe gave a splendid paper on "The Background of Canadian Women."

Mrs. Mary Brown gave a reading, entitled "The Essence of Life" and "The Ten Commandments of the Institute." This reading was really very fine.

Mrs. Sandercock very kindly invited the members to her home for the April meeting, and the president suggested the idea of having roll call with an exchange of patters, recipes, etc.

Mrs Mouncey and Mrs. Lovelace moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Brown for her kind hospitality, whe the meeting closed by National Anthem. The hostess afterwards served refreshments.

WORN OUT MEN AND WOMEN SOON REGAIN STRENGTH

The nervous system is the vital force of your body; the force that gives energy to every organ and every muscle. So great is the power of the nerves that a tremendous shock, such as fear, may cause death.

A lesser nerve shock will pale the cheeks, make the knees tremble, cause the heart to beat wildly or alwe quickly regain lost strength

To keep our vitality and strength we must nourish the nervous system. When we restore lost nerve power we quickly regain losto strength.

Nervous, exhausted men and women can soon regain their nerve force and as they rebuild their nerves they see the signs of returning vigor.

Wincarnis gives to the nerves the very elements they must have to be nourished back to energy. For fifty years this nerve restorative has reinvigorated those who were weak, thin pale and so discouraged that life seemed to hold no real happiness.

If you need more nerve power go to your druggist today and begin the safe Wincarnis treatment. A sixteen ounce bottle, which is a fourteen day Wincarnis treatment, is sold by all leading druggists for $1.50. Wincarnis is so effective that only three tablespoonsful a day need be taken.
